PUTNAM

L. F. NOYES NOT TO RETURN TO PUTNAM HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 6 — Lauriston F. Noyes, head of the scientific department and head coach of athletics at Putnam high school for the past three years, will not return to his duties at the local institution in September. It was announced today following a meeting of the town school committee held Wednesday evening. Mr. Noyes has accepted another position in a larger school. The Putnam high athletic mentor has not tendered his resignation to the school committee as yet but has expressed his intentions of leaving. A formal resignation of his post will perhaps be made by Mr. Noyes at a future meeting of the board it was brought out today.

Mr. Noyes came to Putnam three years ago from Lewiston, Me. He became a central figure in the eyes of the Connecticut sporting world at the end of the 1928 football season when he piloted the Blue and White squad to the football championship of eastern Connecticut, a record unrivalled and an honor not contested by any other high school in the state east of the Connecticut river. The local gridiron eleven which towards the close of the season became known throughout the eastern portion of the state as the "Noyesmen" went through the entire season without a defeat or a tie. Mr. Noyes' ability as an instructor in athletics other than football is also recognized. In 1928 the Putnam high school basketball team cinched the Quinebaug valley league honors, winning the title by a wide margin. His baseball, track and tennis teams have also attained heights that have placed the mentor alongside the leading high school coaches in the state.

When it became known today that Coach Noyes had decided not to return to Putnam high school this fall his athletic subjects and his many admirers in local sporting circles received the word with deep regret, but wished him the highest success in the new field upon which he will enter in September.

Francis H. Curran of this city, a graduate of Putnam high school and of Holy Cross college and for the past year student in graduate work at Harvard university in Cambridge, was selected from a large field of applicants to succeed Miss Belinda Snow, resigned as head of the Latin department at Putnam high school. Mr. Curran is well known in Putnam. He will assume his new duties in September at the opening of the school year. His appointment to this post was ratified by the school committee at the June meeting.

Miss Sylvia Kerlan of Milford, Mass., was selected for the post as principal at the East Putnam school, to succeed Mrs. Gibson, whose resignation was submitted at the last meeting of the board. Miss Kerlan comes to Putnam well recommended and well qualified for the duties she is to perform. She is a graduate of the Framingham Normal school of Framinghan, Mass., and during the past year has been acting as a substitute teacher in the schools of Milford.

Following the confirmation of the two applicants to positions on the faculty of the schools, the committee took up routine business consisting of minor problems of repair work in the schools to be carried out during the summer recess.

The last wall of the O'Leary block on Main street untouched by the wreckers iron bar fell this morning when the razing operations were resumed and early this afternoon the project was completed. Workmen engaged in the task for the past four days completed their day by assisting in the removing of the debris accumulated while the work was in progress. The passing of the O'Leary block marks the close of another page of Putnam building history. The structure on Main street has been a landmark for over a half century and many interesting incidents in the city's history have transpired within its walls. According to one writer whose memory dates back to the period when the town of Putnam was incorporated as a city, sessions of city court were held in the upper story of the new demolished block. The chambers in this block witnessed the birth of the Putnam lodge of Elks, now Putnam's leading fraternal organization and afterwards these quarters were converted into a tailor shop managed by the late E. M. Barney—the last to occupy the upper portion of the building.

Within a year upon the site of the one time O'Leary block will stand one of the most beautiful financial houses in the state—the proposed new home of the Cargill Trust company.

The opening services of commencement week at Tourtellotte Memorial high school will be held on Sunday evening when baccalaureate exercises take place. Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church of this city has been selected to deliver the baccalaureate address. Rev. Everett Lyon, pastor of the Thompson hill Baptist church will deliver invocation and Rev. William F. Geissler, pastor of the Methodist church in North Grosvenordale will pronounce the benediction.

The graduating class of T. H. S. consists of 27 pupils. A mark of uniformity will be introduced in the attire of the graduates this year when each student is to graduate at commencement with the caps and gown patterned after the styles of those worn by the college graduates. The class of 1929 it was announced today will be the largest group ever to be graduated from Tourtellotte Memorial high school.

The annual meeting of the Elizabeth Porter chapter of D. A. R. will be held Monday afternoon at three o'clock. An important incident to take place at this gathering of the organization will be the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Nearly 95 per cent. of the total amount of assessments levied on the grand list of the town of Putnam have reached the coffers of the town treasury, Irving H. Miron collector of town taxes announced this afternoon. This mark is one of the highest attained in the tax collecting annuals, Mr. Miron said. The amount collected was given at $127,560.

A crowd of three hundred gathered in Union square Wednesday evening and listened to addresses by "Senator Doolittle" and several other national comic characters portrayed by the members of St Mary's Boy Scouts. The speeches of the well known countrymen were all based primarily on the coming social event of the troops—the scout carnival to open next week on the church grounds. The members of St. Mary's Boy Scout band played several selections between the acts of the speaking programme.

Funeral services for Mrs. Marguerite Tetreault of Green street who died Monday evening were held this morning at St. Mary's church with a high mass of requiem celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St Mary's church. Burial was in St Mary's cemetery. Committal services at the grave were conducted by Rev Father Bellerose.

Mrs. W. J. Bartlett of Main street has opened her summer home at Crescent beach known as "Terrence Cottage" and is making frequent visits to the resort south of New London. Mr and Mrs. E. L. Beebe and Mr. and Mrs. Iver S. Nelson with Mrs. Bartlett spent a few days at the cottage last week end.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Marie—Is it true that Margaret has a secret sorrow?

Anna—Why, yes, hasn't she told you about it?—Moustique, Charleroi.

"John," said the teacher, "stand, facing north. Now what have you on your left hand?"

"Chewing gum, teacher. I couldn't wash it off this morning."—Exchange.

Molly—My dear, I had a Russian general positively on his knees before me last night.

Dear Friend—Yes, isn't it a pity to see those men shining shoes?"—Exchange.

"I think it's fine for you mothers to have so many activities, but I should think you would have to neglect your children."

"Oh, no. We employ a governess for that."—Pathfinder.

A baby aeroplane is now being built small enough to be stored in a garage. We understand that experiments are now going forward with a still smaller model that will enable the pilot to taxi up the garden path and hang the thing on the hall stand.—London Opinion.

A certain small restaurant was kept by a man who prided himself on his cooking. He was amazed to hear a young salesman criticize a pie one day.

"Pie, young feller? Why, I made pies before you were born."

"O. K. But why sell 'em now?"—Montreal Star.

She—Here is your ring—I find we are not suited to each other.

He—Tell me the truth, you love another?

She—Well, yes.

He—Tell me his name. I must know.

She (pleased)—You want to harm him?

He—No. I want to sell him this ring.—Hummel, Hamburg.

The play was indeed bad; it fell flatter than boarding-house soup. After the first act many left the theatre; at the end of the second most of the others rose and started out. The famous critic rose from his seat, raised his hand, and shouted "Stop!" As the astonished audience turned he said: "Women and children first!"—Colgate Banter.

One hundred and fifty American business concerns have established agencies in Buenos Aires, according to the latest official figures. These handle the bulk of United States exports to Argentina, which in 1928 ran near $200,000,000.

Church weddings, with flowers, music and candlelight, are preferred by Stockholm couples to the more prosaic and colorless civil ceremony. According to the city statistical office, only 1,096 of 4,575 marriages were performed by the city magistrate in 1928, a decline in number of some 63 ceremonies, as compared to the year before.

"I want to go on record for this one," said plump Penelope, "becaus I saw it myself. It was in the subway the other morning. You wouldn't think a person hurrying to his office bright and early would be absent-minded, would you? But the well-dressed man right in front of me tossed his dime to the floor and stepped on it, and then tried to drop his cigarette into the turnstile."—Boston Transcript.

Much discussion has been given to the union jack that is flown from the men-of-war of our nation while at anchor. It is composed of the blue field of our national ensign, stars without the stripes. Ordinarily flown from a staff in the bow, it has another use. When hoisted to the starboard yardarm of a vessel it denotes a courtmartial in session. It derived its name from the union jack of England, composed of the flags of England, Ireland and Scotland, probably because of the fact that the king of England signed his name "Jacques." Various handbooks refer to the starry field as the jack, and while the stars in our flag represent the union, it is denied that our flag, or jack, should be known as the Union Jack.

DANIELSON

O. T. PICHE ARRESTED FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 6—State Officers Donald J. Geddes and Cyrus Chamberlin today raided the home of Omer T. Piche, Reynolds St. and seized a 10-gallon still, a quantity of liquor, a variety of labels, corks, caps, tinfoil and other material that might be used for supplying one with varieties of whiskey or rum.

The raid was a sequel to the arrest of Piche just over the border early this morning by Rhode Island state troopers while he was running in 100 gallons of alcohol in a big Hudson car. Having no state statutes for dealing with such cases the officers turned Piche over to federal officers assigned to Rhode Island. This afternoon, while arrangements were being made, Piche was being held at the barracks in North Scituate, 15 miles east of here.

Officers of that barracks notified Danielson state officers of the arrest and they procured a search warrant and raided Piche's home here. In a room that appeared to be a chamber the raiding officers found practically a complete outfit for turning out synthetic drinks. Among other things the officers seized 9 cases of rubbing alcohol and found 14 empty cases that had contained the same kind of preparation. There were 10 bags of corks, glass stoppers for gin bottles, metal caps to go with "Grand-Dad" labels, tinfoil for use on the imported output, a large bottle of gin drops and a variety of flavorings for producing Vermouth, rye, bourbon and other effects. There were labels in imitation of various brandings of well known liquors of other days, and a special capper for putting on metal caps such as are supposed to be found only on authentic liquor released from government warehouses and sold through legitimate channels. The collection is a revelation to anyone having a lingering impression that he knows good liquor if the bottle, label and capping looks regular. The still seized is a good one and capable of being used in redistilling alcohol for the removal of any foreign or poisonous, especially poisonous, ingredient it might contain.

Among the other things the officers found and took away were 14 quarts of gin and eight pints of whiskey. What charges will be placed against Piche here had not been determined this afternoon. Officials handling the case were unhurried as to this, for Piche must first face a federal court to answer to a charge of transporting alcohol illegally.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Alexina Rounds, wife of Allen Rounds, was held from the home on South Main street with funeral services at St. James' church at 9:30. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. A delegation of the members of the Ste. Anne society attended the service. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S. The bearers were Amadee Goulet, Orel Caron, Raymond Boulais, William DeForest, Donat Blais, Herbert Hopkins. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

From the home on Water street the funeral of Oliva St. Germain, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry St. Germain, was held this morning with services at St. James' church at 8 o'clock. Among those attending was a delegation of Boy Scouts. The bearers were Lucien Boulais, Eli Boucher, Gabriel Renaud, Frederick Wigel. At Holy Cross cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S., taps were sounded by the Boy Scout bugler. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

The Ashland club's boys band is to come here next Thursday evening to take part in the parade that is to precede the opening of the Eastern Connecticut Mills' association textile exhibit and style show at the state armory. This boys' band is made up of boys who attend Jewett City grammar schools and they play very well. Secretary Prentice W. Chase said this afternoon that at least nine girls and a number of children will take part in the style show. The mills to be represented are the Ashland Cotton company of Jewett City, Ponemah of Taftville, Waureagan mills and the Totokett mills of Occum. The children taking part in the style show, arranged especially to display fabrics made in eastern Connecticut mills, will represent the Totokett company and the Ponemah company. All style show participants will wear gowns made from materials in the mills they represent, and some dazzling costumes are promised. There appeared a good prospect today that Governor Trumbull will be here next Thursday evening for the opening of the exhibit.

Advices from Taunton are to the effect that Dr. William H. Bennett, formerly of this town, so weakened himself from overwork in an effort to check an epidemic of smallpox in that city that he eventually contracted the disease. He had been vaccinated four times since the disease appeared in that city, but in no instance was the vaccination effective. As indicating how hard he has worked in the past few weeks in dealing with the situation and in his capacity as head of the health board, it is mentioned that he has personally vaccinated at least 5,000 people, and has worked from early in the morning until far into the night.

An unfortunate error crept into the account this morning of plans of the Killingly Trust company to establish itself in quarters recently vacated by the Brooklyn Savings bank in the Phoenix block. The amount of surplus should have appeared as considerable over $100,000, instead of over $10,000, as appeared in print.

Mrs. Victor T. Anderson of Broad street has a wound in her neck, the result of being cut by flying windshield glass while she was operating her car enroute to the home of her parents in Naugatuck. A pheasant is responsible. As she was driving along the bird came flying diagonally into the path of the car, and while Mrs. Anderson tried to avoid having it strike the car by swinging the car wide of its course the effort was useless. The bird crashed head-on into the windshield, smashing it and sending glass flying in several directions. One piece cut Mrs. Anderson's neck. Mrs. Anderson managed to stop her car even under the difficulty she was facing without accident. On checking over the interior of the car Mrs. Anderson found the pheasant—dead.

Mr. Bill is now resident in St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Field for several years, while holding the rank of sergeant, was in charge of the Danielson barracks. Since being appointed lieutenant-instructor he has been in charge of the state police training school in Ridgefield and also has gone about the state making regular inspection of barracks and personnel.

CLEVELAND EXPERT SEES RESERVES AT LOWEST EBB

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, arrived at figures showing that the country's huge credit structure is supported by a dwindling ratio of gold reserves.

Five years ago, he says, $45,000,000,000 of bank credit was in use throughout the country and this had behind it $4,500,000,000 in monetary gold. Each year has shown a decline in the gold ratio until in 1928 the metal reserve was only 7 per cent of the value of credit in use.

"This is lower than it has ever been before," says Colonel Ayres.

READJUSTMENTS IN STOCK MARKET SEEM TO HAVE RUN THEIR COURSE

NEW YORK, June 6—(AP)—The stock market settled back into comparative quiescence today, and the readjustments following the acute declines of late May appeared largely to have run their course.

Traders were disposed to hold close to shore and cast straws into the wind attempting to discover a definite trend. The days sales fell below 3,000,000 shares for the first full session in about a week. Ford shares and a number of rails and specialties made substantial gains and the utilities were firm, sending the Associated Press index of 20 of this group up slightly to another new peak. In general, however, prices moved in narrow ranges and gains and losses were evenly balanced.

There was little interest in the weekly federal reserve directors meeting, as the fact that no change was made in the rediscount rate had been definitely foreshadowed by the reports from Washington yesterday that the New York directors and the reserve board were still in disagreement, and the retention this morning of the Bank of England's 5 1-2s per cent rate.

The weekly brokerage loan statement showed "but negligible" change, with a decline of $4,000,000, which had been expected in view of the backing and filing of the market during the past week. The statement disclosed, however, that the New York banks had been called upon to put $64,000,000 in the market, as out of town banks and "others" withdrew $63,000,000, presumably to meet June 1 requirements. This led to an increase in borrowings at the New York federal reserve bank of $30,000,000.

The federal reserve condition statements were closely scrutinized for evidence tending to confirm rumors from Washington that reserve officials had reversed their policy of tightening credit and were planning to ease the situation by again buying bankers acceptances, but the statements were rather confusing, showing that while the New York bank had actually made a move in this direction, increasing its holdings of bills by approximately $6,300,000, but that the other regional banks had permitted their envelops to be depicted further, so that the total of barkers' bills held by the entire system declined about $5,000,000.

Wall street was particularly concerned with a new flood of merger rumors, some of which were regarded as well authenticated, but practically all of which were too vague to affect stock prices. It was reported that powerful banking interests were arranging a gigantic tobacco merger including United Cigar Stores, Tobacco Products, Union Tobacco and others. Reports of a pending consolidation of Johns Manville and American Radiator were again heard. Tidewater Associated was said to be planning an offer to minority stockholders of the old Tidewater Oil.

There was little in the days industrial and business news to influence the market. Steel ingot production for May was reported at a new high figure, even exceeding March, but this was regarded as indicating a considerable seasonal decline. Several more chain store systems made excellent sales reports for May.

Air Reduction, American International, Baldwin, Curtiss and Marlin Rockwell were among issues selling up 5 to 7 points. Industrial rayon, which has been inactive for several days after dipping to a new low at 75, again appeared on the top with a rally of about 15 points.

Among the food shares, Purity Baking and F. G. Shattuck mounted 8 and 7 points, the latter to a new peak, while Fleishmann, Continental Baking, Postum, Gold Dust, Park and Tilford, and Beech Nut were well bought. Merger rumors have stimulated this group. Tidewater Oil reached a new high, and Tidewater Associated duplicated its previous best figure.

The Van Sweringen issues were prominent in the rails. Chesapeake Corp. and Erie breaking into new high ground, and Allegheny Corp. moving up with about 2 points of its top. New Haven sold within a fraction of its best price. In the utilities, Commonwealth Power jumped about 8 points to another new record, and Standard Gas and Electric mounted 5 to a new peak.

Among the soft spots were Johns Manville, Borg Warner, Burroughs, and A. M. Byers, which fell back about 3 to 5 points. Such important issues as U. S. Steel, American Telephone and Radio sagged about a point each.

In the commodity market, wheat was depressed for a time but rallied to close a cent or two higher on reports of black rust damage. Corn scored like gains on bullish weather. After a weak opening cotton closed steady on private reports of weather damage.

Foreign exchanges moved in narrow limits, with sterling slightly firmer, and the Japanese yen rallying about 1-4 of a cent.

GROTON BOY STRUCK BY CAR DIES FROM FRACTURED SKULL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 6.— Joseph Forormoglio, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Forormoglio, 440 Thames street, Groton, died from a fractured skull at Lawrence Memorial hospital at 3:30 this morning. The child sustained the injury early last evening when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. MacKenzie, wife of State Police Officer William MacKenzie, on Thames street, Groton. The child had been playing with others and while standing beside the highway, suddenly darted toward the opposite side. He ran in front of the auto and was knocked down, his head striking the pavement and producing the fracture.

MOVEMENT TO HAVE MEX. BORDER REOPENED

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—Representative Swing, republican, California, said today that Ambassador Tellez, of Mexico, had presented to the state department a petition signed by resort owners in Tia Juana and Mexicali, Mexico, for reopening of the border on a 24-hour basis.

Senators Johnson and Shortridge of California have been requested by Secretary Stimson for their views on the question and both have it under advisement.

Representative Swing intends to confer with the secretary of state tomorrow, and said he would protest against granting the petition's request.

"It is my intention," Swing said, "to contend that the question of hours with relation to our border is not a matter for international representation but purely a domestic question to be decided by our customs officials and immigration authorities."

GOV'T. WITNESSES HELD ON SUSPICION OF PERJURY

DENVER, Colo., June 6—(AP)—Harry Schraeder, former sheriff of Lake county, and Mary Snyder, dance hall operator, two of the government's star witnesses against 24 city officials and citizens of Leadville, Colo., on trial in the United States district court here for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, were arrested today on suspicion of perjury following their appearance on the witness stand.

Paul Ingram was arrested late yesterday when his testimony differed materially from that given special government investigators a year ago.

"Every government witness whose memory is short and who fails to back up the statements made a year ago when we investigated conditions in Leadville, will be investigated with a view to prosecution for perjury if he or she has lied," Special Prosecutor Nelson N. Carver of Washington, said.

FARM RELIEF BILL TO BE SENT TO SENATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—A final determination of the major problem which led to the calling of the special session will be undertaken tomorrow when the senate and house will be asked to approve the farm relief bill decided upon by a conference committee composed of members from both branches of congress.

The committee's report embraces a single relief measure representing a compromise between the bills passed separately by the senate and house. It will be laid before the latter branch shortly after it convenes by the chairman of its agriculture committee, Representative Haugen of Iowa.

Soon after the house approves the conference bill, which it is expected to do with little debate, the report will be sent to the senate and Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, will ask immediate consideration.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIRENT

NEW MILFORD, Conn., June 6.—(AP)—Five persons were injured, one seriously tonight, when a machine operated by Martin Lillis, left the road at Roxbury Center and crashed into a tree. All were extricated from beneath the wreckage and taken to New Milford hospital.

The driver, who was the most seriously hurt, is suffering from a possible fractured skull and internal injuries. His wife and a year and a half old daughter, were painfully cut. Robert Carlisle and another Lillis child, who were riding in the rear seat, were only slightly hurt.

It is believed that Lillis failed to notice a sharp turn and that the oily condition of the road prevented him from avoiding the crash.

ANOTHER POCKET VETO BY GOVERNOR TRUMBULL

HARTFORD, June 6.—(AP) — Gov. Trumbull today killed, by means of a pocket veto, the second of the more than 300 bills left for his consideration by the 1929 legislature, sending to the secretary of the state without his approval senate bill number 261, requiring small loan companies to advertise their annual interest rates. As was the case with the bill to give chiropractors the right to sign death certificates, vetoed Monday, no explanation of his action was filed by the governor.

The governor today signed 58 public acts, including those establishing a state prison for women, increasing fees for hunting and angling licenses, repealing the home rule laws, prohibiting cropping of dogs' ears, amending the workmen's compensation law, and limiting the use of steel traps, and four private acts.

A Prayer.

Make me too brave to lie or be unkind,
Make too understanding, too, to mind
The little hurts companions give—and friends,
The careless hurts that no one quite intends.
Make me too thoughtful to hurt others so.
Help me to know
The inmost hearts of those for whom I care.
Their secret wishes, all the loads they bear.
That I may add my courage to their own.
May I make lonely folks fell less alone
And happier ones a little happier—yet
May I make lonely folks feel less alone
What ought to be forgotten and recall,
Unfailing, all
That ought to be recalled, each kindly thing,
Forgetting what may sting!
To all upon my way, day after day,
Let me be joy! be hope! Let my life sing!

—Mary Carolyn Davies, in Buffalo Express Courier.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Among the vividly realistic scenes of Mary Pickford's new picture, "Coquette," which is coming to the Palace theatre, Sunday, are the two heated encounters of the little coquette's father and her young lover.

John Sainpolis plays Dr. Besant, the father, a gentleman of bygone days who resents and forbids the attentions to his sheltered daughter of the young mountaineer, Michael Jeffery, portrayed by John Mack Brown. In both men boils the hot blood of their southern country.

In the first dramatic meeting of these men, Michael accepts the verdict of the little coquette's father, who orders him forever from his home. Just as he turns upon the older man with hot words of retaliation, the little coquette steps between her father and her lover, and ends their battle at its moment of highest tensity.

When they meet in their second encounter, the stinging words of the father prove too bitter a dose. Bleeding from the cruel lash of Dr. Besant's tongue, Michael turns upon the older man with a fire of burning words. He ceases to be a suppliant and becomes the aggressor, demanding the right to love and marry the daughter of the Besant family.

A bit of motion picture news that will be hailed with delight by comedy lovers is the announcement that Lloyd Hamilton, popular star, has contracted to make a series of talking pictures. The big comedian with the checkered cap and tie, and the famous and inimitable hip-knee-ankle walk, has already completed the first of these laughmakers, "His Big Minute." This comedy is scheduled to appear on the program of the Palace theatre Sunday in addition to the feature length attraction.

Hamilton is one of the "old timers" of the screen and stage. Although he is yet on the right side of thirty, he has put in a number of years before the public.

"His Big Minute" is Hamilton's first all-talking short feature. It is a western story in which Hamilton is seen as a tenderfoot in a very rough frontier town.

On the same program will be shown other sound featurettes including a Pathe news, the world in scene and sound, Grantland Rice's famous sound Sportlight and a Pathe revue, a rare novelty magazine of current events in sound.

T. C. GOODRICH'S HOLD-UP STORY PROVED FALSE IN NEW LONDON TEST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 6—It has been revealed through a long drawn out investigation by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh that the allegation of Theodore C. Goodrich, East Lyme milkman, that he was held up by a masked man last September in an attempt to rob him in this city, was a false story. Today a report of blood experts of their analysis of the stained mask the alleged thief wore and through which Goodrich claims he fired two bullets into the wearer's head, shows that the stains were not human blood, but animal blood. When confronted with the facts as contained in the report this noon at police headquarters, Goodrich declared that in spite of the expert analysis, made by Dr. C. John Satti, Dr. Robert E. Henkle, ew York, chemists at Yale and Columbia universities, he would continue to hold to his original statement that he was the victim of an attempted holdup Sept. 12. On that morning at 4:50 o'clock, Goodrich went to police headquarters and declared that while delivering milk on Fitch avenue he observed a man apparently in the act of attempting to cross the highway and fearing that he might hit the pedestrian he slowed up his car. As he did so a Negro, masked, leaped to the running board. The robber leveled a revolver at Geodrick and commanded him to hand over his money. Goodrich said that instead of doing as commanded, he struck the arm that held the revolver a blow, causing the aim of the holder of the weapon to be changed. At the same time Goodrich declared, he reached to a side pocket of the car and pulled a 22 calibre revolver, firing three or four shots at the gunman while the latter fired three shots at Goodrich, but they did not find their mark. Goodrich's shots, at least two of them, he said struck the gunman on the cheek and neck. The pistol wounds caused the gunman to fall from the car and Goodrich speeded away, to report his experience at police headquarters. A short distance from where the holdup was attempted, Goodrich said he saw another egro and an automobile parked beside the road. Goodrich was accompanied back to the location of the holdup by Patrolman Harry Watterson, but no trace of the wounded Negro o his supposed accomplice could be found, neither could the automobile be located. The mask Goodrich said the gunman wore was in the road, together with another stained cloth. There were taken by the police and it was for the purpose of determining the reddish stains on the two pieces of cloth that the chemical analysis was made, for the police doubted Goodrich's story from the start, especially so because he had reported some time before an attempt having been made to hold him up in a similar manner. Following the report of Goodrich, the police investigation included a close check up of hospitals and physicians' offices for several days for had a Negro been treated for bullet wounds the robbery story would have been cleared. No Negro was treated in any of the state hospitals or at physicians' offices. Neither was the body of a dead Negro found in this vicinity or about the state so far as could be learned. With two bullet wounds in his head and neck the police were satisfied the ezro could not have made a getaway without receiving medical treatment and when this was not revealed the police were satisfied that Goodrich, for some reason best known to himself, had concocted the holdup story. The report of the analysis of the blood stains now supports the police contention.

NEW LODON, June 6—Eugene O'Neill, formerly of New London, prominent playwright, is reported as being seriously ill with tuberculosis in Switzerland. Mr. O'Neill is a son of the late James O'Neill, who resided in New London many summers prior to his retirement from the stage and his death.

Spencer, who Tuesday filed a petition in bankruptcy, has liabilities as follows: Taxes due the city of New London $715; wages $180; secured claims, $1,100; unsecured claims, $18,566.34; notes, $200, total, $20,761.34. Assets, notes receivable, $65.99; stock of merchandise, $8,000; fixtures, $4,000; accounts receivable, $3,689.33; property claimed exempt, $200, total, $15,955.22.

That Pony Again!

Folios Vassolaridis, 431 Bank street, reported to the police this afternoon that his pony had been stolen from its barn on Truman street. A short time afterwards he reported that the animal had been recovered. Vassolaridis was arrested twice a fortnight ago for using the pony in the highways for the purpose of exhibition and charging children and adults a fee for riding on the animal.

The launches used between the municipal pier and the Hotel Griswold for the accommodation of the guests of the hotel are being made ready for service. The hotel opens its season next week.

Two violators of the city ordinances were arrested tonight for parking their cars in restricted area. They are C. Graham Chapin, 68 Fair Harbour place and Burton T. Smith, U. S. Coast guard. Both drivers furnished cash bonds of $2 for appearance in the police court tomorrow.

BUMPED NORWICH CAR ON THAMES ST., GROTON

A coupe, operated by Thomas L. Ely, of Kittery, Me., early last night sideswiped a car, lost a wheel and careened into a ditch in Thames street, Groton. No one was injured. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Edmund Griswold of the Groton police force. After the left front wheel of the coupe came off it crashed into the parked auto of Carroll M. Spaulding, of Maple street, Norwich.

R. Austin Battles, a member of the senior class at Bulkeley school, came out fourth in the recent examinations for the Thomas A. Edison scholarship. Twenty-five applicants were examined.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 6—Jacob Hoffman, celebrated pianist, who has delighted New London audiences several times, with his family, is a resident of New London for the summer. Mr. Hoffman recently leased the Huntington cottage on Ocean avenue, south of Glenwood and with his family is already occupying it. The house was purchased last fall by Jaseph S. COLORED WOMEN FINED, SAILORS ARE DISCHARGED

May Barnes, colored, of Douglass street, who has an unsavory police record, was in court this morning charged with conducting a disorderly house and was fined $50 and costs. One frequenter, Nellie Thomas, also colored, was fined $10 and costs and two white sailors, charged with the same offense, were discharged. The Douglass street house has long been known as a resort for sailors and last night when Patrolman Dennis Murphy observed the sailors, Wilfred Morgan and Lee E. Owens, enter the house, he reported the fact at headquarters. A raiding squad was formed and when the officers entered the house they found Morgan and Owens enjoying the society of the negresses. All were marched to police headquarters where the women obtained sureties on their bonds and were released pending trial. The sailors were unable to secure a bondsman and were locked up for the night.

Two Girls Missing

Irene Conklin, and Frieda Yerring, both 15, and residing in Groton, are missing from their homes and the state police and New London police have been requested to institute a search for the pair. The girls ran away yesterday afternoon.

The police last night attempted to effect the arrest of two men on charges of violation of the liquor law, and to accomplish this raids were made at the houses where it was claimed liquor was being sold. However, in each case, the raiders were not rewarded with success for neither liquor nor beer was found. The officers had been given warrants to serve on Philip Monty, corner of Bank and Shaw streets and Alfredo Muratori, 85 Smith street. Information had been procured that both men were conducting drinking resorts. At the Bank street house the police learned that no one resided there by the name of Monty, but that the premises were tenanted by a family named Di Marco. Entrance to the house could not be obtained because of the absence of members of the family, but before the police departed DiMarco appeared. It was then proved that drinks of alcoholic content were not stored there. The officers then went to the Smith street house where their efforts to find liquor were equally unsuccessful, in spite of a thorough search.

When the Alumnae association of Lawrence Memorial hospital held a bridge yesterday afternoon in the Nannie Lawrence Pond house, thirty-two tables were in play and a prize for high score was awarded at each table.

A card party was held last night at the home of Mrs. John Gray, 212 Willetts avenue, for the benefit of Osprey Rebekah lodge. Ten tables were in play and the affair netted $16.

Members of the Sewing society and ten circles of the First Baptist church have made plans for holding a market day in Williams Memorial park in August. The affair will be arranged by a committee of which Mrs. William H. Whitcomb is chairman.

SHOWS NORWICH NEED OF SUITABLE BUILDINGS TO HOUSE FACTORIES

The need in Norwich of such quarters as will be acceptable to manufacturing concerns seeking to move out of other cities has been brought forcibly to the attention of the industrial commission of the chamber of commerce in the last six months. In that time a number of manufacturing concerns have investigated the possibility of locating in Norwich, have come to a point where they were favorable to removing to this city, but have turned away to look for other locations because of not being able to find the right type of building in which to locate.

That a large number of concerns are leaving the metropolitan centers for the smaller cities, is evidenced by the list of prospects interviewed or corresponded with by the local chamber of commerce office during recent months. Some of these industries were looking for financial inducements and were not considered by the committee. Others found suitable locations elsewhere, but a large percentage were interested in Norwich and would have located their factories here had they been able to find suitable quarters.

The most common demand seems to be for 10,000 square feet of light, airy space on one floor. The committee is in the embarrassing position frequently of not being able to meet the manufacturers' requests. These prospects are coming to the attention of the chamber in ever increasing numbers. Manufacturers are beginning to realize that the large cities, while logical market and trading centers, offer many disadvantages from the standpoint of economical production.

A list in the Norwich chamber offices indicates that over 300 industries have left cities of Boston and New York recently for more favorable economic locations. A large part of this migration turns to the smaller city for relief. Norwich has many attractive advantages that could be aggressively advertised and would be productive of substantial results, if the question of available space could be satisfactorily corrected.

The industrial commission points out the fact that Norwich is now in position to offer manufacturers much lower tax rates than the average New England city; it has a most commendable labor situation, labor troubles being practically unknown. This fact is a great ad for the city. Freight transportation facilities are better than some neighboring cities that have grown much faster; the climate compared with other sections of the country, is ideal. Norwich is now fortunate in having ample water supply and offers reasonable gas and electrical rates.

All of these factors are prime considerations of the prospective manufacturer. In a recent compilation made of industries that have moved and the reasons for their moving, a few opinions were selected at random, as follows:

"From dark sixth floor to modern one story, yet saved 40 per cent."

"More wholesome living conditions."

"Easy ownership by rental purchase plan."

"Reduced rent by 10 per cent."

"One story construction in city prohibitive."

"Much lower tax rates."

"Greater stability of labor."

"Ample space permits expansion."

"Bigger profits—lower living expenses."

In the opinion of the members of the industrial commission, who have studied the situation carefully, it is believed that the only solution to the problem in Norwich is some means of providing industrial buildings to take care of the prospects who are interested in locating here. Within the last two weeks two very good prospects have been lost to the city because after a thorough search they were unable to find the quarters they would like to have, at a price that was attractive.

President Joseph C. Worth, in an interview Thursday, stated that from his contact with some prospects in New York city, he believed there would be no difficulty at all in filling a three-story building of about 60x150 feet.

"Last year a committee, accompanied by Secretary Pilcher, visited Keene, N. H., to study their successful industrial development program whereby in a short period of twelve years they had secured 16 desirable industries for Keene. Keene originally raised a fund of $60,000 with which they erected brick buildings of one story construction on land upon which they had secured options. They were usually erected according to the manufacturers' specifications and on an agreement to purchase within a reasonable period. The plan has worked out so successfully that the original contributors have been refunded 100 per cent and the fund of $60,000 for promotion still remains intact. Of the 16 industries that have located there, they have only suffered one loss and this loss was recently replaced by another plant. While many of the industries secured have been small, they have all employed skilled labor and have been profitable for the community.

"Quite frequently we hear stories of industrial expansion from other cities. We hear of the number of industries added in Toledo, in Bridgeport, Lynn and Lowell. The same situation applies in many of these cities that applies in Keene; they have either lost a number of large industries and are merely filling empty space or they are faced with the loss of some industry, as Keene was with the loss of the Boston and Maine repair shops.

"The situation in Norwich is different in the respect that our industrial life has remained practically intact. We have no great amount of available space as compared with some of the other cities mentioned. One of the members was recently discussing the situation in Waterbury, where they do not actively seek new industries, but they have had a great deal of expansion from within and accordingly the city has grown and prospered. Upon analysis one finds that many of the industries in Waterbury are owned locally and employ skilled labor. Naturally their expansion has benefited the city. Industries in Norwich to a large extent employ unskilled labor and are not locally owned. This creates a different situation entirely."

The officers of the chamber feel that the soundest development for Norwich would provide for (1) the erection of suitable factory buildings and (2) the solicitation of small industries that would employ skilled labor.

The question of when the public-spirited citizens of the community can be expected to invest a reasonable sum in an industrial improvement company is perhaps foremost in the minds of those who are close to the problem. It is certain that this is perhaps one of the most important problems facing the city at the present time and its solution would mean more to the improvement of business conditions than most any other undertaking that the chamber might pursue.

An industrial commission was recently appointed by President Joseph C. Worth the composition of which leads many citizens to believe that some solution will be forthcoming.

The commission is headed by Shepard B. Palmer and its members include: Charles R. Butts, C. A. Hagberg, Frank Hempstead, Archibald Mitchell, R. W. Perkins, C. W. Taggart, William H. Oat, Abner Schwartz, F. R. Wilson, Adelard Morin, H. D. Smith, Lucius Briggs, Nathan A. Gibbs, W. H. Cruickshank, Frank R. Murdy, Wm. S. Murray, H. D. Larrabee, Timothy C. Murphy, Lee Roy Robbins.

The kind of manufacturing industries that have turned away from Norwich in the past six months, because of inability to find suitable locations is indicated by the following listr

National Cellulose Corp., New York city; Consolidated Trimming company, New York city; Rabhor company, (bathrobes and slippers), South Norwalk, Connecticut; Capitol Silk Corp., New York city; Mr. Ferdinand Rice, New York city; Schutte Body company, Bridgeport, Connecticut; F. W. Niebling and company, Cincinnati, Ohio; Lester W. David, (lumber, pulp and paper) North Portland, Oregon; M. The grandchildren who survive are: Mrs. Bell and Nettie and Nicholas Holmes of Norwich; Miss Fanny Holmes and Morgan-Holmes of New Britain. A much loved granddaughter, Miss Ada Holmes, died in this city several years ago. There are seven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Holmes formerly was a member of the United Congregational church, Norwich, but while in Hartford, took a letter to a Congregational church there. During her residence at the Hough home, she was a faithful attendant at the First Congregational church, when health permitted.

Mrs. Holmes was often visited by members of her family and her last birthday anniversary in March was brightened with beautiful flowers, flowering plants and other gifts. She was a woman of fine characteristics, gentle and agreeable. Although at times in late years her sufferings had been intense, she bore them with patience, always putting implicit trust in God. The late Mrs. Eva Sims and Mrs. Holmes, who were most companionable, were esteemed members of the Hough family.

PROPOSE WIDENING PLAN ON FRANKLIN STREET

The firm of Krieger and St. Germaine, which is having a new garage erected on Franklin street on the lot next to the First Evangelical Lutheran church has made a proposal to the city to have the curb cut back in front of their property. REPARATIONS NOW UP TO GOVERNMENTS INVOLVED

Second Dawes Committee Has Signed the Report—It Remains For the Governments of the Seven Nations to Accept or Reject the Committee Findings—Acceptance Would Put an End to All Outside Control of Germany's Affairs—Tributes Paid Owen D. Young, American Chairman of the Committee.

PARIS, June 7.—(AP)— The second Dawes committee ended its work today by signing the report which recommends methods for liquidating the problem of German reparations — a problem which has bothered the leading nations of the old world for ten years.

The report itself makes much of the efforts by financial experts from seven nations to change the question from a political controversy into a business deal. Whether this will be accomplished will depend on acceptance or rejection of the committee findings by the governments involved. The rest of the summer probably will be used in bringing these exchanged to a conclusion.

The end of the session saw recorded on photographic film the hearty grasping of hands between Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German delegation, and Emile Moreau, leader of the French experts, with Owen D. Young, American chairman of the committee, looking on with a smile of the deepest satisfaction. The scene was registered in the court of the George V hotel shortly after six o'clock this evening. Members of the committee remarked that it typified the whole story of the four months work that was wound up today.

Those four months were marked throughout by mutual desires for reconciliation between the chief enemies of the World war. Thrice difficulties had threatened to break up the conference but each time the patience and wise counsel of the chief American expert had prevailed.

The report, signed at 5:30 p. m. after every comma and other detail in it had been scrutinized, would put an end to all outside control of Germany's affairs. It recommends transfer of the reparations payments from machinery set up by the treaty of Versailles and the Dawes plan, to a non-political institution to be known as "the bank for international settlements." That bank is to be directed by practical financiers and is to be manned by clerks and department heads trained in business methods.

M. Moreau, who is governor of the Bank of France, congratulated Mr. Young in the name of the other experts. He summed up the quality of the report by saying:

"The report is not entirely satisfactory to anybody, but it is highly satisfactory to everybody."

In this epigram the Frenchman emphasized that each country in order to reach an accord, had given up something which it would rather have retained, but that the sum of those sacrifices had made a whole which everybody concerned could approve.

M. Moreau reviewed the long weeks of Mr. Young's patient efforts and said that when the conference began no one realized the number and size of the difficulties that would have to be overcome. In paying tribute to the chairman's unfailing devotion to the cause of reconciliation, he said:

"Mr. Young you have been throughout animated by a lofty conscience and a love for the welfare of humanity. It must be at least partial satisfaction to you to know that you have the unqualified affection of your colleagues and the gratitude of the world at large."

The hard-headed financiers who have sat so many weeks around the conference table, have rarely allowed themselves to become demonstrative. But M. Moreau's tribute to the American who presided over the negotiations, brought hearty applause from every expert.

A summary of the report was issued immediately after the signature ceremony. The full text, which will be released for publication Sunday morning, is a plain straight-forward document, written without frills and with the object evident in every paragraph of making clear to the governments represented on the reparations commission how the agreement was reached.

The text, in which there were changes up to the last minute, appears to have been studiously prepared to avoid linking reparations with war debts. Where the creditors "out payments" meaning their payments abroad on account of war debts, come into quotation they are removed from the report and placed in special documents.

The section of the report referring to division of annuities into part for reparations and part for "out payments" is called "a special memorandum of the principal creditor powers." It gives a list of sums beginning with 612,000,000 marks, running up to 1,705,000,000 marks in the 55th year and then descending to 397,000,000 marks, which are referred to as "the following amounts are required to cover out payments." This document is outside of the report and was not signed by the American experts.

Beside the figures attributed to "out payments" it contains a provision to the effect that in event of modification in these out payments Germany will benefit to the extent of two-thirds and the war debtors to the extent of one-third.

Account was taken in the report of the Washington agreement to deduction of ten per cent in amounts due to the United States for the costs of its army of occupation. The balance due the American treasury on that account will be liquidated in the first 37 annuities. Payments on mixed-claims however will run on after the close of that period and will be completed in 57 years.

The section on annuities recommends that Germany's reparations debt be paid as follows: 37 annuities averaging 1,968,000,000 marks plus an amount for interest on the Dawes loan that brings the total to 2,050,000,000 marks (about $492,000,000); 21 annuities averaging 1,700,000,000 marks (about $408,000,000); and a final annuity of 500,000,000 marks (about $116,000,000).

The annuities actually begin at 1,673,000,000 marks, which means a saving to Germany of 150,000,000 marks the first year as compared to the Dawes plan. They never rise to the level of the Dawes annuities and after of the 37th year they drop 300,000,000 marks below the Dawes standard annuity.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS PLEASED WITH OUTCOME

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP)—American government officials expressed satisfaction today upon the signing of the experts' agreement on the German reparations payment, but declined to comment on the terms of the new settlement pending receipt of official advices.

The United States financially was only slightly affected by the experts' revision as American interest centers principally on allotments for the costs of the American army of occupation in Germany after war and on allowances for the claim of American citizens for damages incurred during the war. The allotment for the army occupation corps aggregates about $200,000,000 and recently at a while house conference President Hoover, cabinet officials and congressional leaders reached an agreement to have that amount scaled down ten per cent on a pro-rata basis with the claim of the allied nations. The damage claims of American citizens have been virtually adjusted with exception of a few cases estimated to amount to only a few million dollars.

One of the chief points of interest in the reparations agreement to the American officials was what action would be required by this government to ratify it. Without knowing the terms of the agreement, they declined to predict what would be necessary. At the same time, however, they recalled that when the Dawes agreement was approved in 1924, all that was required was required wasrtAf saiETAOIN—was former President Coolidge's approval.

COPY OF $25,000 CHECK PUT IN AS EVIDENCE

BOSTON, June 7—(AP)—A photostatic copy of a check for $25,000 which was cashed and the money given to Arthur K. Reading, was put in evidence today at the hearing on the Massachusetts Bar association's information against the former attorney-general. The check was made out by an official of the Decimo club, of New York, and was made payable to Herbert L. Barrett, Massachusetts attorney.

Barrett told the court that he accompanied Reading to the Decimo club office in June, 1927. He said Reading had agreed to act as counsel for the club. At the office, Joseph D. Webster, a club official, gave him the check which he said was for Reading.

Barrett said Reading was surprised to see the check made payable to Barrett and told Webster, that he, Reading, did not object to his name being used in a proper way but did not want it used for advertising purposes.

Aaron H. Grout, of Burlington, Vt., former secretary of state of Vermont, also testified. He said at one time he was affiliated with the subsidiaries of the United L. A. W. corporation of Worcester. Reading acted in behalf of the subsidiaries in bringing about an agreement between them and the parent company. The prosecutino said it would show that Reading forced the settlement under his own terms because he was the attorney general.

The police took Breton to the Lawrence General hospital, where the woman had been taken in a futile attempt to save her life, and he made an official identification of the body. He told the police that he was sleeping in an adjoining room at the time of the fire and had made several futile attempts to save his wife.

HELD FOR INTERFERENCE WITH GOVT. WITNESSES

BANGOR, Me., June 7—(AP)—John Gillis, against whom the federal grand jury returned an indictment, charging obstruction and interference with government witnesses, was arrested late today by U. S. Deputy Marshal Bryant.

Government agents said the arrest was considered one of the most important they have made in a long time in Maine, and they believed it would have a far-reaching effect upon bootleggers and others who may be inclined to attempt to thwart justice by tampering with government witnesses.

The government alleges that Gillis concealed witnesses, tampered with them and did everything possible to persuade them to testify before the grand jury in accordance with his wishes, telling them what to say, whom to identify and whom not to identify.

Federal agents alleged that they witnessed the giving of money to witnesses as a bribe, they believed, to testify according to Gillis' directions. Gillis was to be arraigned later.

Labor Stalwarts In New British Cabinet

Names of Ministers Appointed and Brief Sketches of Their Careers.

LONDON, June 7—(AP)—Many of the veterans stalwarts of the labor party are members of Great Britain's new cabinet, announced today by J. Ramsay MacDonald, labor leader and now prime minister. Mr. MacDonald himself will occupy no other post but that of prime minister and first lord of the treasury. In 1924 he assumed the portfolio of foreign affairs as well but the burden of the two offices proved too much for his health.

Names of the ministers whose appointment has been announced and brief sketches of their careers follow:

Chancellor of the exchequer—Philip Snowden:—Mr. Snowden occupied the same post in the first labor government in 1924. His occupancy this time will be watched with intense interest because of his attitude toward war debts. During the election Mr. Snowden said the labor party never had endorsed the principle of the Balfour note which has formed the basis of British policy on this matter. He argued Britain had been over-generous to France and other Allied nations in the settlement of war debts due to her.

Foreign secretary:—Arthur Henderson:—Mr. Henderson in point of continuous service in the house of commons is the oldest labor member. He has represented his party there since 1906. He was paymaster-general and labor adviser to his majesty's government in 1916. He is familiarly known to his fellow members as "Uncle Arthur."

Secretary for India: — Wedgwood Benn:—Captain Benn is only a recent recruit to the labor movement. He joined the party in 1927 and was elected to the house of commons in 1928. He sat in the house as a liberal from 1906 to 1927. During the war he served with distinction in the infantry in Egypt and Gallipoli and in the Royal Naval Air service.

Secretary for the Dominions: — Sydney Webb:—President of the board of trade in the last labor ministry, Mr. Webb is perhaps the leading philosopher and literary apologist of the labor movement. A life-long student of political economy and sociology he is the author of a long list of books and essays dealing with socialism.

Lord privy seal and deputy leader of the house:—J. H. Thomas: — Mr. Thomas was secretary for the Dominions and colonies in the former labor government and his chief duty in the new government will be to solve the unemployment problem. He is to have complete charge of the unemployment situation and has already begun organization work in connection with labor's great push to reduce the number of unemployed.

Lord president of the council:—Lord Parmoor: —Lord Parmoor returns to the post he occupied in the first labor government. He will be perhaps the oldest member of the government—he is 76. He is well versed in ecclesiastical matters and was vicar-general of Canterbury from 1902 to 1924.

Home secretary, J. R. Clynes—In the last labor government Mr Clynes was lord privy seal and deputy leader of the house. During the war he served as parliamentary secretary to the ministry of food and later as food controller.

Secretary for air, Brigadier General Lord Thomson—Lord Thomson is another minister who will occupy his old post. He has never been a member of the house of commons and has not a seat at the present. Neither has he ever associated himself in any way with party politics before. In the former labor government, Viscount Haldane who has since died was lord chancellor.

Secretary for Scotland, William Adamson—Mr. Adamson occupied the same post in the last labor government. He was for three years chairman of the parliamentary labor party.

Lateran Treaty Has Been Ratified

Church Bells Throughout the Vatican City Pealed as Exchanges Were Made.

VATICAN CITY, June 7—(AP)—Pope Pius tonight stood solemnly affirmed as ruler over a temporal state such as his predecessors had governed prior to 1870 although his by agreement is lesser in extent. Joyful pealing of church bells throughout the city of Rome made public at noon the glad tidings that Premier Mussolini and Cardinal Gasparri had exchanged ratifications of the lateran treaty ending the strife between the holy see and the kingdom of Italy.

There were no speeches and the simple ceremony required less than half an hour. One text had been signed by King Victor Emmanuel and the other by Pope Pius XI. The negotiators composed a proces verbal in which they stated their "reciprocally loyal and sincere wish to observe the letter and spirit of the lateran accords". This proces recognized sovereignty of the pope and the status of Catholicism as the state religion in Italy. After signing, the cardinal and premier talked together for 15 minutes.

Finance Minister Moscon' then gave the cardinal a check for 750,000,000 lire (about $39,000,000) representing the first payment of the financial convention arranged at the time that the treaty was drawn up in February.

Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, read a letter from the pope saying that his first act would be to send a benediction to the king blessing him, his consort and all members of the royal family and bestowing a special benediction upon Chevalier Mussolini.

The king in reply telegraphed, "I am moved by the cordial telegram your holiness sent me at the moment when ratifications of the lateran treaty were being exchanged. I participate in the hope expressed by your holiness and raise to God a prayer that the act of today may mark the beginning of a new and happy era in the relation of the church. Together with her majesty, the queen, and my royal family, I thank your holiness for the blessing you have imparted to us. (signed) VITTORIO EMMANUELE."

Outside the vatican the conclusion of the signing was marked by opening the historic bronze doors to the right of St. Peter's which had been half closed, according to the Italian custom of mourning since 1870.

A large crowd gathered and cheered the entrance and exit of the premier, the first he had ever made to the vatican.

Announcement of the government of the vatican state in its new form followed on the heels of ratification

BELIEVES WHEAT PRICES MIGHT REACH $2 A BUSHEL

CHICAGO, June 7—(AP)—Albert R. Erskine, automobile magnate, was one of the evangels of an uplift movement in the grain market today but the movement was short-lived.

Wheat and corn started on the ascendant as the market opened, values mounting as much as 1 7-8 cents a bushel in the wheat pit, only to slide off the gain and finish unchanged to 1-4 cent above Thursday's last sales. July wheat was at $1.08 3-8 to 1-2 at the close, and September at $1.12 5-8 to 3-4.

A statement credited to Erskine in New York voiced optimism over a prospect that, aided and abetted by the projected government stabilization corporation, wheatp rices might climb the ladder this year to the $1.75 level and possibly reach $2.00 a bushel. Unfavorable weather reports and strength of the Liverpool market lent added confidence to commission house buyers and bolstered prices through most of the board of trade session.

Near the close, however, an unofficial prediction went the rounds that pricked the bubble and wheat dropped back to yesterday's level, although corn finished 1-2 to 7-8 cents a bushel higher. July contracts ending at 90 1-8 to 90 1-4 cents and September at 91 3-8 to 91 1-2.

LAVA FROM VESUVIUS CAUSED $300,000 DAMAGE

NAPLES, June 7—(AP)—Damage of upwards of $300,000 was caused by the lava flow from Mount Vesuvius which now is subsiding. Inspector of Public Works Romano estimated today that the volcano emitted 10,000,000 cubic meters of lava, about half of the amount in the 1906 eruption.

Official figures showed the destruction included 173 houses, 50 vineyards, and a large section of public forest as well as a valuable wooded tract belonging to the Princess Medici.

Plans for reconstruction of Terzigno, the town which suffered most heavily from the visitation, already have been started by the mayor, Commendatore Monti. He also has organized a "food supply for the homeless while the district authorities are gathering a gift and loan fund to aid the population. Half the soldiers on duty in the town were withdrawn today.

FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION IS SQUARLY UP TO SENATE

The House Passed the Bill Without a Roll Call—In the Senate Advocates of the Debenture Plan Are Prepared to Offer Stiff Opposition to the Acceptance of the Bill as Passed by the House—Leaders of the Administration Forces Are Confident That They Have Enough Support to Approve the Conference Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)— The immediate fate of farm relief legislation was placed squarely in the hands of the senate today after the house approved, without a roll call vote and virtually without debate, the joint conference committee's farm bill from which the export debenture plan was eliminated.

All that now stands between sending the measure to President Hoover for his approval is a favorable vote in the senate, but advocates of debentures were prepared to offer stiff opposition to the acceptance of the bill on the ground that the house had overstepped its authority by declining to vote directly on the debenture proposal.

Leaders of the administration forces were confident however, that they had enough support to approve the conference measure, claiming three of four senators who voted for the debenture plan when it was inserted into the senate farm bill by a 47 to 41 vote.

Reaching the senate a few hours after it had been approved by the house, the bill was made the order of business upon motion of Senator McNary of Oregon, who has piloted many controversial agricultural measures through the senate. He obtained consent for the senate to start consideration of the bill tomorrow.

Although the debenture group lost that section in the conference committee, its leaders were prepared to insist strenuously for rejection of the conference bill.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, returned to the senate today and immediately laid plans for holding the democratic lines intact in favor of rejecting the measure. Members of the republican independent group, which joined an almost solid democratic line-up for debentures last month, also were prepared to hold fast against administration stalwarts.

COL. ENOCHS RETIRED FROM ACTIVE DUTY

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Secretary Good today approved the retirement from active service of Colonel Berkeley Enochs, former chief of staff of the Second Corps area, who was awaiting court martial on charges preferred by Major General Hanson E. Ely, commanding general of the area.

The retirement of Colonel Enochs was understood at the war department today to have been on a "gentlemen's agreement" in order that the court martial proceedings might be disposed of without his going to trial. Colonel Enochs was ordered court-martialed on charges based on three specifications pertaining to disrespect and breaches of military discipline.

A statement by the department today said one specification alleged disrespect toward General Ely through the manner and words by which Colonel Enochs took personal exception to remarks by the general that the officers' mess at the Governor's Island station was in a poor condition.

The two other specifications alleged humiliation of Brigadier General Archibald Campbell, at the time colonel and adjutant of the corps area and a subordinate of Colonel Enochs.

NO TAKEOFF FOR EUROPE BEFORE NEXT MONDAY

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 7.—(AP)— Chances of a takeoff of the Green Flash and Yellow Bird for Europe before Monday of next week, were considered slight today.

Lewis A. Yancey of the Green Flash, said a weather report which he had received indicated that the storm 1200 miles off the coast was continuing. It is moving from the path the aviators intend to follow but will probably not be out of their way before Monday or later.

The Green Flash had a test flight of an hour's duration, cruising over a 30-mile area along the coast.

Yancey, before starting said he would attempt to locate Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and the former Miss Anne Morrow, now passing their honeymoon in the cabin cruiser Mouette, on the Maine coast. His efforts, however, were without result.

DEATH OF YOUTH DUE TO GRADUATE TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.— (AP) — William Branwell Linn, 21, son of Judge William B. Linn, of the Pennsylvania superior court, was found shot to death late today in his room in Lloyd hall, Haverford college. He was to have been graduated tomorrow.

Death was caused by a 22-calibre bullet fired through the back of the head.

Captain Siegel said he had turned over to the coroner a letter which young Linn had given to a chum to give to a third youth last night.

"I canont reveal exactly the contents of the letter," Siegel said "Although he theorizes and speaks of suicide in it, we are not exactly convinced that he killed himself. From what I have learned the youth had no reason to end his life."

The body was found in the room by Robert M. Doughty, a friend, who had gone to accompany Linn to his class. The youth was lying on the floor and the small revolver nearby.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL HAS GONE TO CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)— The administration bill to authorize the 1930 census and a reapportionment of the house on the basis of that census went to conference today for adjustment of differences between the senate and house with prospects of a report early next week.

After the stormy sessions of the house in which the measure was drastically amended and then revised again along administration lines, there are few major differences between the senate and house versions of the legislation. Consequently an early agreement by the conference committee is expected.

President Hoover has endorsed the program of administration leaders that this bill should be enacted before the special session takes the prospective summer recess.

Representative Fenn, Connecticut, is one of the house conferees.

NOMINATION OF JOSEPH P. COTTON CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP)—The nomination fo Joseph P. Cotton, New York attorney, to be under secretary of state, was confirmed with a record vote today by the senate in executive session.

TO CELEBRATE FOUNDING OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

RIPON, Wis., June 7.—(AP)—In a remote hamlet of a new state a group of pioneers gathered in a tiny white school house 75 years ago, full of indignation and unrest over matters political.

In this same community, Ripon about the same diminutive edifice of learning, thousands of persons from all parts of the United States will gather tomorrow in celebration of the result of that meeting—the republican party.

Over the green hills of the state special trains, busses and planes brought a crowd which it was estimated would total 20,000 by the time the main event of the diamond jubilee festival, the address of Secretary of War James W. Good, was reached.

The meeting three quarters of a century ago was primarily a protest against an act of congress which provided for organization of the territories of Nebraska and Kansas. The incendiary part of the bill, as far as the handful of Wisconsinites was concerned, was the provision for leaving the question of slavery to the people. That, they believed, gave slavery a firmer grip on the country.

The old whig party had suffered a debacle and the leaders in the town marshaled by Alvan Earle Bovay, lawyer and professor who came out of the east to the northern woods, felt it was time to choose a new banner around which to rally.

CONFUSION OVER DIPLOMATIC LIQUOR

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)— Out of the confusion among members of the diplomatic corps on whether the British embassy will be dry, one single fact emerged today—the embassy is now wet and may very well remain so in the future.

Members of the corps have closely followed developments in the diplomatic liquor situation since Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, recently expressed willingness to forego the privilege of importing intoxicants if the American government asked it. They pointed out tonight that so far the ambassador has not by either word of action decreed his mission and territory.

Sir Esme has not announced that his embassy will be made dry by his refusing to import any more liquors, nor has he indicated that he has taken such action to stop the importation of liquors in the future by his staff. Reports that he had done so have been discredited by the embassy as being "not entirely accurate."

The only action which Sir Esme Howard has taken in the matter has been to inform Secretary Stimson that he was "thinking of not importing any more liquors" for his embassy. Previous to his imparting this information to the secretary, the ambassador was known to feel that there was considerable uncertainty among the members of the corps regarding the importation privilege.

Intimations that the entire corps might go dry were generally and emphatically characterized today as "absurd."

CLOSE OF REUNION OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 7—(AP)— The gray remnants of a great army, phalanxed between solid blocks of marching modern troops and bandsmen, paraded here today as the farewell gesture of the United Confederate Veteran's 1929 reunion.

Tonight, some 3,000 veterans were on their way to homes in every southern state. They were the last of more than 35,500 that took over the city four days ago. Many overtaxed by fatigue and excitement, left yesterday, a few were left behind in hospitals, two of that original band were dead.

The line of march today stretched over six miles of thoroughfares, with 28 military units and many hundreds of others marching to the music of 15 bands, it moved slowly through what is being described tonight as the greatest crowd this city ever saw.

NEWSPAPER REPORTERS WERE FINED $20 EACH

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 7—(AP)— Frank J. Dolan and Grace Robinson, New York newspaper reporters pleaded nolo in Middlesex superior court today to charges of breaking, entering and attempted larceny from the home of Walter T. Huntington, Harvard student whose body was found in a field in Windsor, Conn., last month. The cases were filed on payment of $20 each for court expenses. They had appealed from the lower court's sentence of three months [illegible] correction.

COMMITTEE EXPLAINS REASONS FOR $12,000 DRIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 7.— An explanation of the manner in which the $12,000, sought in the industrial drive that will get underway next Tuesday morning with the support of the chamber of commerce, was made today by a publicity sub-committee of the executive board of the drive.

In its full explanation the committee first points out that Willimantic has not maintained a fund, as many other cities do, with which to finance the securing of new industries against a large and hotly competitive field. In the instance of the Willimantic Silk, Inc., and the Kobe Silk company, both of which are now in operation in the former Quidnick-Windham mills on Bridge street, these concerns were secured without the aid of such a standing fund. With both concerns now fully established on a growing basis and bidding fair to become very vital factors in the industrial progress of Willimantic, a sum is now sought to "make good" as it might be termed, certain expenditures incurred in coming to this city. The firms came here merely on promises as far as financial assistance is concerned. The original agreement with Messrs. Corn and Stein of the Willimantic Silk Inc., as adopted by the chamber of commerce, was to start a stock campaign to raise from $30,000 to $50,000. This was done and as their part of the agreement Corn and Stein were to contribute 20 per cent in cash as their share of the investment.

After extended deliberations, however, between the new manufacturers and local interests, Corn and Stein decided to finance themselves, with Willimantic's contribution to be only of $5,000 which is to be applied toward heating the plant for five years, the amount to be paid at the rate of $1,000 yearly and Corn and Stein to assume any excess heating cost over that amount. Thus $5,000 of the $12,000 will be applied to this purpose.

The sum of $3,000 is involved in an agreement with Max Goldstein, proprietor of the Kobe Silk Mills who was induced to come here on the financial agreement that Willimantic would assume $3,000 of the moving expenses. These two items account for $8,000 leaving a balance of $4,000. This balance is to be placed on deposit where it will draw interest and will be available should occasion arise, toward securing any other industry which may present itself in the future. This $4,000 will then become the nucleus of a permanent industrial fund for Willimantic, a need that has long been felt as urgent toward the development of the community.

The Willimantic Silk Inc., which began operations November 1, last, now occupies the entire No. 2 mill of the former cotton plant. While the start was made with but 10 looms there are now 140 of these machines in night and day operation and 60 additional will be installed in the near future. At present 150 hands are employed with about 75 more to be added to the payroll in the course of some months. The payroll for the past two weeks amounted to $5,500, wages being paid bi-weekly. The owners are planning on a $200,000 annual payroll as soon as the additional 60 looms are installed. All looms, with the exception of the first ten, are of the latest type Crompton & Knowles make. With all interiors entirely renovated and modernized, the firm offices and winding department are located on the first floor, the warping department on the second, and the weaving departments on the third and fourth floors.

A. Corn, member of the board of directors of the corporation, is plant manager. Max Stein, president, has been engaged in the silk business for about 15 years and controls the Domestic Silk company of 162 Madison avenue, New York city, which is a selling agency for the products of the Willimantic Silk, Inc., as well as those of the Kobe Silk mills and others.

Nathan Stein of Paterson, N. J., vice president, and brother of the president, is also an experienced silk manufacturer. He plans to move with his family to this city on July 1, having taken an apartment at 249 Church street.

The concern shipped upon orders, 64,000 yards of silk during the two week period ending Thursday, its customers including the big garment makers in New York city and many big corporations such as Marshall Fields and others.

The plans call for the installation of a throwing plant to work in conjunction with the other departments. This plant will probably start next September, will employ an additional 40 hands, and will be located in the basement.

The Kobe Silk Mills, which began operations in No. 1 mill about a month ago, are owned by Max Goldstein who is moving into an apartment at 29 Chestnut street with his family. Mr. Goldstein has been affiliated with Max Stein in the silk business for the past ten years and the latter disposes of the entire output of the Kobe mills which manufacture a product similar to that of the Willimantic Silk Inc. Night and day schedules have also been introduced in the Kobe plant. Mr. Goldstein stated today that he expects to have 100 looms in operation within a short time with a force of some 200 workers. At present the business is confined to the third and fourth floors with about 25 hands, but occupancy of the entire mill is contemplated.

An assurance of the permanency of the two plants is indicated in the fact that Max Stein has signed a five-year power contract with the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company. These two concerns will pay to employes about $500,000 annually when full organization is completed.

JEWETT CITY

PRIVILEGE APPRECIATED OF HEARING FINE MUSIC

The recital given Thursday evening in the Finn theatre, under the auspices of Very Rev. Michael McCabe council, No. 2364, K. of C., as a St. Mary's new auditorium benefit, proved from all viewpoints, a most pleasing success. No such exhibitions of musical skill were ever given in Jewett City, as were the marvelous interpretations by James Olsen, pianist, and Peter Cooper, with the violin. Faultless rythm, fine technique and perfect harmony were so wrought together by these two young men, that the impressions received by the heartily appreciative audience were little less than profound. The listeners heard the intricate scores of classics, played upon splendid instruments, responsive to the touch of master hands. The young musicians received a full measure of applause. Encores came in response to the insistence again and again by the very friendly audience. The program given tells its own story: Marche Militaire, Schubert-Tausig, James Olson; Sonata Op. 13 No. 2 Allegro (Vance, Grieg, Allegretto Tranquillo, Allegro Animato, Peter Coper, James Olson; (a) Waltz, C Sharp Minor, Chopin, (b) Flirtation in a Chinese Garden, Chasins, (c) Rush Hour in Hong Kong Chasins, James Olson; (a) Demande Et Reponse, (b) La Caprice De Nannette, Coleridge Taylor, Peter Cooper; Meditation "Thias," Massenet, Peter Cooper; St. Francis of Paola Walking on the Waters, Liszt-Siloti, James Olson; Ave Maria, Schulbert, Peter Cooper; Hungarian Dance No. 5, Brahms.

An enthusiastic company was present from Norwich, including Prof. Frank Farrell. Words of highest praise were heard from this master musician to whose instructional inspiration much of Mr. Ison's exceptional skill is attributable. Mr. Cooper, a Jewett City boy, Mr. Farrell stated, has become a player of recognized note, as is proclaimed by his record as solo violin, for successive seasons at the New York Hippodrome. The decorations for the stage during the concert were baskets of carnations and vases of lilies and iris.

DANIELSON

PICHE PAYS FINE OF $100 FOR POSSESSING LIQUOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 7—Omer Piche, whose home on Reynolds street was raided by state officers yesterday and a quantity of liquor seized, among other things, was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning, charged with keeping with intent to sell. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. The seized liquor is to be destroyed in accordance with the regular custom. In connection with his arrest in Rhode Island by state troopers for having 100 gallons of alcohol Piche was held by United States Commissioner Henry C. Hart for presentation of the matter to the federal court at a later date. Piche was released on posting a bond of $1,000.

Secretary L. Edwin Hill and Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather made reports tonight at the annual meeting of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. in the Congregational church in Woodstock. A banquet preceded the business meeting. The invocation was by Rev. Thomas Powell, pastor of the church. During the evening there were two addresses, one by Lieut. F. H. Hale, U. S. N., of the Submarine Base at New London, his subject being Our Submarines, and by Rev. J. Rees Jones of St. Alban's church, Danielson, whose subject was The Church's Need of American Youth. Motion pictures showing County Y. M. C. A. activities during the year were shown.

Plans of the organization are perfected for the annual summer camp periods at Camp Woodstock at Black pond in the town of Woodstock. This is the Windham Hartford and Tolland county camp and a large number of boys and girls from these counties will stay there for periods during the summer season, in pleasant surroundings, with opportunity for healthful recreation and under competent leadership.

Danielson's housing shortage likely would be considerably relieved through the working out of a program that Powdrell and Alexander are presenting to their operatives. Under the proposal being made by the company an employe may select a site, anywhere in Danielson, and the type of house he or she desires. The company will arrange in financing its construction through local banks and also an easy payment plan, much after the manner in which the Building and Loan association operates. It is pointed out that it is desirable to obtain an agreement to build from a group of operatives, for a number of houses can be contracted for together at a lower price than could be obtained for building a single one. Danielson has had a more or less acute shortage of homes for the past dozen years or more. To help relieve it the Danielson Building and Loan association was formed, and in the years that have since elapsed has been the means of providing Danielson with a considerable number of houses. It continues to function and the applications for loans are always in excess of the funds available. The plan of Powdrell and Alexander would be the means of still further building up Danielson and its immediate vicinity. After all, this proposed plan presents an opportunity for an interested employe to eventually own his own home practically through a rent paying proposition, for it is just that with some variation.

Danielson was no place for a timid person for a time shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon as the worst electrical storm of the season got into action. The storm heralded its approach with flashing lightning and deep rumbling thunder for a considerable time before it burst with all its fury directly over the borough. For a few minutes at about 3:30 the aerial bombardment was anything but pleasant, and to a great many quite terrifying. Despite its severity no amount of damage was reported in this vicinity.

This community has something of a "taking down" complex just now. The long drawn out agitation for the removal of trees on the south side of Davis park is now followed by agitation for the removal of unused poles standing in the curb along Main street in the business section. If this is undertaken it will represent no heavy task. One of the objections to these poles is that they too frequently figure in jamming up automobile fenders as drivers engage in parking their cars, the damage generally resulting when a car is being backed into an open space. It is held that these poles now serve no useful purpose and could be dispensed with to advantage.

Cars crashed at the corner of Water and Franklin streets during the thunder storm of this afternoon, in what was about a 100 per cent head on collision. The cars that were involved were an Essex operated by Thomas Ellison of Plainfield and a Chevrolet being driven by Joseph A. Guertin, of 52 Brown avenue, Jewett City, and owned by the Eastern Connecticut Power company. Guertin was heading south through Water street and Ellison coming through Franklin street when the machines plowed into each other on the corner, a place where careful operation is necessary. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lanzos, resident at the Old Village at Plainfield, riding in the Ellison car, both were cut and bruised in the crash. Mr. Lanzos was cut over the left eye and Mrs. Lanzos was cut on the nose and on the cheekbone, but neither seriously hurt. Their 14-months old child, also in the Ellison car was unhurt. Guertin was cut on the hands, presumably by flying glass. Mr. and Mrs. Lanzos were given attention in St. James parish rectory by Dr. George M. Burroughs. They returned to their home. State Officer Cyrus Chamberlin who checked up the accident ordered Ellison to appear in court here to answer to a charge of failing to grant half the traveled right of way. The Essex came out of the jam just about a total loss, and the power company car was materially damaged.

WATER PLANS HAVE ENDORSEMENT OF ENGINEERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 7—Some developments in the proposed plan of reconstruction of the city water system took place today in the presence of the board of water commissioners when Consulting Hydraulic Engineer Symonds, of Boston, and George W. Stephenson, another well known engineering authority, also of Boston, came to Putnam to view the present situation and confer with City Engineer George W. Perry.

Although no detailed announcement of the commission's plans were divulged this afternoon it was learned on good authority that the tentative plans of the board of water commissioners now prepared for presentation before the members of the common council, have met the approval of the two Boston engineers and City Engineer Perry and will be followed with some additions, among which will be the laying of a water main to the Day Kimball hospital on the outskirts of the city.

The water question has been hanging in the balance for nearly three years and a new light was to have been thrown upon it last Tuesday evening when Chairman Ralph E. Thurston of the board of commissioners appeared before the common council prepared to make a comprehensive report of the proposed plan of reconstruction. The report of the head of the board was withheld for another week because of the lack of a quorum of councilors.

A most delightful reception and tea was given by Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Wright Thursday afternoon in the guild rooms of St. Philip's Episcopal church, to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Philip's. Morrell, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson and Miss M. J. Connell. Rev. and Mrs. F. X. Richards, of Pomfret, were honored guests. Rev. Mr. Richards delivered an interesting address in which he commended the ladies guild for the great work in aiding the missionary workers at home as well as contributing greatly to the foreign mission field. McCollough was in the navy during the war and was one of the first to enlist in the headquarters company following its organization five years ago.

The annual children's day will be held at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The sacrament of baptism will be administered to the children of the church and bibles will be presented to those who have attained the age of seven years. A varied program in which all children will take part will be presented.

An announcement today by County Secretary L. Edwin Hill, of Danielson, was to the effect that the Tri-County camp at Black Pond, West Woodstock will open on July 5, for the first boys' training period and will be followed by a second period open on July 19, and a third period of two weeks opening on August 2. The girls' period for the young women of Windham county will open on August 16, and will continue until August 30th.

THE COMING CITY MEETING.

Without a doubt there was much interest among the taxpayers of the city in the meeting of the Norwich Taxpayers' association at which there was discussion of the coming city meeting, adjourned from election day, and at which time expression was given to the propositions which have been submitted to the city for appropriations in the so-called list of extras.

This will be the first annual city meeting since the revaluation work has gone into effect. There has been a lowering of the tax rate but it is apparent that if the tax rate is going to be kept down it must be done by the taxpayers upon whom the burden falls. Tax rates rise and call for more money in keeping with the expenditures that are authorized. It is easy to increase outlays here and there but it cannot be done without meaning an extra drain upon the taxpayers.

This is apparently the attitude of the taxpayers' association and it is a sound one. It isn't a question as to the worthiness of the various extras that are sought but it is a question as to what can be afforded at this time. For the most part the association has declared its opposition. There are instances where it believes that parts of the sought-for appropriations should be provided. One of these includes the improvement of Rockwell street to the entrance to Mohegan park, a piece of street that is bad and which certainly does not reflect much appreciation on the part of Norwich for the various gifts made to the city in that locality.

Because Norwich has lowered its tax rate through a revaluation doesn't mean that this is the time to begin to push the rate up again. It is a time to carefully scrutinize the demands that are being made for funds. Perhaps the estimates will stand paring in some respects, but it is the opinion of the taxpayers' association that the extras should virtually be passed over at this time as a good business proposition.

That unquestionably represents the sentiment of taxpayers outside of the association. The association has given the cue and it remains for the taxpayers to get out to the city meeting Monday night and do their duty to themselves and their neighbors. The responsibility rests on them, severally and individually.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

At the organization meeting of the court of common council good judgment was made in continuing the same heads of departments as in the past.

It is excellent service that has been rendered by Street Commissioner Wightman during the past year. He has met the responsibilities in a conscientious and businesslike manner like any other incumbent of that office he has experienced those handicaps which were imposed by restricted appropriations. If there were not funds available he has not rushed into a deficit. He has carried out the demands of the citizens insofar as it was physically and financially possible. He most certainly deserved reappointment.

In the fire department there was no other logical step to take than to make Deputy Taft the head of the department, and to fill his place by naming Acting Deputy Brennan. These appointments were expected though we cannot refrain from saying again that the department is experiencing a serious loss in the resignation of Chief Stanton.

In addressing the council Mayor Hubbard made fitting reference to the achievements of the council in the past year and properly urged the present council to aim at efficiency and to guard against extravagance. That was good advice which he offered when he declared, "Your especial efforts should be directed towards a businesslike administration of that particular department over which you are to exert supervision, and your advice, counsel and effort are solicited and expected in solving the problems arising, sharing the responsibility common to all."

By the vote of the citizens Norwich looks forward with confidence to the continuance of the good work of the council in the ensuing year.

PROTECT YOURSELF.

Inasmuch as this is the time of year when many will be going in bathing, or swimming, and therefore when it is proper that there should be set forth the desirability of knowing how to swim, it is also the time when those who go into the water should observe some of the many precautions which are necessary for proper protection.

Whether you are a swimmer, or just learning to swim, do not go into the water immediately after eating. It is always wise to let an hour elapse between eating and swimming.

It is also well to bear in mind that there is danger in long swims. Those who attempt them should be accompanied for even the experienced often encounter a cramp and become helpless.

One of the great pleasures in connection with swimming is diving. This may seem harmless enough, and probably is, if there is plenty of water, yet every year there are many lives lost because of those diving did not know what was ahead of them. They either plunged into too shallow water or struck some obstruction which broke their necks or rendered them unconscious and death followed from drowning.

It is a long and deplorable list that is piled up every summer of those who yield to the charm of a canoe and throw away their lives when such cockleshells upset and the occupants are thrown into the water.

It makes little difference whether on land or in the water there is a great and growing need of being careful. Fatalities are for the most part preventable. The many drownings every summer could be greatly reduced if proper thought and care were given to what was being done. Remember the experiences of others and be governed accordingly.

INDUSTRIAL BUILDING NEED.

Norwich wants industrial growth. It is the desire of every progressive community. It is a goal for which we should be constantly striving.

Whenever a city loses one or more industries that take away plants on which great dependence has been placed there is an immediate and serious effort to replace them. Norwich doesn't want to wait for any such situation. It doesn't want it to happen in the first place, but it should make the most of the opportunity to get industrial growth through new concerns or the expansion of present ones.

Norwich is a city of many advantages from an industrial standpoint. They appeal to those who inspect them, but from the experience of the chamber of commerce in endeavoring to interest new concerns there is a handicap in the fact that Norwich lacks the type of factory which most of them are seeking.

It was some years ago that a similar situation existed. At that time Norwich became interested in the construction of the industrial building. It was located on Central wharf and it was not long before it was fully occupied. There was demand for another and a second was provided near the first. Companies located there expanded and it was not long before both were filled. Expansion continued. Some of the concerns found it necessary to move elsewhere to get adequate quarters. Others were required to move because the space was required by the company which now occupies and owns it.

The industrial buildings met a long felt need in encouraging industrial development and from the experience of the chamber of commerce in trying to locate new industries here it is unfortunate that Norwich hasn't another such building at the present time where the needs of manufacturers could be met.

Other cities have made a success of such a method of attracting industries. Norwich's experience in that direction has been good. There is a chance to get new industries and obtain industrial growth through giving this kind of encouragement and the time would appear to be ripe to do it.

BRITISH EMBASSY DRY.

When Ambassador Howard made the offer that he would abandon the use of liquor in the British embassy at Washington if it was the desire of this government, there was the opportunity for the United States to request such action. He opened the way for it.

Though he probably did not intend it as such it placed the president in an embarrassing situation. The suggestion has not been acted upon and there is no probability that it will be. At that time, however, it was suggested that if Sir Esme Howard really wanted to take such action, in the belief that it would be gratifying to this country if foreign government representatives did not exercise their right to receive and use liquors and thus conform to the spirit of prohibition in this country, there was nothing standing in the way of his voluntarily doing so.

It is this step which he has now taken. There has been no pressure, no request, back of it. He acts from the dictates of his conscience apparently and without any indication as to whether it means any great sacrifice on the part of the ambassador and his fellow workers. He has acted on his own initiative and apparently with the belief that in view of the prohibition law there has been too much embassy liquor in Washington.

Now it remains to be seen whether his example makes such an impression upon the representatives of other countries that they will do likewise. They are under no obligation to do so. The use of liquor among the diplomatic corps at Washington has not been stopped by prohibition. It has not been attempted, but Sir Esme has started something which may cause some feeling of uncertainty on the part of others.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: With bare legs the mosquitoes are looking for a big season.

That declaration that the farmers want relief, not a recess, is a proper statement of the case.

The difficulty of the youngster these days is to concentrate on anything but the long vacation.

Even though it is claimed that more Canadian liquor is consumed in this country than in Canada it doesn't make Canada dry.

Congress wants a recess until September. The members ought to be able to see the ball games without shutting up shop.

Reports have it that the next British cabinet will have a minister of employment. And unless we are mistaken he will have plenty to do.

Mr. Sinclair has found out two things. It is bad business not to answer questions of a senate committee that has been authorized to conduct an investigation and it is equally bad to shadow a jury.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The lay mind is considerably more impressed by sudden changes whether they pertain to climatic conditions or business affairs than the scientific mind. It is quite evident that the latter are less disturbed by such changes than the former because in these natural events they see the operation of law. An amusing illustration of this once occurred in New Haven on a very cold winter day. A certain man met the celebrated Prof. Elias Loomis, the mathematician, who was the very paragon of accuracy. This man said to him "A very cold morning, professor!" "Cold! Why it is only one-tenth of one degree colder than the average winter for the last ten years," was the answer. Was not that a marvel accuracy? Does it not show clearly the trend of the scientific mind to look at things in proportion to their relations? A terrible flash of lightning that will make timid children cry will only make the trained scientist think of how much electricity was discharged by the explosion.

Probably there is no line of work that is entirely free from problems. If it were it would probably kill all attempt to take the initiative. The particular problem that churches and ministers are struggling with at the coming of summer is how to maintain anything like a normal audience from June to September. We have gotten over the pessimistic howl about church members going to perdition in the summer season. Also we have gotten over the anxiety of outsiders about the church losing its grip on the people and ministers on holiness. As a matter of fact, taking the church as a whole there was never a time of larger accessions than now: never a time when church members were more scrupulously honest than at present. And yet the summer season is a growing perplexity. As there is larger per capita wealth than ever before more of life is being enjoyed.

Is there any organic relation between freaks in the weather (if it is proper to speak of these sudden changes as freaks) and the fluctuation of the stock market? If one with no idea of the scenes so frequent on the floor of the stock exchange went there he would think he had struck a lunatic asylum, if it was his first visit. I wonder if science has yet determined that there is more violent activity when the mercury is in the nineties on the floor of the exchange than in the dead of winter. All we know about the matter at present is that the stock market rushes up and then has a tumble just as the mercury does in a thermometer, and the mercury is just as fitful in the winter as it is in the summer. As far as one can observe the bulls and the bears are just as lively in December as they are in July. It may be that some day a man will emerge big enough to solve this pertinent question.

Can there be a better concrete illustration of the commingling of sunlight and shadow than the reunion of a college class of many years standing? When the boys come together five years after their graduation there is, of course, no radical general change. The strain and stress of their contact with the world has not yet made any marked impression upon them. They still retain the buoyancy of youth. A fleeting shadow comes to them when the name of Brown is mentioned as the first to enter the obituary record. At the tenth anniversary there are not quite so many present. Some of their numbers have not made good, and make no effort to attend. There are now more who are in the Silent City, but the majority of the boys are back to dear old Alma Mater. But when it comes to the 50th, there is little inclination to plan for subsequent reunions.

While there is a trend towards this religious idea for a while, and then in the next age towards that, there is a general advancement of spiritual thought and living. For one age it may be the great Augustine who controls the thought of that age; in another it is Anselm, and then he is mostly forgotten when a Calvin sits on a theological throne, and still again the thought that is accepted is fashioned by Jonathan Edwards. For a while these kings rule and then others fill their places. Now as a matter of fact all of these master minds has had some original thought to communicate to the world, but no one man has ever had it all and for this reason we can get some new slant upon divine revelation from them all. The one theological writer of the ages whose "lich, never grows dim" is that of the Apostle Paul. The ages have not bedimmed the lustre of his great intellect, and this would seem to indicate that he had an inspiration that was more authoritative than any of them.

Take, for instance, that last chapter of his first letter to the Thessalonians. Where will one find a finer collection of suggestions that have a bearing on the Christian's daily life? There is in them no display of profound theological thought; no deep philosophy that is beyond the average man, but homely truth that is of vital importance to every living being. Now, it seems to me that Saint Paul shows here that he was a great deal more than the apostle of a new evangelism. He was, to be sure, a man of wide learning, but his scholarship was kept on an even keel by shrewd practical common sense. Unlike many men who dealt with intangible things in his day and ever since, he always kept his two feet on the solid earth while his great spirit sailed up into the infinite spaces above. Paul always impresses one with the reality of the things he deals with.

It takes a clear mind to state things clearly. What could be more important than advice along lines indicated by the following sentences: "Quench not the spirit." "Despise not prophesyings." "Prove all things." "Hold fast that which is good." The chapter is made up largely of teachings of this character. Take the latter as an illustration. The Thessalonians would naturally come into contact with many new ideas, theories and opinions. If they are to deal with them in a rational way, they must not swallow them at a single gulp, nor thoughtlessly ignore them, but submit them to a thorough, careful examination. With an open mind and courageously they must make them pass through the crucible of their own thinking. The great trouble then as now is the tendency to follow the line of the least resistance. It is easier to let somebody else do your thinking than to think yourself. But in the last analysis more satisfaction comes by doing the latter.

The end of the sentence alluded to is, "Hold fast that which is good." It is a shrewd practical conclusion. If you find, as a result of your careful examination that it is worthy of your acceptance, and lo, that it will be of practical value in your living, then cling to it fast like grim death. Don't let anybody laugh you out of it. If your careful judgment and independent reason make it appear valuable to you, then the ultimatum has been spoken. The greatest arbiter on the face of the earth is a man's own reason. Rather than insult the authority of their own reason martyrs in past ages faced the burning fagot, the executioner's axe, and the horrors of solitary confinement without flinching. It is here where a man's soul is on trial that makes it shine with a supernal light. Let us thank God that they put John Bunyan in jail for years, because there he gave to the world the glory of the celestial city.

TAKING GEOGRAPHIC INVENTORY OF PALESTINE: 1929.

Make Palestine a British dominion, is the watchword of a committee organized in England. Members of the committee are pledged to work for the incorporation of the Holy Land in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Palestine is now a mandate administered by Great Britain for the League of Natons.

A geographic inventory prepared by the National Geographic Society reveals Palestine as a country "on the make."

Today the Jordan river has been crossed again—by the dam of a power project.

Crusaders from Europe once more invade the land, fighting—the mosquitoes who infected 64 per cent of the new settlers with malaria.

The land of milk and honey flows—with oranges and Portland cement.

Nazareth is a town famous throughout Palestine as the home of—a new water system.

Within the walls of Jerusalem rises a new temple—a $2,000,000 museum of archaeology presented by an American philanthropist.

Jehu chauffeurs drive furiously over the hills to Jezreel—not to wreck vengeance on Jezebel, but to transport some of the 50,000 tourists using the Bible as a guidebook. Motor cars on the modern Jezreel road make the chariot speed record of the original Jehu (II Kings, 9:20) patron saint of taxicab drivers, seem a mere snail's pace. Indeed, from Dan, in the north, to Beersheba, in the south, the length of Palestine, is a pleasant day's motor tour.

Where Richard the Lion Hearted ruled in Haifa there is a Norman castle—at least it looks like a Norman castle, but it is an electric powerhouse.

Progress reaches even to the little town of Bethlehem, where a new hospital is under construction.

Even the age-old cry of the Jews has been changed. The wail of 2,000 years of yesterdays, "Next year in Zion," has become "Tomorrow, Zion." Tel Aviv is called the first Hebrew city since the destruction of the temple.

There is more to post-war Zionism than Tel Aviv. While this new all-Jewish community of 40,000 is the largest, there are more than 100 other Jewish colonies. Since the Balfour declaration of 1917 recognized the special interests of Jews in Palestine the Jewish population has increased from about 70,000 in 1920 to more than 150,000. Jews are still a minority in their homeland, however, numbering but one-fifth of the total population.

Israel's ten tribes lived off the land. Driven out of Israel into the corners of the world, they made those corners shops and banks. Reconquest of their Palestine homeland once more requires agricultural skill of the Jews. Some of the new settlers: former druggists, clerks, grocers in Russia, studied agriculture in Palestine, where they are selling stockings to Egypt, cement to Syria and Cyprus, perfume to France, oranges to England, and made-in-Palestine unleavened bread all over the world.

It is plain that the reconquest of Palestine must come by economic development, not sentiment. The Zionist movement rides two economic horses, pioneering and industry. Pioneers of the American west found free land and lots of it. Jewish pioneers in Palestine must buy the land and a whole community must live on an acreage equal to a moderate sized middle west farm. American pioneers found forests: the hills of Judea must be reforested. Americans found a healthy land: the Jewish settlers fight the mosquito, tropical diseases and a whole catalogue of scourges that attack their orange and almond groves, vineyards and grain fields. From 1919 to 1924 the Zionist movement cost $35,000,000 and only a few communities have begun to break even, much less pay interest on loans.

Industrial conquest relies on a triple program already under way: Haifa harbor and Jordan river and the Dead sea salts. First, the $5,000,000 Haifa harbor development will give Palestine its only deep water port. Secondly, the railroad running inland from Haifa to the Jordan river now carries supplies for the hydro-electric development (the first in Asia Minor, it is declared) which will turn the 165-foot drop in the sea of Galilee and the Dead sea into 70 million kilowatt hours per year to light up Palestine. At present there is only a market for 20 million kilowatt hours, but wait and see, say the Zionists.

Thirdly it has been established that the salts of the Dead sea contain potash in a form usable for the world trade. The chemical extraction problem has been solved. The Jordan development will supply power. Extension of the Haifa railroad will supply transportation from the 1,300-foot sub-sea-level Dead sea to the new Haifa port where all except the biggest liners can dock. Jewish capital and brains and British aid move toward the goal.

Palestine is not a large country. New Hampshire is slightly larger. Palestine, like New Hampshire, has a mountain range down its middle. New Palestine, nevertheless, deals in millions. Government nurseries now produce more than a million trees annually for reforestation, more than 11,000,000 telephone calls were made and 12,000,000 letters handled in 1927, more than 5,000,000 boxes of oranges were shipped out. Foreign trade has increased approximately $5,000,000 since 1924.

Life is complicated by the existence of three official languages. Palestine pounds (equal to British pounds) and the subsidiary coins, mills for various denominations, display their value in English, Hebrew and Arabic. They circulate in Palestine, Palestine or Falastin, depending on your particular faith. The railroad station of the city sacred to Moslems, Jews and Christians, welcomes them respectively with the words, El Quads esh Sherif, Yerushalayium and Jerusalem.

When archaeologists engaging in one of the country's chief industries, dig up a town, they find remains of each civilization hidden by the one on top. Not so with the human layers that have been spread over this footpath between Asia and Africa. Remnants of races and people mill about in the currents of Holy Land life, seldom mixing.

The few Samaritans at Nablus are survivals of a colony established by Sargon II, king of Assyria 722 B. C.

Major Edward Keith-Roach, deputy district commissioner, Jerusalem, divisionfl records in the National Geographic Magazine that the lingual groups in Jerusalem alone are made up of the following numbers:

Abyssinian 72, Arabic 22,307, Armenian 2,442, Bulgarian 29, Circassian 3, Dutch 2, English 986, French 261, German 381, Georgian 4, Greek 760, Gypsy 7, Hebrew 32,341, Indian dialects 769, Italian 209, Magyar 53, Maltese 4, Persian 122, Polish 10, Pashto 4, Rumanian 26, Russian 407, Serbian 13, Syriac 33, Turkish 193 Yiddish 999.

The whole drama of modern invention's power history is compressed into the recent Palestine experience of some Americans, "We crossed Esdraelon in half an hour," they wrote home, "climbed the hill of Nazareth, but found there was no room for us in the inn. It was only a 40-minute run to Tiberias on the shores of Galilee and there we found good accommodations in a hotel that is run by some Germans."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 7—Labor's (or labour's, to give it the British spelling) astounding triumph at the polls May 30 in the "tight little isle" is certain to have its repercussions in this country.

Just what they will be is largely a matter of speculation among American political observers at home who, for the most part, seem none too well posted on details of the British domestic political situation.

There was one aspect of the labor party program as expounded by labor orators in the campaign which bade fair to have a very early reaction on this side of the Atlantic. That was the avowed purpose of the party leaders, if they obtained control, of restoring relations with the Russian soviet government.

Borah Interested

It is to be recalled that Senator Borah, leading exponent of the recognize-Russia movement in the United States, crashed into print about the time the special session of congress got under way with a prediction of such action early in the Hoover administration.

The Idahoan hastened to disclaim any advance information as to Mr Hoover's contemplated moves in that direction. His prediction was based, he said, merely on his view of the logic of the economic situation.

Whether he then foresaw a labor party victory in England and also was counting on that stimulus to the recognize-Russia movement was not disclosed.

The point is that, regardless of other considerations, re-recognition of Russia by the London government certainly will be followed by a new drive in the direction of similar action by Washington.

Friends of that procedure like Mr Borah can be counted on to make the most of the opportunity to revive the subject. What does not clearly appear is what President Hoover might do about it.

If the Bystander's memory serves him, the president made no public declaration at the time the Borah prediction was published.

Such information as was directly available from official government sources indicated that there had been no change whatever in the Russian policy, which still stood where President Coolidge left it, opposed to recognition.

Yet the undercurrent of gossip from the white house rather placed President Hoover in the attitude of crossing no Russian recognition bridges until he got to them.

He was more or less represented by those who talked with him as not being inclined to take the subject up, or any subject for that matter, unless there was a specific reason for so doing.

Hoover Uncertain

Re-recognition of Russia by a labor-controlled government in London certainly will bring sharply to the fore the question of what the United States is going to do about the long hiatus in Russian-American diplomatic relations.

Presumably it will be expedient for the new president then to give definite consideration to shaping a policy of his own in that regard. And exactly where he would stand in that event is an interesting matter of speculation.

Quite clearly Mr. Hoover has not felt himself very closely bound by Coolidge or Harding precedents on other matters of international policy. Would recognition of Russia fit in with the gospel of peace and economic progress he has been preaching since he took office?

two years before coming to Palestine.

Good orange growers will inherit the Holy Land. Yet there is a movement by the Jewish immigrants to make Palestine a glorified department store of the awakening Near East. Already they are selling stockings to Egypt, cement to Syria and Cyprus, perfume to France, oranges to England, and made-in-Palestine unleavened bread all over the world.

The whole drama of modern invention's power history is compressed into the recent Palestine experience of some Americans, "We crossed Esdraelon in half an hour," they wrote home, "climbed the hill of Nazareth, but found there was no room for us in the inn. It was only a 40-minute run to Tiberias on the shores of Galilee and there we found good accommodations in a hotel that is run by some Germans."

Stories That Recall Others

Baby's Hair

Lois, age six, was admiring the neighbor's new baby.

"Oh," she remarked, "he has red hair, hasn't he?"

"No, I don't believe he has," the mother replied.

"Well," said Lois, "anyway it's salmon."

Ownership

The family in which there was a boy of five was visiting in another city. In the course of conversation they discussed a very rich and powerful Mr. X, who owned the hotel, the apartment house, a bank and a department store. Although the little boy did not seem to pay much attention to their talk, the next day at the theater he asked: "Mother, is this Mr. X's theater?"

"No," replied the mother.

"Who owns the theater?" was the next query.

"I don't know who owns the theater?" was the reply.

"But, mother, how did they get it away from Mr. X?" was the final query.

Sunday Morning Talk

Character

A great character is not formed in a day, but it requires time and care. Each day adds to it, and every act through decision and effort shapes the features and expressions of the soul. Habits of love, piety and truth silently mould and fashion it, until at length it wears the likeness of God. A certain writer has illustrated the formation of character by the formation of an icicle. "It is frozen drop by drop until the entire length is formed. If the water is clean the icicle remains clear and sparkles in the sun; but if the water is muddy the icicle looks dull and its beauty spoiled. Just so character is formed. One little thought or feeling at a time adds to its influence. If each thought be pure and right, the soul will be lovely and will sparkle with happiness, but if impure and wrong there will be deformity and wretchedness.

It is the tests that either help to build or tear down the character. A misfortune may overtake us and with it comes a temptation to lower our fixed standard of truth; here we may receive a blemish from which we may never recover.

One should have high ideals of truth and right and should live up to them in order to be true to himself. No matter what our position, we should consent to nothing but the highest and best.

Words are inadequate to tell the inestimable worth of a true and noble character. It is not to be compared to money or possessions. "As the excellence of a circle lies in its roundness, so the beauty of character lies in its purity and sincerity."

True character has a sure reward. A noble character is life's truest goal and is well worth every effort. A true, noble, sterling character is an inspiration to all. No earthly treasure is to be compared in value. What would be the value of all the gems if by gaining them a noble character would be lost. They would be less than nothing in comparison.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Davis Homestead.

Mr. Editor: If you will allow me space, I would like to correct a mistaken impression concerning the old house familiarly known as the Davis homestead for 124 years and formerly situated just below the Walter F. Lester place on the Military highway. It was stated at the Foundera meeting Wednesday evening, that this house was erected by one Benjamin Brewster, son of Elder Brewster, who came over in the Mayflower. This is incorrect. The house was originally built by Simon Brewster, and the brick in the chimney bore the initials "S B. 1773," and not "B B.," as stated. It was sold by Jonathan Brewster (supposedly Simon's son) to Enos Davis, Oct 6, 1801, as recorded in the Preston land records. The house remained in the latter's family, practically unchanged, up to the time of its sale to the state hospital in 1925 and the Military highway now passes directly over its site.

In the old cemetery at Brewster's Neck the following inscription appears on the Brewster monument:

"In Memory of Mr Jonathan Brewster, eldest son of Elder Wm. Brewster. Born in England, came to Plymouth in 1621 and to New London 1648-1649. Removed to this Brewster's Neck in 1650. Deceased 1661."

As the house in question was not built until 1773, it cannot be conjectured that the Jonathan Brewster who sold the house to Enos Davis was the Jonathan Brewster of the monumental inscription.

YOUR HEALTH

Inactivity May Be "Pernicious"

(By W. A. Newman Dorland, M. D., Chicago)
From Gorgas Memorial Institute

There is a popular misconception as to the meaning and utility of the vacation. The word properly construed means a rest or intermission in the usual routine of the individual's life. This does not imply necessarily a period of idleness. It should never be so interpreted. Nothing will pall sooner upon an average individual than absolute idleness. Nothing is harder to bear or more wearing upon the body and mind than the killing of time. Many more persons have died from sheer idleness or undue work than from overwork.

How often do we see a man of business retiring from active work at fifty or sixty years of age and within a few years—often much less than this—dying from pernicious inactivity. The same is true of retired military and naval officers who, by reason of the retiring age of 64, are compelled to relinquish their activities in the only line with which they are acquainted and in which they can be employed. In the best of health, at the time of their retirement and at the acme of their mental ability, they rapidly deteriorate because of lack of employment.

I fully believe that this pernicious inactivity should be given a place in the lists of causes of death.

It is perfectly proper and most desirable to take a rest at stated, or irregular, intervals. Body cells, and brain cells as well, require rest of relaxation for a short time. They function better after such a change. But, instead of mere idleness during this period of intermission from the routine duties of life, other muscle cells and brain cells should be called into play, to keep the mind and body active, instead of allowing them to vegetate and decay, that is, allowing them to lead a life too low for rational creatures made in the image of their Creator.

The man, woman or child who fills the days of vacation with activities other than and apart from those of the rest of the year return to their wonted duties refreshed and vastly improved from the productive point of view. They are no longer "stale" as they were when the vacation began. They can do more and better work with less bodily and mental tire, and their productiveness is vastly improved.

There is, in addition, a medical aspect to this question. There is often a real danger from the physical point of view, in the taking of a vacation. A disturbance of the natural habits of life is often followed by unpleasant reactions upon one's digestive and circulatory systems. Nature loves system, and this system must not be disturbed. There is little reason for acquiring irregularity in the habits of life simply because one is resting from routine business duties.

Moreover, typhoid fever and other water-borne diseases can easily be contracted through a change in the drinking water, or by the ingestion of oysters fattened in polluted fresh water basins by transient visitors in those vicinities. I know of three Philadelphia doctors who contracted typhoid fever by eating tainted oysters during their vacations near Chesapeake bay. Two died, and the other almost died after a prolonged course of the fever with double pulmonary lesions.

A vacation, therefore, in the popular sense of the word, cannot be regarded as an altogether desirable thing. Rightly conducted, however, a vacation is a real blessing whenever it is taken, whether in summer or winter. It means a change of activity, and not a sinking to a state of inactivity. It then becomes a real hygienic measure, as much so as is bodily cleanliness, ventilation, or any other measure taken for the preservation of health.

TAXPAYERS ENDORSE POLICY OF PRESENT MANAGEMENT OF G. AND E. DEPARTMENT

The present policy of the management of the Norwich gas and electric department, including the sales of appliances, was almost unanimously endorsed by the Norwich Taxpayers association at a special meeting Friday evening at Odd Fellows hall. The endorsing vote followed a spirited discussion which lasted an hour and a half and which covered more or less thoroughly the finances of the department, the management and the sales of appliances by the department. There was an attendance of about 75 at the meeting which was called to order at 8 o'clock by President Daniel T. Shea. Secretary James F. Flemming, at the request of President Shea, read the following letter receivde from the board of gas and electrical commissioners:

Yre.ovVW C

To the Norwich Protective Taxpayers association,

Norwich, Connecticut.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your board of gas and electrical commissioners present briefly for the consideration and information of you and other taxpayers of the city certain facts relating to the gas and electrical plant which has been in operation for nearly twenty-five years, and of which you are the owners.

Increase in income gross income for first 13 months of operation, $190,696.40; gross income for year ending April 30, 1929, $805,084.57.

Relative liability, Aug. 1, 1905, about $6.00 liability to each $1.00 gross income, April 1, 1929, about $1.60 liability to each $1.00 gross income.

Cost of plant, total cost to April 30, 1929, $1,983,170.88; paid for by issues of bonds, $958,000.00; paid for from Bonded debt, July 1, 1904, $627,000.00; April 30, 1929, $358,000.00; less sinking funds, $201,743.72; increase, $29,256.28.

(cost less reserves for depreciation) $1,586,655.72, plus increase by reappraisal in 1918 $43,706.72; book value, $627,000.00; total $1,003,362.44; excess of plant increase over bonded debt increase, $347,106.16.

Note: Several years ago $3,000,000 was offered for the plant.

Profits, total from July 1, 1904 to April 30, 1929, (24 years, 10 months), $1,548,378.48; profit to April 10, 1920, (former management 15 years, 10 months), $202,228.79; profit May 1, 1920 to April 30, 1929, (9 years) $1,346,149.69.

Benefits to the public in addition to the increased book value of the plant, should be mentioned other items. Bonds redeemed, $100,000.00; sinking funds for further redemption, $201,743.72; total for reduction of debt, $301,743.72; paid to city treasury for city general expenses, $214,138.66.

Lighting of streets and municipal buildings and power for departments using it have been supplied at cost.

Eighty-five per cent. of residential light consumers have not benefitted materially by the change in rates made October 1, 1928. The other 15 per cent. will be benefitted by the new rate made May 1, 1929. The new rates have caused largely increased consumption.

In conclusion, the following facts should be kept in mind:

First: That this property is not only the most valuable in a material sense, but as a business proposition, it is annually placing in the city treasury a sum of money which materially lessens the tax rate.

Second: No action shiuld be taken that will in any way depreciate the property or hamper its development or lessen its ability to render you an adequate service.

Third: That you as taxpayers and consumers are entitled to and justified in demanding that the service which you have been receiving during the past 25 years be improved and extended that you, the owners of the property, may fully benefit by the service which the department is in a position to render you and which you cannot receive in any other way.

Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners.

Discuss G. & E. Situation

"You have heard the letter. What is your action?" asked President Shea. Edwin W. Higgins moved that the meeting take under discussion the regular appropriations as recommended by the city's finance committee. "As I understand," said Judge Nelson J. Ayling, "The purpose of this meeting is to take up for discussion the communication from the gas and electrical commissioners." Judge Ayling offered an amendment that the meeting consider matters solely relating to the G. and E. department.

Mr. Higgins withdrew his motion and then Judge Ayling moved that the meeting take under consideration the letter from the gas and electric commissioners. The motion passed.

John B. Stoddard requested that the secretary read the previous communication received from the G. and E. commissioners requesting that a public hearing be given on the gas and electric situation. The letter was ordered read.

Production Costs Reduced

James Sheridan inquired as to why the department is showing such an exorbitant gain in profit during the past 9 years.

In answer, Charles W. Taggart, general manager of the department's plant, stated that in 1920 it cost 93 1-2 cents per thousand cubic feet to manufacture gas. During the past year the cost per thousand cubic feet was 49 cents. Mr. Taggart also spoke of other cost reductions.

"I presume the same answer will apply to the electrical end," said Mr. Sheridan.

Judge Ayling inquired if the large increase in profit is not due to increased consumption.

Mr. Taggart, in answer, said it is.

"The commissioners are reticent as to what has brought about this large profit," Mr. Sheridan said. "How much of this profit is due to the sale of appliances, that is, through increased consumption, due to the sale of appliances?" he inquired.

"For the last 6 months I have paid from 20 to 40 per cent more than I ever paid," said John B. Stoddard. "Maybe that accounts for some of the increased profits."

Norwich Sixth In State

William P. Shanley, superintendent of the G. and E. department, quoted gas costs in other cities in the state showing that Norwich is 6th in the state with respect to the cost of putting gas into the storage tanks.

Manager Taggart asked Mr. Stoddard what his average monthly bill is.

"Two dollars or less," answered Mr. Stoddard.

Mr. Taggart then quoted figures showing what the cost to the consumer was last year as compared with the present, the figures showing a general decrease.

Albert Boardman, who was chairman of the city's fact finding committee, stated that 50% of the people are penalized during the winter months and that 75% of the consumers pay more during the summer months under the new rate than they paid under the old rate. He said the new rates are entirely unfair.

"Is it a fact that the small consumer pays more?" asked President Shea of Mr. Taggart.

Expect Further Reductions

Mr. Taggart, in answer, said that for many years a great number of consumers were paying a low rate they should never had had. "We believe," he said, "that within a year we will be able to make a further reduction in the rates."

A woman member of the association stated that her neighbor, who does laundry work, and uses an electric washer, was, under the old rates, paying about $25 a month. Under the new rates she is paying $12 to $15 a month. "I pay 20 to 40 per cent more, for my houselights," she said. "I don't thing it is fair," she added.

Mr. Boardman said that in the fact finding committee's report, the committee made a statement that the board of G. and E. commissioners cannot deny. "The commissioners told me they knew nothing at all about the finances of the department. They admitted that they left the financial end with the general manager. Is one man going to run this plant? If it is owned by 7,000 consumers, stockholders, let it be run for their benefit," said Mr. Boardman.

Mr. Sheridan came back with the statement that if the department has a rate whereby a person working over a laundry day in and day out, benefits, then "We have a wonderfully managed plant. If they can make as much profit as they have shown, I say the finances are well handled," he added. (Applause).

The Shetucket St. Quarters

"I did not say the plant is not well managed," Mr. Boardman stated. Mr. Boardman continued by saying that the G. and E. department wanted to make a big showing, having reference to the present quarters they occupy on Shetucket street.

"Doesn't Mr. Boardman know," asked Mr. Higgins, "that the department was warned out of the building they formerly occupied?" "They couldn't stay," he said. "They had no choice. Let's be fair," he added.

Mr. Higgins said that there isn't a department in the city that has received as close a scrutiny as the gas and electric department. "It has stood the test," he said. Mr. Higgins said that the old city barn on Bath street would be an ideal location for the G. and E. office.

A statement by Mr. Boardman that the sales department was not run right brought a sharp rejoinder from Mr. Higgins. "How can the gentleman reach that—" interjected Mr. Higgins. Before he could complete his question, Mr. Shea informed him that Mr. Boardman had the floor.

"Will you let me interrupt you?" asked Mr. Higgins.

"No, sir," answered Mr. Boardman, "when I get through, you can have the floor".

Mr. Boardman completed his statement without further interruption.

A Mr. Edwards started to talk on the G. and E. rates but was ruled out of order by President Shea, who informed the speaker that the question before the house was on the sale of appliances.

Mr. Shanley volunteered the information that the old Norwich Gas and Electric company gave appliances free to consumers in order to increase consumption.

"The department is selling appliances," said G. Warren Davis. "The burden of proof is on the other party and I haven't heard anything from them," he added.

Run at a Loss.

"The sales department is being run at a loss," said Mr. Boardman. H. M. Land said that the report of Auditor Martin E. Jenson showed that the sales department had made a profit of $1,800 during the period referred to by Mr. Boardman. "If the advertising cost were charged up to the sales of appliances there would be a loss shown," said Mr. Land. "If the advertising had been charged to new business a profit would have been shown," he added.

"That is the way I run my business," said Mr. Boardman. "If anything shows a loss, I charge it to my brother," he said. "If there is a profit I put it in my pocket," he continued. (Laughter).

At the request of Mr. Taggart Auditor Jensen's report on the sales department finances was read. This was the report referred to by Mr Land in his remarks.

Mr. Boardman stated that he believed in a municipal G and E. plant selling appliances, but on a different basis than that in force by the local department. He said he did not believe in unfair competition.

Mr. Taggart started to say that the department could afford to give away certain appliances but was interrupted by Mr. Boardman who said "You don't have to give them away." "Mr. Taggart has the floor," said President Shea.

Profit of $227,000.

"Does anyone deny that the gas and electrical department hasn't made a profit of $227,000 the past year?" asked Henry G. Peck. He added that such a profit was good business. "The whole trouble with a municipal plant is that everyone thinks he can run the plant better than anyone else," Mr. Peck said.

Mr. Higgins said that during the administration previous to Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, the city departments showed deficits totaling $43,000 and that there wasn't as much agitation over those deficits as there has been over $5,000 loss in the G and E. sales department.

It is the unequal rates that is causing and will cause this dissatisfaction, volunteered Mr. Boardman

Approval of Management.

After speaking of the excellent manner in which the board of gas and electrical commissioners and the general manager have conducted the municipal plant, Judge Ayling said that if the plant were sold the citizens would pay a much higher rate than they are paying now.

"I move that this association approve the policy of the management of the G. and E. department," asked President Shea. Judge Ayling said that his motion included the sale of appliances.

The motion was put to vote and with the exception of one lone "nay" was adopted.

President Shea then announced that if the meeting so desired the highway department appropriations as recommended by the city's finance department would be taken up for discussion.

New Fire Station

Mr. Sheridan informed the meeting that he understood that there was a movement on foot to secure a new fire station for the West Side. He said that while no mention of a new fire station was made in the estimates he understood that the city would ask permission, at the city meeting next week, to sell the present West Side fire station. "That is only a step toward a new fire station," Mr. Sheridan said. "The alibi that the central fire station can cover the West Side territory as well as the West Side company does, is only bologna, said Mr. Sheridan. "If they want a fire station, let them come out and ask for it," he concluded.

The regular appropriations were then taken up, only those on which increases are asked this year being discussed.

Under the department of cemeteries there is an increase of $2,000 over last year. Mayor Robbins explained this by stating that the general departments of the city have in past years been cut down on their budgets in order to keep the tax rate down.

Mayor Robbins said that the laborers employed by the cemetery department, who are working for 38 cents an hour, the lowest paid employes of the city, are asking an increase of 25 cents a day. He favors the increase. The cemetery machinery is in poor condition and practically worthless.

Mayor Robbins said that the cemetery department was so cramped last year that the superintendent had no Coal in his office and had to keep himself warm with wood picked up around the cemetery. Mayor Robbins made reference to the revised burial rates which have increased the department's receipts by over $1,000 in about nine months. The appropriation was approved.

Increase In Police Department

An increase of $5,500 in the police appropriation was also approved. Mayor Robbins explained this increase by stating that there has been a good deal of demand for a mounted police officer. This increase would cover the expense of a new officer and a motorcycle or a Ford car or some similar car. The Elks are in favor of the mounted officer, Mayor Robbins said. He also stated that there is a crying need for another officer at Franklin square. There is no question but what our police department has been positively neglected, said the mayor. No officer is as flexible as one on wheels, he said. The mayor stated that it had been decided to restore the $500 appropriation to the police fund which provides necessary money for the use of the city attorney in returning to Norwich criminals capured in other states. That $500 has brought back, many times, $2,000 and $3,000 to the city. The appropriation was approved.

An increase of $1,000 in the health department appropriation was approved after the mayor had explained that this was necessary, according to City Health Officer E. J. Brophy because of the smallpox situation. "He already has bills of $600 to pay," the mayor said.

An increase of $1,000 for the recreation commission, to provide for a watchman and some extension work at the Hollyhock recreation center was disapproved.

The association approved an increase of $1,500 in the courthouse appropriation, a $100 increase in the election expense appropriation, and a $6,500 increase in the appropriation for interest.

Following a brief address by Miss Nancy Lucas, third vice president of the association, a rising vote of thanks was given Mayor Robbins for his explanations of the various appropriations. Several new members were received after which the meeting adjourned.

ACADEMY CLOSES SEASON AT CAMPUS TODAY AGAINST NAUGATUCK HIGH

Probable Lineups Today.

N. F. A.	Naugatuck High
Arico, 1b	lf, Butkus
Gibbs, ss	2b, Rosint
Cummings, 3b	3b, Johnson
LaCroix, cf	p, Finley
Fagan, lf	rf, Biernacki
Tombari, 2b	1b, Carroll
Fontaine, c	ss, Balinsky
Marks, rf	c, Baxter
Welsgraber, p	W. Murray

Naugatuck high, one of the strongest clubs in the western part of the state, was an even bet Friday night for its game with the state championship Academy team this afternoon at the campus in the closing tilt on the Wildcat schedule. Led by Capt. Dick Finley, pitching ace, the visitors present a strong lineup that will test our boys to the limit. The game will start at 3 o'clock with Hank Morin and Johnny Murphy officiating.

Naugatuck is ranked almost on a par with Warren Harding in the western end of the state and comes here today with high hopes of inflicting the third defeat of the season on the Wildcats. Coach Pete Foley has a scrappy bunch that has trimmed some of the leading schools of the state, including Hillhouse high of New Haven, Wilby high, Central high of Bridgeport and practically every club that amounts to anything west of the Connecticut river. Included in the Naugy lineup are two boys, Carroll and Eddie Butkus, who have made football and basketball fame for their school, both being on the undefeated grid team and on the basketball team that won the Penn tourney. Carrol being selected as all-scholastic forward at Penn.

Butsy Welsgraber has been saved for this game by Coach Brigham and appears in top form to end a successful season. Butsy has been a lifesaver to Academy fortunes this year and with another year to go should run up quite a record before he receives his sheepskin. Behind Butsy will be the strongest lineup that the Wildcats can muster. Anso Tombari will be at second with Red Fagan in left and the rest of the lineup is the same as has played practically all year.

By winning from Naugatuck today, the Academy will not only annex its eighteenth win of the year and close another successful year but also still remain in the running for the state title. A crowd of mammoth proportions is looked for and plenty of enthusiasm is bound to crop out on the last day.

H. N. S. vs. Shymas of Taftville.

Sunday at Slater park, two ancient rivals, Jewett City and Taftville meet to fight for the rubber of a three game series. Both of these teams took one game of a double-header played in Taftville on Memorial day, the first going to Jewett City in 12 innings by a 9-8 score and the afternoon game being won by the Taftville Shyma club by a 2-0 score. Both games were replete with thrills, each team playing spectacular baseball. No doubt but what, even at this early stage of the season, the Shymas and the H. N.'S. are the two outstanding amateur teams in eastern Connecticut.

The lineups will no doubt the same with Lefty Lucier taking the hurling assignment for Taftville and Bernal for Jewett City. Any of the Jewett City fans who enjoy a game of baseball, will no doubt be well satisfied by being at Slater park, Sunday at 3 p. m. and see these two fast amateur teams in action.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 7—(AP)—Ed Brandt's wildness and errors by the Boston infield aided Pittsburgh to defeat the Braves here today, 6 to 2, and sweep the two game series. Ervin Brame won his fourth straight game of the season by keeping the Boston hits well scattered.

Two hits, six bases on balls and errors in the first and third innings gave the Pirates five of their six runs. The Braves made ten hits, including a double by "Rabbit" Maranville, off Brame's delivery, while Brandt allowed the Pirates nine swats, one a triple by Comorosky. POLISH CITIZENS TO PLAY WILLIMANTIC ACES SUNDAY

The Polish Cits will travel to Willimantic Sunday to play the Chapman Aces at Recreation park. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock sharp.

With three wins out of three starts and trouncing the Riverview club Memorial day, 18 to 4, the Polish club are out for the scalp of their friends in Willimantic. It is rumored that the Willimantic team has been reinforced considerably for this game.

Kozlowski is detailed for mound work while Jab Burns will do the receiving. The battery for the Willimantic team is unknown at present.

How about it, folks, are we going up to the Academy today to see the boys play their last game

Sure, come on, let's go. The boys have put in a pretty good season and we ought to show 'em we're still with 'em.

About six of the boys are playing their last game for the Academy today and it'll be your last chance to see them. Hal Cummings, Anso Tombari, Red Fagan, Buck LaCroix, Louie Green and Jack Marks are all through after today's tilt.

And, folks, don't be handcuffed up there—give the boys a big hand, they deserve it. It means a lot to those kids to know that the home folks are with 'em.

And say, if you want to have a real good laugh just sit over in those third base bleachers and listen to the royal rooters. That's the most wise-cracking bunch of fans I ever heard.

It's a faithful bunch of fans too. You'll see almost all the same faces game after game and they know their baseball too. They're quick to give praise, whether to the home team or to the visitors. And they're just as quick to razz.

Many is the goat that this gang has gotten this year. Taken all together it would make quite some herd. Come on folks let's be there today.

But I do hope that Hank Morin will keep outa any argument today. Gosh, he's the most arguingest man I ever saw and how. And let me tell you something, it don't take much to get Hank's goat either.

The bet between Clint Lane and Scud of the two cigars will positively be settled today. Both claim that the other has owed him two cigars since early in the season and payment one way or the other is to be made today.

But between you and I and Luke Riley, whoever wins the bet gets stuck cause I've smelled the kind of cigars both smoke. Whew.

See you at the game, folks.

Fresh from their victory over the Centenials, who were substituted in place of the Laurel Crescents who failed to put in their appearance last Sunday by the score of 14 to 1, the Lutherans will try to continue their winning streak Sunday afternoon at Mohegan park by taking on the fast Crescents. AMIE LaCROIX AND JACK MARKS ARE AWARDED CUPS FOR ATHLETIC PROWESS

Amie (Buck) LaCroix, stellar Academy athlete for the last four years, and a four-letter man, was on Friday awarded the class of 1912 Robert O. Fletcher cup for the member of the graduating class at N. F. A. who has done the most for athletics during his course. LaCroix, who has starred at baseball, football, basketball and track was presented this coveted cup by Principal Henry A. Tirrell at the last assembly of the school year Friday morning at Slater hall. At the same time John P. (Jack) Marks was awarded the N club cup for the member of the graduating class who has been most proficient in athletics during his course at the school.

Both of these boys have had brilliant careers while wearing the red and white. LaCroix captained the 1928 football team and 1929 basketball team while Marks led the 1927 football team and 1929 baseball outfit. LaCroix performed for three years on the baseball team, three years at basketball, two years at football and one year of track. On the baseball team which closes a successful season today LaCroix bids fair to be the leading hitter as he possesses a .453 mark with but this game to play and he has hit safely in every game this year. Marks is hitting for .351 and, although hampered by an injured ankle has come back strong in the past few weeks.

The following received baseball letters at the assembly Friday: Capt. John P. Marks, Amie B. LaCroix, Anso Tombari, Fred Fagan, Louis Green, Harold J. Cummings, Ralph L. Gibbs, Alexander Arico, Harold Weisgraber, Armand Fontaine, Theodore Peplin, Lester Crowell, Harry Sherashevsky, Bernard Wilder, Mgr. The following members of the senior class received gold baseballs: Tombari, Cummings, Fagan, LaCroix, Green, Marks not taking a gold baseball but instead receiving a gold football along with seniors who participated last fall. The track team received its silver loving cup for winning the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic conference title. This is the first time the local school has annexed this championship.

The following were awarded track letters: Capt. Lyons, Robinson, Harvey, Taylor, Berkman, Agnew, Brock, Peck, Prokop, Barber, Caroline, Pearson, Mgr. Sweaters are to be given to the winners of the major N in track, Lyons, Robinson, Harvey, Berkman, Prokop and Barber and winged foot emblems, the gifts of the N club, are to be given to the four seniors, Lyons, Robinson, Harvey and Prokop. Medals from the state meet in New Haven, were awarded, a first to Robinson for winning the broad jump and a third to the relay team.

Thomas E. Burdick, of the Alling Rubber Co., donors of league trophies, presented the track and baseball cups to the respective league champion teams at the school.

BABE RUTH HAS MUSCULAR HEART TROUBLE, BUT IS NOT SERIOUSLY ILL

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—From a maze of conflicting reports as to the condition of Babe Ruth emerged tonight a statement to the Yankee club from Dr. Edward A. King, that the home run hitter of the world champions, has "muscular heart trouble, but is not seriously sick."

The mighty man of baseball has been out of the lineup of the Yankees since Saturday last, with a congested lung and a cold. Early today published reports that the great slugger had suffered heart attacks which would keep him out of the game a month and perhaps forever, started a flood of telephone calls to the Yankee offices. Local and long distance queries came as to the latest reports from the Babe's bedside and later in the day the questions were to check on a report that the big fellow had died.

Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, announced that the club physician expected Ruth to return to the Yankee stadium in "about a week or ten days." Previously, Mrs. Ruth had reported her husband sleeping but "very ill".

Mr. Barrow declared he felt no apprehension and was quite sure the colorful star of the team would be completely recovered in a few more days.

"The Babe declares he is all right now and he would be in there today if the doctor would allow him to play," said Secretary Barrow.

Ruth has been out of the Yankee lineup for brief periods on account of injuries and sickness before, but this is his first extended illness since 1925, when he became sick at Asheville, N. C., during the exhibition schedule of the Yankees and reached New York in an unconscious condition April 9. He was suffering from influenza and indigestion and was unable to play until June 1.

Since then he has often been hurt, once suffering from five minor injuries at the same time. In the yesterdays of baseball when Ruth was a bad boy of the game he missed a number of contests on account of suspensions, once by Commissioner Landis and twice by Manager Huggins.

Since he signed a contract in January, 1927, calling for a salary of $70,000 a season for three years the home run leader of all time has played virtually every game.

HUBBELL HOLDS CARDS AND GIANTS WIN EASILY

ST. LOUIS, June 7—(AP)—Carl Hubbell held the Cardinals to eight scattered hits here today and the Giants made a clean sweep of the three-game series, winning easily by 8 to 1. Bill Sherdel was touched for thirteen hits, including a home run by Travis Jackson, but remained in the box for eight innings. Herman Bell pitched the final frame without untoward result.

The victory gave the Giants a record of six victories and only one defeat in their current tour of the west. The New Yorkers failed to reduce the margin of the Pirates, who also won.

Frank Frisch had nine put-outs, coming within three of the record for second basemen in a nine-inning game. A crowd of about 4,000 saw the game.

CLEVELAND GET EARLY LEAD TO BEAT YANKEES

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—Cleveland again hit hard in the early innings here today, and downed the Yankees in the third game of the series by 7 to 3. The defeat tumbled the champions once more into third place as the Browns won from the Athletics. The Yanks have won only one game of five played against Cleveland this year.

The Indians rained a home-run attack upon Ed Wells in the first inning when four runs were scored. Joe Sewell hit for the circuit with Fonseca and Averill on base. Morgan, the next batter, hit another homer. Cleveland clinched the game and drove out Wells with another assault in the fifth, good for three runs.

Willis Hudlin held the Yankees to one hit in the first five frames, but underwent some severe cuffing toward the finish. Zinn had to rescue him in the ninth.

Plainfield Has Two Games

The Plainfield team has two games for the week end, playing the Holy Name team of Jewett City at Jewett City on Saturday and clashing with the Versailles club in the E. C. league Sunday at Versailles. Glocher is slated to pitch today and Marriott is scheduled to work Sunday.

VELVETMEN VS. COLORED GIANTS SUNDAY

That the manager of the J. B. Martin baseball team is a glutton for getting tough games for his club is evidenced by the fact that he has booked the fast Elm City Giants of New Haven as the opponents for his gang of ball hawks at the J. B. Martin grounds, Sunday. Manager Erlbeck is not picking any set up clubs for his team to play and the Velvetmen are experiencing the toughest schedule ever encountered by a J. B. Martin nine. Sunday's game is going to be one of the hardest games of the present season as the visitors are out for the state semi-pro honors and a defeat at the hands of the local club will be quite some setback to their aspirations.

The Elm City Giants will be a team that will leave its impression upon the local fans for some time to come. Little is needed to be said in regard to this visiting club. A glance at the New Haven lineup will convince the fans that the visiting team has some mighty good ball-players on its roster. For the pitching burden the manager of the Giants will pick from four well known twirlers, "Lilli' Ol' Cannonball" Smith, Coleman, Dean and Kelly. The backstop work will be taken care of by Douglas, who has shown his wares in the past season against the local aggregation. "Ching," former captain of the club, who did not appear in their lineup last season will be seen covering second. Simons noted for his heavy hitting will cover first and the rest of the club is made up of fast ball tossers and need no introduction to the fans.

Manager Erlbeck of the Velvetmen will start Fisher on the mound with Eccleston on the receiving end. The rest of the lineup will be practically the same as in the previous games, Simcox and Morin will officiate.

WESTERLY

HAS MODEL AIR FIELD EQUIPPED AT EAST BOSTON

Capt. Raymond Blake, instructor in the ground school at the East Boston air field, was a visitor Thursday and Friday with Westerly relatives. During the World war Blake distinguished himself in flying service at the front and after returning home continued in that service. Afflicted with a facial skin distemper, he appeared to Westerly friends with his face covered with ointment to such an extent that many thought that he had fallen from a plane to so cut and mar his face. He reported that when new hangars and other improvements in process at his air field were completed it would represent the last word in equipment, though not as large as many other airports.

Progress was made Friday in setting the iron work in the new building on Canal street, on the site of the former home of the late Dr. John L. May, and in process of completion for the Montgomery-Ward stores. Many of the second floor iron girders are already in place and on these floor joists have been laid work on the girders necessitating the use of an acetylene torch. On each side of the front of the new business block which fills the gap between the Toscano block and that of the United Theatre, buff brick piers have been laid as far as the second story of the store building.

Miss Virginia Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Davis of Westerly appears in a group picture published in the June number of "World Traveler," and in the pages "About Aboard and Abroad," stands in the rear row of a group of Smith college girls, the caption continuing "spent their spring vacation on bicycles, riding down the hills of Bermuda, as an advance antidote for the annual June cramming."

District Court Matters

Friday morning the Third District court session was brief, as Judge Oliver J. Williams had an important business engagement in Norwich and wished to reach the city without exceeding any speed limits on the Norwich-Westerly road. Business was despatched as follows: New writ entered—Action in book account, Wilbert Clark vs. Bessie Card. Continued two weeks. Criminal docket —State, Florence J. Harvey, Dept. R. I. state police, vs. John Sundin, alias. Continued three weeks. Town of Westerly, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, complainant, vs. Peter Giatrelis. Continued two weeks. State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Ferris Bookatang. Continued two weeks. State, Florence J. Harvey, (Dept. R. I. State Police, vs. William E. Bennett. Continued to June list by agreement of attorneys. Civil docket—James Narcarato vs. Marie Uzzi. Case held pending the filing of briefs. Fred T. Mitchell vs. George A. Furano. Continued nisi. General Motors Acceptance corporation vs. Joseph A. Morrone. Continued nisi. Frank LeBrak vs. Nissanti Lorello. Continued one week. Vacuum Oil company vs. Walter T. Killam. Continued one week. Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company vs. James R. Lee. Continued one week. John J. Dunn vs. Antonio Fiore. Unanswered, defaulted and passed for proof of claim. Decision for plaintiff to gain possession and costs was granted by Judge Williams in the trespass and ejectment case, Clarence E. Roche, vs. Jennie Ostman et al. Plaintiff testified that rents remained unpaid and that he desired possession of his property.

A Providence man, Frederick I. Dana, 18 Medway street, was appointed Thursday a member of the committee of jurisprudence and law at the closing session of the national convention of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at Los Angeles, Cal. Dana is treasurer of the Free Masons Hall company, 127 Dorrance street. He is a member of Palestine Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., and a frequent Westerly visitor on his way to his summer camp on Watchaug pond, in the town of Charlestown.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown Friday afternoon received word from Narragansett Pier, R. I., that New York police wanted Joseph Knott, a bad check passer. He was described as driving a Buick coupe of robin's egg blue and cream color with wire wheels and with a New York registration 7 W 4616.

Main street, near the junction of Broad street was closed up, on direction of Highway Engineer Adolph L. Leon, to permit the more speedy digging of ditches to place electric wires underground. Friday morning Broad, High and Main street was watered from hydrants to keep down for a time the clouds of dust raised in the torn up highway by passing automobiles.

The work of connecting Broad street business places with electric underground wires was continued Friday. Near the present location of the police signal booth in front of the ruins of the Rhode Island Hotel block will be placed a pole to carry the fire alarm box No. 57 Dixon square, now on one of the poles to be removed from in front of the post office. When this box is placed there it will carry a telltale red light and thus quickly show that this box fire signal has been turned in.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Welcome Robin Is Saved from Himself

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

How easy 'tis mistakes to make
And quite the wrong opinion take.
—Welcome Robin.

Mother Brown was puzzled and she was troubled. Welcome Robin was constantly beating against and pecking at one of her windows. She tried to drive him away, but always he was back again in a short time. It had been going on for several days. Welcome Robin was looking thin. Mother Brown began to be afraid that he would hurt himself, and she couldn't understand it at all.

At first she had thought he might be hungry, though why he should be she didn't know. She put out food for him, but he paid no attention to it. She opened the window and then he fluttered against the upper part. She was sadly puzzled, was Mother Brown. Farmer Brown was just as much puzzled. Never had he seen a Robin act like that. It was quite evident that Welcome Robin didn't want to get in, for when the window was open he didn't come in.

Now, of course, Farmer Brown's Boy was just as much interested as his father and mother. He was just as much puzzled. He wanted to understand it. He spent considerable time studying it. He went outside the window and looked in to see if there was anything inside that might be attracting Welcome Robin. But there wasn't a thing. But at last he discovered something. When he stood at a certain place, and the light was right, he saw his own reflection in the window, just as if that window were a mirror. In a flash it came to him what it was all about. He went back into the house.

"I've got it!" he cried.

"What have you got?" demanded Mother Brown.

"I've found out what is the matter with Welcome Robin," said he. "He is practically fighting with himself. He sees his own reflection in the window and thinks it's another Robin. He has a nest out in a tree close by, and he is jealous of that other Robin."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Mother Brown. "Who ever heard of such a thing?"

"I'm going to prove it to you," replied Farmer Brown's Boy. "I'll stop that performance in five minutes."

He got some newspapers and he pinned them up on the inside of the window. Then he went outside to look. He could still see his own reflection in one place. He went inside and fixed another paper in such a way that the next time he looked he couldn't see his reflection. "Now," said he, "we'll see if I'm not right."

He went outside and watched at a little distance. Presently Welcome Robin flew over to the window sill. He appeared to be looking for something and he appeared to be surprised that he couldn't find it. Not once did he peck at the window. Not once did he fly against it. Then with a chirp of triumph he flew over to the nest where Mrs. Robin was.

Farmer Brown's Boy could just imagine him telling her how at last he had driven that uppity stranger away.

From that day on not once did Welcome Robin visit that window. He became tremendously interested in his household affairs. He once more became plump and sleek looking. He was his old self. And this was a very good thing, for presently he would need all his time and all his strength to help feed a hungry family.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Patrons of the Palace theatre will be delighted to know that after a shut down of three weeks the Palace theatre re-opens tomorrow with the latest installation of Western Electric Vitaphone and Movietone equipment. Not only has the management installed the best sound equipment obtainable but has also spent days and nights in cleaning and renovating the theatre for the comfort of its patrons, new drapes, stage settings and entire change of electrical effects have been made. The management takes great pleasure in announcing as its opening program a new Mary Pickford in a powerful story directed by Sam Taylor is coming to the Palace theatre when "Coquette." Miss Pickford's all-talking version of the Broadway stage success, opens tomorrow.

This combination of star, director and story has made "Coquette" the sensation of the cinema world. In this picture Miss Pickford is revealing to the world an entirely new and changed personality in a story replete with comedy and pathos, laughter and drama. The voices of Miss Pickford and her players have been reproduced with a clarity and naturalness new to the sound pictures.

As Norma Besant in "Coquette," Miss Pickford plays the role of the belle of a little southern town, who laughed her merry way in and out of countless love affairs and thrilling flirtations. With a youthful zest for life and the sheer living of it, she played in the moonlight, secure in the safety of her little world. Always beside her stood Stanley Wentworth, son of her father's attorney and best friend. Stanley loved her, with an unexciting and steadfast devotion which could smile with understanding at her coquetries. So life moved on for Norma in a gay whirl of kisses, dances and conquests.

Then came the day when Norma stepped outside the pale of her own social world and met Michael Jeffrey, carefree, hotheaded adventurer from the hills. With a determined sincerity Michael refused to become another victim of her wiles, refused to play with her game of make-believe. Suddenly, for the first time in her life Norma realized that she was truly in love. Overnight she was transformed from a smiling, whimsical girl into a woman, ready to face her father's anger and to risk her entire world for the sake of the man she loved.

With the exception of John Mack Brown, who plays Michael, the ardent, headstrong lover from the hills, all the players selected by Miss Pickford are the possessors of a background of stage as well as screen experience. The sound version of "Coquette" was Johnny's first experience with spoken lines, and his soft, southern drawl, reminiscent of his Alabama birthplace, admirably fitted him for the part of the young roisterer from the mountain country.

Matt Moore plays Stanley, the quiet ever-faithful lover of the little coquette, and John Sainpolis is Dr. Besant, Norma's father, a stern southern gentleman in whose code of life chivalry and time-bound conventions were the masters. George Irving plays his friend and counsellor, Robert Wentworth. William Janney as the younger brother, Louise Beavers as Norma's colored mammy, and Phillips Crane and Joe Depew as two young friends of the little coquette, complete the cast of brilliant and capable players with whom Miss Pickford has surrounded herself.

Tomorrow, Lloyd Hamilton is making his first appearance in talking comedies, and again he plays the hero in a western play. But today he is a big star, drawing more hundreds of dollars each week than the gross of plus for his first amateur performance.

And instead of an old barn Hamilton is working in a studio in which modern science has installed its latest miracle—the sound-recording cameral And the world is his audience!

Lloyd's first talking comedy is "His Big Minute," and it is his big minute, in more ways than one, for it marks his triumphant re-entry into the short and funny films which made him a famous star. It will be on the program of the Palace theatre tomorrow.

Along with these two outstanding features will be shown a Pathe news, the world events in scene and sound, Grantland Rice's famous Sportlight in sound and a Pathe revue, a rare novel magazine of events in sound.

Broadway Theatre

A trick of motion pictures was employed by Director Harry Pollard in the filming of Universal's super talking production "Show Boat," featuring Laura La Plante, Joseph Schildkraut and Otis Harlan, which is opening at the Broadway theatre for seven days.

Interior scenes are always shot at the studio while exterior scenes are shot on location. This was the case in the filming of the "Show Boat," scenes showing the audience gathering on the river bank and filing into the theatre and the scenes showing the crowd in the theatre.

One thousand costumes of the period of 1880 were made by the Universal wardrobe over a period of several months and another thousand of the period of 1895 were made.

The interior scenes for both periods were the first ones shot when "Show Boat" went into production. An exact duplicate of a Show boat interior was constructed on the Universal lot while technicians were building a full-size practical show boat on the Sacramento river.

When the same company went on location the same costumes were taken along and thousands of extras were employed near Sacramento, Calif. and dressed in the same costumes and shown on the exterior entering the show boat. The same leads and supporting cast were used in the front of the extras so it would be impossible to detect the change of crowds between interiors and exteriors.

Joseph Schildkraut is featured opposite Miss La Plante, while the supporting cast includes Otis Harlan, Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Elise Bartlett, Neely Edwards, Jane La Verne, Blanche Craig, Theodore Lorch, Harry Holden, Max Asher and many others. Highlights from Ziegfeld's stage production of "Show Boat" with such stars as Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe, Aunt Jemima and the Plantation singers in their most popular songs and choruses were movietoned and are included in the screen adaption of the famous story.

Climbs 5 miles with Hi-test TYDOL

The same gasoline that you can buy at any TYDOL Pump

Imagine driving your car, climbing a mountainous hill 5 miles long . . . all in high, with no second or first gear to slide back into, when the going gets tough.

That's the kind of power, driving power, lifting power, that it takes to send an airplane 5 miles high!

And Martin Jensen found it in Hi-test TYDOL, so much power that when he swooped to a landing he said, "I never believed that it was possible for the gas I use in my car to give such an amazing performance in an airplane!"

Starting in warm summer air, rising through wet and misty clouds, climbing to the bitter cold of high altitudes, would you expect a regular motor car gasoline to show a perfect record under such conditions, without even the help of the supercharger generally used on altitude flights?

But Hi-test TYDOL did! And any TYDOL pump sells exactly the same gasoline, an anti-knock, super-power, high-test gasoline at no extra cost. Fill your car today with this fuel so spectacular in all-round performance that it has but one ordinary quality—THE PRICE!..

Edward S. Harts, Service Manager of the New York Automobile Club, certified that Jensen's record was made with regular Hi-test TYDOL Gasoline. Marchelin Lombardi, representing the National Aeronautical Association, sealed the barograph which recorded the record breaking flight of 26,600 feet. Picture shows Mr. Harts supervising the loading of the plane with Hi-test TYDOL and VEEDOL Motor Oil.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the telephone became a permanent fixture in Norwich. That week it was announced that work had been started on the first circuit. There were to be ten circuits, with seven telephones to each circuit.

Interesting extracts from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of June, 1879, follow:

Monday, June 2, 1879—The regular monthly concert of the Central M. E. Sunday school was held last evening. It was a floral concert and the altar front was profusely decorated with blooming flowers and choice house plants. The exercises were of a very interesting character.

Mr. George Allen Rudd, the artist, his wife and her mother, Mrs. E. M. Porter, returned to the city Friday after an absence of nearly two years in Europe. Mr. Rudd will reside permanently in Norwich.

Mr. John P. Murphy of this city presided at the annual state convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held at Waterbury last Friday.

The mammoth show of W. C. Coup is to pitch its tents at the Preston circus grounds on Wednesday next. Mr. Coup is no stranger in the amusement world. He was formerly with Barnum at the Hippodrome and the New York aquarium.

Tuesday, June 3, 1879—The telephone is an established fact for Norwich. An association has been formed here and yesterday work was begun on the first circuit. The instrument is Edison's patent and ten circuits are to be established with seven instruments to each circuit. A central office will be instituted, and soon a large number of private families and public institutions will be enabled to do business verbally with others, without leaving their premises.

The United Workers will hold a quarterly meeting at White's hall on Tuesday afternoon. All ladies are invited to be present to hear the reports from the Sheltering Arms, the Children's home and other departments of work.

The Rev. Mr. James of the Sachem Street Methodist church extended the right hand of fellowship to nine persons Sunday. Two of the candidates were immersed in the Yantic river just above the Falls bridge.

Wednesday, June 4, 1879—The funeral of the late John Wilbur of Greeneville was largely attended at the Greeneville M. E. church on Sunday last. He had been a resident of that part of the town for 45 years, having removed thither from Rhode Island in 1835. He was a good citizen, a kind father and an indulgent husband.

Mr. Charles Roberts, Jr., the celebrated humorist, of New York, read a variety of selections in the parlors of the Norwich Literary society, Williams block, last evening to a small audience.

The annual meeting of the eastern Connecticut branch of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions will be held at the chapel of the First church in New London today.

Mrs. Luther P. Fisher of Oakland, Cal., is in town, making a short visit. She is the guest of the Rev. Dr. Arms, her father.

Mrs. Robinson will read at the city library on Friday evening next.

Thursday, June 5, 1879—The Chelsea Boat club has just added another handsome new working boat to its fleet, an evidence of the increasing popularity of the club and the methods of muscular development it was organized to promote.

Mr. William K. Shew and a friend made an excursion to Gardner Lake Tuesday and caught a string of 35 black bass that weighed 45 pounds.

The parishioners of Christ church met in a social way at the residence of their pastor, the Rev. Dr. S. H. Olesy, on Washington street, last evening and passed several pleasant hours.

Friday, June 6, 1879—Mr. Kies' organ recital yesterday afternoon was attended by a smaller audience than it deserved. The selections were quite varied in character and called for the display of diversified qualities in their execution.

The Hon. Jeremiah Halsey, accompanied by his wife, arrived home from Europe yesterday after an absence of a year, with his health restored and very much invigorated by the rest afforded him. He was warmly received by his friends and neighbors.

The Boston and New York dollar train went through the city with six passenger cars well filled last night.

The fire departmnt meets on Central wharf at 3.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to have a "wash." The steamers will all play and all of the hose of the department will be tested. The usual number of boys will present themselves to be squirted upon.

Saturday, June 8, 1879—A gathering pleasant and memorable to all who participated took place at the house of the Rev. Dr. Arms on Thursday. On that day children and grandchildren to the number of 23 sat down to dinner in the old homestead to celebrate the 84th birthday of the head of the family. A photographic view of the family assembled in front of the old home was taken in the afternoon, which will be a precious memento in the years to come.

We understand the New London county bar contemplates giving the Hon. Jeremiah Halsey a reception soon as an expression of its pleasure at his return from abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Small are improving in health. Mrs. Small has taken a ride out and on Thursday Captain Small sat up for the first time. They will return to their residence on Asylum street in a few days.

Otis library, which has recently been furnished with a handsome new carpet and otherwise improved, was occupied last evening by Mrs. F. W. Robinson, who gave readings to a select audience.

VOLUNTOWN

Voluntown paid its annual tribute to the memory of the soldier dead on Memorial day morning, the weatherman furnishing splendid weather for the occasion. The exercises opened with the usual parade headed by the Finnish-American band under the direction of Elno Kapiaio. In the line of march were Unity Circle, No. 1230, C. of A., a squad of ex-service men in charge of Lieut. Herbert Heywood, children of the public schools in charge of their teachers, Mrs. Floyd Ray, principal, Mrs. Alexander Tanner, and Misses Regina O'Neil and Margaret Tanner, followed by a car containing two veterans of the Civil war, Messrs. Alfred A. Davis and Albert Brown, and the speaker of the day, Mrs. Georgette Prior of Jewett City. The line of march was Union square to Main street, to the Baptist church, countermarching through Main street to North street, to Roberts cemetery, where the following appropriate exercises were carried out: Flag salute, Star Spangled Banner, prayer, Mrs. George H. Prior, selection, Rock of Ages, band, recitations, The Blue and the Gray, Miss Margaret Bitgood; On Memorial Day We're Bringing, school children; Nearer My God to Thee, band. During the selection the school children decorated the soldiers' graves with flowers. America, band and audience; taps at the close of the exercises. The line reformed and returned to Union hall when the following program was carried out: Song, primary grades; dialogue, intermediate grades; recitation, Marion Fletcher; recitation, John Murphy; recitation, In Flanders Fields, Ethel Gray; America's Answer, Jeanette Gray; recitation Grace Bitgood; recitation children from intermediate grades; recitation Paul Laine; Star Spangled Banner, school; reading, Helen Holm; vocal solo, Mrs. Christina B. Murphy; medley of songs, upper grades; address, Mrs. George H. Prior of Jewett City; flag salute; America. This program was interspersed with selections by the band. A good audience attended the exercises and generously applauded the various numbers. Mrs. Murphy's solo made a hit as she was recalled to give two encore numbers. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Floyd Ray. Mrs. Prior's eloquent address was also well received. Mrs. Ray was mistress of ceremonies and carried out the program in a capable manner. The hall was prettily decorated with bunting and American flags. There was a very generous display of flags along the line of march, nearly every house in town showing the national colors. There was a large number of spectators along the line of march, many being visitors from out of town.

A dozen or more baseball fans from the village journeyed to Boston on Thursday to witness a couple of big league games.

Men in the employ of the Eastern Connecticut Power company have cut the trees of each side of the Gristmill bridge to make a path for the power line to the Stone mill which is being prepared for business as fast as possible. New machinery is being installed as fast as received and no doubt that operations will commence sometime during the summer.

Now the Favorite Bread

Plain or Toasted

In More than Ten Million American Homes

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

Do you like crisp toast? Delicately and evenly browned?

Then in big letters at the top of your grocery list write WONDER BREAD.

It's that new bread, as you may know, that so many women are adopting.

For toast it knows no equal.

And eaten plain it amazes with its delicate flavor. The millions who buy it today consider it the most delicious bread baked in America.

It's splendid, too, from the housekeeper's point of view. It slices without crumbling. It keeps fresh for days.

If eaten daily, it promotes family health to a marked degree. It restores burned-up energy and fosters growth. This because of its high calorific value. Also its remarkable protein content.

To maintain its quality day after day, we go to great lengths. We specify a specially milled short patent flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used.

We use double the usual amount of milk.

We employ a special method of baking. Slo-baking, it is called. A method that seals in the dietetic value of our ingredients and improves their flavor. Hence when you get Wonder Bread you get the best. Millions have found this to be so.

So please try it at once. Simply to prove what it offers you and yours. Note its dainty flavor. See how evenly it toasts. How easily it slices.

But remember! Ordinary breads are not like this. Avoid them. Insist on Wonder Bread always.

SEVEN QUICK FACTS about Wonder Bread

1. Slo-baked to seal in delicate flavor, prolong freshness.
2. Toasts quickly to an even golden brown.
3. Rich in food elements for growth and energy.
4. Made of specially milled short patent flour. The heart of the wheat berry.
5. Double the usual quantity of milk. Pasteurized.
6. All ingredients tested for purity and nutritive value.
7. At grocer's, oven-fresh, morning and afternoon.

PROFESSIONAL SENTIMENT HIGHLY CONFUSED BY WAVERING MARKET

NEW YORK, June 1—(F)—The stock market wavered uncertainly today, as public interest held at low ebb, and professional sentiment was highly confused. The day's transactions again fell close to the 3,000,000 share level. Closing quotations were highly irregular, but the Associated Press price indices indicated that losses outweighed the gains.

The treasury department's fixing of a 5 1-8 per cent. interest rate on its short-term financing, the highest rate in 8 years, was something of a shock to traders who have been expecting a substantial ease in money rates shortly and the federal reserve condition statements failed to show evidence of the recently rumored relaxation of pressure upon credit. With these developments, traders found little comfort in the retention of a 5 per cent. rediscount rate and the slight decline in broker's loans.

Two particularly unsettling developments of the day were the sharp break in radio stocks at Chicago, which was reflected in depression of Radio Corp. common on this market, and a wide break in Commonwealth Power, which had shot up more than 50 points in the fortnight since the formation of the new Commonwealth and Southern Holding company.

Call money again held at 5 per cent. all day, but much uncertainty as to the probable course of money during the remainder of the month, what with income taxes to be paid and heavy new financing, was still felt. Time money rates were unchanged at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2 per cent.

The day's news was rather meagre, including the declaration of another $1 extra by General Electric. Wall street buzzed with merger rumors largely affecting the tobacco and food industries. The actual signing of the reparations agreement was regarded as merely a formality.

Commercial Solvents, a rather closely held and particularly mercurial issue, provided an exceptional demonstration with a spurt of nearly 29 points to a record price at 402. Another strong chemical issue was U. S. Industrial Alcohol, which gained about 7 points. Despite the break in Commonwealth, a number of utilities were sent up sharply, notably American Water Works, which established another peak at 125 1-4 up about 10 points. Detroit Edison and Federal Light and Traction were sent up about 8 and 5 points to new highs and American Power and Light equalled its previous peak.

Other strong spots were Allis Chalmers and General Electric, with extreme gains of about 3 points, and General Bronze and Trico Products, which reached new highs. Erie and New Haven again reached new tops, but reacted for net losses of more than a point. American Brown Boveri sold near its record price on payment of accumulated back dividends on the preferred.

The break in Commonwealth Power, which amounted to 24 points at one time, was variously attributed to an overbuilt position, disappointment in the action of the Commonwealth and Southern stock on the curb, and reports that an exchange offer by Commonwealth and Southern to a limited number of stockholders had lapsed. The stock closed at 131, off 21 points. Radio broke more than 6 points to $1 1-4, but closed at $4. Seven Nut Packing, Boroughs, Columbian Carbon, New York Central, Wright Aero, Simms, Spicer and Sparks Withington were among issues losing 2 to 4 points. Gillette Safety Razor, Central Aguirre Associates, and Peerless Motor were among a sprinkling reaching new 1929 lows.

In the commodity markets, grains were firm on bullish weather reports. Weather reports affecting cotton, however, were regarded as more favorable, and futures closed a little lower.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling cables again sliding back to $4.84 7-8. The Spanish peseta continued to rally from its recent break, reaching 4.15 cents.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

HUMILITY IS THE FOUNDATION OF ALL VIRTUES.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
THE PRIMAL URGE.

I'm weary of coffee and toast,
I'd like something tasty and new,
For breakfast, a nicely broiled steak
From a saber-toothed tiger would do.
Knickers and period gowns
Are stale to a spirit that grieves,
Like mine, for the shimmering green
Of that fig-leaf kimono of Eve's.

I'm tired of a car and a plane,
And horses I cannot ride,
Won't somebody get me a roc,
Or a pleiosaurus to ride?
My apartment I'm growing to hate,
And I'm sick of a porcelain tub;
What I want is a cave in the hills,
And a lover who courts with a club.

—Minna Irving.

THE FORGE THAT'S STILLED.

The old village blacksmithy in a Massachusetts village, has fallen into disgrace. Disguised as a woodchopper, a state trooper bought a drink in the place and later conducted a raid which revealed a quantity of liquor hidden behind the forge. The 68-year-old village smith was fined $200 and costs.

"Under a spreading chestnut tree,"
The village bootlegger stands.
A smith was he, and fair to see;
But the muscles of brawny arms
No longer bend iron bands.
Nor has he grime upon his brow,
Nor yet upon his hands.

Week in, week out, from night 'till morn
You hear the autos roar
And many's the case, after many a chase,
That's brought to his smithy door
Where, by adding water, his beautiful daughter
Makes eight where there were but four.

Upon the bank behind his shop,
A juniper bush doth grow,
To lend its shade to the beauteous maid
And the jugs all in a row.
Whence come the draughts the villagers quaff
At 50 cents per throw.

[illegible] to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught," There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip"
And, some nps a "blacksmith's" caught.
But be not dismayed! When fines are paid,
We'll order another lot.

THE RAILROAD CROSSING.

I can't tell much about the thing,
'twas done so pe'ful quick;
But pears to me I got a most outlandish lick
It broke my leg, and tore my skulp and tore my arm most out.
But take a seat; I'll try and tell you best it came about

You see, I started to town with that [illegible] team of mine,
A'haulin' out a load of corn to Ebenezer Cline;
And driving along, for jest a day or so before,
The off horse drew a splinter in his foot, and made it sore.

You know the railroad cut across the road at Martins Hole,
And there I saw a great big sign raised high upon a pole;
I thought I'd stop and read the thing
and see jest what it said,
And so I stopped the horses on the railroad-track, and read.

I ain't no scholar, rekollect, and so
I had to spell,
I started kind of cautious like, with
E-A-I and L,
And that spelt "rail" as clear as mud, E-O-A-D was "road";
I lumped 'em, "railroad", was the word, and that are much I know'd.
C-R-O with double S and I-N-G to boot,
Made "crossing" jest as plain as
Noah Webster dared do it;
"Railroad Crossing," good enough!
I, double O-K "look,"
And I was lookin' all the time, and spellin' like a book;

O-U-T spelt "out," jest right and there it was "look out," I's gettin' curious like, to know jest
what 'twas all about,
F-O-R and T-H-E 'twas then "lookout for the-"
And then I tried the next word; it commenced with E-N-G.

The International Situation

Is boundless jubilation
We voice our thanks at last,
A crisis for our nation
Successfully was passed.
Opinion was divided
But thanks to Yankee grit
We finally decided Where Mrs. Gann shall sit.

No duchess carted in sabjes,
No lady from Japan,
[illegible] gracing the festive tables
[illegible] Gann, or [illegible]
[illegible] Mrs. Gann, or [illegible]
[illegible] Mrs. Gann shall sit.
We've settled the burning question—
[illegible] Gann shall sit.

CLEARING OLD CEMETERIES.

Dear Editor, Corner Sisters and Brothers: Here I am again. Didn't mean to come again so soon but I wanted to thank the editor for the yellow slip. I do thank you and it will be used to do some one some good.

We have been busy and we've got the garden planted. I gave the boys the ground to plant as they saw fit, only suggesting a few ideas. Before we planted the garden we had been clearing an old cemetery. Bad about those old grounds. The one we mention had trees as large as, and as my arm which had evidently grown right out of the graves. Roots have upset headstones. We found two headstones that had fallen over. On them were banks of Union veterans. One day as were were nearing our job's end we saw men setting new headstones on these veterans' graves. They were replaced there by the government. We were glad we got there first. Perhaps, they wouldn't have found the graves so easily otherwise. Perhaps there's fake ale the small graves. Why come under a law ruling that they must be kept cleared. We had a time of it. There was a blackberry brush and white birches interwoven with full-bloom, pretty enough place to get around in. Armed with axes, a hunk cutter, five boys and myself for hoes, worked for nearly a week. Beginning at the gate we worked our way to the rear of the cemetery. I call it the best work we ever did. I wish I might be able to help and see all cemeteries as clear as the ones in larger places. The burial grounds in cities always look fine; everything is cleared, grass is cut and flowers bloom. The sight of a well kept cemetery rests the eyes and gives comfort to the heart. But how different these other small plots. I wish I had the means. I'd clear them all and replace markers. As it is I have more time than money.

Now I mustn't make this letter too long, though our page is a bit empty. I wish to make a request. Who'll write me through this paper that they have a Norwich Bulletin of date May 30, 1928. I wish several copies and will pay for them but you had better write first as I wouldn't want a carload. Address, Lular Wylie, care of this paper. Any expense incurred I will make right.

Now I'll shamble out to the kitchen where I 'most know there'll be a strawberry shortcake waiting for me. With best wishes from

LULAR WYLE.

REMEMBER MEMORIAL DAY

Dear Editor and Boys and Girls: Howdy! Nice cool weather after the hot spell.

Well, Memorial had has been and gone. Once more may God bless the day and ever keep it green in our memory. It is the most beautiful but saddest day of the year to me. It reminds us of the hardships our dear boys in blue had to endure for the dear old flag and for us. It was a terrible thing to stand face to face and fight, but, loyal and brave, they stood and fought under dear Old Glory, not for gain or high honors, but that our land might be free from the bondage of slavery. They fought and won and we should never forget what they did for us. They endured hardship, hunger, imprisonment in that devil's death trap, as the boys called it. I have sat many an hour and heard my cousin tell of what they went through. So let us always keep that day sacred to their memory and the memory of the boys who fought in the Spanish-American and the World wars. They had to endure a whole lot as well. Let us pray for those who are still living and those who are gone, and don't forget to place a flower on each grave, and don't forget the dear boys who sleep beneath the sea. Their memory is just as sacred. Let us place some flowers on the water in memory of them. Let us pray each day for them.

That is all we can do now. May God bless Memorial day and keep it fresh and green in our memory.

Ariel: Well, I don't know if Club 4 is going to have a gathering or not. If I was situated so I could, I would have them come to my home. I don't belong to the Jolly Social club, so I have no right to ask them, but I hope there will be a gathering in East Killingly.

Keshah Doolittle: I guess it isn't going to rain any more so we can go paddling.

Butterfly: Thanks for your kindness in lending me that rat trap and as I have no man to set it, much obliged for lending me Mr. Butterfly to come and set it for me. I think the rats had a dance at night and laughed at us for setting the trap. I suppose they danced all around it.

The culture of flowers varies. Some flowers have to be kept more moist than others. The different varieties of potted plants need different soil to grow and do well. To set dahlias, fix the ground the same as for potatoes. After they are up, before hoeing, put a mixing spoon of hen fertilizer around each one. The hoed geraniums will do much nicer if taken care of like beans. The more they are hoed, the they bloom. Hardy plants for all win do best to set them in September. Then the roots get set in the ground for winter.

Icavilla: Hope the boil is better.

Ma of Greene Gables: I hear you have moved from the old home. Hope you won't be homesick. I hear you are near Rural Aunty. She is a fine friend and neighbor, as I have known her from childhood.

Twice Twenty: I don't hear much about having a Social Corner memorial day, so I guess you and I are all who approve. I do think it a fine thing. It will show those who have passed on are not forgotten by us.

Betty Jane, Bobbet, Pippin, Skinny: Where are you all? Give us a word. It looked last Saturday as though our Corner page was being forgotten.

Kochia: Please do find your pen and give us one of your fine letters. Come and kill that rat.

Peter Prose: Come to the front once more and give us a letter.

Arlie: Hope you are better.

May the love of God be with all in sorrow and sickness an drouble. He is the only one who can help us. God bless and be with you all is my heart's best wish.

SLAM SHOWING LAST WEEK

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: As there were so few letters last week, I thought I would send one this week. I think it's a shame, when the editor is so good to print the letters, that so many refrain from writing, as they are capable of sending such good letters. Then when they do write they give excuses, not reasons, why they did not write before. Do you know the difference between an excuse and a reason? My letters are like the widow's mite, I write, but I don't know what to write.

Rural Aunty: I am related to you in an indirect way. My sister married your brother-in-law's brother. Husband I have none, but your sister-in-law's brother was my husband's double cousin. Figure it out.

English as she is spoken: John was just home from college and his mother said: "John, bring in an armful of wood." John replied: "Why, mother! I perceive that the grammatical part of your education has been sadly neglected. You should have said: 'John, my son, please transport from hither collection some of the combustible parts of the defunct log'."

OPTIMIST.

LOSES VALUED MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor and friends! Well, hello, Nonesopretty. I will try and keep my word and write a few lines. Am very sorry you did not get that old rat. Guess he is a wise old guy. He probably recognized my hubby when he came over to set the trap as an old trapper. You two should not have talked so loud while fixing the trap. He must have heard you and thought the healthiest thing for him to do was to gather up his family and fly the coop, which I presume he did.

Black-Eyed Susie: You wanted to know why I did not write. If I had turned into a caterpillar that would be going backwards. I believe in going ahead. Caterpillars turn into butterflies but butterflies never into caterpillars.

I am sorry to say we have lost another valued member. Alderdale was a lovely woman. The family have my deepest sympathy.

Arlie: You say June is the month of butterflies, but I am flying around all the time. Best wishes to the Corner.

COURTEOUS SALESMANSHIP

To Editor and Social Corner Members: No doubt all the readers have had experiences in stores that were amusing, annoying, embarrassing and otherwise.

Mrs. C—went into a music store and asked for a march composed by a celebrated musician. His name was peculiar but she pronounced it as best she knew. Instantly the saleslady corrected her: "You mean so and so," pronouncing the name different. "No, we do not have that march." She did not offer to order it, only seemed interested in the composer's name. Going into another music store, Mrs. C—inquired for the march, pronouncing the name as that saleslady had told her. Again she was corrected on the composer's name but could not get the march.

"Next time we will send to the mail order store. They are always courteous and endeavor to please."

Mrs. C— wanted something in a drug store. Instead of handing out the article in a courteous way, the druggist corrected her pronunciation twice while she was in that store.

Never again will she trade there, as many other drug stores are near.

Farmer K— had worked hard for years and at last felt he could afford a new hay rake. He went into a store and asked the price of a hay rake. Standing there waiting for a customer the owner of the store told the price and added "Take it or leave it." Farmer K— decided to leave it, as he felt insulted by such a remark, and walked out. He went home and repaired his old hay rake and said it would rake hay as long as he could work. There was a sale lost at that time and no future business with that customer. Not every day is there a call for a hay rake.

So much is said about salesmanship, why not include a little courtesy with customers? In some sections of the city the children do most of the buying, and it is amusing how they make their requests known.

Four year old Mary came in and said: "My mother says my mother says (she always repeated) please give me some more like what she's got upstairs to go with it." Such a puzzle! She was told to go home and get some like mother wanted. Soon she returned with some rice. That was what her mother wanted to make a pudding. Another time she asked for "a bottle of cabbage," pointing to the row of catsup bottles.

In another store kept by Mr. and Mrs. L— every customer is obliged to listen to a long lecture on health and food until customers went to other stores to save time.

Some foreign women unable to speak names, bring samples of salt, pepper, or sugar.

If you were "keeping store," how would you treat customers?

Wish you all a happy summer.

PRACTICAL HOBBIES

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: The subject of "hobbies" has recently been written upon, and there is room for more suggestions. I think we, most of us, do have our favorite desires, or pastimes, which we call hobby, and of course includes a wide variance, as there are many men of many minds—likewise women. A short time ago I read of a man who had a hobby of saving every dime that came into his possession. He would deposit it in his home savings bank until he collected a certain small amount, then took it to the government bank, where it received interest. By this method of taking care of his dimes, and beginning when a boy, he accumulated enough to build a house and home in later years. It reminded me of the old saying that "great oaks from little acorns grow."

Perhaps there are more people who save their pennies than they do their dimes, according to their financial income. Personally, this hobby or habit is mine, and I use some of these pennies to pay my paper boy every week, which he is glad to get, and helps him to make change with others.

I had a friend who had the hobby of saving a dime every week, from her wedding anniversary, one year to the next, when she would use that amount to purchase something for the home.

I think these are good practical ideas or hobbies and worthy of attention. Some women have a hobby for a variety of hats every season, others love cats and dogs, birds and flowers. Time and space will not permit all we might say on this amusing and interesting subject, but we all can find our place where we most enjoy.

SPRING CANNING

Dear Social Corner Members: Spring canning is probably being done by many of the members along with housecleaning. There is always a chance to put up young dandelions, spinach, beet tops, chard and broccoli.

Greens should be picked over carefully before canning, and wash them in several waters to remove the dirt and sand clinging to the leaves. Warm water, if used in the first washing, helps to loosen the particles of sand from the leaves. The other washings should be in cold water. Then cut off the roots.

To get a well packed, full jar when processed, the greens must be shrunk before packing by blanching for three to five minutes in boiling water, or 15 minutes instead. The steam method saves more of the mineral content of the greens than does boiling. Cold dip and pack loosely enough into clean jars so that the water will run when the packed jar is placed on its side. With a sharp knife make two cross cuts down through the jar to enable the water and heat to penetrate to the center more easily.

Adjust rubber and add one level teaspoon of salt to each quart jar. Fill with the hot water in which greens were cooked or with water left over from steaming. Partially seal; if a wire clamp jar is used, leave lower wire up during processing, or, if a Mason jar is used, screw down the lid until it just catches hold of the rubber ring in either case do not completely seal until after coming from the canner.

Have water in canner hot or boiling. Quickly place jars in the water on a rack with the water well up over the jars. Process pint jars for 100 minutes and quart jars for 150 minutes. Remove from canner and complete the seal.

Best wishes ANTIC.

BE SYSTEMATIC

Dear Sisters: I have often wondered why housewives, particularly those who were formerly business girls, don't systematize their homes and housework somewhat along the lines that govern offices. May I submit for your consideration one of my "systems" which I have found ideal?

I purchased an inexpensive cardboard filing box such as is used in transferring office correspondence from the current file, and about two dozen filing folders. One folder is labeled "Embroidery Patterns" and therein are tucked the various patterns sent for from The Bulletin each week, others clipped from magazines and embroidery books; or perhaps a rough sketch of some effective bit of embroidery I have seen and may use sometime. Another folder bears the title "Recipes," and this holds all the recipes I clip from various sources (not the least of these being the Social Corner), before I have sampled them. When I have tried them they are copied on filing cards, or pasted on same and transferred to my recipe filing cabinet which contains nothing but useable recipes; those found to be unsatisfactory for our family are discarded. Still another folder is labeled "Party Entertainment" and contains all kinds of games, contests and ideas of every kind for a party. Consequently I am never at a loss for entertainment even for an evening of callers who do not play cards or dance and must be otherwise entertained. There is a "Correspondence" folder which takes care of letters to be answered, articles and news clippings which I may wish to enclose in letters to members of the family when writing. The "Receipts" folder needs no explanation, except to say that receipts are pasted on a blank sheet of 8 1-2x11 paper so that small ones will not become lost. A folder takes care of "Household Hints" embodying methods of removing stains, dyeing suggestions, and general household information as to time-savers and short cuts. I even have a "Fiction" folder to do away with the untidy clutter resulting from stacks of magazines. Oftentimes there is just one story left in a magazine to be read, and the time is not available for the present. I rip out the story and dispense with the magazine. The "Sewing" folder has patterns clipped from magazines and newspapers showing how to make odd and unusual trimmings, hat ornaments, the hats themselves, and sewing hints of various kins. My "Handcraft" folder has directions for sealing-wax decorations, paper flowers, party favors, basketry designs, etc. Into the "Interior Decorating" folder goes pictures of well-arranged rooms, wall papering ideas, suggestions for remodeling old furniture, and anything else along that line.

Naturally each housekeeper would have items that would suit her particular needs which I have not included, and some which I have included would not be needed. It really works like a charm, so that I have required information available in a clear, concise, handy form.

CONTENTED.

RECIPE FOR BANANA CREAM PIE

Social Corner Editor: I don't want to be a slacker, so will write a few lines to try and help fill up our Corner page. I do wish all those who can will come out to our last meeting of the season, next Tuesday, the 11th. We also welcome friends from the other clubs. And, say everybody, you won't want to miss the fine program that Georgette has planned for you.

Strawberry: I hope you will be able to come and see the Radio Minstrels.

I am sending in a recipe:

Banana Cream Pie: Three-fourths cup sugar, two tablespoons flour, two tablespoons cornstarch, two bananas, one teaspoon vanilla, two egg yolks, two cups milk. Mix the sugar, flour, cornstarch and salt; add milk and cook until it thickens; add yolks, beaten; cook one minute longer; cool; add vanilla; slice bananas into a baked crust; pour over the filling; cover with meringue and return to a slow oven, 325 degrees F., to brown. This is also good with whipped cream on in place of the meringue. This is one of Gretchen McMullen's recipes from her radio cook book. I got this book by writing to her in care of Station WEEI, Boston, Mass.

I will close with best wishes to all Corner friends.

LAHLEET (Club No. 3).

FLAILING BEANS

Dear Social Corner Editor: I'll say that Georgette's letter story was all right. But I have a picture of Gerilda on the table before me in knickers and methinks they look better than a red georgette crepe dress on that particular person. Try again, Georgette.

Have been having some fun reading the different letters and wishing I could get courage enough to write, so here goes.

Sisters and Brothers: Did you ever thrash out beans with a flail? Two days ago I was out at the crib and looking around found a pile of beans that had not been shelled during the winter, so thinking I would be smart, just cleaned a place and waded in. Just try it if you think it is so easy. My niece, sitting in the doorway, made remarks that made me laugh—some of the time! But nevertheless when I got through I had half a bushel of beans, and shelled by a method I never had tried before, but today my arms ache and I can truthfully say it was no fun.

Best wishes to all the sick and shutins. If this letter doesn't find the waste basket would like to join the Corner and take for a pen name

NUNCIE.

MAKES S. C. COOK BOOK

Dear Social Corner: Will write and try to fill a little space in the Corner. It looks like a rather small page every Saturday.

Well, I'm going to tell you about my Social Corner cook book that I made myself. Long before I joined the Corner, I used to take and clip out what recipes sounded good to me, then when I wanted to cook anything I'd look through my recipes. I had so many collected that I decided to make a cook book. In the 10-cent store I got a long book with thick covers and marked off so many pages for cakes, pies, puddings, canned stuff, etc., till I had all my recipes separated. Now when I look for something I want all I have to do is look at the top of the page and I know what I'm looking for. My book is almost full. Of course, I don't save every single recipe I see in the Corner; if I did, I think I'd have three or four books to fill. But I would not part with the one I have. I paste them two columns on a page and it saves a lot of writing.

Prairie Chicken: I'm glad you wrote about chrysanthemum culture. I love them. Will tell you how I selected my pen name. At first I took the pen name of another member; then I didn't know what to take. Hubby suggested this and that, but I said: "No, I guess that's taken." I was sitting by my window and was looking at my flower garden when I laid eyes on my white chrysanthemums. So I thought I'd try it and as no one had that pen name, that's how I got my pen name.

The chrysanthemums came from hubby's grandmother in the first place. How she did love them! Didn't she, Elm Tree Bobbie? Hope you got your band of gold geranium. If I had one, would surely divide with you. Any of the sisters want to exchange plants, just ask Elm Tree Bobbie. She has some nice ones. How about it?

Crimson Rambler: I rambled about your place one Sunday, and it was lovely after you got up there. I guess you heard about it.

Am sending in a recipe for Glorified Gingerbread that I got from the Rural New Yorker.

Glorified Gingerbread: Put in mixing bowl two cups of flour, one cup sugar, 1-2 cup shortening, 1-2 teaspoon ginger and cinnamon. Now mix as for pie crust. After it is mixed, set aside 1-2 cup of this dry mixture and then make a hole in the remainder of the mixture and add one egg, two tablespoons molasses, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, and a little salt. Put in baking tin, crumble the dry mixture over the top, smooth with spoon and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes. Try it and you will find that it sure is glorified gingerbread.

Wishing you all the best of health and hope to see more letters in the Corner. You know that we have to move if we expect to see more letters in the Corner. I, for one, love to read them.

WHITE CHRYSANTHEMUM.

DON'T FORGET CLUB MEETING

Dear Editor and Corner Writers: As it's nearing the last meeting of Club No. 2, on June 11, thought I would just write so you would be on hand, as July and August are picnic months. I can assure you, you will meet lots of new writers from everywhere at any picnic you can attend.

The hostesses for this meeting are two of the sisters who kindly volunteered to serve from Club No. 5. We want to be there in full number to see that all the good food for the table will be on hand, so they will be pleased to know all have had a good dinner and enough so no one can complain. I believe Georgette has a nice entertainment planned for us, so bring your fancy work and stay all afternoon.

Dad Shaw: I was at a friend's in New London and saw a block of 12 candle moulds. I have often heard my mother tell of putting in the wicks and running the candles. To me your letter was very interesting, for I know of some of the people and places you mention. When in Norwich and you see a notice of our Club No. 2 having a meeting, come in to dinner. We would all enjoy meeting you at any and all times. This is a standing invitation.

Scottie: Come out to the last of the season's meetings. It will do you good and be a change. You are missed when you don't come.

Jean: Heard you had two surprises at last meeting. Well, that is what makes both sides happy—one to give and the other to receive. Our club surely has done lots of nice things everywhere possible.

I wish the writers would do like Prairie Chicken, make a promise to write a letter at least once a month. It's a disappointment to the readers of The Bulletin and discouraging to the editor and those who give us free the page we use when he has to fill one-third with poems, and one-third Social Corner letters, and the balance with advertisements, so please try one and all to keep it full and interesting.

Please remember the date, so if it isn't in again—June 11.

CALLA LILY (Club No. 2).

LOVES THE PLANTS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: There are no letters I enjoy reading any more than those about flowers and plants, for when it comes to plants that's where my pen name comes in. I spend more time over my plants than my housework. I have a lovely bed of tulips, but they will soon be gone. I have planted seeds enough to supply a ten-acre lot, so if I don't have some pretty flowers this year it won't be my fault. I wonder if anyone can tell me what makes the leaves fall from my begonias? It isn't the old leaves that fall, but the perfectly good ones. Sometimes it will be a new one just opened out.

I do hope more will write on their luck with plants. I have so many different kinds planted that it would take a lot of room to name them. I think every seed I have planted came up. You have so many more than you need when you plant a paper of seed that a little later if nothing happens I will have a supply to share with someone else. I try every year to plant something different that I don't know what is. I surely miss attending the meetings now but am looking forward to the fall, when I expect to be able to come again.

American Girl: Received your note. Many thanks. Had forgotten all about it.

I would like to ask what Hepatica took her name from. The only time I ever heard the word was from a cousin of mine who came from New York. What we call May flowers she called hepaticas. I never heard any one else that knew them by that name.

JUST A NUT.

SOME REAL ECONOMIES

Social Corner Editor: As I have received many useful suggestions from reading your helpful page in The Bulletin I thought I would send in a letter which might help someone in the great game of economizing. I have just finished making a pair of undershirts for a 6 year old son out of a last year's combination of dad's and the thought came to me that perhaps many mothers, skilful enough with the needle in making up new material, pass over the possibilities that lie in remodeling.

My friends call me the scrap bag dressmaker, as I have made so many things out of apparently "done-for" articles of clothing. And, as with me, at least, one idea led to another, maybe a few others may open up new ideas to others. Last winter I discarded a heavy coat, with nice lining, not the least worn. Needing a new kimona, I took out the lining and, after carefully washing and pressing it, I put a plain satin binding on all raw edges, added a sash and had a lovely thing for a few cents. Then, later on, I ripped the coat all to pieces, used the wrong side out, and made a plain, warm street dress for the price of a new belt.

I can emphatically say that I make all son's clothes, except shoes. Even his stockings are generally made from larger ones, and so far from having that hand-me-down look, he is better dressed than some that spend considerable money for clothes. It is all a matter of practice and seeing the possibilities in a piece, not just cutting a piece off the skirt and cuffs of mother's coat and calling it a new coat for daughter. But, if the cloth is good, either turn it or dye it, after taking every seam apart. Then, with a nice pattern, suitable for daughter's age, add a little fresh trimming, maybe, a lovely new garment can be made for a trifle.

My friends have put me on my mettle, as first, they are inclined to laugh when I tell them what I'll do with such and such a thing, but just the same three of them came to me with discarded winter coats to be made into dresses after they saw what I had done with mine.

I'm afraid I have imposed dreadfully on your time, but, oh, I know there simply thousands below wasted each year here, and much of it by those who are really trying to save, so as I have benefited from other peoples schemes for cutting H. C. L., I hope some one may find use for this, if it's worth using at all. I also keep all good cuttings or scraps and sew them into strings, braid them and roll them in a ball. Whenever I have a few I add them on to the braid so I am always caught up. Then when winter comes and keeps us in the house more, I'll get my balls out and sew them into mats. I have four mats now and they are so nice and homey.

With best wishes for your long continuance in your good work, I remain

SCRAP BAG

RECOVERING FROM VACCINATION

Dear Editor and Sisters: Well, at last we have some warm weather, thank goodness! We only hope it will last. The children are stripped down to the nth degree; no more shoes and stockings to bother with. It means a bath every night, but I don't think that is quite so bad as so many clothes. We are all recuperating from vaccinations at the present time. We have been very fortunate, for out of eleven of us only two felt any ill effects, and the four who had been vaccinated before were all over it and the scab off in a little over a week.

I went to the meeting at the Episcopal church and we had a very nice dinner served by Beers and her helpers. Bonnie Bell had charge of the program and furnished us with a very pleasant surprise consisting of two numbers by the gold-masked baritone. There were some readings and a short pantomime sketch, Wanted, A Wife, which were also good. I suppose every one is through cleaning house by this time except me. I have a lot to do, but I guess I'll never get it done. Millay Way has painted, varnished, enameled and lacquered every floor and article of furniture in her house. Such ambition!

Lucille Drew: I think I'll give up hoping an despaying, as I don't think it does a bit of good. I see where you have been visiting. Did you have a nice time?

Ravena: Was by your house the other night, but didn't see you anywhere. Have in a'skiddies the measles?

Soma: Sorry you didn't come that night.

Brown Eyes: Guess you are thawed out by this time.

Interested Reader: Didn't know you had a double, did you? Just ask Bay State and American Girl (as well as myself).

Hope all those people who are ill will feel better no we have better weather.

SUMAC.

TYPICAL NEW ENGLAND WEATHER

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Well, we have certainly been having typical New England weather. Many people have severe colds and even the grippe from such sudden and decided changes. But there is always a silver lining. We're not being made mouldy with rain and dampness.

Well, Tuesday will be our last gathering until fall, except for picnics. And so the Orange and Purple Radio Minstrels invite you all to come to the Buckingham and let them see if they can give you an afternoon's entertainment you'll not forget. There will be novelties of all kinds from a washboard to thimbles and combs, etc., so come and bring your friends. All clubs invited, so turn out for the June meeting.

PLANTING HER BEANS

Dear Cornerites and Editor: June 1st. What a lovely, cool morning! What a change from yesterday. My letter must be a short one this time, for there are 101 things to be done, so I must go slow and keep busy. I have been out getting the pole beans ready for the poles which are coming Monday. There are four or five airplants that fly over this house daily and (of course) I have to stop and look at them, which is killing time. Memorial day has been observed again as usual. I attended the exercises at the cemetery, which I enjoyed very much. It was all fine but the intense heat. Yes, June was ushered in this morning.

"Tanned faced June, the nomad gypsy,
Laughs above her widespread wares while she tells
The farmer's fortunes in the fields,
And quaffs the water from the spider-peopled wells."

A NTENNA.

BEAUTIFUL DAY FOR PICNIC

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: What a lovely day Club No. 3 had for the picnic at Lebanon May 22. We wish to thank all who helped to make the day a success. The hostesses were Dorinda, Neighbor, Don't Worry and Aunt Sarah.

I was so glad to see so many of the first members. Hope we will all be able to meet again before the summer is over.

Conundrum: It was good to meet you again. I often think of you. Why don't you write a letter?

I wonder how many of the Corner sisters went to school to Maria M. Allen? She was my first teacher in a little red schoolhouse. I saw a notice of her death in the paper a few years ago. She was a good teacher.

Annie B. B.: We went through to H— Sunday night; left L— about 10.30. I enjoyed my call very much. Don't forget your promise.

Dorinda: Did you go to B— Sunday night? I didn't see you there.

Best wishes for the Corner.

AUNT SARAH.

To meet the expenditures called for by the foregoing estimates a tax of twelve and three-fifths (12 3-5) mills on the last City List will be required, said List being $36,035,246. The tax recommended last year by the Finance Committee was twenty-five and three-fourths (25 3-4) mills on the list of $17,100,237.

In addition to the said estimated expenses for the ordinary requirements of the City, the Committee on Finance has been requested by petition and otherwise to submit to the Annual City Meeting for its action, estimates for the following purposes, which are as follows:

1. Repair of defective side walks	$ 5,000.00
2. Parks and Trees	1,500.00
3. The enactment of building, plumbing and electric codes as ordinances.	1,500.00

17. Removing ledge opposite No. 20 Spruce St.	1,500.00
Total	$129,300.00

The foregoing items are all desirable, but will, if all are voted by the City Meeting, require an additional tax of three and three-fifths (3 3-5) mills above that required by the regular estimates for which the Committee has recommended a tax of 12 3-5 mills. Our Committee recommends that the warning for the next Annual Meeting include the last named estimates, commonly known as "extras", and a call for action thereon. Your Committee expresses no opinion as to which of said extra items are necessary and the order in which they appear has no meaning as to the respective merits of each.

Your Committee further recommends the adoption by the Court of Common Council of the following Resolution:

RESOLVED: That the report of the Committee on Finance containing the estimates for the year ending May 15, 1930, be accepted; that the estimates therein contained be adopted and made the estimates of expenses of the City during the year ending on May 15, 1930; that the clerk cause the same to be published as required by the amended Charter of the City; and that the Mayor, or in his absence the Senior Alderman present, be directed on behalf of the Court of Common Council to submit the estimates embraced in said report to the next Annual City Meeting to be held on the first Monday of June, 1929, and to recommend that a tax of twelve and three-fifths (12 3-5) mills be laid on the last perfected grand list of the City to meet the ordinary expenses of the City for the present fiscal year of the City (May 16, 1929 to May 15, 1930, inclusive).

Respectfully submitted,
LEE ROY ROBBINS,
PAUL H. ZAHN,
PETER SELLAS,
Committee on Finance.

The foregoing is a true copy of said report and of the resolution therein contained which was adopted.

Said estimate of the expenses of the City for the year ending May 15th, next, made by the said Court of Common Council is hereby published by me in accordance with the direction of said Court of Common Council.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, May 23rd, 1929.

Attest:

WESTON C. PULLEN,
City Clerk and Clerk of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, Connecticut.

RECEIVER TO SUE TO COLLECT ON FAIRGROUNDS

Permission was given by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court here Friday for Gilbert S. Raymond, receiver for the New London County Agricultural society to sue George H. Gilman and Francis Gilman, both of this city, for the balance of $13,750, which is due on the sum of $15,750 at which the Gilmans bought the county fairgrounds at East Great Plain at auction on May 1.

Since then the Gilman's have refused to make the balance of the payment and have refused to accept the deed proffered by Receiver Raymond, claiming that he is unable to give a clear, marketable title and that he is not legally the receiver. They have brought suit to retrieve the $2,000 paid.

Attorney E. W. Perkins represented Receiver Raymond in court Friday and told the court that the Gilman's had refused to accept the deed and pay the balance on the grounds that the sale was not legal because life members and creditors had not been given due notice of the sale.

Attorney Perkins was the only one to speak before the court in the matter. Judge Brown asked if there was any one else to be heard, but there was no response. The attorney offered to have Receiver Raymond make a statement in the matter, but this was not desired by the court.

ONLY THREE SMALLPOX CASES NOW IN NORWICH

Only three known active cases of smallpox are in existence in the city at the present time, according to City Health Officer Dr. E. J. Brophy. These persons, who are quarantined at their homes, are expected to be liberated within ten days. No new cases of smallpox have been reported to the health authorities for a period of three and a half weeks.

It is estimated by the health officer that a total of 18,000 persons adhered to his warning and were vaccinated as a precaution against the disease. This number is slightly over one-half of the population of the town of Norwich, which is 35,893.

The three persons still confined to their homes are Aveline Gunsalve and Margie Butler of Edwards avenue, Hinckley Hill, and Shirley Fernandes of No. 160 Talman street, who is 20 months old.

All those who had been ordered in confinement at the isolation ward at the W. W. Backus hospital by the health officer have been discharged.

Elaborate precautions have been taken to guard against dicorders at the affair.

NEW ROAD TO OPEN BRIDGE AT CENTRAL VILLAGE TO MOTORISTS

The new concrete highway bridge at Central Village, which was built last year and has been standing unused because there was no way to reach it from the highway, is to come into use before the present season is over, according to the expectations of the state highway department, which is just asking for bids for a piece of road work which will reach to the bridge.

This is about 4,424 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Norwich-Putnam road between French's crossing and Central Village crossing. The new highway will be laid out 18 feet wide, which will be a considerable improvement over the present road which is narrow of the amount of traffic which passes over it and it will also be straightened out so as to eliminate a number of curves. Approaching the bridge from the south, the new road will be laid across the field to the east of the present highway so as to reach the bridge directly in line with the way it has been erected across the stream. The new bridge will replace the old narrow, one-way bridge which has been a traffic menace on this road for a long time.

Another piece of construction work which is to be expected on the Norwich-Putnam road this summer is from the end of the concrete on Plainfield street northerly to French's crossing. Bids on the first piece of work are to be received on June 17, but the second mentioned project has not been put out to bids yet.

Between these two pieces of work is the grade crossing elimination at French's crossing, which has to be taken up with the railroad and the public utilities commissions. It is expected that this may also be accomplished this summer and when all three projects have been carried out they will make a notable addition to the permanent construction on the Norwich-Putnam highway.

Another important eastern Connecticut project wich has been put out to bids is the building of about four and one-half miles of waterbound macadam on the Flanders Village-Chesterfield road between East Lyme and Montville. This road is part of the trunk line system, but as yet is unimproved. It will connect Route No. 1, New Haven to New London, with Routes No. 102 and No. 17, running between New London and Hartford.

Other paving projects are the following:

Town of Durham:—About 11,102 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Route No. 112.

Town of East Hampton: About 5,100 feet of waterbound macadam on the East Hampton-Leesville road.

Town of Madison: About 8,700 feet of mixed in place bituminous gravel surface on the Horse Pond road.

Town of Torrington: About 3,331 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on East Main street.

Town of Washington: About 10,000 feet of waterbound macadam on the Washington Green Hill and Woodbury roads.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE

As the climax of a three-months' deviation from his usual good habits, during which he hired an automobile, became infatuated with a woman in Taftville, went away with her to Providence, Boston and Detroit, where he was arrested for the theft of the hired car, Theodore J. Fitzgerald, 30, of New London, was sentenced to two months in jail by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the criminal superior court in this city Friday. In the afternoon he was lodged in the county jail in New London by Deputy Sheriff Manuel Martin.

Fitzgerald was brought into court Friday morning on a bench warrant following his being bound over from the New London police court. He was specifically charged in court with embezzlement of the automobile which is owned by the Hire and Drive It company of New London. His apprehension in Detroit came about when he attempted to sell the car.

In appealing on behalf of his client Attorney William T. Connor told the court that Fitzgerald neither drank nor smoked and was a man of ideal habits until this escapade when he said Fitzgerald "apparently lost his head and his heart."

It was revealed that the Taftville woman lured Fitzgerald to Detroit with a story about having a rich uncle there who would give her plenty of money.

Medos Aubin, 16, and Adrien Gagnon, 17, of Fall River, were given suspended sentences to Cheshire reformatory by Judge Brown on charges arising from the theft of an automobile owned by Louis Erlbeck, of Baltic. Aubin pleaded guilty of taking an automobile without permission and Gagnon pleaded guilty to the theft of an automobile on May 7.

Judge Brown instructed the state attorney to notify the chief of police of Fall River as to the disposition of the cases here, in order that the suspended sentences might be put into effect if the boys go astray again.

ABSENCE OF WEAPON BROUGHT NOLLE IN CASE

Failure of the authorities to secure the revolver with which Walter Petka, 51, of Norwich Town, is alleged to have threatened to shoot his son Thursday afternoon, resulted in a nolle when he was presented in the city court Friday morning on a charge of breach of the peace.

It is said that Petka became enraged in an argument with his son and that he drew a gun and threatened to shoot him. The son grabbed a rifle and threatened to shoot back if his father pulled the trigger. Petka retreated to the woods. Members of the family notified Constable L. A. Fenton and during the evening located and arrested Petka. Petka was assessed costs of the case, $7.52.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGER IS ARRESTED IN MOOSUP

Shrotly before noon Friday State Police Officer Smith arrested Wilfred Parr, alleged Taftville bootlegger, at Moosup. Parr was brought to this city and booked at police headquarters, later being released on bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

Parr is charged with violating the liquor law at his soft drink establishment at Taft's station. He was arrested as the result of evidence secured by the state police May 22nd. Parr escaped the police at the time of the raid and managed to keep under cover until he was caught Friday.

RAIN OBLIGES MAYOR TO POSTPONE AIRPLANE FLIGHT

Mayor Leo Roy Robbins, Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce and the members of the aviation committee of that body were all set for an airplane flight Friday afternoon with the Red Wing Flying Service, Inc., which is operating from the Beebe farm on the Gallows hill road between Norwich Town and Taftville, but the sudden rain storm of the afternoon interfered. They will have their flight Monday afternoon.

The Norwich men arrived at the field to go up with Pilot Roy Ahearn, but when the rain came on their flight was postponed. Hundreds of passengers have already gone up since the Red Wing plane has been here under the expert guidance of Pilot Ahearn, who has been flying since he was 17 years old and has well over 4,000 flying hours to his credit, and has carried over 70,000 passengers without an injury. He has qualified twice as a member of the Caterpillar club by parachute jumps to save his life.

While the Red Wing Flying Service, Inc., is here, one of its daily features is a parachute jump of 3,000 feet by the world's youngest parachute jumper, Norman Wilson, who has made over 300 jumps to date. This feature takes place every evening at 7 o'clock, standard time.

The Red Wing Flying Service, Inc., is the only barnstorming organization operating in the United States that uses a ship with a Wright Whirlwind motor. This is the same type of motor that took Lindbergh to Paris and kept the famed Question Mark in the air to break the world's refueling endurance record. They have the support and sanction of the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation and are making a tour of the country for the purpose of arousing interest in aviation.

NEW HOUSATONIC BRIDGE WILL SPAN 674 FEET

Construction of more than 19 miles of new pavement and of a huge reinforced concrete bridge, 674 feet in length, over the Housatonic river between Cornwall and Sharon will be undertaken by the Connecticut highway department during the coming summer in addition to the 60-odd miles of paving already in process, according to announcements made by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. Bids upon the bridge will be received June 10 and upon the paving projects, which will be completed under eight different contracts, on June 17.

The new bridge will be an extraordinarily large structure, consisting of six spans, one of 184 feet and five of 75 feet. It will be one of the largest bridges in the state and will replace the present narrow, wooden span which links Cornwall and Sharon at Cornwall Bridge. The new structure will greatly improve traffic conditions on Route No. 134, the main trunkline highway between New Milford and Canaan, and the main artery of traffic from western Connecticut to Great Barrington, Pittsfield, Albany, the Mohawk Trail, Vermont and upper New York state.

The greater part of the new pavement to be laid under the announced projects will be centered in the river and sore towns in the eastern sector of the state, although the largest single project will be the construction of a new road between Cheshire and South Meriden, which in addition to being a local improvement of large value, will also serve to relieve Route No. 2 of some of its heavy New Haven-Hartford traffic by furnishing a second almost direct road between the former city and Meriden.

This project calls for the building of more than five miles of waterbound macadam on the present dirt road between Cheshire and South Meriden.

ANNIVERSARY SOCIAL WITH PURSE OF GOLD PRESENTED

Under the auspices of the Woman's league of the Central Baptist church, an enjoyable anniversary social was held Friday evening in the assembly room at the church in celebration of the eighth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, an attendance of over 300 being present.

Several delightful musical numbers opened the program, including selections by the church quartette and violin solos by G. Herbert Rich, these being announced by Mrs. C. A. Hagberg, who was chairman of the committee of arrangements.

The significant events of the eight years of Rev. Dr. Pitt's pastorate were given in an especially interesting way by different members of the church, each taking a year in the following order: Shepard B. Palmer, Miss Alice M. Dean, Mrs. H. H. Pettis, Mrs. Luther D. Packer, Emery H. Davis, Mrs. Emery H. Davis, James L. Case, and C. Edward Smith.

These were followed by remarks by Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, at whose suggestion the church extended a call to Dr. Pitt when he was in California, and she concluded her pleasant address by presenting Dr. Pitt a purse of $100 in gold, a voluntary gift from members of the congregation.

Dr. Pitt responded with words of deep gratitude for the united spirit that is seen in the work of the church and urged that the same sort of work continue to make this year the best of all. He spoke of his plans for the summer as he is leaving next Tuesday to attend the national convention in Denver and is to be in Berkeley, Cal., for the month of July, but expects to be back by the first of August.

Charles S. Storms presented a bouquet to Mrs. Henrietta Taft in recognition of her birthday which comes today (Saturday).

Refreshments were served during the social hour which closed the evening.

During Dr. Pitts pastorate there have been 400 new members added to the church, $79,129 raised for benevolences, $120,351 for current expenses, $62,250 for the building fund, $65,310 added to trust funds and a new church organ added at a cost of $15,000.

TRIED AIRPLANE FLIGHT FOR DEAFNESS CURE

John H. Sullivan of this city, who is both deaf and dumb, tried the airplane cure for his physical handicaps Friday by going up with Pilot Roy Ahearn of the Red Wing Flying Service, Inc., from the flying field on the Beebe farm on the Gallows hill road between Norwich Town and Taftville.

Pilot Ahearn stated that he took the ship up 20,000 feet where the temperature was way below zero. This feat has been done before as a possible cure, but only to a height of 15,000 feet. It has been known to work a benefit temporarily in one case and the Red Wing pilot said he thought the 5,000 additional feet might prove beneficial.

On the way back to the flying field, Pilot Ahearn found that he was running out of gas and he came to the ground on a level plot in Shewville, where he made a successful landing and take-off again after replenishing his gas supply to get him back to the Beebe farm.

NORWICH TOWN

Postponed Community picnic, Lowthorpe meadow, today, 5 p. m. Singing, 6:30.—adv.

RAIN COMPELS CHANGE IN PLANS FOR PICNIC

Because of the thunder shower Friday afternoon at the hour when people were making preparations for the annual community picnic in Lowthorpe meadows, it was necessary to defer the picnic, the grass in the meadows being so wet. When the sun reappeared, following the thunder clouds, people were somewhat in doubt as to whether the picnic would be held or not. If pleasant this (Saturday) afternoon, at 5 o'clock, and if there has been no severe rains previous to that hour, the picnic is to be held under the same arrangement as advertised for Friday. Had the picnic been held as expected, Pilot Ahearn was to have provided a little extra entertainment in one of his flights over Lowthorpe meadows. Dr. Lamb, while in communication with Pilot Ahearn Friday morning, told him of the picnic plans and he volunteered to have a man make a parachute drop from his plane in the meadows, if possible. It is hoped this plan may be successfully carried out this (Saturday) evening.

Mrs. Fanny Morgan Holmes, whose death occurred Wednesday evening, besides other relatives mentioned, is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Foster, of Westfield, New Jersey, and by several nieces and nephews.

A letter from Rev. Edward H. Smith, of China, was read by Miss Susan Hyde. Mrs. Weaver served a regular dinner to the demonstrator, also poured hot coffee for all.

Cubs Elect Officers

In spite of the heavy thunderstorm that put the lights out several times, the Wolf Cub pack of Scouts held their meeting Friday afternoon. The cubmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter, had a number of items of business to present to the meeting. By a majority vote of the Cubs, John Gibbs was elected a liker, to take the place of Frederick Ross, who has been promoted to the Boy Scouts. John Gibbs was also elected treasurer. John Yetke was elected color bearer, Walter Kelley was appointed custodian of the wolf den. A very pleasing story was read the Cubs by Assistant Cubmaster Ralph Smith. A marching period was held following the storm, and this was followed by a game period, enjoyed by all. There was an attendance of 18. In the contest, John Browning holds first place with a score of 842; Charles Browning is second with 815, and Walter Kelley third with 805.

AN ACTOR AND AN ACTRESS WERE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Bodies of Margaret Lawrence and Louis Bennison Were Discovered in Miss Lawrence's Penthouse Apartment in East 51st Street, New York—Police Say That Bennison Shot Miss Lawrence and Then Committed Suicide—Notes Indicates Both Had Died in a Suicide Pact.

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—The bodies of Margaret Lawrence stage star and Louis Bennison, former stage and motion picture actor, were found today in Miss Lawrence's penthouse apartment on the roof of an East 51st street apartment hotel.

Both had been shot to death and police said Bennison killed the actress and then committed suicide.

The bodies were found by Miss Gertrude Chalair, of Long Island City, a friend of Miss Lawrence. Miss Lawrence's body lay on one of the twin beds, while that of Bennison was seated on the floor, leaning against the bed. Both had been shot in the left breast and a 38 calibre revolver lay on the bed.

The possibility that the two had died in a suicide pact was indicated by two notes pinned to the bedroom door, the handwriting of which was identified by Miss Chalair as that of Miss Lawrence. One of the notes, signed "Tianna," said "The sunset has a heart, look for us there." The other read "Notify Mr. Mussen at the Lambs' club at once."

Miss Chalair told the police she had an appointment with Miss Lawrence today and when there was no answer to her ring, she used a key Miss Lawrence had given her and entered the apartment.

She said Miss Lawrence and Bennison moved into the apartment about two weeks ago. The actress had occupied it previously, but had sublet it and after her divorce from the late Wallace Eddinger, also a stage star, she lived for a time with Miss Chalair. Eddinger died of pneumonia shortly after the divorce.

Miss Chalair also told them, police said that last Wednesday she visited the couple when Bennison produced the same revolver which was found on the bed today and said:

"I'm going to end this thing with this. I'm tired of it all."

She added that he was persuaded to put the revolver away.

Police, who found several empty liquor bottles and a number of glasses strewn about the apartment, said Bennett Mussen, writer, told them that Bennison had contemplated suicide for some time. He said he knew the actor had carried a revolver for two years. Police said they learned Bennison was married and has a daughter in California. His brother, Andrew, was said to be in Hollywood.

Questioned by police, Miss Chalair said she had called at the apartment last night and asked for the actress. She said Bennison, who appeared to have been drinking, answered the door and sent her away, stating "Mrs Eddinger doesn't want to see you."

Miss Lawrence's mother in Germantown, Pa., was notified and an assistant medical examiner ordered the bodies removed to the morgue.

Miss Lawrence, who was 39 years old, last appeared on Broadway in "Possession", withdrawing from the cast last October. Edgar Selwyn, the producer, a short time later, filed charges against her with Actor's Equity and she was suspended.

She made her stage debut in "Her Son", in Chicago in 1910. Other productions in which she appeared were "Overnight"; "Baby Mine"; "Pea for Three"; "Wedding Bells"; "Transplanting Jane"; "Lawful Larceny", and "The Behavior of Mrs. Crane". Her first husband was Orson Munn, New York attorney. They had two children.

Bennison was about 50 years old and last appeared on Broadway in "Badgers". He was a member of the Lambs' club and was in Hollywood for some time. His brother Andrew was said to be in Hollywood.

Miss Lawrence's mother in Germantown, Pa., was notified and the bodies were removed to the morgue.

WILL BE CONTEST IN SENATE OVER DEBENTURE PROVISION

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—The extra-session program of President Hoover is at stake this week in the senate which has been none too friendly so far to the administration.

The farm relief bill, moulded on Hoover lines by conferees of the senate and house, comes to a vote in the senate tomorrow or Tuesday with the fight of the democrats and republican independents to reinsert the controversial export debenture provision making the result doubtful.

With farm relief out of the way, the conference report adjusting differences between the senate and house on the census-reapportionment bill will be taken up. The house, which has been conforming steadily to the desires of the white house, will take up this report tomorrow and immediate approval is forecast despite the stormy sessions of last week on this legislation.

The third recommendation of Mr. Hoover for the extra session—suspension of the national origins immigration quota basis which goes into effect July 1 is to follow the vote in the senate on the other two legislative propositions of the administration. The result on the immigration contest is very much in doubt, with both parties divided on it.

If the farm relief and census-reapportionment measures are sent to the white house this week by the senate in their present form, reported as acceptable to the president, republican leaders will propose a summer's recess to await the senate battle of the tariff.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 9—(AP)—Leon Trotzky, former red army leader who is now in exile here, asked Premier Macdonald, Great Britain's new labor prime minister, for authorization to visit England "for urgent medical treatment and scientific work."

MACDONALD WORKING ON MINOR APPOINTMENTS

LONDON, June 9—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today worked over his list of minor appointments to his labor cabinet while his chief ministers, after receiving their seals of office yesterday, had an interval in which to consider their new responsibilities before the cabinet meeting tomorrow.

All things considered the new government has met with surprisingly good reaction from the press. Even the most bitter opponents admit that Premier MacDonald has presented a capable government to the country deserving of being given a fair chance.

David Lloyd George, the Welsh leader of the liberals, possesses the balance between the two major parties but it is generally supposed he will use that power discretely. The secession of William A. Jowitt from the liberals to become star in the labor government may cause Lloyd George to wonder whether that example will prove infectious.

The question of electoral reform is now dear to the hearts of the liberal party because recent triangular electoral contests, no matter whom they benefited, have not aided the liberal. It is on this subject that the liberal minority is likely to be most stubborn.

The first trial of strength in the house of commons may come over this question. It is believed that Prime Minister MacDonald is opposed to any change at present, possibly because no thoroughly satisfactory means has been found for remedying existing vagaries of the polling system. Proportional representation, alternative voting, and second balloting are all admitted to have defects or to be too complicated. Even should Mr. Lloyd George push an amendment on this question to division, it is probable that the house would vote largely according to individual opinion and that the sponsor would get a majority.

SWEDISH SEAPLANE WAS FORCED DOWN

(By The Associated Press.)

The Swedish seaplane Sverige late last night was forced to land either on the eastern coast of Iceland, more than 10 miles short of its objective, or even further east on the Atlantic. A radio message from Captain Albin Ahrenberg and his two companions said that the landing was made at 11.23 p. m. G. M. T. (Sunday) (6.23 p. m. E. S. T.), but did not say where.

Reykjavik, where they had hoped to conclude the hop from Bergen, Norway, reported that aid had been asked by the aviators after a gasoline line in the plane had burst. One same source said that a forced landing might be made at Ingolfshoefdi, about 50 miles away in an airline.

The Junkers monoplane left Stockholm early yesterday morning on a projected flight to New York with several intermediate stops. Bergen was reached in a few hours and two extra passengers were dropped. All seemed to go well on the sea leg until after passing the Faroe Islands, midway to Iceland, when strong headwinds were encountered.

After refueling in Iceland, Captain Ahrenberg had planned to continue to Ivigut, Greenland, and thence to America. His companions are Lieutenant Axel Floden and Mechanic Hans Jungland.

SCORCHED LETTERS MEANS OF IDENTIFYING MAN KILLED

FROSTBURG, Md., June 9—(AP)—Letters, scorched but legible, were the means of identifying Lieutenant Harry A. Saunders, one of the two men buried beyond recognition in an airplane accident four miles west of here late yesterday afternoon. The letters were signed to Esther D. Finn of Silt, Colo. One was addressed to Lieutenant Saunders at the Fairfield Air park, Fairfield, Ohio, and another to him at Dayton, Ohio, as a member of the second bombardment group. In addition to the letters, cards with his name were found on the body. He was believed to have been a resident of Fairfield, Ohio.

The second victim was thought to be Sergeant E. S. Woodward of Waynesville, N. C., but his identification was not regarded as positive. No papers were found on his body.

ZOG HARDEST WORKING MONARCH IN THE WORLD

TIRANA, Albania, June 9—(AP)—King Zog the first, Albania's self-made sovereign, although on the throne less than a year has won the title of the hardest working monarch in the world.

Eighteen hours of unremitting toil daily with only ten minutes of exercise every two hours in the seclusion of his white stucco palace here is what he considers an ordinary day's work. The king gets up at six, sips a cup of Turkish coffee, puffs a cigarette and plunges immediately into work. With the exception of a few minutes visit to his mother to whom he is deeply attached, he never leaves his desk until midnight. His only diversion is occasional play in the closely guarded palace grounds with his favorite dogs. In the evening the long labors are broken only when the king plays his favorite American melodies on his American phonograph procured for him by Minister Hart.

The Albanian monarch's friends say he lacks the faculty of delegating tasks to others, even to his ministers. Therefore he insists on doing everything personally and running the country virtually single handed.

But if he governs Albania on a one man basis he has anything but the appearance of a dictator. Europe's newest sovereign is no dilletante or parlor king. He rules his million subjects with a firm and inflexible but just hand and sets the old kingdom a shining example by his ceaseless toil.

When The Associated Press correspondent visited the palace today he found the king petting and playing with a group of huge montain eagles which he tamed himself.

WARRANT FOR LABOR LEADER FOR COMPLICITY IN MURDER

GASTONIA, N. C., June 9—(AP)—Fred Erwin Beal, southern organizer for the National Textile Workers Union, was in jail somewhere in North Carolina today under a warrant charging complicity in the murder of O. E. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police.

Funeral services were held late today for Chief Aderholt, who was wounded fatally by guards at a Loray mill strike settlement Friday night. Beal and 60 other strikers and strike sympathizers were arrested. Beal, apprehended in Spartanburg, S. C., yesterday, was brought some time last night to an unannounced destination in North Carolina for safe keeping.

Two fires which broke out in the mill village yesterday were under police investigation today. One was at the home of a woman who was reported to have been supplying food for workers who remained on duty at the mill. She told police she had received threatening letters.

All sixty of those arrested after the shooting Friday were still in jail today, most of them held under warrants charging murder. Beal is to be charged as the instigator of the fight, they said.

Two other officers wounded in the fray were still in hospitals today. Both were said to be in a serious condition. They are Arthur J. Roach and Tom Gilbert.

Heflin Addres[illegible] Klansmen [illegible]oneco

Attacked the Roman Catholic Church—Said That Premier Mussolini Has Betrayed Italy.

ONECO, Conn., June 9.—(AP)—In a field, surrounded by armed guards of the Ku Klux Klan, United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin, today attacked the papal system of the Roman Catholic church and charged that it was interfering with the public school system of this country.

For hours, from early this morning until after three in the afternoon, men, women and children, flocked in droves to Marriott's field in the town of Oneco, to celebrate the second anniversary of the founding of the United Protestant church at Sterling, of which Rev. Ernest C. Drake is pastor. The sun was so hot at noon that several women and men fainted from the heat. Banners and insignia of the Ku Klux Klan were stretched across the platform from where Senator Heflin attacked the principles of the Catholic church.

The celebration today was in charge of the Rev. Mr. Drake, who also acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies. A church service was given by him at eleven in the morning, after which Jack Perry of Providence, R. I., and Great Titan of the Ku Klux Klan of Connecticut and Rhode Island, briefly addressed the assemblage of over 3000, using as his text, the public school system of the United States. A parade preceded the speech of Senator Heflin, in which about 1500 members of the Klan of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts participated.

According to the plans made known by Jack Perry, great titan, Senator Heflin was to have attacked Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, for his stand in recent controversy on the senate floor at Washington. The senator, however, made no allusion to the Connecticut senator, during the course of his address, either in name or inference. He centered his attack on the Catholic church, referring frequently to the facist regime of Italy, under Mussolini. Senator Heflin charged the Italian leader, Mussolini, with treason, on the grounds that he had turned his country over to the Pope, referring to the recent recognition of the papal state.

"It's the right and duty of every public citizen to fight and preserve the public school system," Senator Heflin said, and by the help of God, we will preserve it. In foreign countries, the right to speak must come from the ruling monarch or the pope. They must read over what is to be said, and what they dont like, they blue-pencil out. Wouldn't I be a fine one to have to speak under the jurisdiction of the pope.

"I predicted in the United States senate over a year ago, that Mussolini would betray Italy to the pope. He did this as I said he would. The pope is not a spiritual leader now, he's a temporal leader. Italy is now subject to the rule of the pope and every school is obliged to teach Catholicity in its public school system. Other churches in Italy have been ruled out. I have proof of what I say.

"I am hoping the rank and file of Catholics will heed my warning of the destruction of the public school system in America. There must be one standard and one flag, one allegiance and that's to the United States. They still say I am intolerant and bigoted. But if fighting for the rights of my country can be termed that, then I am what they say I am."

Time after time during his address Senator Heflin was interrupted by the crowd, who cheered and clapped, until he held up his hands for quiet.

"My people in Alabama sent me to congress 25 years ago and I am going to be there 25 years more, leading the fight. I am a leader and I am going to lead. We have plenty of leaders but they are cowards. What this country needs today is one who dares to speak the truth. I have never asked permission of a priest to speak and I have never asked the pope. Newspapers have misrepresented me, but I want to say this, as I have said many times in the United States senate, that I want the Catholics to have their religion. Have their religion, but give the press its liberty, leave the public schools alone and remove religious bigotry."

The senator charged the Catholic church with suppressing the Protestant church in this and other countries. He said he constantly received threatening letters because of his utterances in the United States senate, but they did not bother him.

"They tell me they are going to suppress me, but they never will. I will never quit. I want to commend the Ku Klux Klan for what you are doing. You have made mistakes and I admit you have made a lot of them, but you are watching the country. You have done some good work and are doing it now. When the Knights of Columbus tried their best to force the United States into a war with Mexico, I fought along in the senate for seven weeks against it and there was no war. If Al Smith had been made president last November, we would be fighting in Mexico now.

Senator Heflin said that there were 35 senators in the United States body now that owe their election to votes cast by the foreign born. He declared he intended to fight any law, pertaining to immigration, where it would mean allowing more aliens, as he termed it, to enter this country. He charged Premier Mussolini, of Italy, with establishing agencies in the United States, to preach his facist doctrine to the children of the towns and cities here.

Band concerts were given at different times of the day and at the close of Senator Heflin's speech, a two-hour concert was scheduled. When the senator arrived at Marriott's field, a double line of klansmen and women, formed a passageway to the stage, through which the visitor was driven in his car.

Armed Band Seized Curaco Waterfront

Several Police Officers Were Killed and Wounded in Attempting to Suppress the Men.

MILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, June 9.—(AP)—An armed body of men, alleged to be Venezuelan Nationals, last night seized the waterfront of this city and later carried off the governor and commander of troops and several soldiers to sea.

For several hours the band was in complete mastery of the situation. Several police officers were killed and wounded in attempting to suppress them.

The prisoners were placed on board the small steamer Maracaibo, of United States registry, and the vessel left for an undisclosed destination.

This morning the city apparently was calm while awaiting events.

General Urbina was said to have led the attack.

The steamship Maracaibo, reported seized by filibusters at Willemstad, is owned by the Atlantic & Caribbean Team Navigation company and its port of registry is Wilmington, Del., where it was built in 1899. It is a steel, twin screw vessel of 1095 net tons. On May 5 it sailed from Willemstad for La Quaira, Venezuela, but had apparently returned.

Curacao is an island 40 miles from the coast of Venezuela and Willemstad, with a population of about 10,000 is the principal port.

It is on the harbor of St. Anna. First occupied by the Spaniards in 1527. It has been held by the Dutch since 1634 except for two short periods when it was in possession of Great Britain.

Its accessibility to the northern coast of Venezuela has made a frequent place of refuge in the past for political refugees from South America. A revolt was recently reported in progress in Venezuela but was apparently confined to one or two interior provinces.

INNOCENT MAN SHOT DEAD BY BORDER PATROLMEN

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., June 9.—(AP)—Henry Virkula, 41, Big Falls, Minn., merchant, was shot and killed while driving home in an automobile with his wife and two children near here last night, when he failed to stop at the command of border patrolmen, assigned to liquor smuggling duty.

County police who launched an investigation, said there was no evidence of liquor in Virkula's automobile. Two empty bottles were found, but proved to have been medicine containers, polic said.

Virkula's wife claimed her husband was shot before he had an opportunity to stop his automobile. She said the machine traveled little more than 10 feet after the command was given, when a fusslade of bullets penetrated the car.

E. J. White, appointed to the border patrol forces a few months ago, admitted firing the shots which killed Virkula. White was accompanied by E. V. Servine, also a newly appointed border patrolman. Both officers have been temporarily suspended while the shooting is being investigated.

County Attorney David Hurlburt of Koochiching county declared charges will be preferred against White if a coroner's inquest, scheduled for tomorrow morning, discloses the shooting was without cause.

Virkula was shot through the neck, and death was instantaneous. The shooting occurred about 11.30 o'clock last night. The body was brought by the patrolmen to this city where Virkula's aged parents reside. The slain man operated a confectionery at Big Falls.

The shooting was done with sawed off shotguns. The automobile was dented with shot in 26 places.

Superior officers of the two patrolmen said that officers have been warned to shoot only in self defense. A report of the affair has been sent to headquarters at Grand Forks, N. D.

White and Servine refused to comment on the shooting.

The two patrolmen's duties consisted chiefly of watching for liquor runners from Canada. The shooting occurred about 15 miles south of the Canadian border. The men make their headquarters at International Falls, on the Canadian border.

MAN'S BODY FOUND WITH HEAD AND ARM TORN AWAY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man with the head and arm torn away from striking an object with action like that of a ship propeller, and answering the description of William Tallman, missing radio operator, sought on charges of the murder of Mrs. Virginia Patty in Los Angeles was washed ashore from San Francisco bay today.

The headless corpse was found at the Hyde street beach where the San Francisco wharf line begins and within swimming distance from the course taken by the steamship Admiral Benson when that craft, which carried Tallman out to meet him from San Pedro on last Wednesday night.

While police boats started searching the bay for the missing head and arm, shore inspection revealed the body was weighted down with two five pound pieces of lead and an "automobile chain."

Detectives disagreed as to whether the body was that of Tallman. The age, height and general makeup of the body answered the description, but the finger prints supplied as those of Tallman did not tally with those taken from the body.

The body was clothed in an olive drab shirt. Messages were sent to the captain of the Admiral Benson, now in the Columbia river, to ascertain how Tallman was dressed when last seen.

Charles Michaelson, chief of the New York World's Washington bureau, is expected soon to take over the duties of directing publicity for the democratic national committee.

DEMOCRATS DIVIDED ON EVE OF HARMONY DINNER

Southern Party Leaders Who Have Opposed Leadership of Smith and Raskob May Express Their Attitude by Refraining From Attendance—Entire Membership of the House and the Senate Has Been Invited to Attend as Guests.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The buzz of the political bee, a delight to the Washington ear, was heard plainly today as preparations went forward for the democratic dinner to be given tomorrow night for Jouett Shouse, recently named as lieutenant to Chairman John J. Raskob, of the democratic national committee.

Reports had been circulated freely that prominent party leaders, especially those from the south who had opposed the leadership of Alfred E. Smith and Raskob, would take the opportunity to publicly express their attitude by refraining from attendance. On the other hand it was asserted the dinner was a purely local affair, given by a District of Columbia democratic organization and that no national significance could be given either to attendance or non-attendance by invited guests, who included the entire membership of the house and the senate.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who opposed Governor Smith so vigorously in the 1928 campaign, was the most vigorous in opposition to the dinner. He said it was "inopportune." Simmons is an outspoken foe of Raskob, who is listed as a guest and speaker at the dinner. Taking the opposing view, Senator Fletcher of Florida, said there was an effort to "divide the democrats and force those democrats who were opposed to Smith on two main questions into the republican ranks."

Robert N. Harper, president of the Jefferson democratic association, which is giving the dinner, said that more members of congress than expected had accepted invitations. Some southerners, however, had out of town speaking engagements. Acceptances were received from such men as Overman of North Carolina, McKellar and Tyson of Tennesse, Ransdell and Broussard of Louisiana, and Harrison of Mississippi.

National democratic leaders looked forward hopefully to a report expected to be made by Mr. Raskob detailing a marked reduction in the party's debt. It had been whispered about that the national chairman would discuss the deficit growing out of the 1928 campaign which incurred an unfavorable figure of more than a million dollars. This, on last official reports, had been slashed to less than $500,000. Party enthusiasts eagerly awaited word that Mr. Raskob had even a more favorable word to say.

The dinner will be the first big gathering of democrats since the campaign which ended so disastrously in November. Among those who will attend will be Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, the vice presidential candidate of his party. No outstanding figures, such as Governor Smith and previous democratic presidential standard bearers will be present, the committee on arrangements having decided the affair would be confined to persons living with the limits of the District of Columbia.

CLAIMS TO HAVE SEEN HALL-MILLS MURDER

DETROIT, Mich., June 9 (AP)—Kenneth Gladeau, whose story that he was a witness to the Hall-Mills murder has gained him some attention and may lead to a reopening of the seven year old case, supplied more details today to substantiate his statements.

Gladeau, who is a federal prisoner in the Wayne county jail here awaiting examination on charges of violating the Dyer and Mann acts, claims to have been in De Russey's lane near New Brunswick, N. J. September 14, 1922, when the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall was shot to death and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills was slashed across the throat. Gladeau even has produced the knife which he says was used to kill Mrs. Mills.

Investigators here questioned the prisoner concerning disposal of the $3,000 which he said he was paid as hush money. Gladeau said he went from New Brunswick to New York city and from there to Leavenworth, Kansas, where he purchased a laundry.

Gladeau accounted for his presence in the lane the night of the double slaying by saying he was hiking from Kansas to Vermont to visit an aunt in Burlington, Vermont. Local investigators have received word from Mrs Emma Blaise, 31 Marble avenue, Burlington, to the effect that she answered an advertisement placed by Gladeau in a Kansas City newspaper and that she heard from him but did not know anything about him.

Detroit authorities have been skeptical of Gladeau's story declaring that since his arrest, May 2, he has given them "tips" concerning other crimes and has shown considerable imagination.

PREMIER MACDONALD MAY CONSULT WITH HOOVER

LONDON, June 10—(Monday)—(AP)—The Daily Herald, organ of the labor party, today says that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald desires personal consultation with President Herbert Hoover on Anglo-American relations and is willing to go to the United States for that purpose.

The premier was represented as willing to take the first opportunity to open this direct contact. It was said that the matter would probably be discussed at the meeting of the cabinet later today at Downing street.

There is reason to surmise, the newspaper says, that Mr. MacDonald's view of the desirability of direct personal contact is shared by President Hoover and his advisers and that they will do everything to facilitate a meeting.

The decision reached in these conferences will be made available to administrative offices in school work throughout the states and may be used as a basis for desirable legislation.

FARM RELIEF BILL COMES BEFORE SENATE THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—With the Hoover farm relief bill facing a doubtful decision this week in the senate, the administration was making preparations today, nevertheless, to bring before the house a resolution appropriating the money to carry out the proposed stabilization of agriculture.

A resolution appropriating the $500,000,000 authorized by the farm relief measure, with $150,000,000 to be available immediately, probably will be put in shape this week by the house appropriations committee for early action in the event the senate approves the pending farm legislation.

However, the stiff opposition which broke forth yesterday in the senate to the debentureless farm legislation leaves the outcome doubtful.

Leaders of the group favoring debentures, however, were determined to overthrow the administration's move for approval of the farm bill until the house has voted on their proposal and they claim the outcome in doubt.

With the vote in the senate admittedly close, both the administration and the debenture group kept a careful check of its members so that a maximum of strength can be registered Tuesday when a vote on the farm bill probably will be taken. The administration forces expect the return by that time of Senators Gould and Hale of Maine and Fess of Ohio, who have been ill.

L. OF N. COUNCIL TO OPEN PUBLIC SESSIONS TODAY

MADRID, June 9—(AP)—The arrival of Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany has greatly increased interest in the first public sessions of the council of the league of nations, which opens Monday. The reich is deeply interested in the question of racial minorities and that subject will be dealt with.

A large number of press representatives from various countries to be taken care of in the senate building has somewhat limited the number of spectators that can be accommodated and as a result the competition for seats has assumed lively proportions.

The preliminary agenda of the council contains several questions which is expected to arouse considerable interest, especially the report of the committee of three on the protection of minorities. Another subject deals with the proposed codification of international law while the revision of the statutes of the permanent court of international justice also comes up. It is also possible that the issuance of a loan by the governing committee of the Saar basin will be discussed.

In council circles it is held by some that a modified report of the committee of three will be accepted with some reservations thought probable from Canada, Germany and Finland, dealing with the work of the league in protecting minorities which appeal for protection.

LOCAL DRUG STORE TO OBSERVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 9—One hundred years ago, Dr. Newton Fitch, then a practicising physician in the burrough of Willimantic Falls, opened a drug store on Main street which at once met with a substantial degree of success. Beginning from that date, June, 1829, the drug store has changed hands many times but has continued to endure throughout the century to the present time when it is known as The Wilson Drug company, the Rexall Store. In noting this 100th anniversary of the founding of the store the Wilson Drug company have laid elaborate plans.

Dr. Fitch was succeeded as owner by John A. Peckham, Alfred Hawes, Dr. Jason Safford, L. J. Fuller and the latter's son, W. C. Fuller, Frank M. Wilson and John L. Leonard purchased the business in 1878 and conducted it under the firm name of Wilson & Leonard until 1885 when Mr. Leonard, who is recognized today as one of the oldest and best known pharmacists of this section, sold out his interest to his partner, Mr. Wilson conducted the business alone until 1890 when William F. Jordan became his partner. Mr. Jordan disposed of his holdings to Mr. Wilson in 1898 and upon the death of the latter in 1900 the business was conducted by his widow, Frank M. Smith, now postmaster, became manager and in 1904 the business was incorporated, Mr. Smith remaining as manager until 1925 when he resigned to accept the postmastership. He was succeeded by Wilfred A. Gagnon, who had been a druggist since early manhood and who now holds the position of manager and treasurer.

In 1922 the Wilson Drug company purchased the Leonard Pharmacy from Gustave O. Cartier as an expansion program. The branch store is now under the management of Frederick J. Williams, who has been connected with the company for many years.

The passing of the century mark gives the Wilson Drug company the distinction of being the oldest business house in the city and hundreds of old friends and patrons of the concern are taking the occasion to offer congratulations on this anniversary event. In preparation for the visit of hundreds, Manager Wilfred A. Gagnon has made extensive plans for their reception.

JEWETT CITY

TRANSPORTATION CHANGES DURING TWENTY-TWO YEARS

Twenty-two years ago June 7th, the first trolley went through Jewett City over the steam iron, bound north.

Frank Moriarty was the second trick operator and received the first clearance trolley order. The trolley schedule, which was operated steadily until November 30, 1925, gave a model passenger service, always being rated as first class trains. The advance in the demands made by transportation changes is noted in the fact that within less than a generation the local high class trolley system came and went. Three and one-half years of admirable bus service stands as its own proof, even against the views of many skeptical views, of what the present mode of local service can and does accomplish daily.

A considerable representation from the borough was in Sterling Sunday to hear the ovation by Sen. J. Thomas Heflin. Some were able to get within ear shot, while others didn't get through the skirmish lines.

Some local people were interested in the report in Saturday's Bulletin that a 6-foot "black and white snake" had been killed in Willimantic, near the Hyman-Israel home on Natchaug street.

Three different planes passed over the town during Saturday afternoon. The last one, just before dusk, came up from Norwich way, a big white biplane. When over the center of the borough the pilot dipped low and made two turns in salute. People ran out and answered the greeting from the air, with shouts and waving caps.

If the aerogator was a stranger, it was thought he mistook this town for Providence, Worcester, or something like that. It is sure a busy burg on Saturday afternoon.

WESTERLY

PROF. JOHN CASALE, FAKIR, BARELY ESCAPES WORKHOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 9—Westerly is the looser of a prospective church of the "Universal Spiritualistic Society" of which Madam Starr of Hartford is president, all because its forerunner and prophet, 'Professor John' of 8 Goodman Place, Hartford, has been vanquished in a preliminary skirmish with the Westerly police department. The professor who answered in a special third district court appearance Saturday afternoon before Judge Oliver H. Williams to the name of John Casale, 35, birthplace, Nyack, N. Y., was charged by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown with being a common cheat. He pleaded nolo.

Town Solicitor John Ferguson, in appearing against him read from his published advertisement, challenging his contradiction, that he was the "World's Greatest Psychologist and famous Spiritual Life Reader," and continued, "This medium will know all without you speaking a word. Without having seen or heard of you before, will tell you of your private affairs, giving you dates, facts and figures which will amaze and benefit you. Everything confidential and secret." The solicitor made a test of his own in the Westerly police station after the professor had been taken from his rooms, 121 Main street, Saturday afternoon by Officer George L. Madison. As a result he told Judge Williams that the accused was unable to tell Chief Brown's first name or employment before he was a police chief and continued that the formal warrant for arrest was made after several complaints, saying "this man is an absolute fake, getting money out of ignorant people by playing up to their superstitions and under different conditions by getting in touch with spirits which would cost more money."

Probation Officer Mrs. Bertha Van-Buskirk, of Westerly, was detailed by Chief Brown to visit Prof. John and was told that she was on the verge of a physical breakdown and if she would pay $37.50 he would purchase the necessary apparatus to make her well. His receipt was taken for $5 paid on account. The probation officer was suffering no ailment and in fact the wrong names given by her on a written slip of paper were those repeated to her by the medium.

The accused told the court that he had worked in lunch carts in New York state and had come in contact with Madam Starr over a year ago and had paid one of her associates $200 for his training. He has said she promised to develop him and he had been ordained as a member of the association and was a member today, having previously been a member of the Roman Catholic church. At Madam Starr's direction he had come to Westerly to open an office as she told him the association had a charter on file in the state house in Hartford and the society was "within the law." Later she declared when he had established contact she would come to Westerly and open a church.

The defendant in reply to Judge Williams declared that he still believed in the spiritualistic training, this was his first arrest and if allowed to go he would promise to return to his lunch cart activities. The judge declared that he knew better than to follow such practices as he had used to gain confidence and said his offense was one of the most contemptable, in playing upon the susceptibilities of the intellectually blind. He imposed a three-months sentence in the state workhouse. On the plea for clemency by Casale that he was the main support of his father and mother in Hartford, out of a family of 19 children, 11 living and others married and younger sisters unable to assist, the sentence was retracted and a suspended sentence was imposed with an agreement that the accused should report to the Westerly probation officer.

COL. A. E. DICK DIES SUDDENLY IN GERMANY

A well-known Westerly summer visitor, Colonel Adolph E. Dick, 80, died suddenly Saturday in Dresden, Germany. Word of his death was received by Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton, a part owner in the New Watch Hill House, of which Col. Dick was proprietor when it was destroyed by fire on September, 1916. About three weeks ago Co. Dick was in Westerly and visited his Watch Hill summer place. He stated to friends that he did not expect to pass much of the summer in Westerly, as he had promised his granddaughter, just graduated from college, to take a European tour with her. His health was apparently good when he left the United States with his wife ten days summer in Italy, returning toward the ago. He was planning to spend the end of the season in time to spend a short time at his Watch Hill cottage.

Col. Dick was at one time manager of the Seminole hotel at Winter Park and his long and distinguished career includes the management of the Tampa Bay hotel, Tampa, Fla., Long Beach hotel, Maplewood Club, Maplewood, N. H., Watch Hill House, Prince George hotel, New York city; Profile House, Profile, N. H. He was managing the last named hotel when it burned in 1920, making the second of his hotels to be destroyed by fire. Col. Dick was a Civil war veteran and was for many years a prominent member of the National Guard of New York. Col Dick had the distinction of being the first American hotel proprietor in Cuba. At the close of the Spanish-American war he was managing a hotel in Tampa, Fla., when a request came to this country from a group of hotel owners in Cuba asking for an American to come to Cuba and show the people of that country American methods in hotel management. Col. Dick was selected for this important work and spent some time in Cuba.

TWO AUTO THIEVES CAPTURED IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 9—Night Officer Laird Winchell and Arthur DeForest, a former borough police officer, were given a few minutes of rough and ready work early Saturday morning before they were able to lodge a pair of automobile thieves in cells in the police station. The prisoners were George Gosselin, 22, and Bertram Boznet, 24, both of Woonsocket, and now in the hands of the police in that city. The pair will face charges of stealing the Studebaker touring car of Edward J. Moran of 56 South street, Woonsocket, from where he left it parked in that city Friday night.

About 2.30 Saturday morning Officer Winchell received a telephone call relative to drunks that were making a disturbance in the vicinity of Hutchins, near Main street. His first effort to locate them failed. Later with Chief John McFarland, a search of that entire area of the borough was made. It was after daylight when Officer Winchell located a car in which two men were sitting on Railroad street, near the storage tank of the Danielson Oil company. Whether or not these men, who afterwards proved to be Gosselin and Boznet, were the men about whom the complaint was made in the very early morning hours is not certain but they proved a good catch, nevertheless. Officer Winchell ordered them out of the car. They faked being drunk on alighting, one of them lying down, while the other one proceeded to attack the officer. The situation was observed as it was developing to Mr. DeForest, going home along Mechanic street after his night's work in a local manufacturing plant, and he promptly went to Officer Winchell's assistance. After a tussle the Woonsocket young men were handcuffed together, but not before Boznet was minus most of his clothing as the result of resisting and fighting. When lodged in the police station Chief McFarland was called, and he questioned them only to find they were unwilling to give their names or tell anything about themselves. Search of the car resulted in the finding of the registration of the machine, and communication with Woonsocket developed the fact that the car had been stolen from that city. Confronted with this information, the prisoners revealed their names.

Later Inspector John Wheeler of the Woonsocket police and two of his officers came here and took Gosselin and Boznet back to the Rhode Island city, where they will be charged with theft of the car.

An interesting sidelight dealing with the theft of the car was that the pair who took it bent back the rear registration plate so as to cover up one of the numbers, a device intended to throw officers who might be looking for the machine off the trail, Mr. Moran observed when he came here to get his car, which was uninjured, that it had more gasoline in the tank here than when he left it parked on the street in Woonsocket. This later was explained by Edwin Greene who has a filling station a few miles east of here in Rhode Island. He said that Gosselin and Boznet came to his place after he had gone to bed Friday night, aroused him and asked for 10 gallons of gasoline. He served them and then one of them asked for some oil for the car. Both he said appeared to be almost stupidly drunk but when he went to get the oil they leaped into the car with the greatest alacrity and were off like a shot—neglecting to pay for the gasoline. Chief McFarland said this morning that neither of the young men appeared to have been drinking when he saw them at the police station, and his assumption is that their shamming being drunk was just a part of their scheme of doing things.

A death at Dayville Saturday was that of Erving Melvin Day, 62. Mr. Day was a native of the town of Killingly, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Day, and had lived all of his life in this vicinity, being for a time a resident of Brooklyn. PUTNAM

FORMER MAYOR CHAPDELAINE FOUND DEAD IN BED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 9.— Putnam today mourned the death of Victor Chapdelaine of 167 Church street, former mayor of the city, who was found dead in bed Saturday morning. Former Mayor Chapdelaine retired to his rooms at his home in the west side of the city at his usual hour Friday evening. He was in the best of spirits and showed no outward signs of any physical ailment. On Saturday morning his eldest son, Wilfred V. Chapdelaine, who makes his home with his father, entered his room and was surprised to see that his father was still sleeping. He called to him but received no response and it was then learned that he had fell a victim of heart disease.

Mr. Chapdelaine was born in St. Ours, Canada, December 9, 1859, the son of Francis and Modiste (Harpin) Chapdelaine. When a young man the family moved to the United States taking up their residence in Putnam. Mr. Chapdelaine remained here but a short time when he moved to Grafton, Mass. He married Miss Zoe Dumas while living there. Shortly after their marriage Mrs. Chapdelaine contracted an illness and died. Mr. Chapdelaine returned to Putnam in 1876, where he married Miss Lea Garnier. Three children were born of this union, Wilfred V. Chapdelaine of 167 Church street, Dr. Ernest E. Chapdelaine of Detroit, Mich., and a daughter, Mrs. Henry N. Benoit of 166 Church street, all of whom together with the widow survive Mr. Chapdelaine.

For a number of years preceding the institution of the prohibition act as a federal law, Mr. Chapdelaine conducted a saloon on Pomfret street. In 1918 he suspended operations in this business and entered into retirement. In 1922 Mr. Chapdelaine was elected on the republican city ticket as alderman at large and president of the common council. Upon the appointment of Archibald MacDonald, Sr., then mayor of the city, as postmaster, Mr. Chapdelaine took the post as chief executive of the city. He was twice elected by the people as mayor, refusing a third nomination in 1927. He retired from public office January 1, 1928. Mr. Chapdelaine's career as a public servant was one that brought him the respect and admiration from his fellow citizens. The record established by him while in the position as head of the city governing body is one that truly won for him the title of Putnam's most popular mayor.

Fraternally Mr. Chapdelaine was affiliated with the Putnam Lodge of Elks, No. 574, he being a charter member of the organization, The Cargill Council K. of C., and the Union of St. John Baptist. He was a member of St. Mary's church of this city. Politically he was a republican and was a strong adherent of the policies of the party.

In the death of former Mayor Victor Chapdelaine, the city witnesses the passing of a leading and respected citizen. His long list of successes both in private and public life adds lustre to a personality marked by true worthiness and culture. Universally and affectionately admired by all with whom he came in contact, he has left a heritage of citizenship and accomplishments that unite him with the progress and history of Putnam.

Questioning of Socrates Diamitis, alias "Mr. George," for several hours Friday evening by Putnam police failed to force him to divulge the identity of the driver who piloted a Chrysler sedan with its fifty gallon cargo of alcohol into Putnam Friday night. The police seized the high-powered rum transport and confiscated the contraband. Captain of Police William J. Jarvis investigated the premises of Joseph King, of Canal street, who was convicted and sent to jail on a liquor violation a few months ago and there found "Mr. George" maintaining a vigil over the car and awaiting the departure of the police.

"Mr. George" bore up under a lengthy grilling and today the police was still at a loss as to who was the driver of the vehicle. Diamitis denied having any connection with the car or the cache of liquor. Diamitis is alleged to be active in Southbridge and Webster liquor smuggling circles, Capt. Jarvis intimated today.

The fifty gallons of alcohol contained in ten 5 gal. cans, repose in the cell chambers of the Putnam police station and the rum car which was seized is being held by the authorities. The car is registered in Rhode Island and efforts were made Saturday by Captain Jarvis to secure the owner's name. The required information came through the registration department of motor vehicles of Rhode Island reporting the vehicle to be owned by George Savard of Providence. Savard had not been located at a late hour today.

The seizure of liquor by police Friday evening is the second catch of alcohol made on the Putnam-Providence highway in the past week. The first load was taken into custody when Ovid Pechie of Danielson fell into the clutches of the police early last week.

He was flying a Curtiss Falcon biplane equipped for attack service and before landing performed a number of feats over the city. When over a portion of the city not thickly settled the flier nosed his ship in a loop and described nine complete loops that thrilled hundreds who watched.

A car which Brassard was driving figured in an accident in the north end of the city. He will be arraigned in city court Monday morning.

Through an oversight an account of the exercises held in North Grosvenordale in commemoration of Memorial day failed to appear in this column and at the request of a number of ex-soldiers of the town details concerning the observance are given at this date. A parade in which all civic and patriotic organizations of the town and children of the public schools and St. Joseph's parochial schools formed in North Grosvenordale early in the forenoon. The line of march was through the villages visiting each of the cemeteries and decorating the graves of the soldier dead. This was carried out by the members of the Oscar W. Swanson post American Legion, assisted by the school children. At St. Joseph's cemetery in North Grosvenordale, Memorial exercises were held which included an eloquent address by Rev. John C. Mathieu, pastor of St. Joseph's church. The vast congregation of listeners including the soldiers of all wars joined in the singing of community songs, Thompson's custom of paying tribute to its sons on Memorial day is carried out in these late years exactly in the manner in which it was observed principally by the veterans of the Civil war.

Milton Johnson, 22 years of age, and an employe at the Grosvenordale company in North Grosvenordale, suffered serious injury to his left leg Saturday morning while working about a picker machine. A belt drive became loosened and while endeavoring to repair the device Mr. Johnson's leg was snatched by a flying spindle and the calf of his limb was caught in the jaws of the machine before a fellow employee came to his assistance. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where he was reported today to be in a serious condition. The leg was not amputated, hospital authorities stated today.

Several Putnam people journeyed to Sterling this afternoon where they listened to an address by United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama.

TONIGHT'S CITY MEETING.

Through the new Taxpayers' association much interest appears to have been aroused in the adjourned city meeting scheduled for this evening. This has been the outcome of the estimates submitted for the coming year, which the finance committee of the court of common council believes necessary to run the various departments of the city for the ensuing year, and the list of extras which has been submitted but not recommended.

Whatever tax is voted at tonight's meeting will be collected on the grand list that was perfected following the recent revaluation. It means a lowered tax, about half of what has been collected in recent years, but a tax on a more than double valuation.

That fact isn't being lost sight of by the taxpayers.

If all the estimates as submitted are voted it will require a tax of 12 3-5 mills. That is what has been recommended by the council.

If all the extras are voted as listed, it will mean an additional tax of 3 3-5 mills. That would mean a total of 16 1-5 mills, or a rapid start back to the days of high taxes and under a greatly boosted grand list. Adding 3 3-5 mills, or 1 mill under the present valuation is a different proposition than under the days of low valuation.

It is quite natural that the taxpayers should take an interest in what directly concerns them. It is time. They have been negligent for too long a period, but the time and the place for them to make a real demonstration of their feeling is tonight at the town hall, where the adjourned city meeting will be held. The opportunity is provided for them to say what they want and what they don't want, what they want to pay in the shape of taxes and what they don't want to pay. Leaving it to George has never worked out well from the taxpayers standpoint.

PARK RESTRICTIONS.

On a Monday morning great numbers have had ocasion to utter expression of disgust over the manner in which Sunday crowds have caused public parks to become littered with papers and rubbish.

Take a park that is along the waterfront. It draws big crowds. Many of those who go there carry papers, lunches in boxes and bags and other material which is discarded as soon as the immediate use for it is over. The result is that the park on Monday morning looks like a dumping ground.

Papers have been read and re-read, then thrown aside. Some have used them to sleep on, but there they stay when the sleeper gets up and goes away. The lunch receptacles are of all kinds and styles and in the raft of material are tin cans and boxes that not only make a most disgraceful appearance but which make many hours work for someone else.

No one complains more over the restrictions that are established in public parks than the public, and yet it cannot fail to realize, if it will but stop and think, that there is no one to blame for those very same restrictions more than the public itself. It is being penalized for what it has done and what it refuses to stop. It gives no heed to the day after, no thought to the appearances created and no consideration to the burden it places upon others.

Just at the present time a new campaign is being conducted in New York city to stop such conditions in Central park. It has been found that signs do no good. People demand good walks and then insist upon walking on the grass. They want a pretty park with flowers and then they pull up the plants and break down the shrubs. They pay no attention to the scattering of litter by themselves but they think it is terrible when someone else does it. It isn't possible to shut up the park but those who disregard the regulations are being brought into court and penalized. It may seem a bit severe to some but it is safe to say that they will pay more attention to the signs and restrictions on their next visit. If they don't go again, so much relief for the park's appearances.

THE MACDONALD CABINET.

Prime Minister MacDonald has named his cabinet. He has taken the important step with apparent full recognition of his responsibility and in the belief that it will so function as to meet the requirements of the British and get the support of the necessary number of votes from the other parties.

It is a strictly labor cabinet, barring perhaps the appointment of W. A. Jowitt as attorney general. He was a liberal, and elected as such, but he quickly changed to the labor party upon being named to the cabinet. Whether this move will have sufficient influence upon liberal support for labor party policies remains to be seen.

Ramsay MacDonald apparently did not desire to enter into negotiations with either the conservatives or the liberals for the formation of a coalition government. He worked on the belief that as the party with the largest number of members the laborites should be permitted to run the government. Such may the sentiment of the conservatives or of the much smaller liberals, but it will all depend upon developments. It doesn't take much, under the right circumstances, to upset the best laid plans.

If the laborites are going to get sufficient support from the conservatives and the liberals, they must take into consideration the difference between the demands of those parties and the laborites. Even though the liberals, who hold the balance of power, have declared that it is not going to be their policy to cause as much trouble as possible, they are not going to be unmindful of what they are going to regard as their duty.

There is no love lost between the parties as a general rule. Therefore there can be expected to be no overlooking of those opportunities for opposition unless it is evident that the interests of the government justify it.

How long the MacDonald government will be able to function as constituted depends very largely upon the course it follows both as to the effect upon the country and upon the opposing parties. It lies within the power of the opposition, banded together, to prevent a vote of confidence most any time.

OUR INDUSTRIAL SITUATION.

The industrial situation is one which should give concern to every community. There are changes which cannot be avoided. There are changes which might be prevented if the right kind of steps were taken at the proper time. There are additions which might be obtained here, there or elsewhere if it were possible to meet the requirements of those seeking a change.

What is Norwich going to do about the acquisition of more industries?

According to the situation as disclosed by the chamber of commerce, there are many manufacturing concerns which are seeking a place to locate. Some of them are seeking such financial assistance that they are immediately put out of mind. Some of them think well enough of the city to come here to investigate. They are impressed by the favorable labor conditions. They are encouraged by the excellent transportation facilities. They appreciate the favorable location between the two large cities, New York and Boston. Everything goes along well until it comes to an inspection of the available manufacturing plants and then the picture changes.

Norwich has a limited number of available manufacturing plants. They are suitable for certain types of manufacturing, but in most cases they are not suitable for the business that is looking for a plant. The problem of getting the right kind of manufacturing to fit available factories is a stiff one. It means working under a handicap. Trying to get factories to come and locate in what does not meet their requirements, in what may not be as good as where they are at present located, is worse than an uphill job.

And yet the situation is by no means hopeless. Norwich has no shortage of sites. It simply lacks the organization to go ahead and put modern factory buildings on them that will serve the requirements of manufacturers, or that will stand ready to do so when such wants are disclosed and a willingness is expressed to occupy such buildings. Such a building or buildings would frequently be an inspiration for small local concerns to expand here instead of going elsewhere.

PURSUING THE LINDBERGHS.

One more bit of evidence of the desire of Colonel Lindbergh, and this time we must also include his bride, to be let alone and kept out of the public eye every time he appears in a different city, is furnished by his efforts to elude the newspapermen on his honeymoon.

The wedding was quiet and took place on an unexpected date because it was known what the situation would be from a publicity standpoint if otherwise arranged.

The start on the honeymoon was completely shrouded in mystery and for days the Lindberghs were lost. They were seen all over the east and even in Florida up to the time they were forced to put into Block Island for supplies. Since then they have been bothered as much as it was possible in view of the fact that they were cruising.

It all evidences a desire to be let alone and to be allowed to pursue the even tenor of their way without being bothered by crowds and interviewers and reception committees.

It is a bit unusual for one of Colonel Lindbergh's position to take such an attitude. He thinks the hero stuff is being overdone from the standpoint of the public. It disturbs him. It may be different than some others would do but there is in that attitude the very thing that makes Lindbergh what he is. Try as he will to avoid the crowd, the harder he works the more he is sought. The more he dodges publicity the greater is the desire to see and greet him.

Still, it's their honeymoon and why not let them alone to enjoy it in the seclusion which they indicate they want.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Those seeking something to do might find out what has become of the burdy gurdy.

There is no complaint from Italy that Vesuvius is not keeping it hot enough for those in its neighborhood.

"Fashions For the Young," says a headline. Try to crowd someone out of that classification and see what happens.

The man on the corner says: Somehow we fear the new money isn't going to stick any better than the postage stamps.

The adjourned city meeting tonight should be favored by a representative gathering of citizens. Get us started right under the new grand list.

Chairman Work of the national republican committee wanted to resign last March. He delayed action until June and it will become effective in the fall and there is talk about it. But it doesn't take much to start political talk these days in some circles.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

To remove varnish from clothing sponge and rub with turpentine.

Keep a box ofa raisins handy. Give them to the youngsters instead of candy.

Pear juice left over from canned pears is an excellent beverage for the year-old child.

To preserve leftover pickles or pimentoes put them in a glass tumbler and cover with a salad oil.

Grape fruit gets a tangy taste that is delicious if served with a little grenadine and a dash of ginger.

Keep rubber bands in a tightly closed tin box. They keep very much longer than if exposed to the air.

Discolored ivory knife handles will be restored to their original whiteness if rubbed with a half a lemon dipped in salt.

Always remove the oil sack from a chicken or turkey and draw the tendons in the legs. This makes them more tender.

Cook tapioca in a double boiler to prevent burning and have the water in the lower part boiling hard while the tapioca is cooking.

When making home-made vegetable soup, dice an apple and add along with the celery. It gives a bit of tart taste that is delicious.

If little sister or your maid chips dishes when washing them, try using a big wooden chopping bowl instead of a metal dishpan.

Shredded cocoanut used with cream cheese, gives a delicate and different flavor to salad. It is especially good with ripe pears.

It is not too early to look over window screens. Mend and paint them now so they will be ready when it is time to put them in.

Have a wire guard put over the lower part of your screen door to protect it. The greatest wear comes on the lower screening of the door.

Keep a cork on the end of the crochet needle when not in use and the needle will not work through the basket and become broken or lost.

To preserve the nutritive value in vegetables, baking is the best method of cooking. Potatoes squash, cabbage, onions and carrots may all be baked successfully.

WASHABLE PAPER

Washable paper is extensively used on kitchen and bathroom walls because it can easily be kept clean and it avoids frequent repapering.

When you wash these papers use water sparingly — just wipe with a dampened cloth. Excessive moisture will seep through the paper and loosen it from the wall.

It is advisable to varnish this paper on kitchen and bathroom walls in order to make it more impervious to moisture and steam and prevent it from peeling.

FURNITURE CLEANER

Mix one cup of turpentine with two cups of parafin oil. Mix thoroughly and apply on a soft cloth. This will clean and polish the furniture. Wipe dry with another soft dry cloth.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Get enough sleep and, as nearly as you can, observe regular hours of sleep. Do not oversleep.

A headache will freequently disappear if a cold water bandage is applied and the sufferer lies down in a darkened room for a half hour.

A bad scald should be covered with cloths wet with strong alum solution. Keep over the scald until the burning stops. This will usually prevent future scars.

Never powder over the eyelids. It brings lines and takes away the freshness from even a youthful face. If you have not a natural moisture on the upper lid, apply a bit of cream to it to achieve the effect.

CLOTHING

"Wear clothing that is adapted to your environment, whether indoors or out, whether active or quiet. In the selection of your clothing be guided also by the state of the weather. A good rule to follow is to wear clothes in which you are comfortable. Overheating the body is bad, as also is chilling of the body. Both conditions should be avoided. After exercise, when lightly clothed, one should put on heavier garments when the exercise is over, so as not to allow the body to become chilled," says United States public health service.

FOOD

Select your food in thelight of our newer knowledge of nutrition, both as to quantity and kind. Partake of a variety of foods and be sure you get enough fresh fruits and vegetables. Do not forget that milk is an excellent food for children, and even for adults. Do not overeat. Take your meals at regular hours and avoid late suppers.

PINK BATHROOMS

There is an increasing vogue for pink bathrooms, because of the psychological effect of that color. It is not necessary to buy colored plumbing to get color in the bathroom. Tint the walls and have curtains, towels, and so on, match.

TO CLEANSE BRUSHES, COMBS

Hair brushes, nail brushes and combs should be cleansed thoroughly every few days, in addition to the daily scrub or rinse.

To wash hair brushes, dissolve two tablespoons of borax in a little boiling water and add this to two quarts of lukewarm water in which has been melted a few soap flakes or chips. Holding the bristles downward, beat the water up and down with the brush. Rinse, first in warm water and then in cold salt water to keep the bristles straight and stiff. Dry in the open air, bristles down, on a clean towel.

To keep nail and tooth brushes in a perfectly clean state, soak them for two hours once a week in cold water to which a little borax, previously dissolved in hot water, has been added; cleanse and rinse as described for hair brushes.

Scrub combs with a nail brush, hitting the bristles briskly between the teeth of the combs, in a warm sudsy borax water; rinse and dry.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To clean blue serge, sponge it with strong indigo blue water, place it on a board after the water has been allowed to evaporate and press with a warm iron.

Obstinate stains are frequently formed from tinfoil wrappings about corsage bouquets. If the material is washable the stain can be removed by rubbing gently with soap and washing in warm, soapy water.

Clothes soaked in borax water will come out beautifully white, with no injury to materials. Borax water is also very easy on the hands and will not roughen them as so many cleaners do. Put a handful of borax in with the soaking clothes next week and give it a trial.

BLANKETS WASH DAY.

Wash blankets on clear, windy days in the spring, as the New York State College of Home Economics. If the right methods are used the process is not difficult, done either by hand or with a washing machine, and there need be no fear that blankets will shrink or lose their soft fluffiness.

The soap should be mild and should be used in solution. Put soap flakes or jelly in the tub or washer and dissolve with hot water. Then add cold water until the mixture is lukewarm. Whip the lukewarm solution to strong suds, immerse the blankets, one or two at a time, and start the washer going or squeeze the suds through by hand. Never rub blankets or wring them either by hand or with a wringer. Squeeze out the suds. If the blankets are badly soiled give them a second washing similar to the first. Rinse the blankets in at least two clear waters of exactly the same temperature as the first. Squeeze the water through the blankets to rinse them.

PIE PANS.

Tin or aluminum pie pans are suggested for baking one-crust pies, as they bake quickly and brown the underside of the crust. For fruit pies, which require longer, slower baking, an enameled or glass pan may be used.

HOW TO KNOW YOUR EGGS.

What is a bad egg? One that stinks with hydrogen sulphide, or one that contains a partially formed chick.

What is a good egg? One that has a thick jelly-like white, an upstanding yolk, a firm membrane separating white and yolk, a sheen over the whole contents.

What is a poor egg? One with either watery or turbid white, a yolk that flattens out or bursts because of its thinned membrane, a dull appearance, throughout the contents.

APPLE SAUCE.

If you put apples through a food chopper when you want to make applesauce hurriedly, it saves time and trouble. The same is true when making pear-butter or any other preserves.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

A women's cricket association has been formed in England.

In England and Wales there are nearly 4,000 women's institutes.

Every girl of good family in Japan takes lessons in flower arrangement.

Two women control the traffic at the busiest spots in Constantinople, the authorities considering women better fitted to handle traffic "jams."

By virtue of her office as chairman, of the state civil commission, Mrs. C. B. Smith is a member of the governor's cabinet in New York state.

In the past seven years 27,816 women and more than 35,000 girls have passed the rigid test of the Red Cross life-saving service and become full-fledged life-savers. They are all expert swimmers.

ALWAYS RIGHT.

Mark your screens and window frames with duplicate numbers on brass tack heads and you will have no trouble putting them up in the spring.

PARCHMENT SHADE.

To clean a parchment shade, rub lightly with a clean cloth dipped in olive oil and you will be surprised to see them come out looking like new.

TO CLEANSE DEEP JAR.

A deep vase or jar can be easily cleaned inside by adding bits of wrapping paper to warm, soapy water and shaking well. Ammonia in the rinsing water will make the glass more brilliant.

RECIPES.

Fish Scrapple: Mix one cup of yellow corn meal with one teaspoon of salt and half a cup of cold water. Add to three cups of boiling water. Cook either in a double boiler or a fireless cooker for three hours. One-half hour before removing add half a cup of shredded salmon, tunafish or codfish. When done pack in greased one-pound baking powder cans or small bread pans, cool, then cover to prevent a crust forming. The next morning remove from the receptacles and slice thin. Dip in flour and saute in hot fat until brown on both sides. This amount will fill one bread pan.

Lemon Meringue Pie: 1 1-2 teaspoons gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 4 egg yolks, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 lemons, juice and rind, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups boiling water, 4 egg whites, 4 tablespoons sugar.

Add gelatin to the cold water and heat until dissolved. Beat the egg yolks, sugar, cornstarch, lemon, dissolved gelatin, add boiling water and boil until it thickens. Pour this into an unbaked crust and bake until it is brown and puffed up in the center. Beat the white to a stiff froth, add the sugar and heat thoroughly. Spread with knife or pastry tube over the top of the pie and brown in the oven leaving the door open.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 9—When Dr. Wilour as interior secretary decided to convoke a conference on possibilities of education by radio, he might have included certain marine officers of experience in Haiti, or perhaps Haitian government officials, in the list of invited experts.

Both could tell him a good deal about how radio education has worked out in that country. It has been in use for that purpose for quite a number of years.

The problem in Haiti, however, was to reach an almost totally illiterate population with instruction designed both to conserve public health and to widen the spread of agricultural production and avert "famine years."

For that purpose only radio broadcast could have served at a cost not prohibitive to the insular government.

Difficult Task

As the Bystander recalls, it was necessary to set up loud speakers at central points in villages and hamlets and broadcast only during hours when the people naturally would congregate to hear what was said.

It also was necessary to sugar-coat programs with pure entertainment. Only in small doses could instruction in sanitation, reduced to its most simple terms, be given to offset a terrific infant mortality rate.

The gospel of diversified crops had to be preached in the same way, with ample embroidery of song and other purely entertainment features.

Yet marine officers have told the Bystander that extraordinary results began immediately to flow from this wholesale education of a people which, by and large, could not even read.

A radio education program in the United States is, of course, an entirely different matter. And it also is a field of radio usefulness to which pioneers of the broadcasting industry already have given much thought.

The Bystander recalls having been told some years ago of dreams entertained by the management of the National Broadcasting company in that regard. It was spoken of as a "university of the air."

There was no lack of distinguished students in every branch of learning to furnish the lectures, nor were there lacking even then men of wealth and philanthropic leanings anxious to endow particular courses for that universal distribution by air.

Great Plan

It was even suggested that trans-Atlantic radio debates between the great figures in British and American public life were a possibility, due to the use of short wave transmission from shore to shore. By stepping up to normal broadcast wave lengths, both countries then could "listen in" on the debate.

It will be interesting to see what finally materializes for the practical use of radio in widening national education from Dr. Wilbur's conference with educational leaders and big men of the radio broadcasting industry. Perhaps that "university of the air" now may be on the way to realization.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taxpayers Association and Gas and Electrical Department

Mr. Editor: A taxpayers' association is a much needed organization and I was pleased to join the association recently formed but I now find that the prime movers are all close friends of the general manager of our gas and electrical department. Friday evening I had planned to attend the meeting but at the last minute I was detained. I learned this morning that about 70 attended the meeting and about half of this number were employed by the gas and electrical department.

The chairman of the meeting did not permit the three commissioners to say one word but the general manager answered most of the questions by his friends which were apparently chosen before the meeting.

Mr. Boardman stated some facts of the fact finding committee which cannot be contradicted.

The general manager of our gas and electrical department has defied the court of common pleas; he has defied the mayor; he has violated our city ordinances; he is not content with a salary of $8000 a year but takes the city's money to pay for the rent of the garage at his home; used the taxpayers' money from the petty cash account for trips to Atlantic City; he uses a five-passenger touring car which belongs to the city to tour and to go to his yacht at the shore; he is an officer and stockholder in a power company which buys electricity for use outside of our city and town from our electric plant cheaper than any individual or concern in the city can purchase current; he maintains his son as manager of our gas and electric merchandising department who lives and owns a home outside of our city and pays no city taxes.

Martin Cohen has found that the merchandising department is run at a loss of about $6000, with no allowance for interest for carrying installment accounts and many other items which means that the taxpayers are losing between $10,000. and $20,000. every year to maintain a $6,000. a year job for the general manager's son and drive the old residents of our city out of business, the same as what has been done in the case of Andrew Breed and others.

The taxpayers should not be discouraged with our situation and be fooled by the super-power interests to grab our valuable electric light plant through the autocratic management of the present manager.

GEORGE E. PITCHER.

YOUR HEALTH

Early Tuberculosis Curable.

By F. M. Pottenger, M. D., Monrovia, California.

Early tuberculosis is a curable disease in the great majority of instances, provided the patient is competently treated and responds with a wholehearted cooperation.

A diagnosis is of little value, no matter how early it is made, unless the patient receives an intelligent and adequate treatment as a result of it.

Unfortunately the patient with early tuberculosis rarely feels severely ill, or, if he does, it is usually only for a few days. If he gives himself a little better care than he is accustomed to do, he will probably experience a subsidence of symptoms. Under these circumstances he is misled into feeling that nothing is the matter, and is too prone to assume that a wrong diagnosis has been made.

It should be known generally that when tuberculosis is sufficiently active to produce symptoms it is a dangerous disease. Further, it should be known that it will require months for the process to heal.

On acount of the subsidence of symptoms that usually takes place following the onset of the disease, the patient often feels that there is no need for haste in undergoing treatment that a few weeks will make no difference. He awaits a more favorable time. He adjusts the time of treatment to seasons and to business, social and domestic conveniences, thinking that it will not matter. The result of this course is too often an increased spread of the disease, a cavity in the lung where none existed before and a comparatively easily arrested disease changed into one that yields with difficulty; also, more than this, an increase in the time necessary for treatment, with a much greater call for monetary expenditure.

Delay costs most of the lives in tuberculosis. Early diagnosis and immediate adequate treatment, with conscientious following of medical advice on the part of the patient, will reduce failure to a minimum. While much hope can be offered to the patient suffering from advanced tuberculosis, the result is attained only after the expenditure of a much greater amount of time and a much greater financial outlay; and, in the end, the result is less satisfactory because the patient suffers a reduction in his efficiency.

CHILD TRAINING

Teaching Tidiness

Grace Archbold

"Why, what is the trouble, Ada? Untidy children again?"

"Yes," sighed Mrs. Maydew, as she closed her friend's living-room door and dropped wearily into a chair. "Here are you with four children and your house as neat as a new pin. You look bright and rested at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. I have only three children and my place looks as though a cyclone had been through it. I felt so discouraged I just had to run in and see you for a bit."

"You do look tired! What are you going to do about it?"

"I don't know. I'm always telling them to put away their things, but it does not seem to do the least good. It took me half an hour to clear up after breakfast. There's always a hunt going on for lost caps or lost books and pencils. When I should have been preparing dinner I was washing dishes. I had to leave the beds. It was just the same after dinner. Seems to me I'm never done. As to mending, I dare not look at the stocking basket. I often have to cobble up a hole at the last minute."

"What time do you have breakfast?"

"Somewhere around half past 7. This morning I had to do some telephoning I forgot last night and that made it late. It was a scramble getting them off to school. It threw out the whole morning. If only John and the children were more tidy, I could have caught up all right."

"I find if I have my meals regularly it makes everything easier. I just insist that everyone be at the table on time unless there is some very good reason for tardiness. Then everything else falls into place."

"What do you do if they stray in late to table?"

"Well, you see, Dad is very particular about being punctual. If he has to be late, he always says, 'Sorry, Mother,' and explains. He has taught the children to do the same. They like to copy him and have learned that it is 'bad manners' to Mother not to be there if possible. At the end of a meal, each child carries out his own dishes and scrapes them into the chickens' tin or the dog's plate which I stand on a sheet of paper. Bella, my eldest, takes the crumbs off the table and sees that it is left neat. Even the little ones can help by carrying something out. It teaches them to be thoughtful, too. You would be surprised what a difference it makes. If there is a rush and scramble, the naturally tidy ones soon learn to be untidy. At first I often used to be tempted to neglect preparing the meals in good time, but it does not pay. It's bad for the children's habits, not to mention their health."

"But what about their toys and books? And when my children get up in the morning they throw their night clothes on the floor and leave me to pick them up."

"I had a row of hooks put up in the closet within easy reach and assigned certain books to each child. Once a month I make a special cake for the one who has the best record for tidiness. This is always an important event. They all have the cake for supper but the fortunate one cuts it up as he wishes. If books or playthings are left about, I put them in a big box until the end of the week, when they are allowed to claim them. I have very little trouble now. They have acquired the tidy habit."

Since the price of liver has soared, due to its use as an anaemia treatment, fish hatcheries have found that fresh water shrimp is a suitable substitute for ground liver as fish food.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

The baptism of children made an impressive part of the Children's Sunday services at the United Congregational church which took the place of the regular church service at 10:30 in the morning. The pulpit was banked in spring flowers and the congregation present filled the church.

After the organ prelude, the children of the Sunday school marched into the church to the processional hymn, Forward Be Our Watchword, and the service opened with the invocation, the Lord's prayer, and an anthem, Hail to the Lord's Anointed. This was followed by the baptism of the children of whom there were eleven brought forward by their parents for baptism by the pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott.

NORWICH ODD FELLOWS HONOR MEMORY OF DEPARTED MEMBERS

The annual memorial service of the Odd Fellows, in which Uncas lodge, No. 11, Shetucket lodge, No. 27, and Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, participated was held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 in the Odd Fellows lodge room with a good number attending.

Vice Grand Charles R. Browning of Shetucket lodge presided and the services began with the opening ode which was sung by a quartette consisting of Mrs. Lee Coles, Mrs. Herbert Willey, Lewis E. Aldrich and Herbert Spencer, with Mrs. Aldrich as accompanist.

Following a hymn by the quartette, the memorial day proclamation was read by Secretary S. H. Bishop of Shetucket lodge, another hymn was rendered by the quartette and prayer was offered by Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

The mortuary list for the past year was read as follows:

Uncas lodge—Charles H. Phillips, George B. Comstock, Herman Alofsin, D. Lewis Browning, Sherwood Raymond, Charles G. Brockway, George D. Fillmore, and Henry M. Betting.

Shetucket lodge—Edwin B. Miner, George H. Patridge, Jacob Metzger, Jerome F. Conant, Peter Major, Fred W. Hutchinson, Edgar T. Kingsley, John J. Parsons, James Johnson, Edward L. Turner, John Anderson, William A. Gordon, Albie L. Hale.

Hope Rebekah lodge—Rebecca Turner, Elizabeth Worthington, Sherwood, Raymond, John J. Parsons, Charles H. Phillips, George Patridge, Henry M. Betting.

After another hymn by the quartette, the memorial address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Cooper, who spoke chiefly of the thought of the future life. In part he spoke as follows:

Perhaps the thought of the future life doesn't grip us like it used to do. Material science crowds out spiritual hopes. The love for the life that now is robs us of the keen desire for the life that is to come. The things that are shut away the glory of the things that are not seen. Yet the future can never be altogether shut away from our thoughts because every day shows the frail tenure of this present life. Death is a persistent denial of our material satisfactions. The unknown country from whose bourn no traveller returns still throws its questions back upon our minds. The nobler nature of man won't suffer a denial of the possibility of the life to come. We look for the life to come as a fulfillment of the life that is.

We need the future life for self-realization. The very words of this chapter are suggestive in their contrasts. This life is a tent, the new life is a building, the earth life is made by hands, the new is made without hands, the old life is perishable, the new life is eternal, the present life is earthly, the new life is in the heavens. The apostles say that we groan and sigh for this new life. We do so for very good reasons. We sigh because of our limitations, our ignorance, our weaknesses, our failures, our inequalities and iniquities in the present life. We know we should be better and do better than we do. We are greater than we know. Life is too brief for the soul's highest aims. We are greater than we know. Life is too brief for the soul's highest aims. We are not built on temporary lines. There is no time limit to our soul's growth. How unreasonable it would be if time ended all! The future life is needed for the conservation of achieved values. We need a sense of moral permanence in order to get the inspiration for our present labor. We believe that life must go on and upward go building upon the accumulations of the past for a greater future. The inspiration for such growth would be taken from us if we had no certainty of permanence.

The future life is necessary for social justice. Man has always looked forward to a more glorious future. Centuries before Christ the Jewish prophets anticipated the time when the sword would be beaten into plow shares and nations should learn war no more. The spiritual hopes of the inner life of man suggested to him thousands of years ago "Will not the judge of all the earth do right?" Take love. Love must find expression for it is a just culmination to its sacred hopes. Take goodness. In our most thoughtful moments how we long for a goodness we do not possess? If we could always be at our best how happy we should be for in that permanent goodness we find our highest mood of joy.

The service ended with the closing ode in which the quartette led the singing and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Cooper.

N. F. A. BASEBALL MONEY WILL FINANCE SCHOOL BAND

Formation of a school band at the Academy was announced at the first annual baseball-track banquet held Saturday evening at the Wauregan hotel, following the last baseball game of the Wildcat season. A sum of $500 will be put away for this purpose, which will be taken from the year's surplus in baseball. This was included in the financial summary of the baseball season, announced by Paul Bradlaw, faculty treasurer.

About 60 members of the baseball and track teams with invited guests were present, a delicious chicken dinner being served at 7 o'clock.

John P. Marks, baseball captain, ably officiated as toastmaster and he called on the following for remarks, President Shepard B. Palmer of the board of trustees of the Academy; Principal H. A. Tirrell, Courtland C. Whitney, football and basketball coach, Paul Bradlaw, Lloyd Jarvis and Mace Goldblatt, prominent members of last year's state championship baseball team, while Earle E. Brigham, baseball coach and Matthew J. Sheridan, track coach, were presented by their squads a billfold and a box of cigars. Both responded briefly. The presentation to Mr. Brigham was made by Principal Tirrell and to Mr. Sheridan by Mr. Palmer. Both of these coaches produced league champions this past season.

The receipts of the season, as announced by Mr. Bradlaw, were $4,451.52, an increase of $40 over the 1928 season. Expenses were $2,825, leaving a balance, with practically all bills paid, of approximately $1,626.52. In addition to the sum to be put aside to form a school band, money is also to be used toward repairing the field, for equipment and for future baseball needs. Baseball this year paid track expenses of $142.

The meeting closed with all present singing the school Alma Mater.

Dancing to music furnished by D'Atri's Wauregan Hotel orchestra was enjoyed from 8:30 to 12.

VISITS OLD READ HOUSE, HOME OF HIS ANCESTORS

Judge Howard M. Read, a native of Hancock, N. Y., but whose ancestry runs back to the Reads of Lisbon, was a visitor in this city Saturday and Sunday on his way back to Hancock after his first exploring trip into New England to visit the home of his progenitors.

He has been to Boston, Plymouth and Providence on the trip, but the place of interest which gave him a thrill above all others that he visited, was the old Asa Read house on the Newent road in the town of Lisbon, with the Read cemetery nearby. After being in the hands of the family for 150 to 200 years, it passed out of Read family ownership twelve years ago when it was bought from the late Augustus Read by Oscar Silverlieb. There was no one of the Read lineage to greet the judge when he visited the house, but the Silverlieb family received him most courteously and allowed him to look the place over and rummage in the attic, which proved a genuine treasure trove for the Hancock man. For here he found the old Read flax hetchel, a reminder of spinning days in the old house, and Judge Read took back with him this precious souvenir of the family life. It was from the same attic, Judge Read Stated, that there came the old pine tree sign, dated 1768, oldest in the collection of Morgan B. Brainard of Hartford, which bears the unique inscription, "Entertainment for Man and Hors," signifying the hospitality which the landlord of the Read tavern was ready to extent to man and beast.

Asa Read, whose initials are in the chimney of the house, had a son Stephen, who settled in New York state and was the great grandfather of Judge Read. Stephen couldn't stand it to have his father marry a second time, so that when Asa took for his second wife Jerusha Buddington, Stephen, then 21, ran away from home in 1790, accompanied by his cousin, Anson Baker. The cousin stayed in New York city and eventually prospered in the jewelry business on Fifth avenue, but Stephen kept on farther west and located on the Delaware river at a place with the Indian name of Shehawken, which subsequently became the village of Hancock. He built the first house in Shehawken in 1797.

Romance crossed the path of Stephen Read one day when he made a 25 mile trip to buy a horse from a Massachusetts man, a Revolutionary war veteran by the name of Jehiel Stewart, who had come from Westfield and located on the Meaverkill river at a place he called Westfield Flats, now the village of Roscoe in Sullivan county, N. Y. The old soldier's comely daughter, Polly answered Stephen Read's knock on the door when he arrived at the Stewart house. He made the bargain for the horse, took it back to Shehawken, but almost at once returned to woo and wed the fair Polly, a great granddaughter on her mother's side of Roger Williams. It is through the Stewart line, Judge Read qualifies for membership in the Sons of the American Revolution.

As the New York man returns to his home in Hancock where he is one of the substantial citizens and has presented a plot of land for the Methodist church, he carries with him the pleasantest recollections of the hospitality he has experienced from New England people while visiting the homes of his ancestors.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) Father Reilly will go to New Haven to address a graduating class.

STAR CARD FOR BOXING SHOW AT NEW LONDON

Promoter Ernie Fakourey of the New London arena has lined up what might be termed a regular Madison Square Garden card for his next show at the Hamilton street stadium on June 20th, the night before Yale-Harvard boat race. The card is costing the promoter plenty of money, he having had to pay Manuel Quintero of Tampa, Fla., close to $2,000 to meet Bobby Mays in the main attraction.

As Quintero is a southpaw fighter the same as Mays the local fans will be given something of a treat for they have never seen Mays work against a left hander.

There will be another star bout of ten rounds in which Hughie Devlin of Norwich goes against Al Beauregard of Taftville. This is a bout of real eastern Connecticut interest.

There will be an eight rounder in which Al Gillette of New London clashes with Vernon Cormier of Worcester. Cormier holds two decisions over Devlin.

Two six round bouts open the card, Young McCarthy of Norwich meeting Johnny Andrews of New Haven and Joe Russo of Westerly going against Ollie Jeskie of Worcester.

MILLER TO QUALIFY FOR NATIONAL OPEN TODAY

Massie B. Miller, professional at the Norwich Golf club, will be one of the many New England golf professionals to enter the sectional qualifying round for the national open golf tournament at Worcester today. The national open will be held at the Winged Foot club at Mamaroneck, N. Y., starting June 27th. There are but 115 places open to golfers in the United States as the field at the Winged Foot club is limited to 150 players, 35 entering the tournament without having to qualify.

Miller will play 18 holes this morning and the final 18 this afternoon. Last week in a practice round Miller shot a 77 over the course which is one of the hardest in New England. The local pro went to Worcester Sunday for another practice session.

A large number of the local members of the Norwich club will go to Worcester today to see the round.

RED STARS WIN FROM JEWETT CITY

Plainfield Red Stars continued on their winning streaks by winning both Saturday and Sunday games. Plainfield won from Jewett City Saturday by the score of 9 to 8. The game started off in fine fashion only one run being scored in the first two innings, that begin scored by Plainfield, then both pitchers became a little wild. First, one team going ahead, then the other, than Plainfield came back strong in the seventh inning and had the game well in hand until Allard made the costly error which put Jewett City in the lead only to have Plainfield tie the score their half of the ninth inning. Jewett City had men on the bases in the eleventh only to have Plainfield cut down their rally by remarkable fielding and then came back strong in the twelth to score one run before a man was retired. The features of the game was the pitching of Walsh and the hitting of Allard.

In Sunday's game, Plainfield defeated Versailles 11 to 1 and the game being called at the end of the fifth inning. The only real feature of this game was the masterful pitching of Marriotte. This puts Plainfield into a tie for second place in the eastern Connecticut American league.

BUNTING ATTACK IN SEVENTH RUINS GOOD BALL FOR ACADEMY, WHO LOSE, 4-2

After finding Butsy Weisgraber a pretty tough puzzle to figure out for six innings, Naugatuck high put on a bunting attack in the seventh and, aided by some dumb playing by the Academy boys, the Naugy lads scored four times and won the ball game, 4 to 2 Saturday at the campus. This was the closing game of the season for the Wildcats, who finished with 17 victories and three defeats.

It was a mighty tough one to lose for Weisgraber had been sailing along with a 1 to 0 lead for six innings and looked able to hold that margin. There were only four hits up to that time and they were well scattered, coming in the first, fourth, fifth and sixth frames. The Academy had scored in the first when Arico was forced home when Tombari was hit with the bases loaded. Arico was on third by virtue of a single, Gibbs on second by a fielder's choice and LaCroix on first on a pass. Cummings had inserted a sacrifice in between.

That Seventh!

The fatal seventh opened when Baxter laid down a bunt and was safe when Arico dropped Weisgraber's wide throw. Carroll laid down another bunt and Weisgraber threw to second too late to catch the runner. Johnson laid down another and again Butsy threw to the wrong base, throwing to third while Baxter was standing on the bag. Balingsky smashed a single off Weisgraber's shins and Baxter scored. Butkus laid down another bunt and Carroll scored but Johnson was out trying to score on the play, Arico to Fontaine. Davis bunted and Cummings mussed up the play, Balinsky scoring. Butkus and Davis got mixed up on the bases, Butkus being caught between second and third and Davis between first and second but Fontaine threw behind the runners, to first and they both slid into the next bases safe. Finley fouled out to Arico and White struck out to end the nightmare. Four runs and but one scratch hit.

The Academy got their final in the eighth when Tombari tripled to deep right with one out and scored on Fontaine's Texas leaguer into right center. Marks then hit into a double play.

NO CAMERAS ALLOWED AT NATIONAL OPEN

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)— H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the United States Golf association, announced today that all cameras will be barred from the course during the open championship at Winged Foot except those in the hands of news and press cameramen.

This regulation has been adopted for the protection of the players and was first put into effect during the amateur championship at Brae Burn in September, 1928.

Didja go riding in the old car Sunday.

So did I. And all the way I envied them that had sense enough to stay at home.

I didn't know there was so many cars made as I saw on the road and I guess they were all traveling in front of me.

There were all kinds and makes and all vintages. Some you could buy for a dime a dozen while 5000 smackers would just about buy the tires on others.

It ain't so much the car as it is the drivers that get your angora. Can you imagine traveling 10 or 15 miles in back of a wheezie old flivver that was created a dozen years ago?

From the smoke I inhaled I couldn't tell whether it was burning soft coal or wood. I'm almost positive it didn't burn gasoline. And speed, say, that old hack went so slow I could have pushed a wheel-barrow of brick faster.

Just try to get by one of those kind of buggies on a Sunday. It can't be done. They hold up the procession, but their owners don't give a hoot.

And to add insult to injury when you blow your horn to get by some kid in the back seat will bob up in the back window and put his thumb to his nose and twiddle his fingers. And that kid thinks his old man's car is giving you a fine trimming.

But it ain't the man in the flivver that's always to blame. The boy in the big car who's out to see the scenery is just as bad. He goes along at about 20 miles an hour showing friend wife all the pretty places.

And just about as you step on it to go by he puts his hand out to knock the ashes off his cigar and you pull back into line thinking he's going to make a turn.

And the women drivers, God bless 'em. You've got to be a mind reader to dope out what they're going to do. You get it all doped out and it's a ten to one bet you're wrong.

And when you get home your nerves are shot to pieces, your lungs are full of gasoline smoke and your mouth full of cement and tar. Your eyes burn and you take a bath and flop into bed and say "Never again" but you're out again next Sunday.

No, I can't say a word about the Academy baseball team. My vocabulary is too limited.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENS TONIGHT WITH ROTARY PLAYING ELKS TEAM

Blaring bands, rattling drum corps, impressive sspeeches and everything else that goes with a regular big time opening will usher in the 1929 season of the Junior Twilight league tonight. Young America will reign supreme in Norwich while their "big brothers" from the various fraternal and civic organizations about the town provide a program, truly fitting of the occasion.

Preceeding the first big game, which starts at 6:30 o'clock, between the Elks and Rotary teams, the six clubs together with representations from the organizations sponsoring the same will parade from the Elks home on Main street to the field of battle at Hollyhock Island. Through the kindness of Swahns band and the East Side drum corps, which have entered into the spirit of the occasion by donating their services without any cost whatsoever, there will be plenty of music in the parade. The parade will start from the Elks home as soon after 6 o'clock as possible and proceed to the city owned recreation center.

With the arrival of the procession at the field William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the Recreation commission and Mayor Lee Roy Robbins will speak their little pieces and the otto will officially open the season by tossing out the first ball. The rival teams will take the field and the 45 game grind will be on. As has been previously announced, the team winning the championship of the league will be given a trip to New York city at the end of the season.

Tonight's game should be a thriller inasmuch as the Elks and Rotary teams are looked upon as favorites to win the title. Both are confident of a win in the opener, each have practiced together regularly during the past two weeks. It will be remembered that the Rotary team won the runner up last year, dropping the title only after a hard fought battle in the final game of the season. Although the Elks were not so fortunate in 1928 they have a formidable array of talent this season, including several members of the Academy second team.

Neither Bert Ferguson, pilot of the Rotarians nor Jack Wilson, leader of the "Bills" would say anything last night regarding their respective line-ups, each being content to just smile and look wise.

FISHER'S HITTING FEATURES VELVETMEN'S WIN OVER GIANTS

The J. B. Martin team won a slugging contest from the Elm City Colored Giants, 9 to 5, yesterday afternoon, at the J. B. Martin diamond. The game was featured by the terrific hitting of Russ Fisher pitcher for the Velvetmen. Fisher practically won his own game with a double, a triple and a home run. Nap Liberty also contributed to the scoring with a homer and also played a brilliant game at third. Both teams gathered 12 hits but fast fielding by the Martin infield kept the score down, three double plays being made.

Hank Morin umpired the game and his work proved very satisfactory to the crowd as well as to both teams. The game went smoothly without any argument. The score:

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY SHOWING GREAT VIGOR FOR THIS TIME OF YEAR

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—Business and industry has come through the first week of June with factory activity still showing remarkably persistent vigor for this time of year.

In addition, grain prices rallied 10 cents a bushel and more from the low levels reached in the break of the previous week, and sentiment regarding agriculture and related industries was considerably improved.

Probably the most discouraging development of the week, was the announcement of the new short term government financing at 5 1-4 per cent, the highest rate in eight years, emphatically attesting the snug condition of credit. Also, building permits during May fell off sharply, both from the previous month and May a year ago, which was generally attributed to the high cost of financing.

Several statistical indicators of business activity during May, disclosed such an unprecedented rate of activity, that some uneasiness was aroused lest the pace be found to have been too fast. Both the daily averages and monthly totals of steel and pig iron production set new high records, and loadings of revenue freight, which turned sharply upward in the last week of the month, were in record volume.

Steel came through the first week of June with mills holding output at practical capacity. Wall street, however, looks for a decline or from 150,000 to 200,000 tons in the United Steel corporations unfilled tonnage figures as of May 31, due to be published tomorrow. Large orders for railway equipment has been a sustaining factor in the steel industry and the seasonal decline in automotive demands has been less than expected.

The retraction in automobile output during May, is estimated at but six per cent from April and production held about 36 per cent above May of 1928. Continued heavy output of small cars leads to predictions that June production will be comparatively high.

The signing of the reparations agreement brought renewed confidence to the non-ferrous metal markets, particularly copper, larger sales of the red metal abroad were reported and prices on the London metal exchange firmed up somewhat.

Production of petroleum continued to climb but crude prices held steady and there were further increases in gasoline prices, eyes of the industry will be turned this week to the governors conference in Colorado Springs called to consider an interstate compact for control of output.

In textiles, prices of coarse cotton cloths were advanced 1-8 of a cent a yard in response to a rally in raw cotton, many mills are expected to curtail production by closing down for a full week over the Independence day.

The insolvency record for the week was somewhat less favorable than in recent weeks. R. G. Dun and company reporting 423 failures, but this was 65 less than the like week of 1928.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

You will love her!

Mary Pickford, of course, the new Mary Pickford who came to the screen of the Palace theatre yesterday in her newest, all-talking picture, "Coquette."

To hear Mary Pickford and to see her in this newest picture is to experience a revelation. The old Mary, with her curls and her little-girl dresses, is gone forever. The new Mary of "Coquette" is the last word in smart young womanhood, close-cut bob, Paris frocks, high-heeled slippers and everything. But, now and then, the little girl, who is gone but not forgotten, peeks out from behind the young woman who has taken her place. No transformation can eradicate the piquant sweetness and wistful smile which belong to "America's Sweetheart."

Last night's audience settled down in their seats with a sigh of relief after the first sound of the voices of the players. By some magic manipulation of the sound

Chiplinski Discharged

Alex Chiplinski, 114 Howard street, was in the police court Saturday charged with assault with intent to kill. The evidence introduced was not of a positive nature and the accused was found not guilty. Chiplinski was arrested two weeks ago following a brawl at his home during which it was alleged that Chiplinski struck Frank Bobock, 119 Shaw street with an iron bar. Bobock sustained a fractured skull and was only discharged at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday. The police were summoned to Chiplinski's home on May 26th when they had been informed that a battle had occurred there. The officers found Bobock bleeding from the nostrils and in a state of coma. He was taken to the hospital where he remained under treatment until Saturday. From the information gleaned by the arresting officers, Chiplinski and Julia Lawski, North Bank street woman, had engaged in a drinking party the night before the assault and during the following afternoon. Bobock, who also had been drinking went to the house. The Lawski woman was about the house, but Chiplinski was in a stupor on a bed. When Bobock aroused Chiplinski, it was claimed that a fight followed, which resulted in Bobock being struck a blow that fractured his skull. Burgess Bedtime Story

Jenny Wren is Inquisitive

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who seeks the best will look around,
For only thus may it be found.
—Jenny Wren.

Of all the feathered folk none is brighter-eyed or more inquisitive than Jenny Wren. She is a busy little body, as everybody knows. Mr. Wren would be just as busy if he didn't have to take time to sing. But he just has to keep stopping to pour out his happiness in song. Just as soon as the Wrens arrived at Farmer Brown's, Jenny Wren became the busiest person anywhere about. There were houses to inspect, and Jenny made a thorough business of it. She inspected them all, inside and out, and did it more than once.

Now Farmer Brown's Boy had put up two houses especially for the Wrens. The little doorways were just big enough for Jenny Wren, and you know that birds that build in houses usually like doorways just the right size. Jenny discovered these houses at once and both she and Mr. Wren went in and out of them many times. Jenny was not satisfied with inspecting empty houses, but watched her chance to visit the house Winsome Bluebird and Mrs. Bluebird were occupying. Mrs. Bluebird saw her coming and flew at her in a fury. But Jenny didn't mind. She popped into one of the little houses meant for her and chuckled while Mrs. Bluebird scolded outside.

"Shall we take both houses?" asked Mr. Wren.

"You might take some sticks into one house and we'll make sure of that in case another family of Wrens happens along," said Mrs. Wren. "I'll make up my mind later about where we'll build."

So Mr. Wren began carrying little sticks into one of the houses. He carried other things, too. He found some rusted bits of chicken wire and he carried these in. He took in two or three nails which his bright eyes spied. That doesn't sound like very good nesting material, but these sticks and bits of wire were merely for the foundation. Mr. Wren and Jenny Wren believe in a good foundation. All the time Mr. Wren was singing. When he found a stick he would stop and sing. Then he would hurry over to the little house with it and when he came out he would sing again.

Meanwhile Jenny Wren was here there and everywhere. Finally she left the Old Orchard. There wasn't a knothole in one of the trees that she hadn't peeped into. She flew over to Farmer Brown's house and she looked that over as thoroughly as she had looked over the little houses. She examined the barn. Her bright eyes peered into every crevice and crack. To watch her you would have thought that there wasn't a suitable place for a Wren home anywhere about.

By and by Mr. Wren flew over to join her. "What, my dear, is keeping you so long?" said he. "I should think you would want to get that nest ready."

"I do," said Jenny.

"Then why don't you come over and get busy?" Mr. Wren demanded.

"I don't believe in acting too quickly and being sorry afterward," retorted Jenny.

"But there are two perfectly good houses over in the Old Orchard waiting for us," said Mr. Wren.

"Tut, tut, tut, tut!" scolded Jenny. "Don't you suppose I know that as well as you do? Those houses are all right, but if there is a better place for a nest, I want to find it. Now you go back and keep busy and leave things to me."

With this Jenny once more began to flit here and there, peeking and peering into everything. A more inquisitive small person it would be hard to imagine.

NORWICH TOWN

POSTPONED PICNIC WELL CARRIED OUT SATURDAY

The postponed community picnic under the auspices of Norwich Rural association, held Saturday afternoon and early evening in the beautiful Lowthorpe meadows, was somewhat varied from that of preceding years. About 75 attended. Instead of the usual community singing the entire program of songs was carried out by a quartet: Dr. Charles H. Lamb, first tenor; William A. Buckingham, Jr., second tenor; William Lund, first bass and Horace T. Corning, second bass. The opening number "Prayer of Thanksgiving," Dutch, was given a fine rendering by the quartet which in excellent harmony, interpreted the familiar songs, Sweet and Low, Love's Old Sweet Song, My Bonnie, Juanita and as the closing number gave My Old Kentucky Home.

About half way through the programme which lasted a little over half an hour and by special request, Mr. Corning sang in beautiful voice, Old Black Joe, the other members of the quartet joining in the chorus. At the picnic in 1928, this solo by Mr. Corning met with such favor, he was asked to give its repetition this year. A feature of the singing was the echo through the meadows which could be heard at some distance.

At intervals the flying planes passed over the meadows and one of the pilots did a little exhibition work. The parachute jump however, did not take place over the meadows, but was observed later in another location by the large number of people who had assembled on upper Washington street to witness this feat at the conclusion of the picnic. The song books as in former years were loaned through the courtesy of the Plaut-Cadden company. Dr. Lamb was in charge of the music. Mrs. Lamb is chairman of publicity for the Rural association. Because of many of the business houses keeping open Saturday evening, some of the association's officers were unable to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert I. Sanderson, of Willimantic, spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Buckley.

WINDHAM COUNTY PEOPLE RAISE FUNDS FOR CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

The determination of the trustees of Connecticut College at New London to combine the Fanning bequest and the Windham house fund calls to mind some of the early history of the college when plans for its establishment were first undertaken.

Windham county was one of the first districts in the state to show an interest in the proposal to have in Connecticut a college of high standing for women. Before a location had been definitely determined upon, Guilford Smith of South Windham offered to give a site for the new institution at Willimantic. Regretful as he may have been that it was decided not to accept his offer but to locate at New London, he remained a warm friend of the college and made at intervals several gifts which totaled $7,500. Mrs. Guilford Smith also gave at a later date the sum of $1,500.

It was at this time also that Mrs. Christopher Case of Willimantic became so greatly interested and led her county in a project to secure gifts for a dormitory to be known as Windham House, hoping that other counties might be fired to follow the example.

In the summer of 1914, after Dr. Sykes had been appointed to the presidency and blue prints and plans for the first building were under way, Miss Louise C. Howe of Norwich and Miss Rosamond Danielson of Putnam arranged a number of meetings in the county at which the plans were furthered. At one of these meetings the Windham House association was formed, with Mrs. John Evans Sheppard of Woodstock as chairman, and also the Putnam branch of the association, with Mrs. W. L. Beard as president. The association pledged to raise the sum of $50,000.

But that was the summer in which the torch of the great war was lit, and the interest of the whole world turned to other matters than the education of women.

When Mrs. Sheppard felt obliged to resign a second chairman was appointed, Mrs. Rienzi Robinson whose devotion to the college and to the plans of Windham House may be counted as one of the most precious gifts ever bestowed. Wherever she traveled she carried with her her enthusiasm and interest, and year after year brought back gifts large and small to the new institution which had so inspired her confidence.

David H. Fanning, Mrs. Harriet Tourtellotte, Miss Evelyn Cranska, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Milner were among those who responded generously to her appeals.

Meanwhile, Miss Howe and Miss Danielson, when the war and post war conditions sometimes threw a shadow of hopelessness over the endeavor, continued their work, organizing committees in each of the 15 towns of the county, holding teas, giving plays, never allowing discouragement to overtake them.

By this time something over one-half of the desired amount had been raised. In 1923 Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, of Norwich, accepted the position of executive secretary and finally, through her devoted efforts finally brought the sum up to the amount desired, $50,000.

One of the men to whom she carried the project was Charles W. Knowlton who offered first to complete the Windham House fund but who finally decided to make a large enough gift to put up and equip an entire new building. Knowlton House, easily the handsomest structure on the campus stands as evidence of Mr. Knowlton's interest.

When Mr. Knowlton laid this alternative plan before the Windham House committee, although the withdrawal of what he had pledged to their fund left them with their task still unfinished, because of their larger interest in the college they readily gave way to the new proposal, and took up again their work for Windham House.

Mrs. Robinson had extracted a willing promise from Mr. Fanning to mention the college in his will. After his death, when the will was read and the estate settled, his bequest was found to amount to $200,000. The trustees, feeling that this gift also had come as a direct result of the efforts of the Windham House association, allocated this amount to them, so that the amount to their credit was now $250,000.

But greater even than the need for new dormitories at the present moment is that for an administration building for the college. So again, Windham House association yields its original plans and allows its funds to go where they are most needed.

Those whose gifts to the fund amounted to $200 or more were David H. Fanning, Floyd Cranska, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Milner and Deborah Avery, Putnam chapter of the D. A. R., Henry L. Aldrich, Charles Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Smith, Mrs. Harriett Tourtellotte, Mrs. Hugh Murray, Lucius Cranska, Miss Evelyn Cranska, Mrs. T. J. Seaton, Mr. and Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. Harold Lawton, Mr. Atwood, Mr. Jacobs, Harry Richardson, and Harry Magoon, a resident of Brooklyn who served as chairman of the campaign and raised $2,000.

Gifts were also received from Harry R. Milner, E. A. Bradford, R. J. Caldwell, the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., Mr. and Mrs. Gilpatrick, Hamilton Holt, Louise Howe, Mary Higgins, Florence D. Wiley, E. B. Welch, Charles Bragg, Dr. Chase, Roland Jordan, Mr. Bard, Mrs. Matthews, Mr. Starkweather, Mr. Hope.

Through the years that have passed the personnel of the committee has changed. At present officers and members are: First vice president, Miss Mary Louise Marot, 2nd vice president, Miss Evelyn Cranska, 3rd vice president, Mrs. F. E. Guild; secretary and treasurer, Miss R. Danielson; trustee of college, Miss Louise Howe; executive secretary, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins. The town chairmen are Mrs. G. O. Balch, Ashford; Mrs. Hugh L. Mason, Brooklyn; Mrs. H. W. Hawes, Canterbury; Mrs. J. W. Cartwright, Hampton; Miss Hortense Church, Hampton; Miss Laura Jacobs, Killingly; Miss Helen Atwood, Plainfield; Miss Elinor Mathewson, Pomfret; Mrs. Thomas deCoudres, Putnam; Mrs. L. O. Haskins, Scotland; Mrs. Harold Mowry, Sterling; Miss Florence Wiley, Thompson; Mrs. Christopher C. Case, Windham; Mrs. Guilford Smith, Windham; Mrs. Herbert W. Rowen, Woodstock.

USED RUBBER HOSE TO STEAL CITY GAS

In the city court Saturday morning John Izbicki, 31, of No. 44 Dunham street, was fined $20 and costs on a charge of stealing gas from the Norwich gas and electric department. He was arrested on complaint of Mgr. Charles W. Taggart and entered a plea of guilty.

The accused had a meter in his home for some time but when he failed to pay a bill of $39, the meter was disconnected. Mr. Taggart visited the house Friday and found that Izbicki had run a rubber hose from the gas main to his stove and was using the gas. The accused claimed that he had ordered some wood for the stove but that the wood did not arrive and that he made the connection with the main as a temporary arrangement.

UNUSUAL SINGING SUNDAY BY ST. PATRICK'S JUNIORS

The spiritual barometer of any Roman Catholic parish is the number of members receiving holy communion to the altar i nSt. Patrick's during June weekly, or even daily. The total going appears to be establishing a new high record for zeal and spiritual vigor. Two priests were required at 7:30 Sunday to administer the sacrament, while at 9 Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low mass for the children, required the assistance of Rev. Myles P. Galvin, so numerous had been the confessions heard by the three parish priests Saturday afternoon and evening.

It was the third Sunday after Pentecost, also within the octave of the feast of the Sacred Heart. Rev. Father Galvin who preached at 9, found a suggestion in the day's gospel which he read—Luke 15, 1-10—the parable of the lost sheep and the lost groat, for his theme, which was Christ's love for men and desire for the return of the sinner.

During this mass the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine directed the Junior choir in some unusual singing, portions of the mass being given according to the method of Mrs. Justine Ward, who has provided a $2,000,000 endowment for the Catholic university for study of liturgical music. The method is being introduced in all the parochial schools of the country. The Norwich choir of young voices sang the mass with marked proficiency, under Mr. LaFontaine's instruction and direction.

COMMERCE CHAMBER TO DISCUSS THE G. & E.

Opportunity for the members of the chamber of commerce to discuss the gas and electric department situation in order that this may indicate to the directors how the members stand on the subject is the purpose of a special meeting and smoker which has been called by President Joseph C. Worth to be held at the Wauregan hotel at 7:30 on Tuesday evening.

This will give the directors some guide, it is believed, to what action they may take in expressing the sentiment of the chamber of commerce on the subject.

On Fraudulent Check Charge

George Gorham, 28, of Norwich Town, was presented in the city court Saturday morning on a charge of issuing fraudulent checks. The case was continued until Monday in order to allow the accused time to secure counsel. He is held under bonds of $1,000. This is the second time in a year that Gorham has been arrested and charged with issuing fraudulent checks.

ARRESTED AFTER CHASE ALONG FRANKLIN STREET

Omer Caron, 33, of Uncasville, who was driving an automobile through Franklin square early Saturday evening and failed to stop for the whistle of Officer Simpson, was arrested on a reckless driving charge by the officer who commandeered another machine and chased Caron up Franklin street as far as the armory. It is claimed Caron was traveling at the rate of 55 miles an hour with the policeman in pursuit.

When the man failed to stop at his signal, Officer Simpson called on a man named Jackson to take up the chase in another car which overhauled the Uncasville man at the armory and brought him to a stop. With Caron in the machine was John S. Hutta of Uncasville, who was arrested for intoxication. The charge of driving without a license was also lodged against Caron, who had had no driving license for 1929 issued to him. He is out on bonds of $200 for appearance in court.

The charge against Chenette is reckless driving.

James Degangi of 82 Division street, who was in the Rollband car, suffered cuts and bruises about the head, was treated by Dr. David Sussler and sent to the Vackus hospital.

Constable Blumenthal happened to be driving past about the time of the accident so that he made the arrest.

POETRY

The Forest Ranger

The Forest Ranger rides from dawn
And low his bridle rein hangs down;
The sure foot mule that bears his pack
Jogs on unhaltered at his back;
But if the jingling spur
Clanks for a moment on the ground
Half in the trail he turns his round
To crop the tufted grass.

The Ranger strikes the hillward trail
And well his roving eyes avail
To mark what sign of weather bides
Up on the mountain where he rides,
Or matters gone amiss;
What sapling fire the cattle broke,
What far trailed banners of blue smoke
Announce forbidden fires.

His work to ward the viewless lines
That guard a thousand years of pines
From foolish waste and careless fires
Defend the rain-imploring spires
That throng ascending steeps,
And where the seedling tree uprears
To hide the scar of willows years,
To stay the ruthless flocks.

His horse he pastures on the sod
Of glacier meadows else untrod,
One day he mends the dizzying trails
Where next the thunderous storm prevails;
Oh be it snow or sleet
Tightens his knees to his horse's sides,
Swings the sharp cord and forward rides,
So rides he through the rain.

—Mary Austin, in "The Children Sing in the Far West."

A Little Song Of Eventide

The shadows lengthen on the lawn
The sun is in the west;
The day that will so soon be gone
Is saying as it seems to yawn,
"I seek a pillow for my head,
For I have need of rest";
And Janice, who lives near to me,
So near that I her window see,
Is going soon to bed.
The dear
Is going soon to bed,

And now the dusk has deepened round
And much to sleep has gone.
I miss a lightly laughing sound
That in this air by day is found,
And is so full of livelihood
The ripples on and on;
For Janice, who in wonted mood
Makes music in this neighborhood,
Has gone betimes to bed,
The dear
Has gone betimes to bed.

—Ralph H. Shaw in Boston Transcript.

It was the day of the big cricket match. The famous batsman arrived with full escort of fans. One sprightly urchin dashed up to the hero and presented an autograph album and pencil. "Let's 'ave yer nime here, will yer?" and he departed with the prized scrawl.

The game went opposite to expectations, the hero was a thorough muff, the favorites lost. As the players finished and, with the hero, filed out of the dressing room, the urchin piped up from the crowd: "Hi, there! Got an eraser?"—London Opinion.

The artificial "lung" invented by Lieutenant Momsen, U. S. N., for use of submarine crews trapped in disabled subs, under the surface, has been adopted by the navy, and will shortly be standard equipment on all vessels of the undersea type.

Among the various activities the Omaka Mainichi has outlined for 1929 is a proposal to organize a tourist party of about 25 baseball fans to see the world series. The provisional plan is to leave Yokohama Sept. 13. The party will also visit the large cities and points of interest.

Captain Batschadescou of the Roumanian army is a cavalryman of the old school. When he was named military attache at the Roumanian legation in Paris he set out for his post on horseback. He arrived in Paris after a hard ride, having spent three days to get through the Simplon pass in the Swiss Alps, where his road was blocked with six feet of snow.

Ralph Steele, farm hand, living near Chippewa Falls, Wis., after eating 27 pancakes in a "flapjack" eating contest, was still hungry. He decided to have a little dessert, consisting of nine sausages, a piece of cheese, a slice of pie and a cup of coffee. One hundred and fifty persons were entered in the contest which was won by Steele. As a prize he received a sack of pancake flour.

The destroyer No. 347, U. S. S. Pruitt was named in memory of Corp. John N. Pruitt, United States marine corps; born in Fadeville, Ark., Oct. 4, 1896; killed in action Oct. 4, 1918. Posthumously awarded the navy medal of honor for conspicuous gallantry and courage above and beyond the call of duty in the engagement at Blanc Mont Ridge, France, Oct. 3, 1918. Single-handed, he attacked two machine guns, capturing them and killing two of the enemy. He later captured 40 prisoners in a dugout near by. This gallant marine was killed soon afterward by shelling while engaged in sniping at the enemy.

DINNER FOR DEMOCRATS OF NATIONAL PROMINENCE

Gathering at Washington Heard Chairman Raskob Denounce Republican Policies—Jouett Shouse Outlined Plans For Strengthening the Ranks For the Next Campaign—Raskob Especially Condemned Centralization of Authority—Mr. Shouse Assailed the Pending Farm Relief Bill as "Reprehensible"—Raskob Hopes to Wipe Out the $500,000 Party Deficit and Raise an Additional $250,000 to Build Up a National Organization.

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—Democrats of national prominence met here tonight at a dinner which marked the first big gathering of party leaders since the disastrous 1928 campaign and alternately heard National Chairman John J. Raskob denounce republican policies and Jouett Shouse, his lieutenant, outline plans for strengthening the ranks for the next campaign.

The dinner was given by the Jefferson association of the District of Columbia in honor of Mr. Shouse, who has been made chairman of the executive committee of the national committee. It had stirred unusual interest because of the attitude of some southern leaders in refraining from attending.

The national chairman spoke especially of centralization of authority in Washington, asserting that such a course ultimately might "well result in revolution." Mr. Shouse served notice that party headquarters here would refuse to be concerned over candidacies, assailed the pending tariff bill as "reprehensible," denied the democratic party was a free trade party, and told his fellow party men that he would await the operation of the new farm relief bill before attempting to criticize it.

In speaking of concentration of authority, Mr. Raskob said the tendency of the republicans would result in the establishment of "a power so colossal as to be unwieldy and incapable of administration."

"The lack of respect for such a government," he added, "and the tyranny under which our people will have to live in consequence thereof, may well result in a revolution which will divide this country into two or three republics and our prosperity will then suffer the ills which the countries of Europe have suffered through jealousies, lack of trust, standing armies, etc., for countless generations.

"As a result of the freedom secured for us by our forefathers through declaring their independence from living tyranny, through shedding their blood in the Revolutionary war, and through setting up a new government, the people of the United States have enjoyed life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to a degree unheard of in the history of the world. But we have reached the crossroad and in my opinion there has never been a time in the history of our country when the states and the nation more needed the unselfish, intelligent thought and interest of its citizens than now.

"To awaken this interest and educate our people to the dangers of losing our freedom and liberty is the job of the democratic party. No finer example of patriotism and unselfish devotion to a cause can be cited than the life of Jouett Shouse and the great thing he has done in coming down here to Washington and agreeing to devote his entire time and energies to the building of that kind of organization necessary to protect and preserve our party and thus preserve our government and the liberties and freedom which it guarantees."

In outlining what it is proposed to do in organizing the party for the forthcoming congressional campaign, Mr. Shouse said it was the party's duty and responsibility to try to build up an "effective fighting force to turn over to those who will direct the next campaign.

"The most unwise, the most destructive action that could be taken would be to lend even to the slightest degree, any part of the influence or help or encouragement of national headquarters to the candidacy of any of the various men who may aspire to the next presidential nomination," he said.

"I can not too definitely impress upon you my earnestness in making this statement. I know that Mr. Raskob feels exactly as do I, and I call upon you and upon democrats everywhere not to embarrass the national headquarters in the constructive work which it will attempt to do by trying even remotely to relate it or its efforts to the plan for a nomination, no matter who may be the man concerned or how outstanding his qualifications."

Paying tribute to Mr. Raskob, Mr. Shouse said he could state positively "that without ulterior motive, without selfish design or personal ambition, without relgrnce to the candidacy of any man for any office, but solely with a desire to be of service to his country through the instrumentality of the democratic party, he has put into effect the idea of permanent, working, constructive organization."

Turning to the new tariff bill, Mr. Shouse said that "if it is corrected, as I trust it may be, that correction must be in the hands of the democrats of the senate of the United States, with the assistance of the progressives of the west."

Denying assertions which he said had been made by republican leaders that the democratic party is a free trade party, Mr. Shouse said his party "stands for a necessary tariff."

"But the democratic party is definitely and unalterably opposed to using the tariff as a smoke screen to allow the favored contributors to republican campaign funds to rob the masses of the American people under the guise of protection," he added.

Predicting his remarks about farm legislation, Mr. Shouse said he had no desire to prejudge the present administration.

"But let the record be clear," he said of the pending measure, "it definitely represents the ideas and plans of the president. It is enacted by a congress in each house of which the republican party has a large majority. It is in its very essence an administration measure. If it meets the requirements of the farmers' situation the administration will deserve the credit. If it fails the administration must accept the responsibility."

Chairman Raskob in his address told the democratic leaders from over the country that he is confidently expected a further reduction of the $500,000 party deficit to under $300,000 during the current month, and added that it was the plan to raise an additional $250,000 to cover the expenses of building and conducting a national organization.

Senator Tydings of Maryland, chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee, pictured the republican situation in Washington as "a spectacle of disorganization" and declared that in the minds of the majority members "it is just a question as to how large will be the democratic inroads following the next election."

"Today in the senate," he said, "we find Senator Borah, who was President Hoover's chief spokesman during the campaign, openly charging that Mr. Hoover has not kept his campaign pledge to put agriculture on a basis of equality with other industries. In this view Senator Borah is supported by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who just missed being president, himself, by the smallest of obstacles, and about one third of the other republican senators."

The Maryland democrat asserted the "czar rule" was invoked by the administration in the house to prevent a vote on export debentures, and added that "with a republican president in the white house and an overwhelming majority in the house of representatives and in the senate, that party is so divided that it cannot legislate."

He declared that the same is true on the national origins immigration quota basis and pointed to the opposition of "Senator Reed, stalwart Hoover supporter, leading the fight against Mr. Hoover's recommendations."

"The men in the republican party who are opposing Mr. Hoover," asserted Senator Tydings, "are among the most prominent, the most dominant and most powerful in that great party."

CHAIRMAN RASKOB HAS NO INTENTION OF RESIGNING

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, told the party leaders gathered here tonight at a banquet honoring Jouett Shouse, the new chairman of the executive committee, that he had no intention of resigning.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD SUED BY SCULPTOR CAESAR STEA

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—Florenz Ziegfeld, the man who glorified the American girl, has been sued because he allegedly neglected to glorify Caesar Stea, sculptor.

Stea brought action in supreme court today against the theatrical producer, asking for a declaratory judgment to the effect that he is the sculptor of the busts of Ziegfeld which adorn the office and lobby of the Ziegfeld theatre here.

The complaint alleges that Ziegfeld, Stea claims, was then cast while he, Stea, was out of town, and with much ceremony and publicity was unveiled and placed in the lobby of the Ziegfeld theatre.

Stea was much pleased until he learned that the bust carried the name of Dubarry as the sculptor, and not Stea. Dubarry's name also appears as the sculptor of the bust in the Ziegfeld theatre programs.

Thus, the suit sets out, Stea, who has received a number of prizes and medays for other creations, was robbed of the credit for his work and asks the court to declare judically that he is the sculptor of the Ziegfeld bust.

Stea further asks that Ziegfeld be required to engrave his name on the busts and programs and pay him $5,000 as the reasonable value for his services.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS TO BEGIN WORK IN APRIL

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—Census enumerators will be ringing doorbells throughout the country beginning next April under a compromise on the consus-reapportionment bill reached today by senate and house conferees.

The senate wanted the count to begin in November and the house in May. The first adjustment of differences found the senators' viewpoint prevailing in the conference committee, but the house voted 160 to 136 today against the fall date. Consequently the bill was returned to conference.

An hour or so later the two groups reached the April agreement which probably will be taken up tomorrow by the house. Virtually the house struck out a requirement that a census be taken of the unemployed. Later it reconsidered the action and on a third vote decided again to strike it out. The conferees left the provision in the measure.

BRITISH MOTORISTS HUNT FOR SUNSHINE

LONDON—(AP)—Whoever wrote that old song, "Let the Sunshine In," never drove an automobile in England.

The British motorist's slogan as to the sunshine is "Go Out and Get It."

To help him in this quest the automobile association has devised an elaborate weather map, which it keeps up-to-the-minute with the aid of data from the British air ministry. It hangs in the window of the association's office near Leicester Square, and the adventurous automobilist in doubt as to where to go for his sunshine need only glance at it to know in what direction to steer.

Fifteen varieties of weather can be shown on the map—such are the peculiarities of England's climate—sometimes they are.

If the weather map proves popular with its members the association plans to install duplicates in all parts of the country.

DULUTH SEEKS WAY TO SPEND $850,000

DULUTH, Minn. —(AP)— Duluth has $350,000 in the bank for a new hospital, but can't spend it.

The money was given in 1922 by the late A. M. Miller, with the stipulation that it was to be used solely for building a hospital for the city's poor and needy.

No maintenance was provided and $125,000 yearly is needed for that. The city is starting its second litigation in search for a way to provide the amount.

Hoover Address At Cornerstone Laying

Members of Cabinet and Other Officials and Exercises at New Department of Commerce Building.

WASHINGTON, June 10.— (AP) — President Hoover today laid the cornerstone of the new department of commerce building and termed the structure the most important in the new program for better accommodation of the government and beautification of the national capital.

The chief executive delivered a brief address at the conclusion of a program in which Secretary Lamont, Senator Smoot, of Utah, Representative Elliott of Indiana, and George B. Cortelyou, the first secretary of commerce, participated. In setting the stone, Mr. Hoover used the trowel employed by George Washington in layin the cornerstone of the capitol in 1793.

The occasion, Mr. Hoover said, marked the emergence of the commerce department into full maturity and service and, had a significance which he, as a former secretary of the department and one who had had some part in planning for the building, could truly appreciate. Setting the cornerstone of any great public building in Washington, he declared, is a milestone of progress not only of the capital but of the nation as a whole.

Turning to the growth of governmental activities and administrative functions since the establishment of the republic, Mr. Hoover acknowledged that this expansion had been the cause of some criticism, but declared that such complaints could not be directed at the department of commerce, "for it is devoted solely to aid and foster the development of higher standards of living and comfort of our people."

The ideals of the department, Mr. Hoover summed up in one closing sentence:

"That by cooperation and not by compulsion it should seek to assist in maintaining and giving the impulse of progress to commerce and industry in a national whose successful economic life underlies advancement in every other field."

The indoor events tonight and tomorrow night were of supreme importance to the beauties even though they were not as magnificent a spectacle as the bathing costume parade yesterday. Miss United States will compete with the ten beauties from Europe, South America and the West Indies tomorrow night for the title of Miss Universe and a check for $2,000.

After Miss Universe is chosen the rest of the beauties will toe the mark on an equal footing for the other eight shares of the $5,000 prize money.

Action To Suppress Venezuelan Rebels

Netherlands Government to Send Destroyer to Curaco, D. W. T., to Be Ready in Case of Further Disorders.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, June 10.—(AP)—Jolted by the dramatic raid of Venezuelan rebels upon Willemstad, capital of the Dutch possession of Curacao, and lashed by criticism in the home press, the Netherlands government today took steps to strengthen its Caribbean possession.

The torpedo boat Kortenaer was dispatched this evening from the naval station at Nieuwediep from the hook of Holland, where she will take aboard tomorrow a detachment of landing troops 40 strong.

The Kortenaer will then proceed under full steam for Curacao to be ready in case of further disorders. Meanwhile the navy department is holding the cruiser Hertog Hendrix in readiness to start immediately for West Indian waters should the need arise.

Jonkheer Beelaerts Van Blokland, minister for foreign affairs, ascribed the attack, which he called a "putsch" to irresponsible persons. He declared his belief that it was not likely to lead to trouble between Holland and Venezuela.

The government was charged with "unbelievable carelessness" by Dutch newspapers for permitting a situation to exist in which such an attack as the Willemstad raid could gain initial headway.

Johnkheer Colyn, member of the Dutch senate, characterized the incident as humiliating to the national reputation in putting a question today to the minister of colonies.

STRIKERS MUST FACE HEARINGS ON MURDER

GASTONIA, N. C., June 10—(AP)—More than 40 strikers and strike leaders, members of the National Textile Workers union, will face preliminary hearings Saturday in connection with the death of Police Chief O. L. Aderholt and the wounding of three other officers in a battle Friday night between police and armed guards at a tent colony of striking employes of the Loray mills here.

Today the situation was quite. Police headquarters reported no legal moves had been made to release any of the persons under arrest. It was stated however that a number of the strikers held probably would be released if it was shown they had no actual connection connection with the fight.

The whereabouts of Fred Erwin Beal organizer for the National Textile union and leader of the Loray mill strike were still unknown today. Gastonia police would only say that he was held in a county jail somewhere in the state. He was arrested in Spartanburg, S. C., Saturday night. George W. Carter and Louis McLaughlin, strike guards, were known to be in the Asheville jail but where other leaders were secreted was not known. Carter was quoted in Asheville today as denying that he fired the shot which killed Chief Adheroit as alleged in some reports. Other prisoners here would say nothing in regard to the shooting.

City council today ordered the tented colony taken down due to the cost of maintaining a guard at the spot. City and special police had been on duty at the scene since the shooting as it was feared that the place would be demolished if it was left unguarded.

City council also voted today to employ five additional police officers.

SCHOONER AFIRE AT SEA: CREW WAS PICKED UP

HALIFAX, N. S., June 10—(AP)—Captain Robin F. Gouarme, of the French trawler, Sergeant Gouarme, reported in a wireless message to his agent here tonight that the fishing schooner Mary Sears of Gloucester, Mass., was abandoned afire at sea early today. The message said the trawler had picked up the schooner's crew and was proceeding to Halifax.

Captain Gouarme's message said simply, "bound for Halifax with the crew of American schooner Mary Sears set on fire this morning. Arrival tomorrow morning early."

No explanation of the fire was given, but it was thought here there was a possibility the vessel had been crippled in some way and subsequently set afire as a menace to navigation.

The Mary Sears had been engaged in mackerel fishing off the Nova Scotia coach. It was built at Essex, Mass., in 1926 and was owned by Jose S. Sears of Gloucester.

The vessel was 108 feet in length over all, 143 tons gross weight and was equipped with a 150 horse power auxiliary motor.

BORAH AND ALLEN CLASH IN SENATE ON FARM RELIEF BILL

The Sharp Debate Left Administration Leaders More Concerned Than Ever About the Outlook For the Farm Bill—Borah Championed the Export Debenture Proposal—Final Vote on Debenture Plan Will Be Taken at 4 P. M. Today— Senate Republican Leaders Have Abandoned Plans For an All-Summer Recess.

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—Two of President Hoover's staunchest supporters in the campaign—Senators Borah of Idaho and Allen of Kansas—clashed in the senate today over the export debenture farm relief plan in an exchange which added to the uncertainty surrounding the final vote to be taken at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

The Hoover campaigners described they held widely divergent views. Borah demanded enactment of the debenture section as a redemption of the party campaign pledge which Allen contended "this failure of the congress to include the debenture in the farm relief bill is not a violation of the republican platform."

The sharp debate left administration leaders more concerned than ever about the outlook for the farm bill, and it was predicted tonight by both sides that the vote on the democratic attempt to force a rejection of the conference report and a roll call vote in the house on debenture section would be so close that Vice President Curtis might be called upon to break a tie.

Borah voted for the debenture plan last month after President Hoover had declared against it, but today was the first time the since the issue split the republican ranks that he openly espoused it.

He became embroiled with Allen over a reference to newspaper editorials, which the Idaho senator had held to disclose the editors were opposed to debentures mainly because of fear they would ruin the protective tariff structure.

Senator Allen contended the newspapers of the west, including some in Idaho, were "genuinely surprised" when the debenture plans was introduced.

"These papers were singularly unanimous," Allen declared "to the effect that the democrats joined by a number of the non-conformists, have managed, by this coalition of themselves, to defeat the possibility of farm legislation in this special session, and that was the real merit of the debenture in the democratic mind and somewhat the merit of the debenture in some of the so-called republican minds."

Senator Borah retorted that Allen's remark "is a cowardly insinuation," and Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, declared that he likewise "considered the statement a cowardly insinuation."

Senator Norbeck, republican, South Dakota, declared it was "a mistake to say that the democrats were joined by certain others."

"It was the republicans who proposed the debenture plan, and not the democrats," he said. "What is more, every republican in the committee on agriculture and forestry voted for it. They only withdrew their support when the letter came from the white house."

Earlier Allen had challenged Borah to say why he had not advocated the debenture plan at the Kansas City convention, after Borah had read from the republican platform whose agricultural plank he said he had helped to frame.

"Why didn't you advocate putting the debenture provision in the platform," Allen queried. "You surely didn't want to fool the people, did you?"

"I didn't put in the platform," Borah retorted with some heat "but I did put in the language which would cover it under any possible interpretation."

"Let me say," he added "that we pledged the party to place agriculture on an equality with industry and I contend that the debenture is essential to place the farmer on that equality and if that is so I say that we will not be violating the republican platform by adopting the debenture."

"I just wanted to get from the senator's honest mind," Allen said, "that this failure of the congress to include the debenture in the farm relief bill is not a violation of the republican platform".

"I do not agree," Borah replied.

"We sit here in the senate today, democrats and republicans alike," he said, "pledged to put the American farmer upon an equality with industry if it is possible to do so."

The Idaho senator recalled that President Hoover had said the working out of the agricultural problem was the greatest task of the next administration and that the president had pledged himself to find a solution. The situation "on the almost anniversary" of that declaration, Borah said, was that the farmer's condition was worse than when it was made.

"Those who advocate the debenture plan," he said, "are doing so to give the farmer a just part of the protective system and in no sense as a gift, gratuity or special favor to the farmer."

He declared the editorials which attacked those who voted for the debenture plan really showed a fear that to give the farmer a share of the protective tariff would shatter the system. He argued that the debenture was not untried and that it could not be considered a bounty any more than was the effect of the tariff levied for the benefit of industry.

Borah declared that Hamilton and Webster believed the tariff to be actually a bounty. He said the debenture was only a method of subtracting from revenue and that the position of the republican party always had been that it was more necessary to build up industry than to collect revenue.

"We are asking no more than what you will do for dozens of industries when you pass the next tariff bill," he declared.

ABANDON ALL-SUMMER RECESS OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—Plans for an all-summer recess of congress, were abandoned today by senate republican leaders after a conference of senate democrats, decided against fixing a definite time to vote on the tariff bill.

An adjournment from about June 15th to August 10th, or 15th is now contemplated.

MACDONALD SKETCHES PLANS AT CABINET COUNCIL

LONDON, June 10—(AP)—The new labor government has opened its career with a move, almost startling in its originality, which cuts abruptly across traditional ideas of diplomacy.

The desire attributed to Premier Ramsay MacDonald, which is said to have been sketched before the first cabinet council today in the course of a general preliminary survey of the whole policy of the government, is to pay a visit to the United States and endeavor to cement peaceful relations between England and America by personal contacts at Washington. Canada would also be represented at the discussions.

In his first administration Premier MacDonald won the greatest honors by his conduct of British foreign policy and the nation's good will would certainly be with him in his new attempt to dissipate the world difficulties connected with the questions of disarmament and the freedom of the seas.

Much, of course, will depend upon circumstances in the premier's first moves. Mr. MacDonald is expected to await the arrival of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, to learn President Hoover's personal views before doing anything decisive.

The premier's idea is to make a trip to America in August or September, if the visit should be decided upon and proves acceptable to Washington. In those months parliament will be in its summer recess.

Mr. MacDonald had already announced that he hopes to visit Geneva for the meeting of the league assembly in September, so it may be assumed that the Washington trip would precede that to Geneva.

ENTIRE FAMILY OF FIVE DROWNED AT RANDOLPH, VT.

RANDOLPH, Vt., June 10.—(AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boardman, their son, Harry, and two daughters, Ona and Beatrice, drowned here tonight. Harry, while swimming, was caught in the current and the others lost their lives in attempting his rescue.

Harry, 15, was swimming with Randolph Bennett in a branch of the White river in the rear of the Boardman home. The current caught the Boardman boy and he was drawn into deep water. The cries of the two bathers aroused the other members of the family who rushed to their aid.

There were no witnesses to the final events of the tragedy as Bennett ran for aid when the others reached the bank. When he returned the bodies of the boy, the parents and the two girls were floating in the stream at a spot where the water was ten feet deep. Benjamin Webster and his son, Paul, brought them to the shore and tried to revive them but all were dead.

JABBED WITH SHEARS—STONINGTON ASSAULT CASE

Before Judge William A. Wilcox, of Pawcatuck, at a short session of Stonington town court Monday morning, Alexander Lopes was arraigned by Prosecutor Henry P. Hammacher, charged with making an aggravated assault upon Alfred Lewis, 24, of Mystic. When on Water street in Stonington he was alleged to have stabbed the latter in the back with a pair of barber's shears. The prosecutor told the court that he had been in touch with the attending physician, Dr. D. E. G. Taylor, who stated that due to the seriousness of the injuries it was difficult at present to predict what the ultimate extent of the injury might be. The injured man and the accused were friends and it is understood that strenuous efforts have been made to have the case withdrawn. The prosecutor declared that justice could be best met by a continuance, there being not sufficient evidence before the court for a proper adjudication. A continuance of 30 days to July 9th was asked and granted by Judge Wilcox. The bond was made $500 and John Cospodio of Stonington was continued as bondsman.

"I Lay Off Sweets and smoke Lucky Strikes"

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

"Spring training is going to be a cinch—I won't have to take off any weight. Instead of growing fat and flabby I'm going to be full of 'pep' because I lay off sweets and smoke Lucky Strikes. The marvelous toasted flavor of Luckies brings complete enjoyment and relaxation. I'm strong for Luckies—they bat .400 in the cigarette league."

GORDON S. COCHRANE

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet. Thousands are doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Word has been received here of the death at State college, Penn., of Prof. Irving Foster, educator and author, whose early studies were made in the schools of this town and who for the past thirty years has been engaged in educational work. Prof. Foster died June 1. As a youth he was a resident on a farm near Killingly Center. Through the years that he has been away he has returned here occasionally to visit with friends and acquaintances of his earlier years. He was the author of several books, was held in high esteem as a teacher and earned wide recognition for his scholarship. He leaves his wife.

Booths for the exhibitors who are to have space at the textile exhibit and style show of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association were in place in the state armory today, and decorators were at work transforming the big drill shed into picturesque dress, with generous use of the national colors. The opening of the three days show will take place Thursday evening, and will be preceded by a parade. Prentice W. Chase, secretary of the association, said this afternoon that he is yet hopeful that Governor Trumbull will be in attendance on the opening night, although up to this time he had received no definite assurance as to this.

Horwitz Brothers of New Haven have purchased the business of F. E. Bitgood, in the Hyde block, and took possession today. The new owners are experienced merchandise men and operate another store doing a very successful business in New Haven. Mr. Bitgood is retiring after having been in business here for the past 37 years. Some time since, following a serious illness, he gave notice that he was to dispose of his business interests.

Elsewhere in this issue today appears a legal notice by the selectmen of Killingly relative to the removal of 14 trees on the south side of Davis park. This notice, asking for bids for removal of the trees, specifies are to be cut, felled and stumps removed at least one foot beneath the surface of the road; that all wood, stumps and limbs be removed to such place as the selectmen may designate; that holes are to be refilled with small stone and gravel, well tamped, and that the highway be left in condition suitable for travel and satisfactory to the selectmen. The trees must be taken down in such manner as not to injure a row of smaller trees growing parallel with them. The contractor must carry workmen's compensation insurance for the protection of the employes and liability insurance to protect the town from financial responsibility for any damage that might be caused to adjoining property owners, or the property of any public utility company having wires along the street. The bids are to be opened on June 24. An appropriation of $700 has been made available for the work by a vote of a special town meeting. In view of the fact that there have been claims that the work can be done for as little as $300, it will be interesting to see whether or not this estimate is reflected in the bids that come in.

A representative of a municipal service company was in Danielson today interviewing citizens relative to creating interest in Killingly for a scientifically made revaluation of the properties of the town. Such a revaluation must be made in Killingly not later than 1930, to comply with the law. The proposal outlined today involves the making of complete aerial maps of Killingly, one of the large towns, as to area, of the state, and fixing a valuation on all buildings, land, stocks of goods and whatever else is taxable. The cost, it is estimated, would hardly be less than $15,000, and might exceed that figure. Use of aeroplanes to do the map work would entail one considerable item of expense. The concern that would interest this town in contracting with it to do the revaluation work has been engaged for years in this line, and has operated in many states. It is at present engaged in such work in the town of Windham.

A large circle around the sun—a sun dog—was of much interest to many who observed the phenomenon here about 11.45 this morning. Sun dogs are rarely seen hereabouts.

When the annual meeting of the Killingly Trust company takes places next week the stockholders will vote on the proposal to change the par value of the stock of the company from $100 to $25 per share.

PUTNAM

LAURETTA GREGOIRE DIES AS RESULT OF DIPHTHERIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 10—A shroud of sorrow was thrown over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aldolphus Gregoire of Maynard street today when all efforts of medical science failed to save the life of their eleven year old daughter Lauretta, who died shortly after noon, a victim of diphtheria. The young girl was born in Putnam, February 20, 1918. She was a pupil in the fifth grade of St. Mary's parochial school and was exceptionally talented and adapted to her studies. Two weeks ago when over three hundred boys and girls of St. Mary's church were enrolled in the sacrament of Holy Eucharist, Lauretta was among the number of girls, beautifully attired in their first communion gowns and veils of white.

Funeral services for the young girl will be strictly private. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The death of Miss Gregoire caused the spread of some alarm among the residents of the city late this afternoon but a statement from Health Officer Peter A. Gardner was to the effect that there are no causes to warrant any fear of an epidemic of diphtheria.

Five cases were slated for hearing on the docket of police court this morning but only three reached settlement. Fred Brassard of Main street was arraigned on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested Saturday evening by Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police following an auto mishap in which his car figured. He was found guilty of the charge and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed, in addition to a 30 day jail sentence, the execution of which was suspended for a period of six months.

A Putnam man was found guilty of intoxication and paid a fine of $10 and costs. Another man also of this city was found guilty of the same offense paid a fine of $20 and costs of court. Both were arrested by Officer Alpherie Sponcey of the local police.

Judge M. H. Geissler who presided at the two previous hearings was disqualified because of personal contact, to sit on the case of the State vs. George Lindgren of Pomfret who was charged with a motor vehicle law violation. This case had been pending for several weeks and in each previous instance had been continued because of some delay by the prosecution. An additional continuance was applied for this morning but in view of the circumstances Deputy Judge Archibald Macdonald Jr., who presided, saw no cause for action and he ordered the case dismissed and the charges against Mr. Lindgren nolled.

George Burnham of Killingly, arrested two weeks ago by Sergt. George Ligre on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor was in court this morning and upon his request the case was continued again for a period of two weeks.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Benoit of Ravine street were held this morning at nine o'clock in St. Mary's church. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, assisted by Rev Father Jegou, chaplain of the mother house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost as deacon and by Rev. Joseph D. Casey as sub deacon. The Gregorian chant was sung by the members of the ten-thirty o'clock choir. The bearers at the funeral were Emile Benoit of Putnam, Theophile Duville of North Grosvenordale, Fred Lapaime of Abramville, R. I., Eugene Berthiaume of this city, Joseph Pallotti and John Douville of Taftville.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and committal exercises at the grave were pronounced by Rev. U. O. Bellerose.

Sergt. Joseph Bove of the headquarters company of the 43rd, Putnam national guard unit was named by Captain John J. McGarry, commanding officer of the company to succeed Fred McCollough as 1st sergeant of the outfit, discharged to enlist in the United States army.

The headquarters company of this city today was in receipt of an invitation to go to Danielson June 13th to take part in the trades exposition to be held in that borough. Capt. John J. McGarry said this afternoon that he expects his company will join in the exercises. The local soldiers will be called upon to act as an escort and body guard for his excellency, Gov. John H. Trumbull who will visit the exposition.

Fred Johnson of North Grosvernordale injured Saturday morning while at work in the Grosvernordale company was reported by the officials of the Day Kimball hospital as somewhat improved today. Johnson sustained severe injuries to the calf of his leg.

The report of the reconstruction of the city water piping system it is expected will be submitted to Mayor Charles A. Richard and members of the common council for their approval at a meeting of the council to be held (Tuesday) evening. Chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners Ralph E. Thurston, it is believed, will make the report. The plans of the commission have already received the approval of Henry Symonds, hydraulic consulting engineer and of City Engineer George W. Perry, who conferred with the chairman of the board last week.

The annual Children's day and baptism was held yesterday at the Second Congregational church. Seven children were baptized and Bibles were presented to eleven children who had reached the age of 11 years.

Because of recent cases where rabies have been discovered in dogs in the town of Thompson and Woodstock many in this city are under the impression that the quarantine on dogs in Putnam is still in effect. This is not so, according to a statement from Health Officer Peter A. Gardner today. The health official said that the ban on the dogs in Putnam was revoked by the domestic animal department of the state two weeks ago. No quarantine was applied in either the towns of Woodstock or Thompson according to information obtained today.

Kenneth Rawley and Augustus Wilson of Suffield academy have finished their studies there and are spending the summer holidays at their home in this city.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH.

What New England has done in the way of getting new industries during the past several years was interestingly revealed at the quarterly session of the New England council. It showed not only that New England is still an industrial section of the country but that it is more than able to make up for any losses which it has sustained industrially, if the number of manufacturing plants is considered.

Many are the cities which can point to concerns which have gone into other parts of the country or gone out of business, but the council discloses that New England has nevertheless gone ahead. The figures are not available for all of New England during 1928 but those communities which have reported show a net gain in industries of 167 with a net gain in employes of 8437. An even better showing is expected when the reports are all in.

During 1927 there was a net gain in industries of 266 and in 1926 the gain was 224. In the latter year 10,998 employes were added and in 1927 there was a gain of 7687, and it is worthy of note that the average size of the new industries is increasing while for those which we have lost the tendency was the other way.

For the encouragement of new industries the council has organized a corporation to supply capital for small concerns which are found to be sound. The purpose is to aid the small manufacturing establishments, which have a good claim for existence and which, as has often proved to be the case, may be the basis for the large industries of the future.

This is one step which cities may well consider through civic organizations in striving for industrial improvement. Small, struggling industries should get careful and encouraging attention. They seek no bonus, they can demonstrate their claim to a right to exist, they can invariably present an attractive proposition from a business and a development standpoint and they can prove that they are an asset to the city. With local capital being employed to foster such concerns and to give them a chance to get well onto their feet valuable help would be given and lasting benefit to the community would result.

A CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE.

In the United States there has been much more interest displayed in upsetting the present method of holding sessions of congress and substituting something else, than there has been in much of the other legislation. Even now, before it has disposed of other matters for which the extra session was called, it has gone on record as favoring a constitutional amendment which would place the inauguration date on January 15 and would call for the opening of a congress that was elected in November on the second of the following January.

The purpose of this is to do away with the short session of congress following a presidential election, in which it is often possible for those who are going out of office and who represent different policies from the newly elected president and congress to put through a lot of legislation against the verdict of the people on election day.

It is not a new effort in the senate. The present favorable action represents the fifth time that the senate has reached this decision, a decision which has never appeared to the house. Thus there is no certainty that the house will be any more favorably inclined this time.

There is a feeling that there is an opportunity for the correction of some of the things complained of concerning the short session without a constitutional amendment, but even that step has not been taken. But the real struggle on the part of the advocates at the present time lies in convincing the house that the change ought to be made. Try as it will it has never been able to bring the house to the point of allowing the voters to express themselves upon it. Evidently the house believes that it is justified in its opposition.

NO CHANCE HERE.

It may be a bit too early to pass judgment on what the new British government is going to do in regard to soviet Russia. There can be little doubt, however, as to what Moscow will seek to have it do.

The soviet government was able to convince the British once, that it was a desirable thing for them to get into closer relations, to recognize the government at Moscow and to thereby stimulate trade. That experience wasn't so long ago that it ought to be forgotten, inasmuch as it resulted in the breaking off of those relations and the revelation of conditions which made it surprising that there was ever any thought of recognition.

Moscow has nevertheless been seeking to get into the good graces of more nations since that time. It has been claiming that it has changed for the better, and it is no secret that it has been bringing much pressure to bear as the result of the trade possibilities which exist in that country. Thus it would be the most natural thing in the world for the soviet government to bow before the laborite government at London and plead for recognition. Perhaps Premier MacDonald is prepared to enter into closer relations. There is also the chance that he will act favorably upon the petition of Trotsky to be allowed to enter England for medical treatment.

Regardless of what the British government does there is no reason to believe that the United States will do otherwise than adhere to the stand which was taken years ago when Russia was told the terms under which it would be recognized. There has been no compliance with any such requirements. There is no indication that the soviet government intends to yield. We have, however, stated our price and there is no reason for changing it. The next move rests entirely with Moscow, and this regardless of whatever course may be followed by London, or what the views of Premier MacDonald are.

CELEBRATING THE FOURTH.

What plans are you making for the celebration of the Fourth of July this year?

In the interest of protection of life and property, the observance of the nation's holiday has undergone a marked change. It took a long time to bring the people to an appreciation of a safe and sane Fourth, but after it was put into effect for a few years and it was possible to compare the results under it with those previous to its adoption there could not fail to be an endorsement of the plan.

While there may have been those who thought they were being more patriotic by taking chances and losing their lives, their arms their legs, their eyes or their fingers, such was not the case. They were making a display of their recklessness instead of their patriotism. They were taking advantage of Independence day to indulge in wild and unreasonable celebration which endangered them and others and in too many instances caused suffering and sorrow.

It is a good thing that there has been a curbing of that kind of celebrating. It has been accompanied by certain restrictions and certain legislation. Throughout the country there has been a rallying to the plea to establish greater safety.

In the state of Michigan, the legislature this year adopted a law prohibiting the sale of firecrackers, fireworks, toy pistols and explosives except that the display of fireworks be arranged and conducted by proper authority. Michigan is apparently disposed to have this new law enforced. That should mean that the attitude of the public is to conform to the restrictions in the belief that the day can be properly observed without the resort to the dangerous methods which have been employed in the past. That is one state which has recognized the benefits attached to the safe and sane Fourth and which believes that it ought to be upheld and aided through legislative action. City ordinances restricting the time when explosives can be used and the type of them, as well as the licensing of dealers therein, prevail in many municipalities but Michigan sets the pace for actually prohibiting their sale.

IN BEHALF OF SAFETY.

As the result of the action of the recent session of the general assembly concerning the use of reflectors on trucks, or commercial cars, compliance with the provisions of the amended law and the equipping of such machines with approved reflectors will be required the first of September. It will not only be necessary to carry reflectors but they must be of the approved type after that date. In the interest of safety for other users of the highway the importance of this provision cannot be ignored.

At the same time, the motor vehicle authorities in Massachusetts are making it apparent that they are mindful of the serious traffic problem that is created by trucks and steps are being taken to check up these vehicles to ascertain whether they are complying with the law concerning load restrictions.

There is a limit to the load that can be carried, there is a limit to the width of the trucks and there is a provision that if trucks with a total weight of more than four and a half tons goes through a bridge there can be no recovery for damages on the part of the truck owner.

Whether the truck owners are law abiding or not will be quickly found out if the Massachusetts inspectors check them all up. It was not long ago that there was a through test of lights and brakes on pleasure cars with the result that a large number of them were found defective. If the result of the check on trucks produces any such results as were revealed with the pleasure cars it may not surprise some people but it will mean the correction of conditions which ought not to prevail on the highways.

The time may never come when there are ideal conditions and when safety is at the high level that it should be, but every effort in that direction is only what the users of public thoroughfares are entitled to in these days of rapidly increasing traffic and a too extensive disregard for regulations and the rights of others.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, June 10—Little Zachariah Bridgden, Harvard, 1687, working his way through for bed, board and one pound and a few shillings at the end of the year for ringing the college bell, didn't have anything over some of the most distinguished New England men in congress today. For there are scores of self-help men there who hold the highest rank.

They may not run neck and neck with the young New England boy, who about 200 years ago went through Harvard on a diet of corn meal. He could buy a peck for 25 cents, and it would last him a month, with a little syrup and milk thrown in. His menu ranged all the way from mush to flap-jacks. But the New England men of today held their own when it came to self-help through college.

There is Representative John Q. Tilson of New Haven, for instance. Tilson left his home in the Tennessee mountains with exactly $100 in his pocket. His trip to New Haven cost him $30, so he started out on his path to distinction with the sum of $70 as capital. He paid that for Yale tuition, then started out to hunt up work. He waited on table at commons; he did odd jobs, landed a chance to sell newspapers, and became distributor, which meant he had to get the early edition on the 3 a. m. train out of New Haven. He picked up some clerical work, reported for college papers, also became an editor. He earned his room board and a little to spare. Graduating from Yale he entered the law school and again worked his way through, getting a little higher in the scale each time. Then he practiced law. He was an officer in the Spanish American war; was elected to congress, became its ordnance expert during the World war, and is now the eminent and efficient floor leader of the majority party, and a trusted friend and advisor of President Hoover.

How's that for a career begun on $70 with a six years' course of study staring him in the face?

Over in the senate we find only one New England democrat. That is David I. Walsh of Massachusetts. Walsh is another self-help man. He started in on a much lower rung of the ladder and at a younger age than Tilson. Walsh earned his first money by picking blueberries and selling them before he was hardly out of rompers. He peddled papers, flung handbills from door to door, carried tin dinner pails to men working in the factory; and after leaving the public school worked his way through Holy Cross college and the Boston university law school. Now he is in the United States senate. Pretty good for a start on picking blueberries.

Let's take another senator from New England who is not a college man in the strictest sense, although Brown university has bestowed a degree upon him. That is Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island who has endowed college, given scholarships and helped self-helpers. Metcalf is a man of wealth, dignity and distinction. When he was asked how he earned his first money he laughed and replied, "By raising rhubarb in our little back yard. And it was good rhubarb too, the kind that turns a pretty pink in color when it is cooked."

Then I learned that Senator Metcalf began his business career when he was "knee high to a tree toad," as they say way down east. And the senator confesses that no college degree, no business success, no distinction of any sort that may have come to him, ever gave him the thrill that he got when he wore his "first pair of pants that were not made-overs" from his big brother's. For the Metcalf family were rich in number and poor in purse. The senator says the proudest moment in his life was when his mother, who made all the clothes for the children, gave him a full suit made out of brand new cloth. "Sunday came," said the senator, "and mother said to me 'step out Jesse, and let me see how you look.' " And Jesse stepped out with his head high in the air. "I never felt so big in all my life," said Senator Metcalf today, "as when I started off for Sunday school that morning."

But his pride had a fall soon after while he was not old enough to count his age by two figures. It came when he took his little "best girl" to a church supper. He had worked hard and earned ten cents with which to treat her to ice cream. But she demanded a sandwich to go with the cream. That was too much of a strain on the senator's purse, so he started out to borrow it. "Ten cents is a lot of money for one little boy to borrow from another little boy," said the senator. "I had a lot of trouble in getting it, but finally succeeded and got the little girl her sandwich. But I shall always remember how I scowled at her every time she took a bite."

There are scores of other men in congress who "worked their way" through school and college. The New England senators and members of the house have lived up to the pace set by little Zachariah nearly 300 years ago, whether their careers begun with blueberries, rhubarb, waiting on table or just doing "chores."

Mrs. Hoover, although winning an A. B. at Stanford university more than 30 years ago, received last week her first honorary degree. It came from Swarthmore college, which is a Quaker college and took great pride in bestowing the degree on the Quaker wife of a Quaker president.

It represents what is known as the Hicksite branch of the Society of Friends, Haverford being the college of orthodox Quakers, according to accepted reports.

President Hoover has had degrees bestowed on him from 28 colleges, many of them being over sea. They include Oxford, Prague, Ghent, Lecow and other noted European and English universities, besides Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Princeton and practically all the great universities of the United States.

Not only is Mrs. McDill McCormick, now member of the house from Illinois out for a seat in the senate, but apparently Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owens is likewise working to be a United States senator.

Rumor has it that she will make a big effort to succeed Senator Fletcher of Florida, whose term expires in 1932. Mrs. Owen and Mrs. McCormick are exceedingly energetic ladies. They walk great distances, are devoted to the saddle and the track. Tennis and outdoor sports appeal to them, and they are each tireless campaigners. Mrs. McCormick feels certain she didn't skip a city, town or village in Illinois in her house-to-house canvass for support for the office she now holds, but Senator Deneen has a wonderfully well organized support of his own. The fight for primary nomination in Illinois is sure to be one of the most bitter in the country. It was Senator Deneen who defeated the late Senator McCormick for re-election to the senate, and his widow Mrs. McCormick is not of a "forgetful" temperament, which will add zest to the campaign.

Representative Fenn, as chairman of the census committee and whose name the reapportionment bill bears, has had his hands full the past week, for the bill was the center of one of the hottest fights congress has witnessed this session.

It passed the house with amendments that can scarcely find their way through the senate. New England members rushed to the support of the Tinkham amendment which would make representation of southern states depend on allowing the Negroes to vote, something that is a recognized failure now to do in many southern states. The southern men in the senate will fight that amendment tooth and nail, and it will be interesting to see whether the insurgents who are so ready to run side by side with the democrats on the farm bill will stand by them in the Negro vote question they must soon meet.

Mr. Fenn proved himself an able committee chairman, but was much hampered by the fact that the committee is not organized for the extra session, so he could not rally them to his support, along the customary lines while conducting the debate on the floor.

Representative and Mrs. Freeman are counting on a recess this summer that will permit them to return to their home on the water front of New London. The river and harbor committee of which Mr. Freeman is ranking member has not had much to do this year but it is expected the opening of the regular December session will find river and harbor projects one of the most prominent of the winter legislative program.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11—Way back in August, 1921, a two-sentence dispatch from Washington announced that a Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt of Los Angeles would be recommended for appointment as assistant attorney general.

It was just a few months after President Harding took office, and the recommendation was made by Attorney General Daugherty.

And that was the beginning of the most colorful feminine career in Washington official life yet recorded—a career that will end—at least, temporarily — when Mrs. Willebrandt leaves office about mid-June. Her resignation as accepted by President Hoover is effective then.

That first announcement of Mrs. Willebrandt's forthcoming plunge into national and political controversy is interesting for another reason.

It recalls that she was not the first woman lawyer to hold a post as assistant attorney general, a fact most people have forgotten. She was named to succeed Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams of San Francisco, to whom belongs the honor of being the first of her sex entrusted with high department of justice responsibilities.

Ambition Thwarted

It is hardly to be doubted on the face of the news files record of her Washington life that Mrs. Willebrandt leaves public office in disappointment.

Twice she seemed almost in sight of appointment to the federal bench. Both times vigorous objections among politicians "on the hill" blocked her pathway. So she goes back to private practice still lacking that signal recognition of her legal attainments toward which she set out so long ago.

Mrs. Willebrandt's appointment as assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement matters came at a time when the Harding administration was credited with having adopted a policy of turning that controversial aspect of government administration over to the friends of prohibition.

Here was not the only Harding appointment generally given that meaning at the time. And as chief government law officer, responsible for execution of the dry laws, it was certain Mrs. Willebrandt's feet were set in a thorny pathway. It needs but a glance at the news files to show how thorny it was in fact.

Likes Trouble

Yet the California lady lawyer clearly appears to have thrived on trouble. She proved herself a hard hitter both in prohibition matters and in party politics.

An original Hoover-for-president-booster, she became the center in the Smith-Hoover campaign itself of the most heated excursions and alarums.

Charges of appealing to religious bigotry in her pro-Hoover campaign speeches rattled and thundered about her head day and night.

Whether Mrs. Willebrandt's resignation is directly traceable to her feeling then, that the party campaign managers had failed to support her adequately in that turmoil, does not appear.

It is a notable fact, however, that with her resignation the second of the outstanding department of justice figures which bulked large in the Hoover campaign retires without reward.

The other was William J. Donovan, former assistant to the attorney general.

THE IDENTIFICATION CARD

A week after he had been dismissed, disengaged or whatever term of the relations between himself and Mary Porter, Arthur Fenton sat in his room alone, brooding over the situation.

He was fully aware that the thing had happened, that it was irrevocable and that there was some perfectly logical and unanswerable reasons for the breaking of their engagement, but he was quite honestly in the dark as to just what had brought it about.

The rupture had taken place on their return from a dance at the country club a week before, and he couldn't think of anything he had done to make her throw him over as she had. Except when he had been with little Madeline Cuthbert, he hadn't particularly enjoyed himself, since Mary had danced most of the time with the other fellows.

But he hadn't had such a bad time when he was with Madeline. She was a pretty little thing and jolly. On the way home he had said something of the kind to Mary, who had merely replied rather stiffly that she hadn't noticed the girl. Then she had lapsed into silence, and when they had reached her home she had told him rather heatedly how she felt.

"When two people have absolutely nothing in common," she had said, "it would be perfectly idiotic for them to try to get along together the rest of their lives." She had concluded by saying that there was no question about their being utterly unsuited to one another, and the sooner they recognized that fact the better. And that, for the time being, was that.

On this particular evening, as he sat in his room vainly trying to keep his mind on his book, Fenton felt almost savage enough to agree with her.

His bitter reflections were broken into by the shrill call of the telephone. He flung the book across the room, jumped to his feet, and dashed over to the instrument. He had done this every time it had rung since the fatal night.

"Fenton speaking," he said, and waited hopefully. To his disappointment it was a man's voice that came over the wire, and no sweet feminine tone.

"This is Park's drug store, corner of Pierce and Archer," the voice said. "A young lady who was hit by an auto has been brought in here and we've found an indentification card that has your name on it—party to be notified, in case of accident, see? Her name's Mary Porter. Do you know her?"

Did he know her? Before Park's drug store had ceased speaking, Fenton was halfway down the stairs, going at breakneck speed. In what seemed to him an interminable time, but was really a very short interlude, he was kneeling beside a pale young woman who lay on a couch at the back of the store, her eyes closed, her face looking pathetically small and young. She languidly opened her eyes as he knelt beside her, then clutched his hand convulsively.

"Oh, Art, dear," she murmured. "An automobile struck me. I don't think I'm really hurt, but I was so frightened. I think I fainted—I'm so glad you came. How did you happen to know—" There was a little break in his laugh as he held before her eyes the bit of pasteboard the drug clerk had pushed into his hand.

"It was this blessed old identification card, darling," he whispered jubilantly. "Do you remember the night we gave them to each other, and promised to keep them always? Of course, I've kept mine, but—after the way I behaved—I didn't suppose you'd keep yours. O, sweetheart, I can't tell you how happy I am." Her fingers closed around his.

"Of course, I kept it," she said very, very softly. "Arthur—dear. O, I've missed you so." Another little pause. Another little pressure of his hand. Then, with apparent irrelevance: "Of course, I know you never really cared anything for that stupid little Cuthbert girl, even though you did act so silly over her."

A grinning drug clerk, who had been hovering around, drinking in both words and action, watched them from the doorway as presently they taxied down the street.

"A peach," he said to himself admiringly. His grin broadened. "And slick? Gosh! I bet that guy never will know she gave me that card herself and told me to telephone him. Not if he waits for her to tell him—not in a thousand years he won't."—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Test Your Knowledge of Typhoid Prevention

By Alex. M. Burgess, M. D., Providence.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

The object of modern education is so to develop the capabilities of the individual that he may be of maximum value to himself and to society; in other words, to help him get the most out of life and to give the most to it—to the life of his time and his community. It follows then that no hard and fast program can profitably be followed by all students, but that courses of study must be varied to suit individual talents. Nevertheless, there are certain fundamentals that must serve as a basis for further development in any intellectual field and without which higher education cannot be achieved. The well known "three R's" and most of the other subjects taught in the lower grades are examples of such basic or fundamental material. With these we must nowadays include a certain amount of instruction in personal and public hygiene.

If we expect a grammar school student to know how to solve a problem in long division or fractions, we also expect him to know how to care for an open cut so as to prevent infection. In the same way, a college graduate who can translate an ode of Horace or write an essay on Immanuel Kant should at least be able to tell something of the methods used in the prevention of the spread of typhoid fever or the nature and value of diphtheria anti-toxin. Certainly there is no walk of life in which it is not essential to have at least a little acquaintance with the main facts related to personal and public health. To the lawyer, the legislator, the engineer and the priest, for example, such knowledge is an essential. To all others, whether clerk, housewife, artisan or factory worker, it is also of the greatest value, especially to those who are rearing families of their own.

At the present time public instruction in health matters varies greatly in different communities. In most of the public schools some instruction is given, while in a few cities the work has been very fully developed. In the colleges, departments of hygiene or their equivalents have been almost everywhere established, and in most of them enough of this work is required of all students so that no one can graduate and still be entirely ignorant of health matters, as was usually the case less than a quarter of a century ago. Besides regular school and college instruction, there is much helpful material available to the public in the form of newspaper and magazine articles, radio talks, lectures, etc. Unfortunately, it is often difficult for the untrained person to distinguish between such straightforward instruction presented to them by experts and the matter that is foisted upon them by the advertisers of various nostrums. The magazine Hygeia, published by the American Medical association, the series of articles published by the Gorgas Memorial Institute, and the health columns of many of the daily papers conducted by well known health officials are good examples of legitimate attempts to educate the adult public. In addition to this every family should find a ready source of information on these subjects in the person of its own family physician.

In connection with the teaching of hygiene, the actual measures that are taken in school and college to protect the health of the student have a great educational value. The work of the school nurse and physician, including, for example, various examinations and prophylactic vaccinations, and the isolation of students exposed to contagious diseases, produce impressions on the mind of the student that are not likely to be forgotten. All this is part of the health program of the school.

This work in health development deserves the support of every citizen. If it is further developed as it should be, the average citizen will be well able intelligently to safeguard the health of himself and his family and to aid the cause of proper public hygiene in his community. Furthermore, with the greater diffusion of real knowledge of the fundamental facts that underlie modern medicine and surgery, there will be less and less of the tendency to rush off in desperation to the ignorant quack or cultist with the inevitable suffering that results from such a course. The end result of an increased public comprehension of personal and public hygiene will be a greater degree of health and happiness in the American home.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Flag

Mr. Editor: On Memorial day several of our country's flags were displayed wrong, three were noticed on Broadway. When the flag is displayed flat against a wall or house, the Union or blue field should be at the flag's own right and to the observers left. When displayed over an east and west street the Union should be to the north and over a north and south street the Union to the east.

On June 14th, Flag day, when every patriotic citizen should display the colors, let us hope they will be displayed right, also that they will not be left out after the sun has set, as they were by some on Memorial day.

PATRIOT.

WILLIMANTIC DECIDES ON SURFACE FOR MAIN ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 11—Following a long drawn argument which was kept well stirred up by Alderman C. E. MacFarlane it was voted about 12:15 o'clock this morning by the common council that Main street from the American Thread company office to a point opposite Dunham street be permanently surfaced in the same manner of work and the same material, tarvialithic, as was used last year in the surfacing of Main street from the railroad crossing to the mill office. Aldermen O. L. Willard and MacFarlane were in favor of continued investigation of other materials that might be used in the work. Alderman William E. Webber took the stand in favor of the tarvialithic, the work to be done by local help under the supervision of Superintendent of Streets Edwin O. Sumner and Acting City Engineer John F. Collins. He was backed in the final vote by Aldermen Lewis, Lamoureux and Reilly.

Pursuant to a resolution introduced by Chairman Lewis of the police committee the police department will realize on a long felt need in the near future by the purchase of a police automobile. In this instance the "black maria" is expected to be a small car of the pleasure type. Two of the police motorcycles will be traded in in buying the car.

The sewer committee on motion of Alderman Webber was authorized to report on the expenditures that would be involved in laying a trunk line sewer on Ash street, beginning at Natchaug street, to accommodate Bolivia, Church, North and several other streets of that district.

Gorham formerly worked at the Saxton Woolen mills at Norwich Town and a check for $22.50 which he passed here had the name of Charles Saxton on it, but was drawn on a bank where there was no such account.

CITY TAX KEPT TO 13 MILLS; FEW EXTRAS GET APPROVAL OF MEETING

After voting all regular appropriations, as submitted by the finance committee of the court of common council, disapproving six of the "extras", tabling six other "extras", amending four "extras", cutting the appropriations asked for and approving two of the 17 "extras", the annual city meeting at the town hall Monday evening laid a tax of 13 mills on the dollar. The 17 "extras" suffered heavily as an economical streak seemed to prevail at the meeting which had an attendance of about 500 men and women voters of the city. The influence of the Norwich Taxpayers' association, recently organized, appeared to carry weight at the meeting. The members were evidently present in force to back up the action the association took last week on the various items asked for. President Daniel T. Shea was spokesman for the taxpayers' association.

Department of public works—Ordinary repairs and expenses $73,000; outside work $5,000; garbage and ashes $35,500; sewers and catch basins $5,500; macadam repairs $7,000; liability insurance $4,000; parks and trees $4,000; comfort station for women $1,500; equipment $7,000; oiling and sprinkling $24,000; reappropriation for Sunnyside avenue sewers and basins $718.98; total $167,218.98; grand total $2,024,720.67.

Some Increases.

The half dozen increases in the regular appropriations were briefly explained by Mayor Robbins. In the cemetery department $12,500 was appropriated, an increase of $2,000 over last year. Mayor Robbins explained the $2,000 increase by stating that the employes of the cemetery department, the lowest paid laborers employed by the city, asked for an increase of 25 cents a day in pay. Their pay is 38 cents an hour, the mayor said. The mayor also spoke of improvements that are needed at the cemeteries, in the way of new fences, gates, etc.

For the police department, an appropriation of $83,000, for salaries and general expenses was voted, an increase of $5,500 over last year. Mayor Robbins explained that this increase is to provide an extra patrolman and an extra mounted officer. An extra officer is needed at Franklin square, the mayor said. There is too much speeding and too little protection for the school children.

The $1,000 increase for the health department, the mayor explained, was due to the cost of the smallpox epidemic. The health department already has bills amounting to $600 to pay because of the smallpox situation.

The appropriation of $75,000 voted for interest under the water department appropriations is $5,000 more than last year. This, the mayor explained, is due to increased interest rates.

Edward Sullivan, a playground instructor, formerly but not now employed by the recreation commission launched an attack on the commission which asked for a $1,000 increase over last year and got it. When this appropriation was called for action, Mayor Robbins asked William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreation commission, to explain the need for the additional $1,000.

Mr. Fitzgerald stated that the commission has been in operation for seven years. In 1922 there were but five playgrounds. Last year there were 10 playgrounds and two recreation fields. Some equipment needs repairing and other equipment must be replaced, Mr. Fitzgerald explained. He moved that the item be approved.

Suggests Investigation.

Mr. Sullivan then launched his attack. He suggested an investigation of the commission, rather than an increase in the appropriation. He quoted salaries paid employes of the commission and stated that the superintendent of the playgrounds was not a citizen of Norwich and never has been. He advocated examinations for appointments as instructors.

Mr. Fitzgerald quickly answered the attack on the commission by informing the meeting that the superintendent of the playgrounds, Earle Brigham is a citizen of Norwich. Mr Fitzgerald explained that the commission has always insisted on the instructors being residents of Norwich.

"I was at an opening tonight at the Hollyhock Island recreation field, and there were 3,000 people there," said Mr. Fitzgerald (loud applause). "I welcome investigation of the recreation commission," he continued. "The recreation commission has always been a football," said Mr. Fitzgerald. He quoted appropriations, much larger than those voted locally, made in numerous cities throughout New England and added that he hoped that the appropriation would pass.

Mr. Sullivan volunteered the information that everyone of the Massachusetts cities quoted by Mr. Fitzgerald, was on a civil service basis. "I am not campaigning for myself," he said, "but for our boys and girls who are in physical education schools now".

Mrs. James Drew, a member of the recreation commission, stated that Mr. Sullivan was an assistant playground instructor last year. Mrs. Drew said the young man wanted the position of superintendent but that, in the opinion of the recreation commission of seven he was not capable of taking full charge. "Personality enters into this tonight" Mrs. Drew said.

When put to a vote the increased appropriation was unanimously voted.

Court House Needs New Boiler.

An increase of $1,500 was voted for court house expenses, after Mayor Robbins explained that a new boiler is needed, and other necessary improvements are needed and that two-thirds of this appropriation will come back to the city from the county and town.

Likewise a $100 increase for election expenses went through without opposition. Mayor Robbins stated that the registrars felt this increase necessary owing to the fact that an extra voting machine was put into operation.

An increase of $6,500 for interest to be paid by the finance department, was voted, Mayor Robbins explaining that this was due to increased interest rates.

Voting On The Extras.

After disposing of the regular appropriations the meeting took up the long list of "extras," 17 in number. Before taking up the "extras" Mayor Robbins requested the speakers to be brief.

Edward Kirby inquired as to how much money was left before the appropriations would reach the 14 mill tax rate. He was informed that the amount was approximately $14,400.

The first item taken up was $5,000 for the repair of defective sidewalks. Mayor Robbins stated that this appropriation is asked for so that the street commissioner could repair sidewalks which property owners refused to repair. The street commissioner is authorized to place liens on property in such cases, the mayor explained, and this appropriation would provide the money to make the repairs. The mayor said there is no effort to lay new walks, but to repair defective walks.

Daniel T. Shea, president of the Norwich Taxpayers' association, recognized by the mayor, started to speak of the taxpayers' association when Albert Boardman rose to a point of order. "We are here to speak on sidewalks, not on the taxpayers' association," he said.

Mr. Shea, continuing his remarks, stated that at a meeting of the taxpayers' association, this item was disapproved. "We have 315 bonafide members," he said. "We are formed to try to protect the taxpayers and to keep the tax rate where it belongs. I move this item be disapproved," he concluded.

Miss Nancy Lucas, an officer of the taxpayers' association, said there was serious doubt whether this money would ever come back to the city from people who refuse to repair their sidewalks.

George E. Pitcher called attention to the fact that the meeting had already voted an appropriation for outside work by the public works department.

Fred Holdsworth, who tried to introduce a motion, evidently in favor of the appropriation, at the time Mr. Shea was recognized by the chair, said Norwich has the worst sidewalks of any town in New England.

As the mayor was putting the question on Mr. Shea's motion, Mr. Holdsworth said, "Just a minute, I made a motion." A chorus of "Sit downs" came from the audience. The motion was put to vote and the appropriation was declared lost.

Against More For Tree Work.

The next argument came on the second item an appropriation of $1,500 for parks and trees, an increase of $1,000 over last year. Mayor Robbins stated that the additional money was asked to pay the expense of the removal of trees.

"We have not to keep our appropriations down, or we will run our tax rate right up to where it was," said Mr. Shea, who spoke in opposition to the appropriation. He moved that the appropriation be disapproved.

Miss Nancy Lucas, speaking for the Woman's city club, said, "We want this $1,500 to remove old trees and set out new trees. I am a member of the taxpayers' association, and I hope the president will forgive me for taking this position," she said.

"We can't go on voting money and increasing taxes," said Edward Kirby. "Pretty soon you will be back to 26 mills. Then what are you going to do?" he asked. He expressed the hope that the appropriation would be voted down.

Miss Lucas then offered an amendment cutting the $1,500 appropriation to $1,000, but to no avail, as the appropriation was voted down.

An appropriation of $1,500, to provide for the enactment of building, plumbing, and electric codes, was laid on the table Mayor Robbins stated that a year ago the city meeting voted that the council prepare building, plumbing and electric codes. The building codes, alone, comprises 102 closely typewritten pages and it will cost $1,500 to put the codes in the form of ordinances he explained. He said the council did not feel it ought to make this expenditure without action by the citizens.

The $1,000 appropriation for a new chassis for the police patrol went through, after Mayor Robbins stated that it was necessary.

Day Off For Policemen.

The next item, $4,500 to povide additional pay to give each police officer one day a week off with pay, was voted down, but an amendment that the police officers be given one day a week off with pay, without extra expense to the city, through some arrangement with the police commissioners, was voted. This amendment was offered by Mr. Kirby after Rudolph Henschel had made a plea that the appropriation be made, and had offered a motion to that effect. "Most other cities in Connecticut give their officers one day off each week," Mr. Henschel said.

Mr. Kirby, in offering the amendment, said a mounted officer could cover four or five beats in the time that it takes an officer to walk the length of his beat.

James P. Sheridan inquired of the police commissioners, if such an arrangement could be made.

Alderman Fred Ortmann, chairman of the board of police commissioners, said he thought such an arrangement could be made.

Hamilton Avenue Macadam.

The next appropriation was for $32,000 for macadam on Hamilton avenue from Corning road to the city line.

Howard S. Spalding said that the residents of the East Side were asking some relief on Hamilton avenue. I understand that the taxpayers' association disapproved of this appropriation he said. "I also understand that there are some people who disapprove of the taxpayers' association," he added. He moved that the appropriation be made.

Mr. Boardman said that either Smith avenue or Hamilton avenue ought to be improved.

George E. Pitcher offered an amendment that the state be asked to share part of the expense as a state aid road. The amendment was voted.

G. Warren Davis offered an amendment that $5,000 be appropriated for macadam on Hamilton avenue, starting at the southeast corner of the Hamilton avenue cemetery and extending westerly, as far as the appropriation permits.

"This would permit the worst part of Hamilton avenue to be put into condition," Mr. Davis explained.

Mr. Pitcher offered an amendment to this amendment that the public works committee take this matter up with the state highway commission with regard to state aid.

"That is something the taxpayers association should have inquired into," said Mr. Boardman.

$5,000 For Hamilton Avenue

Mr. Spalding stated that this matter had been taken up with the state highway department previously and that their attitude was that they have all they can take care of without coming into the city. The amendment was lost.

Mr. Davis' amendment was then voted. Then a question arose as to just what the meeting was to vote on next and after some discussion the meeting voted to authorize the $5,000 appropriation for the Hamilton avenue improvement.

The next two items, $13,000 for macadam on Smith avenue, and $10,000 for macadam on Asylum street, were tabled.

For Joseph Perkins Road

The 9th extra was an appropriation of $3,000 for macadam on Joseph Perkins road from the fire station to the McKinley avenue extension.

Mr. Shea moved the appropriation be made $1,000. Mr. Sheridan, speaking in favor of the $1,000 appropriation, said the street is good as far as the new fire station. Beyond there there are several fine houses. He believed that a stone bottom could be built on the dirt road for $1,000. The people there ought to be able to get their garages, Mr. Sheridan said. The $1,000 appropriation was voted.

Someone made a motion to approve a $2,500 appropriation for macadam on Seventh street.

Mr. Shea said he didn't dispute that the street needs repairs, but thought it ought to go over. He moved to table for this year and the motion prevailed.

Rockwell Street Appropriation

Next came the Rockwell street appropriation, $1,150, for macadam from McKinley avenue to Mohegan park entrance.

Mr. Kirby said the curve in the street ought to be straightened out this year and that the street ought to be attended to next year. He moved the appropriation be cut to $1,000.

Mr. Sheridan offered an amendment increasing the amount to $2,000. Mr. Boardman said the appropriation ought to be voted down, as gravel taken from other streets could be placed there.

Mr. Sheridan stated that he favored the $2,000 appropriation at the taxpayers association meeting last week. The amended motion, making the appropriation $2,000 was voted.

Nothing For Hickory Street

A $13,000 appropriation for Hickory street, to provide macadam from Prospect street to Boswell avenue, was voted down and $15,000 to provide macadam on Talman street from Laurel Hill bridge to Preston bridge, was tabled.

George R. Gifford's motion for a $4,000 appropriation to provide for the widening of Elizabeth street from the Elizabeth street school to Whipple avenue, was voted down by the meeting.

Sewer, On Hobart Avenue

Dr. E. J. Brophy, city health officer, urged the adoption of a motion for appropriation of $4,000 for a sewer on Hobart avenue from Oak street, northerly, stating that sewers are the best investment that can be made in the interests of health. The appropriation was voted.

A $6,000 appropriation, however, for a sewer on Smith avenue, from the county home to Hamilton avenue, was tabled, and the final "extra," $1500 to remove a ledge opposite No. 30 Spruce street, was voted down.

Resolutions Adopted

The meeting then adopted the following resolutions:

Authorizing the court of common council to make the appropriations voted by the meeting.

Authorizing the abatement of uncollectable taxes.

Authorizing the gas and electric department to borrow not to exceed $175,000, as needed during the year for improvements, as voted by the meeting.

Authorizing the city to borrow not to exceed $216,000, for expenditures as authorized by the meeting.

Fixing the city tax rate at 13 mills on the dollar.

Fixing the tax collector's compensation at one per cent of the tax collected.

That the city of Norwich definitely fix and establish the location of the southerly line of Main street along the line of the property of Howell S. Bailey by mutual agreement between him and it.

That the city of Norwich sell and convey a parcel of land, situated in said city on the west side of Asylum street, beginning at the dividing line between these premises and land of William Bode and running westerly about 336 feet, abutting northerly on land of said Bode; thence southerly abutting westerly on land of A. W. and E. C. Lillibridge; thence easterly in a straight line about 332 feet to a point in the westerly line of Asylum street 212 feet southerly from the point of beginning; thence northerly along the west line of said street 212 feet to the place of beginning.

West Main Street Fire Station.

The final matter to come up before the meeting was a proposal that the city be authorized to sell the West Main street fire station.

Mayor Robbins stated that the general impression that the present administration is anxious to sell the fire station is a mistake. The station needs extensive repairs. There is some difference of opinion as to whether it is wise to repair or sell, the mayor said. He expressed the opinion taht it would be ridiculous to spend a lot of money for repairs on the station and then sell it in a few months' time.

Chief Howard L. Stanton of the fire department stated that he is against selling the West Side fire station until an appropriation for a new station is made. He moved that the matter be indefinitely postponed. The motion prevailed after which the meeting adjourned, about 10.30 o'clock.

EGG PRODUCTION IN 31st WEEK DECREASES

The 1,000 hens entered in the Storrs laying contest decreased their production slightly during the 31st week, their total lay for the week being 4,631 eggs or a total yield of 66.2 per cent, which is a decrease of 60 eggs over last week's score, but an increase of 90 eggs over the corresponding week last year. The pullets in the contest are not loafing as is evidenced by the fact that they have an average of 134 eggs each, which is 15 more eggs per bird than last year at this time or 15,000 more for all the birds in the contest.

A pen of White Leghorn owned by Toivonen Leghorn Farm, Girard, Pa., won first honors for the week with a lay of 65 eggs. Close on their heels came two more pens of Leghorns owned by George Lowry, West Willington, Conn., and William L. Gilbert Home, Winsted, Conn. These pens laid 64 eggs each. Third place went to R. C. Cobb's Barred Rocks from Littleton, Mass., with a lay of 61 eggs. Fourth honors were divided between a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Donald I. Goodenough of Torrington, Conn., and R. Slosson's Leghorn entry from East Aurora, N. Y. Their score was 60 eggs each.

There were no changes among the leading pens of the principal varieties except in the Leghorn division. Here we find that the William L. Gilbert Home pen from Winsted, Conn., has passed both Granite Springs' birds and Hanson's Leghorns to take third place.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb, Old Pickard Farm, Littleton, Mass., 1744; Hawes Bros., Union, Maine, 1598; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn., 1521.

White Rocks—E. A. Hirt, South Weymouth, Mass., 1000; Davidson Bros., Upton, Mass., 1279.

White Wyandottes — The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., 1502; Winlay White Wyandottes, Collinsville, Conn., 1492.

Rhode Island Red — Charlescote Farm, Sherborn, Mass., 1666; Zephrim LaBelle, Ballouville, Conn., 1621; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1619; John Z. LaBelle, Ballouville, Conn., 1596.

GOVERNMENT TYPISTS MUST KNOW THEIR TEA

LONDON— (AP) —Four o'clock tea, that so typically British habit, has insinuated itself even into the civil service examination typists must pass if they would do their typing in government offices.

One of the questions included in the latest examination held here was:

"During one year in a certain office three clerks were working for 46 weeks, and two clerks only, for the other six weeks.

"Tea was made for them 11 times per week, always on the principle of 'one teaspoonful of tea per person and one teaspoonful extra for the pot.' Reckoning six teaspoonfuls to the ounce, find to the nearest pound the weight of tea used during the year."

The question would indicate that in government offices tea sometimes is served in the morning as well as in the afternoon. In many business offices preparing and serving tea is one of the duties of the typist.

HYPNOTISM EXPECTED TO RELIEVE DISEASE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. —(AP)— Hypnotism, formerly viewed as showman's trickery or vaguely supernatural, is coming to the fore as a valuable aid in medical cases, says Prof. Reuben Eliassen, psychology instructor at Birmingham Southern college.

"Long considered as one of the so-called 'black arts,' hypnotism has taken its proper place in scientific research and experiment," said Dr. Eliassen. "During experiment here we have cured one hopeless case of nervous finger nail biting. We believe hypnotism is scheduled for eventual wide use in curing drug and liquor addicts, and other neurotics.

"It is merely power of suggestion applied scientifically. Considering that salesmen, writers, actors, and lecturers unwittingly use hypnotism daily in gradient degrees, I see no reason why scientific practice of the art may not become another boon to civilized humanity."

MASSIE MILLER QUALIFIES FOR THE NATIONAL OPEN WITH CARD OF 158

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WORCESTER, Mass., June 10—Massie B. Miller of Norwich, Conn., tied for fifth place with three others this afternoon in the qualifying round for the national open golf tournament at the Worcester Country club. He, with Willie Ogg, Worcester, Dick May, Lennox and John Bernardi, Newton, had a card of 78-80—158. Louis Chiappetta of Hartford led the field of 57 with 70-75—145.

As there were but seven places open a playoff was necessary to select the qualifiers and one hole, a sudden-death hole, was played. On this hole Miller, Ogg and Bernardi each took four strokes while May eliminated himself by taking a six.

Miller lost his chance to qualify without the necessity of a play-off when he required 22 strokes to negotiate the last four holes of the afternoon round. If he had come through as in the morning in 20 strokes he would have been in by two strokes.

In the morning round he was eight strokes over par on the difficult qualifying course, while in the afternoon he took ten more strokes than perfect golf. He scored only one birdie, on the third hole of his morning round, but also in his first round he shot perfect golf on ten holes. In the afternoon he was off his game badly, playing his shots perfectly on only eight holes, while he was two over on two of the holes and one over on the others.

MANY UPSETS AMONG NATIONAL OPEN QUALIFIERS

(By The Associated Press)

Some of the nation's finest golfers fell by the wayside yesterday as more than 900 golfers in 19 cities scattered from coast to coast, sought to qualify for the national open championship to be played at the Winged Foot club late this month.

Some upsets were to be expected but the experts hardly had counted on seeing the failure to qualify of such stars as Jess Sweetser, former American and British amateur champion; Jess Guilford, the one-time "Boston seige gun," who also is a former national amateur title-holder; Watts Gunn, now of Pittsburgh, who was runner up to Bobby Jones in the national amateur of 1925; Mike Brady, veteran Winged Foot pro, who as long ago as 1911 was runner-up in the national open; and Jimmy Farrel, elder brother of Johnny Farrell, who is to defend his title at Winged Foot.

However imposing this list of the fallen seems, there were a number of fine performances by other stars to balance the picture.

"Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, runner-up to Tommy Armour in the national open of 1927, was in great form at Pittsburgh and covered Oakmont's difficult course in 143 strokes, with a 68 second round for a new course record.

At Salisbury Plains, N. Y., Willie Klein, East Williston pro, shot a record breaking 66 on his first 18 to lead the metropolitan district field of 222 with a 36-hole total of 146. Four amateurs, Eddie Held, Eddie Driggs, Maurice McCarthy, intercollegiate champion, and George Voight qualified at Salisbury but Sweetser, Brady and Farrell were among the victims.

At Chicago, where Jock Hutchison led the field with a fine score of 144, five first-rank stars discovered at the end of the day that they had been playing only for fun. The list of those who failed to qualify included Charles (Hick) Evans, amateur champion in 1916 and 1920 and open title-holder in 1916; Abe Espinosa, Willie Hunter, Gus Novotny and Eddie Gayer.

KLEIN BREAKS RECORD TO LEAD METRO QUALIFIERS

SALISBURY PLAINS, N. Y., June 10.—(AP)—A record-breaking round of 66 today enabled Willie Klein, East Williston professional, to lead the field of 222 in the New York district's qualifying round for the national open golf championship to be played at the Winged Foot country club starting June 27.

With 28 places to be filled, Klein shot rounds of 66-80—146 to lead Eddie Driggs, Jr., Cherry Valley amateur, by one stroke.

Although most of the leading pros and amateurs managed to qualify, there were some notable exceptions. Jess Sweetser, former British amateur champion. Jimmy Farrell and Mike Brady, the latter a pro at the Winged Foot club, all failed to qualify.

In addition to Driggs, three other prominent amateurs made the grade —George Voight, North Hills, Maurice McCarthy, Jr., Green Meadow, the intercollegiate title-holder, and Eddie Held of Lakeville. Among the better known professionals who qualified were Clarence Hackney, Craig Wood, Tom Kerrigan, Whippy Cox and Bill Creavy.

Philadelphia Qualifys Two

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(AP) — Glen Spencer, Baltimore, Md., and George Smith, Moorestown, N. J., led the field today in the Philadelphia district qualifying play for the United States open golf championship with scores of 153 for the 36 holes. Spencer had cards of 78-75—153 and Smith 75-78—153. Both are professionals.

Two Tie At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, June 10.—(AP) — Ben Richter, and John Manion, of St. Louis, with 149's tied for medal honors in the qualifying round for the United States open golf championship over the Normandie Golf club course here today. Three tied for the third place in the St. Louis district qualifiers. They were Hayden Newton, Springfield, Mo., Bryan Winter, St. Louis, and Clarence L. Wolff, St. Louis, each with 151.

Cooper Breaks Course Record

PITTSBURGH, June 10.— (AP) — "Lighthorse Harry" Cooper of Buffalo, N. Y., with 143, at Oakmont today led a field of 100 in starters in the qualifying round for the local quota in the national open. Cooper broke the Oakmont course record in his second round with a 68.

George Christ, Rochester, N. Y., and Eugene Larkin, Chevy Chase, Md., tied for second place with 154.

Minneapolis District

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 10.—(AP)—Willie Kidd and Jock Hendry, both of Minneapolis, together with Jimmy Johnston of St. Paul, northwest ranking amateur, will represent the Minneapolis district in the national open golf championship.

Kidd and Hendry qualified in the 36 hole sectional qualifying tests at the Golden Valley Golf club here today, while Johnston was exempt from qualifying by virtue of finishing among the leaders in last year's classic.

Hendry had a total of 142, to lead Kidd, second place winner, by six strokes and the field by the impressive margin of 16 strokes.

Campbell Tops Dayton Field

DAYTON, Ohio, June 10.—(AP)—Alex Campbell, professional at the Miami Valley club, Dayton, went around his home course in 144, two above par today to lead southern Ohio's five qualifiers in the preliminary test rounds for the national open golf tournament.

Harold Jordan, pro at the Piqua Country club, with 148, was second of the 45 entrants.

Neil Ransick of Cincinnati, the only amateur to qualify, finished with 150. Mike Henney, Springfield pro, had a card of 152 and Klen Welchman, Portsmouth pro, took a like score to complete the qualifying list.

Hutchison Leads at Chicago

CHICAGO, June 10.—(AP)—Jock Hutchison, smiling Scotch professional from Chicago, led a field of 122 golfers in the national open district qualifying round over the number 4 course at Olympia Fields Country club, today, with a total of 144 strokes for 36 holes.

Fifteen players qualified. The Chicago district quota was 14, but two entrants were tied for the last position with scores of 156 and will be accepted for the championship tournament.

Five Qualify At Detroit

DETROIT, June 10.—(AP)—With five of the 12 Detroit entrants in the national open golf tournament already determined through performance in the last national meet or membership on the Ryder cup team, exceptionally low scores were the order today as 84 golfers struggled for the remaining seven positions in the qualifying round at the Detroit Country club.

Rounds of 70, equalling the course record were turned in by Jimmy Beaupre, pro at the Ridgmont club here who won first place today and Clarence Gambler, Forest Lake professional. Beaupre produced a 76 in the afternoon and led Gambler by one stroke at the end of the day.

Southern Qualifiers

ATLANTA, Ga., June 10.— (AP) — Bobby Jones and Frank Ball will have Charley Hall, southeastern professional champion and Meet Spicer, Nashville, Tenn. amateur, as the other half of Atlanta district's representation in the national open championship tourney at Winged Foot club, Mamaroneck, N. Y. June 27.

Jones and Ball, by virtue of past performances were entered as representatives while Hall and Spicer pushed their way over East Lake club course today ahead of a large field of well known southern golfers.

Hall came home with the low score of 152 in today's 36-hole play. Spicer and F. H. Hiatt, Charlotte, N. C., knotted the count at 155-all. On the 19th each bagged a five, while Hiatt blew up on the 20th.

MASSIE B. MILLER

Susie Says

Didja go to the Junior game last night?

Well I did and believe me I had my eyes opened. Not so much by the game as by the recreation field itself.

The game was not so hot but was pretty good for a junior game and in some places the boys played some mighty neat baseball.

What impressed me was the grounds. Say, folks, if you have never been over there it's worth your while to go. You'll be surprised at what a nice place it is.

I'd heard a lotta knockers tell about the rats and the terrible odors and what a terrible place it was. Well when I got over there I was pleasantly surprised.

Not a rat was to be seen and the air was as sweet as in any pasture ten miles out in the country. And on top of that there were about 1500 others who thought the same as I did, or they wouldn't have been there.

The recreation commission gets my vote of approval for the work they have done. More power to 'em. I was mighty glad that they got that extra thousand bucks for work over there.

And to see the people on both sides of the river out in their back yards watching the game reminded me of when I was a kid living on the West Side and looked down on the old dump. What a change, what a change.

Well I see where Massie Miller is going to be in the National open golf tourney. Norwich congratulates you Massie, old kid. And speaking of Massie, there's one nice kid for you.

He isn't bigger than a good pint of cider but believe me he swings a mean niblick on the golf course.

Nice work Massie.

ELKS TRIM ROTARY CLUB IN OPENING GAME OF JUNIOR LEAGUE

The opening game of the Junior Twilight league between the Rotary club and the Elks resulted in an easy 14 to 5 win for the latter at the Hollyhock Island diamond Monday evening. A large crowd of about 1500 was on hand to witness the first encounter of the 1929 season.

At 6 o'clock, members of the six teams of the league, together with members of the organizations sponsoring these teams met at the Elks home and to music furnished by Swahn's band and the East Side Drum corps, marched through the city to Hollyhock Island. The six teams comprising the league are as follows, Elks, Rotary, Baltic, Y. M. C. A., Taftville, and the Duwells. Upon arrival at Hollyhock Island, and just prior to the game, William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreation commission addressed a few remarks to those present. Mr. Fitzgerald stated he believed much good had already been done in transforming Hollyhock Island from its former to its present condition but that considerable more work would be necessary to bring the field up to first class condition. Mr. Fitzgerald said he hoped the people of Norwich would see this need of further improvement of the grounds and act favorably on the appropriation to carry on this work at the city meeting. Mayor Lee Roy Robbins then officially opened the 1929 season of the Junior Circuit at 6:45 p. m. by throwing out the first ball and the game was on.

As to the game itself, it proved rather disappointing for an opener, the Elks winning easily by the score of 14 to 5. The Bills seem to have a strong outfit this year and it was also evident that they have been doing considerable practicing. The Rotary, while they played very loose ball in last night's game will undoubtedly improve as the season progresses, and they have a chance to work together.

Caron twirled for the losers and did not deserve any such score as was piled up against him. Although he was touched for ten hits, he managed to keep them fairly well scattered, and had it not been for so many errors by his team-mates, the score would have been much closer. LaVarge started for the Elks but retired in the third in favor of Fuller who finished the game. LaVarge had considerable trouble in locating the plate, but Fuller who relieved him, pitched in fine style, allowing but three hits in the last 5 frames.

The Rotary scored in the first inning on a walk to Quinn, a wild pitch and a single by Higgins. The Elks came right back in their half, however, with three runs, scoring them on a single by Sherry and several errors. The Rotary showed intentions of making it a game in their half of the second, tying things up with two more runs, but in the last half of the same inning the Elks took the lead again on hits by Matthew and Sherry, and from that point on were never headed, counting four runs in the third, two in the fourth and four more in the fifth. The Rotary added a run in each of the sixth and seventh but which had no bearing on the final result.

TAFTVILLE LEGION CLASHES WITH DUWELLS TONIGHT

The Taftville American Legion team, winners of the Junior league title in 1928 and the Duwell A. A. Juniors meet at Hollyhock Island tonight in the second contest of the current season. Although nothing much is known of the strength of the respective teams it is almost certain that the game will be much more of a contest than that between the Rotary and Elk teams.

The Duwells, which are managed by Jab Burns, popular Polish Citizen backstopper, are much stronger than they were a year ago and should give the champs a real battle. Coach Burns has had his boys out regularly during the past few weeks and has succeeded in moulding out a much faster club than the one that represented the athletic organization in 1928. He has strengthened both the infield and the outfield and has lined up a real prospective lineup of battery material. Karkutt, one of the twirlers of the Academy second team and McKenna will in all probability be his choice for duty against the legionnaires.

Although Taftville has lost a few of its last year members it still boasts a strong lineup and should be close to the top at the conclusion of the season if it doesn't repeat. At the Elk-Rotary game last night the boys from the village appeared confident that they would again make the trip to New York in September. The manager of the Legion team refused to comment on his starting lineup last night although it is known that at least six of his veterans will take the field.

Judging from the audience that packed the bleachers at the new center for the opener Junior league ball is going to be real popular here this summer and the youngsters are going to finally come into their own. Another record breaking crowd is expected for tonight's contest.

The Duwell members who did not receive suits are asked to report at the Duwell club at 6 p. m.

SINGLE MEN EVEN SERIES WITH THAMESVILLE BENEDICTS

Before a crowd of some three hundred wildly cheering fans that thronged the Sand-sifted park in Thamesville last night the Single Men evened the series with their more unfortunate brothers. The Benedicts, by winning 11 to 5. The game was a hectic and weird battle, not to say strenuous. Surplus flesh proved a handicap to many of those who made up the team representing the ball and chain gang. It was a case of "youth must be served."

Heavy hitting by Eddie Brewer, Butsey Weisgraber, G. McGuiness, Clare Brewer and Orcutt featured the work of the Single Men. Hector Secor and G. Orcutt as the battery for the Benedicts turned in a stellar performance, Secor fanning 10 men but getting wretched support. McGuiness started the game for the Single Men but was removed for Bendett in the sixth inning. The rubber game will be played on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The lineups:

Benedicts—G. Orcutt c; H. Secor p; C. Simpson 1b; B. Sullivan 2b; W. Ward ss; E. Lessman 3b; J. Hudson lf; W. Clabby cf; F. Fagan rf.

EXETER, N. H., June 10.—(AP) — Raymond F. Coombs, of Kennebeck, Me., star Exeter academy twirler, today was awarded the Wingate Memorial trophy and silver bat given annually to the most valuable member of the Exeter nine. Coombs, who is a nephew of Jack Coombs, former Philadelphia Athletics pitcher, won the award in 1926 and 1927.

The award is made in memory of the late Dana J. P. Wingate, of Winchester, Mass., who captained the Exeter '99 and Harvard, '13 teams.

RIVERVIEW WINS PITCHING BATTLE FROM COAST GUARDS

Although Riverview was able to get to Meska, Coast Guard pitcher, for but one hit yesterday afternoon at the State hospital diamond, the Riverview club managed to nose out the Coast Guards in the eleventh inning, 2 to 1. It was positively the best game that has been played at the State hospital diamond in many months. Both teams scored one run in the fourth inning and the game remained deadlocked until the eleventh when Riverview managed to push a run around the bases in the eleventh on a walk and two sacrifices.

Meska pitched a brilliant game letting down the Riverview team with one solitary hit. He fanned 14 men but walked four. West who opposed him on the mound was also in fine form, keeping the seven hits well scattered. He was well supported in the field, especially by Normandin who accepted eleven chances with but a single error. The score:

RUFFING'S WILDNESS GIVES THE TIGERS A VICTORY

BOSTON, June 10.—(AP)—Three successive passes by Pitcher Charley Ruffing in the seventh inning after Heilmann had singled gave the Detroit Tigers a 1 to 0 victory over the Red Sox here today. Ruffing issued only one other base on balls and yielded only four hits.

The Sox threatened in the early innings but remarkable fielding by the visitors prevented a score. In the second inning with two out Williams doubled. After Berry had walked Ruffing singled sharply to left but Johnson's perfect throw to Shea cut off Williams at the plate. The score:

VON PORAT STOPS ROCCO IN THE EIGHTH ROUND

CHICAGO, June 10—(AP)—Otto Von Porat, the west's outstanding candidate for the heavyweight championship, required eight rounds to paralyze Emmett Rocco, the bounding heavyweight from Elwood City, Pa., in a scheduled ten round battle in the Chicago stadium tonight.

Rocco, the conqueror of Johnny Risko, fell a victim to a sizzling left hook in the seventh round that knocked him sprawling on his back. The bell, however, saved him, but he was unable to respond at the start of the eighth, and his handlers tossed in the towel, with Rocco wabbling on his feet in his corner, trying to renew the battle.

E. C. P. POWER PLANT TEAM BEATS SHYMAS

The power plant club of the Eastern Conn. Power Co., defeated the fast Shyma club of Taftville 7-4 in a twilight game played on the Providence St. ground Monday evening. The Powermen bunched four hits to score four runs in the third inning giving them a margin safe enough to win by. Dugas pitched well for the winners, striking out five men and allowing seven scattered hits. Dupre starred at bat for the losers with three singles out of four tries. CHICAGO, June 10.—(AP)— Chicago advanced to within a half game of the league leading Pirates by trouncing Boston, 10 to 8, here today in the third game of the series.

English, with four hits, and Wilson, with three, led the Cub attack on four Braves' hurlers. Leverett started but couldn't last and before the game was over Delaney, Hearn and Greenfield, were working on the mound.

Hal Carlson was the Cubs' starting pitcher. Mike Cvengros and Joe Bush finished up, Bush getting credit for the victory.

Spohrer, Boston catcher, hammered out a home run and a triple. Herman Bell also hit for the circuit. Score:

ATTRACTIVE JOSEPH PERKINS ROAD HOME

Brick and Stucco House Built by P. F. Sweeney

ROSOFF HOME ON JOSEPH PERKINS ROAD IS MOST ATTRACTIVE HOUSE

One of the most attractive of the brick and stucco houses recently completed by Contractor P. F. Sweeney is the home of Harry Rosoff on Joseph Perkins road, a section of Norwich that is fast building up. It is ideally situated with a western exposure and faces onto the Academy campus. The grounds are very attractively appointed with a white cement walk and crushed stone drive leading to the garage in the rear. The walk leading to the house is bordered by rows of shrubs and there is a bank of evergreens around the front. The lawn is graded and terraced as it reaches the walk in front of the house.

The house itself is 24x35 feet, the first story being of brick and the second story of stucco on steel lath. It is of the Dutch Colonial type with a small porch in front and settles at each side of the door.

On the first floor there is the living room which is very large and which has a large colonial fireplace. The walls of the living room are done in Craftex as are the walls throughout the house. Besides the living room there is the dining room, sun parlor and kitchen. The kitchen has a tile wainscoting above which are the Craftex walls. All the floors and wood trim are in oak. There is also a very attractive breakfast nook just off the kitchen.

On the second floor are four bedrooms and bath. The bedrooms conform to the same finish as the lower floor, with Craftex walls which give every room the best possible appearance from a decorative standpoint. The bathroom is tiled in green tile with built-in fixtures.

The electrical fixtures are of special design and bring out every new feature from a lighting as well as from a decorative point. The plumbing is of the most modern as well as the heating arrangements.

In the rear of the house the two-car garage conforms to the construction of the house. The cost of the building was in the neighborhood of $25,000.

NEW FILLING STATION TO BE BUILT ON BAILEY PROPERTY ON MAIN STREET

During the first week in June there were nine building permits granted by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft for buildings, alterations to buildings and garages. The permits call for an outlay of approximately $10,000 as estimated by the applicants. The permit entailing the greatest outlay was issued to the Standard Oil company of New York for a new filling station.

The new station will be located on the Howell S. Bailey property formerly occupied by Casper S. Bailey at the junction of Main and North Main streets. The station will be of tapestry brick with slate roof and will set back quite a distance from the street with a cement drive in front of the building. The cost of this will range from $5,000 to $10,000.

Good progress has been made on other building projects in Norwich and a number are fast nearing the completion stage. There has been a decided increase in the number of new dwelling houses erected this year.

The building permits issued are as follows:

To Joseph Michalak to erect a one-car garage at 114 Oakridge street for himself. The garage will be 12x20 feet and will be of frame construction. The estimated cost is $50.

To Joseph Smorewski to build a frame veranda on the present house at 21 Hickory street. The estimated cost is $50.

To Charles Di Novellis to build a frame addition 18x18 feet to the present frame house at 91 Mechanic street. The addition will be two stories high with a kitchen and pantry on the first floor and a bed room and bath on the second. The estimated cost is $1,200.

To the Standard Oil Co. of New York, to erect a brick building on the property of Howell S. Bailey at the corner of Main and North Main streets. The present barn known as the Casper Bailey stables will be torn down and the new building erected. The new building will be of brick construction and will be 16x24 feet. There will be a semi-circular driveway in front of it. Four pumps will be installed, two close to the building and two others nearer the street. A crank case drain pit will be located at the right of the building. There will be an air-tower to the left of the main structure. The estimated cost of the building is $5,000.

To Abraham Jacobson to erect an addition to the present brick building at 167 West Main street. The addition will be 12x14 feet and will be used to house an oven for the bakery business. The estimated cost is $800.

To Frank Disco to erect a cement five-car garage in the rear of 107 Boswell avenue. The garage will be 20x44 feet and the estimated cost is $800.

To Joseph Lorello to build an addition to the present frame house at 9 Ruth street. The addition will be 14x14 feet and the estimated cost is $500.

It will be of fireproof construction, of brick, two and a half stories high, with a slate roof. The appropriation is $180,000. From plans of the School Plan Service Bureau, Inc., bids will be received by Mrs. Courtland H. Darrow of Waterford, until 6 p. m., D. S. T., on June 19, for the erection of a school building here for the town of Waterford. It is to be of brick, fireproof construction, 56x116 feet, with an asbestos slate roof. There will be six rooms and an assembly hall; estimated cost $60,000. Heating will be by steam with vapor specialties.

Willimantic

Arrangements are being made for extensive changes to the banking house of the Willimantic Savings Institute on Main street. The improvements call for the entire renovation of the brick structure, including the lowering of the bank floor to the street level. Several offices are to be provided on the second floor. L. J. Storrs is the president of the institution.

Groton

At the annual meeting of voters of the Second school district of Groton to be held June 18 the erection of a new three-room brick schoolhouse which, together with equipment, would cost about $25,000, will be recommended by an investigating committee recently appointed to investigate the school needs of the district. The plan favored by the investigating committee and by a majority of the interested voters calls for a one-story school of bungalow type, 53x55 feet.

Beautifying Green

John Franconi, Salvatori Bingo, Philip and Mike Franconi, Nino Mazzoni, Bortol Cavolari, Marcelo Biagenti, Millo Perotti, Pietro Basolini and Pietro Deloro are working to beautify Hebron green. Under the leadership of John Franconi they have been moving trees, building better roads, making new driveways, carting sandstone and gravel. They have carried 384 loads of dirt for the park, 266 loads of stone for the road and driveways, 159 loads of sand and 97 loads of gravel. Bad weather has held up the work a great deal. Mr. Calendar of the state highway department was in Hebron last week inspecting the work.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Douglas of Dorchester and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Strong of Boston motored to Hebron last week, arriving a little after noon. They planned to spend a week at their summer home here.

Dr. Benjamin Bissell of General Theological seminary, New York, came Saturday to spend the summer, or part of the season, in Hebron.

Dr. George E. Wilcox of Willimantic and Dr. Blew of Mansfield Training school motored to Hebron Monday morning and went fishing on H. Clinton Porter's land, but found the water very low, so fishing proved unsuccessful. They lunched by the old mill.

Mrs. George Lord of East Hampton was among the visitors in town on the recent holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson and grandsons, Lucius and Donald, returned Tuesday night after spending the week end at Misquamicut Beach, where they have a summer cotage.

Children's day exercises were held Sunday at 11 o'clock (D. S. T.) in the First Congregational church in place of the regular services.

Rev. John W. Deeter, pastor of the First Congregational church, expects to start June 17th for Texas, where he will look after his harvests on his farm in Panhandle, Texas. He will be gone about six weeks.

The Young Woman's exchange held a meeting in the chapel of the Congregational church the other afternoon.

The topic for discussion was days in which to hold their exchange. They decided to hold a food sale.

Mrs. Carl Warner and infant son of Pawtucket were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fitch N. Jones and family for a short while. They motored to Hebron Sunday. Mr. Warner returned to Rhode Island Sunday night.

PENDLETON HILL

The bi-monthly meeting of the Ladies' Sewing society was held on Wednesday at the parsonage. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock with the following menu: Potato salad, escalloped tomato, with Swedish rye bread and butter for the first course; fruit and vegetable pot-pourri with wafers, second, and chocolate cake, potato-doughnuts and coffee for the third course. The faithful few were present.

Bourden Geer, who has been suffering from blood poisoning in his finger and foot, as the result of blisters incurred in fire fighting more than two months ago, was taken to the Lawrence Memorial hospital at New London the other day by Henry Johnson. Further developments in Mr. Geer's case involved a large swelling of glands under the left arm, which seemed to render hospital treatment an immediate necessity. Mr. Geer's many friends, among whom he is always known as "Bourden," greatly regret the suffering to which he is subjected for the time being.

Many visited the Pendleton Hill church yard on Memorial day. Excellent care is being given many of the lots, notable among them are the Kenyon, C. C. Gray, Mary Palmer and the Robert P. Palmer lots. Special mention should be made of the lot of Benjamin Palmer and his wife, Hannah, which is receiving such careful attention by Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer and son Earl of Round Hill farm fame. A beautiful bouquet of fleur-de-lis and aquiligia adorns this lot.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rae and sons, Walter, Jack and Robin of Dr. Goldfrank's Cherry Lawn school, Darien, have arrived at their summer home here for the season.

A beautiful bed of very large and very double pink tulips, known as the Dr. Worth tulip are now in full bloom at the Palmer homestead.

Through an error the Connecticut Baptist failed to credit the Hill church with the extra large missionary quota which it accepts to which it added the requested extra six per cent and a surplus for the coming still larger quota. Many regret this altogether important ommision.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Mr. Wren Loses Patience

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Patience is a virtue best
Lacking too severe a test.
—Mr. Wren.

Mr. Wren enjoys work. He couldn't be happy in the spring if he could not be busy. The busier he is, the happier he is, and the more he sings. There is nothing like singing over your work. So, while Jenny Wren went about poking into every little nook and cranny, Mr. Wren stuck to his job. He carried sticks and bits of wire and nails into one of those little houses Farmer Brown's Boy had put up, until at last that little house was full. There wasn't even room to make the comfortable little bed which would hold the eggs.

Then it was that he once more hunted up Jenny Wren. "My dear," said he, "we are already for the building of the nest in one of those little houses. Come over and see it."

Jenny did fly over there. "You've got too much stuff in here," said she. "Besides, this isn't the house I want. Why didn't you take the other house?"

"You didn't tell me to," replied Mr. Wren meekly.

"Do I have to tell you everything?" snapped Jenny rather crossly.

"I'm sorry, my dear," replied Mr. Wren. "I'll go to work on the other house."

So Mr. Wren began to carry sticks and other things into the other house, and once more he was happy while he was working. He sang before he picked up a stick and he sang as soon as he had carried it into that second little house. Between singing and working, he was very happy, indeed. Jenny Wren joined him finally and helped carry stuff into that little house. She is very much like Mr. Wren, in that she must be busy to be happy. When she was around helping, Mr. Wren sang so hard that he trembled all over. He fairly shook. It seems as if his little throat might burst.

At last this little house had all the foundation in it that was needed. It was time to build the nest proper. And right then and there Jenny suddenly lost interest in it.

"Don't you think it is time to begin building the nest?" ventured Mr. Wren mildly.

"No, I don't," retorted Jenny. "When I think it is time to begin it, I'll begin it. Anyway, we are not going to use this house."

"What!" cried Mr. Wren in astonishment.

"I said we are not going to use this house," replied Jenny.

"But what was the idea in having me do all this work for nothing?" demanded Mr. Wren.

Between singing and working he was very happy, indeed

"To keep you out of mischief," retorted Jenny.

"So you have decided on the other house after all?" said Mr. Wren.

"Who says so?" Jenny snapped.

"But if we are not going to use this house, we must use the other," protested Mr. Wren.

"There isn't any 'must' about it," declared Jenny. "I don't think we'll use either of these houses. I have my eye on another place."

It was then that Mr. Wren lost his patience. "Haven't you any mind of your own, Jenny Wren," he demanded. "Here I've built up two houses and now you say you are not going to use either one. They are lovely houses, too. I don't know when I have seen such nice houses. I don't get the idea at all."

A simple problem in health arithmetic

ONE PINT of Fro-joy Ice Cream equals three pints of rich milk! So, if your children refuse milk regularly, give them Fro-joy. It is made from the purest milk and cream. And you get the luscious flavor of Fro-joy for a few cents more than you pay for the same nourishment in three pints of milk. Each pint package is wrapped three times and sealed.

Flavored With Sugar They Are Delicious and Healthful

"My first rule for healthful eating," said one of the foremost food scientists in this country, "would be to insist on at least one dish of raw vegetable salad and at least one raw fruit every day.

"My second rule would be very similar—to eat at least one cooked vegetable and one cooked fruit every day. You can vary the fruits and vegetables according to the season, their price, and your taste."

His next remark emphasized the value of sugar in making fruits and vegetables so palatable that people would eat them, not simply for their beneficial results, but for general enjoyment of their flavors. "Sugar," he explained, "is the greatest of all condimental foods. It brings out the natural flavor of fruits and vegetables."

It is important that people enjoy the food they eat. Otherwise they will not eat a varied enough diet. Sugar, one of nature's most perfect flavors, plays a part in making almost all the foods we eat more inviting.

A pinch of sugar improves the flavor of nearly every vegetable. Remember a dash of sugar in cereal, in tea or coffee, in all milk drinks. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

STOCK SALES AT LOWEST LEVEL FOR FULL DAY SINCE MIDDLE OF LAST AUG.

NEW YORK, June 10. — (AP) — A tightening of credit, with the approach of the mid-month settlement period, discouraged activity on the stock market today, and prices were inclined to sag. The volume of trading dwindled to the lowest level for a full day since the middle of last August. Sales totaled only 2,201,230 shares.

Although call money has been much more plentiful this month than had been expected, the rate amounted to 8 per cent today for the first time in more than three weeks. Banks called more than $40,000,000 in loans, presumably to cut down their borrowing at the Federal Reserve banks, which were increased over the month end.

The credit outlook continued highly uncertain. Income tax payments come due on June 15, and the major part of the large volume of stock rights expiring within the next few weeks are still to be exercised. The government refinancing June 15 is an element of particular uncertainty, as a treasury overdraft in connection with May make credit unexpectedly plentiful for a few days. Time money eased slightly, with all maturities loaning at 8 1-4 per cent flat.

Rumors of an increase in the federal reserve rediscount rate were again plentiful, apparently inspired by the fixing of the 5 1-8 per cent coupon rate on the new treasury notes, which is above the 5 per cent charge for rediscount. While it had been rumored for some time that the rediscount rate would be jacked up to 6 per cent, equaling the commercial paper rate, a 5 1-2 per cent rate was talked of today.

The only item in the day's news to which Wall street paid more than passing attention was the United States Steel corporation's report of unfilled tonnage as of May 31, showing a decrease for the month of 13,596 tons. This was viewed as highly favorable, as the May decline for the previous two years has exceeded 400,000 tons, and Wall street had expected a decline of at least from 150,000 to 200,000 this year, in view of the record ingot production and shipments.

Commonwealth Power provided about the only excitement of the session, running up 28 points to 208, then dropping to 198 at the close. The stock dropped more than 30 points late last week. After reaching a record price at 218 1-2, today's runup was attributed to a rush of shorts to cover on reports of a new exchange offer by Commonwealth and Southern Corp. Federal Light and Traction was bid up about 2 points to a new top above 100, but elsewhere in the utility group profit taking was in evidence.

Other strong points included National Distillers issues and U. S. Industrial Alcohol, which mounted 4 or 5 points on merger prospects; General Asphalt, which reached new high ground on reports of segregation of its petroleum refining business; Fleischmann, it again accumulated on rumors that it will be the key company in a new food products combine, and Allis Chalmers, American bank note, Boughs, Lambert and Warren Bros., up 3 to 5 points.

Coppers were generally firmer, and continued picking up of foreign business. Oils failed to respond to the convening of the governors conference at Colorado Springs, but Indiana Refining made an extreme gain of about 4 points on reports that negotiations to lease its cracking process to Texas Corp. had been practically completed.

Motors were generally heavy. With the exception of Hudson, which mounted more than a point on stock dividend rumors, Packard dropped 4 points on reports that Wright is also taking up a Diesel aviation motor, and General Motors closed off 1 1-2 points. Auburn fell back 5 points, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Curtiss, International Telephone, National Biscuit, Stromberg Carburetor, and Woolworth were among a wide assortment of issues losing from 2 to 5 points. Mullins Manufacturing and Pittsburgh Terminal Coal dropped 6 points to a new 929 low, and Philadelphia Co. tumbled 9 points, but regained part of its loss. Rails were heavy several issues losing a point or 2.

The action of the commodity markets was again unsettling. Wheat fell back 3 1-2 to 4 cents on good weather in the southwest and Canada, and bearish crop estimates, and corn sagged 2 1-2 to 3 cents on bearish Nebraska reports. Cotton dropped 70 to 80 cents a bale on lower Liverpool cables and weather reports. Raw sugar futures were again depressed, July dropping to another new low at 1.61 cents.

Foreign exchanges were dull and fairly steady, although the Italian lira touched a new low for the year at 5.22 5-8 cents. Sterling cables held at $4.84 7-8.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)— The long-suffering bond market had a release today and not only did the price average show the first decline of the month, but the volume of trading, $7,-[illegible] par value, was the lowest of the year.

The slump was due not to liquidation but to complete lack of interest. Large investors as well as the occasional bond buyer apparently believed that the credit situation held few promising prospects in view of the heavy demands for funds with which to meet such obligations as income tax payments and corporation dividends and interest, which fall due to the extent of more than half a billion during the remainder of the month. Time money was a trifle easier, ruling at 8 1-4 against 8 1-4 to 8 1-2 last week, but even this favorable factor brought no show of confidence.

Rails held firm with a fair degree of consistence, but utilities and industrials eased off. Bethlehem Steel Refunding 5s made a new low of 93 on a net decline of 2 points and Indiana Limestone 6s, off 1-2, were also in new low ground. Trumbull Steel debenture 6s dipped nearly a point to equal the year's bottom at 101.

A few representatives in the rail division showed weakness. These included Indianapolis Union Railway 5s, off 5 points to 97; Long Island Unified 4s, off 3 1-2 and Norfolk & Western General 4s, off 1 1-2. All to new 1929 lows. The declines were made on negligible turnovers. Missouri Pacific 5s, '78, Seaboard Airline Adjustment 6s, and St. Paul Adjustment 5s, on the other hand, improved.

Convertibles, with the exception of the American Telephone 4 1-2 per cent share privilege issue, lagged behind their usual brisk pace, and sold lower at the close on the weakness of the stocks. The Telephone Bond, declining 1 1-2, accounted for about one-twelfth of the day's volume.

United States government securities, purchased rather liberally last week for the Federal Reserve bank's portfolio, were almost entirely neglected. The only issue to show any sign of life was the Fourth Liberty 4 1-4. Price changes in this group were within a 1-4 point margin.

French bonds attracted the best attention among the foreigns, and made a show of strength around midday, although the final prices failed to maintain the advance. The remainder of the foreign obligations moved irregularly on somewhat better turnovers than appeared in the domestic list.

New bond financing for the week includes a $6,500,000 issue of Federal aWter Service 5 1-2 per cent convertible gold debentures, due in 1954, to be offered at 99.

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Directors of the Glidden Co., of Cleveland, have proposed increasing the authorized common shares by an additional 100,000, and to use the stock for paying extra stock dividends each quarter, or as earnings justify, on the common stock.

More than 2,000,000 pounds of copper were bought for export to Europe today, leading to the belief in trade circles that this week would see considerable good buying for European consumption.

More than $45,000,000,000 in new securities have been absorbed by the American investing public between 1922 and 1929, according to a statistical survey issued by Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc.

Exports of cotton wearing apparel during the first 1929 quarter increased 18.1 per cent over exports for the corresponding period last year, the Cotton Textile Institute reports. Collars and cuffs showed a decrease, whereas handkerchiefs increased from 47,698 dozen in the first 1928 quarter, to 77,-719 dozen in the first quarter of 1929.

Traveler Shoe Stores Corp. report sales for May of $475,992, compared with $413,693 in May, 1928. Sales of National Family Stores last month totaled $485,964, against $114,133 for May, 1928. Last month's figures include the operations of the Hoye & Rarick and the Farley Chains.

It was reported in Wall street today that the Lockheed Aircraft Co. Inc., will be included in the new Detroit Airplane company merger.

TOWN ON STATE BOUNDARY FACES NOVEL PROBLEMS

FREEDOM, Wyo. —(AP)— Residence in Freedom presents more problems than the name of the town implies.

A trip to the grocer or to the butcher is an interstate matter, necessitating a journey into Idaho, while church attendance requires travel into the state of Wyoming.

Freedom is located on the Idaho Wyoming boundary line, the line extending along the main street of the town. A portion of the town is in Lincoln county, Wyoming, while another part is in Caribou county, Idaho. Other residents of the town live in Bonneville county, Idaho. The population of the community is approximately 400.

Inasmuch as the post office is on the Wyoming side of the town, it was officially designated Freedom, Wyo.

Although there is no town government, the community is well supplied with officials. There are two justices of the peace for the Idaho territory, and one for the part of town in Wyoming, each having their own constables.

Education for the children was a problem only recently solved. Wyoming for some time has maintained a modern school in the district. Idaho Freedomites, however, could not send their children to the institution, and were required to send them to a country school two miles from town. It was necessary to make legislative provision to enable Idaho children to attend the Wyoming school.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Tecumseh

Only the vast sky glowing in the west,
Only the sad hills rolling;
Only a lone bird calling from her nest,
Only a faint bell tolling.
Softly the shadows mounted up a hill,
Softly they soothed the stream to silence.
Murmurs that moved along the moors grew still
And, as the evening star hung dimly bright,
The rich clouds parted and a shining ray
Burst forth and tipped the hilltops with a light
More brilliant and more beautiful than day.
Then it was gone; but while it still was gleaming
There was a figure on a distant rise
Bathed in the beam, and standing like one dreaming,
The picture of a people in his eyes—
A people fading from his yearning sight.
Then stealthily the clouds closed and the light
Ceased; and he sped way into the night.

—W. Alexander Knox.

God Loves Me

I whisper it over and over at night,
I breathe it again at the first dawn of light,
God loves me, God loves me. Oh, my hymn of my soul,
All day through my heart will its glad numbers roll.

God loves me! and this is my star in the night,
I bless e'en the darkness revealing its light.
I clasp to my bosom the trials which prove
His wonderful pity, His wonderful love.

God loves me! this vine with its blossoms so fair
Doth twine round the cross which I daily must bear;
So sweet is its fragrance, I would not forego
The weight of the Cross, though it bows me so low.

God loves me! dear charm which I wear o'er my heart,
And sooner with life than with this would I part.
For oh, I am sure that this one golden key
Will open the mansions of heaven for me!

God loves me! the beautiful, beautiful thought
With all that is fairest and dearest is fraught;
'Tis written in flowers wherever I tread,
'Tis written with stars on the scroll o'er my head.

I read it in all that He gives or withholds,
This love that my heart to His great heart infolds;
This love that stoops down in compassion to share
Each sorrow of mine and each burden of care.

But not till I look on the face of Thy Son,
I'll know the full depth of Thy love, Holy One.
Of love that could offer for me on its shrine
The life of Thy life, the blest Saviour Divine.

—Mrs. E. A. B. Mitchell.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

The average dog is affectionate and obedient. His master is, to him, the whole world. He lives for his master, he gets his greatest joy from pleasing his master and loves to earn a kind word and a few pats on the head.

Temperament has to be considered in dealing with dogs. Remember, he is next to man in intelligence.

Often dogs are easily intimidated, and the more you rail at or whip such a dog, the more helpless he becomes. He is like a child, but he remains that way; age does not develop the faculty of reason as it does in a person. If temperamentally timid and sensitive as a poppy, he cannot school himself out of the weakness as a girl or boy does—anyway, not to anything like the same extent.

Gentleness and kindness are absolutely the only effective measures with such a dog. Usually he is particularly smart, if wisely handled. He will do anything for you, his master, if he can and when he can; but there may be certain conditions that shackle his abilities. It is up to you to know your pet's disposition and to treat him accordingly. A stubborn dog is rare indeed. If you own two dogs, jealousy will often hamper one of them; he is too hurt over your partiality to do himself justice. But he isn't stubborn; he'd like nothing better than to do his best, but he can't do it when you are obviously more fond of the other dog.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

The Tea Plant

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I hope you will enjoy reading it.

The tea plant requires a hot climate, an abundance of rain and slope enough to prevent water from standing around the roots.

It also grows from two to four feet high and has bright green leaves like a rose bush. You pick the leaves several times a year. It is picked mostly by boys and girls. I think I would like to do the picking myself.

CELESTE TAMILEWICZ, Age 11.
Norwich Town.

My Little Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to you about my little dog. He was born on Jan. 3, 1928. He was black and white. That is, his body was black and the tip of his tail was white.

As he was growing up, on Saturday, May 18, 1929, he got run over by an automobile.

YVONNE MONROE.
Plainfield.

About a Peach Tree

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide-Awakes. I hope you will enjoy my story about the peach tree.

I was once a little seed, in a package, for sale with many of my friends. Once while I was talking to them I heard a man saying: "I'll take this package." It was the old farmer who bought us for 10 cents. When it was warm in spring the old farmer planted us in the open ground. I said to my friends "Goodbye" and slept the whole winter. The next spring I sprung up and saw that I had little green leaves, also saw my friends; but they weren't as big as I. Every year I grew bigger and bigger, but when I was about 4 years of age I had pretty little pink flowers called blossoms. I had more blossoms than any of my friends. After the blossoms fell off fruit started to grow on me. In the autumn the farmer was surprised to see the splendid fruit we had. I had the most and the juiciest fruit. The farmer picked the peaches and sold them at 50 cents per basket, but my fruit was sold at 85 cents because it was larger. I was bought by a rich lady who ate my fruit with her children for supper with cream.

School Contests

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to the Wide-Awake circle already and I enjoy writing. I am going to tell you about the speaking and spelling we have in our town. In all the rooms from the fifth grade to the eighth grade the teachers have about fifty poems which come on sheets of paper. All those who want may take a poem and learn it. Many children may take the same poem.

A certain day is appointed when three grown people come and listen in the rooms the way the children say their poems. Then they select the best one from each grade and the second best. They have second best because sometimes the one who is chosen first speaker can't go to speak in the town hall, so the one that is chosen second can speak.

Then there is a spelling contest in each room. The teachers give this test. In our class we had three contests and the one who won two out of these three went to the town hall to spell. In other rooms they had one spelling test and the one who won that one test went to the town hall.

This year we all assembled at the town hall May 22. There the speakers from their grade spoke, songs were sung by a few grades, then there was a spelling contest between the child that won in his or her grade. The one that won in spelling goes to Willimantic, where they spell again. If they win there they go to Hartford. If they win in Hartford their name is in the papers. The same thing is with the speakers.

THELMA GOLDBERG.
Colchester.

Memorial Day

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you will enjoy reading my story. The name of my story is "Memorial Day." All the children met at Ransom school at half past 2 Thursday. The band came and soon we marched to Grange hall. Some poems were recited and then they sang songs. Then we marched to the park where the statue stands. And then we marched to the honor roll. A poem was recited. Ed. Kelley of Bridgeport, the secretary of the governor, spoke to us.

After the parade there was a baseball game between East Hartford and Colchester.

A Birthday Party

Dear Uncle Jed: On May 22nd the seventh grade girls gave our domestic science teacher a birthday party. It was also a surprise, for she didn't mistrust a thing about it. She said it was the first party that had ever been given her that she didn't suspect that something was going on. We invited all the teachers in the school and they all enjoyed it, so we were all pretty well pleased with ourselves. We had sandwiches of different kinds, jello with whipped cream, fancy cookies, chocolate eclairs and a big birthday cake which I made and which I was very proud of. I was so afraid it wouldn't turn out good, but it did and the teachers all said it was delicious. I didn't know her exact age, so I put 16 pink candles on the top.

Our domestic teacher has taught us a lot this year and we are all very fond of her, and she seems interested in all of us.

My First Experience Horseback Riding

Dear Uncle Jed: Every time I read the stories of the Wide-Awake circle it makes me more interested to write often. Now I am going to tell you about "My First Experience Horseback Riding."

It was a very warm afternoon and I didn't have anything to do, so I thought I would try riding. Our horse is snow white and a very good runner. My brother got the horse ready near a place where I could get on easily. As soon as I got on my friends who were watching were all encouraging the horse to go faster. The horse dashed down the road with me excited and trying to get off. I finally got home, half out of breath. I said I would never go horseback when anybody is around me.

The Minutemen

Dear Uncle Jed: In this story I am going to tell you about The Minutemen.

When war between England and her American colonists seemed inevitable, patriots of Massachusetts organized as Minutemen, signifying that they would be ready at a minute's notice.

On the evening of April 18, 1775, General Gage, who was commanding the British force in Boston, sent 800 men to Concord to destroy the ammunition and supplies which the Minutemen had stored there. Fortunately the plot was discovered. Under cover of darkness, Paul Revere and Thomas Dawes slipped past the sentries and galloped away to warn the Minutemen.

When the British reached Lexington, just a few miles from Concord, at daybreak, they found 70 grim Minutemen waiting for them.

In the skirmish several Americans and British were either killed or wounded.

At the Wolf Den

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you about my visit to Wolf Den. We started from home about 1 o'clock and went as far as Brooklyn and from there we left the state road and went on a very rough but pretty road on which we traveled for a long time until we came to a place where there was a sign which read Wolf Den. On a small sign was written that it was a state park. We went in through two rows of pine trees an dparked where there were some tables and benches for picnics. From there we had to walk along a steep, rocky path until we came to a cave which a man said was very long. On a rock at the mouth was a bronze tablet on which was written "Putnam and the Wolf. Following her tracks through one day and night in the snow of December, 1743, to the Connecticut river and back, the early settlers of this region have discovered the den of the she wolf that had for years devastated their flocks, and had so far eluded all attempts at capture. Israel Putnam, whose sheep had been slaughtered, with a rope tied to his feet, first with a torch, again with a musket, entered the den and shot and killed the marauder and, entering the third time, dragged out the body of the wolf."

This tablet is presented to the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution by the Colonial Dames Putnam association, Inc, and their friends to preserve the memory of an act of courage and of public service by a young farmer.

Memorial Day

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you and the Wide-Awakes how I spent May 30. We left Plainfield at 8.30 in the morning and went to Pawtucket, where we decorated my great-grandmother's grave. Then we stopped at Warren, R. I., to see my aunt. Then we went to Fall River and decorated my grandmother's and grandfather's graves. We also saw how the soldiers' graves were decorated, which was very nice. Each one had a wreath and a flag. In front of the large soldiers' monument was a flag, anchor, cross and star, all made of flowers. We also saw a monument just like the Stafford mill with windows and a door cut in it. Then we went to Crescent Park. We arrived there just in time to see the balloon go up. As it went up the balloon got torn on a post so it did not go high enough for the man to use his parachute. The balloon came down on top of a garage.

The man had a narrow escape from death. We arrived home at 10.30 after spending a very enjoyable day.

My Trip to Hartford

Dear Uncle Jed: This is only a short story about a trip I took:

Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock everyone was ready to start. We were going to Hartford to the Hartford hospital to see my aunt.

We rode along the road very smoothly for a long time. We passed many beautiful gardens. One I noticed in particular had a large fountain of very white marble. It was surrounded by red geraniums with a border of white flowers that I don't know the name of.

Just before we reached the city of Hartford we heard a knocking in the engine of our automobile. My brother got out and found a spark plug throwing oil everywhere.

We stopped at a garage and had it fixed; then we went on to the hospital.

After we had seen my aunt we came out and had our supper. Supper over, we started for home. Before we were out of Willimantic another knock was heard. This time it was the fan belt. The belt had got loose and it hit the front and made of the engine covers. When we reached Danielson the belt broke and the fan stopped. We had no means of getting a new one, so we drove on slowly. When we reached Putnam the water in the engine was boiling. No harm was done. We had it fixed the next day.

AMSTON

Charles M. Ams and his brother Emil and maids returned to Pelham, N. Y., for a few days and about the 15th expect to return to their summer home here. By then it is hoped that Mrs. Ams will be able to travel up with them for the summer. Mr. Ams purchased a new car for his use while up here, also one for his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Max Ams.

Mrs. Emily Sherman is visiting her son, Wendell Sherman, in Stockbridge, Mass.

Mrs. Charles J. Schmid has returned to New York after a few days' stay at her home here. Her brother is changing the location of his business and Mrs. Schmid is assisting him in the transfer.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Goodman, also Philip Gross, are at the Turshen home to stay for the summer.

Miss Lillian Jones has returned from the Hartford hospital after undergoing a successful operation for appendicitis.

Lena Goldstein, wife of Joseph Pearson, of New York, died at her home in that city Monday after a very brief illness. Besides her husband, she is survived by two young sons, several brothers, among whom are Morris and Isaac Goldstein, of this town, and her father, who spends the summer here.

Mrs. Morris Goldstein and daughter have returned home after a vacation spent in New York.

Mrs. Louise Blume has returned to her daughter's home for the summer.

The dirigible Los Angeles was plainly seen by residents in this locality Tuesday afternoon.

Friends of Mrs. Olive Clarke are glad that she is able to be out after her illness.

The son, Frank Spafford Grabber, born to Mr. and Mrs. F. Grabber, is their second child.

Miss Caroline Kellogg is the first in town to have the latest model in a radio, having purchased one of the new screen-grid sets.

Mrs. Carrie Burnham has gone to the shore for the summer.

Mrs. Della W. Porter is having her residence renovated and painted.

At the special meeting of the legal voters of the town it was voted, by a three to one vote, to continue to hold the town elections each year, rather than to have biennial elections. Representative R. Foote had a special act passed at the last session of the legislature so the town could have such elections if desired, but judging from the response his effort in this direction was not appreciated.

Mrs. Gerdine Frese and two sons spent the week end at their summer home here.

An examination of more than 2,000 apparently healthy persons showed that they had on the average two defects or diseases.

LISBON

Children's day was observed at the Norwich church Sunday, the exercises taking the place of the usual morning service. The responsive reading was led by Albert Bradlaw. Walter Hyde read the scripture and announced the hymns. Rev. W. G. Reynolds offered prayer and the collection was received by Louise Schmidt and Alice Schmidt. There were recitations by Margaret Strnad, Mary, Dorothy and Helen Rachkofsky, Annie Church, and Raymond Buffan, a song by Annie Rachkofsky, readings by Ella Church and two adult members of the school. The church was decorated with flowering amaryllis and bouquets of iris, bachelor's buttons and daisies.

Killingly ladies' degree team conferred the third and fourth degrees on a class at Lisbon grange, Friday evening. The candidates were Mrs. G. A. Rea, Miss Kate Ross, Mrs. Charles Strnad, Miss Sadie Goldberg, Miss Sadie Sikorski, Mrs. and Mrs. William Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reeden. Visitors were present from Killingly, Brooklyn, Pachaug, Preston and Norwich. The economics committee served a supper of salads, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee.

Graduating exercises for the schools of the town will be held in the community hall this (Tuesday) evening. There are twenty-one graduates.

When the Community club meets Wednesday evening, June 12, a motion picture furnished by the Firestone Tire company will be put on by courtesy of the Goldberg Rubber Tire Co., of Norwich.

TOM TURKEY HATCHING A SETTING OF 18 EGGS

A Tom turkey sitting on eggs is a curiosity at the Ambrose Leidweiss farm. The Leidweiss have a flock of 4 hen turkeys and the Tom turkey. When one after the other of the hens became brody and was given eggs to incubate the gobbler wandered around disconsolately alone for a couple of days, then decided to do likewise. He absolutely refused to leave the nest so 18 turkey eggs were placed under him and he settled down contentedly and is sitting as patiently as his mates. The eggs are due to hatch June 14th.

Lester Gardiner has completed his new brooder house and has ordered 500 more baby chicks. He already has 300.

Broadway Theatre.

For over forty years Otis Harlan has been entertaining audiences, first as a romantic leading man, and later as clever character actor and comedian of the screen.

Universal gave him a long term contract some time ago. Since then he has appeared in a great number of Universal's screen successes. The greatest role in recent years came to him when he was given the part of Capt. Andy Hawks in "Show Boat," the super talking picture at the Broadway theatre. In the other super production of the year, "Broadway," he plays the part of "Porky." He has been much of a fixture in Denny comedies, playing the sympathetic director in "Where Was I?" In "What Happened to Jones" he was the chief funmaker next to the star. In "The Cheerful Fraud," "Clear the Decks," "His Lucky Day," "Good Morning Judge," he supported Denny. Others of his latest Universal pictures are "Port of Dreams," "Silks and Saddles," "Grip of the Yukon," and "Silk Stockings."

Harlan was born in Zanesville, Ohio, Dec. 29, 1865, but had his residence most of his life in Long Branch, N. J.

It was shortly after he had left Kenyon college in Gambier, Ohio, that he first met Charles H. Hoyt, who induced him to enter his company. So successful did he prove as an actor that at the end of his first year Hoyt wrote a special play for him.

Then followed years of touring—five times abroad. He was Tom Jones in "What Happened to Jones" in his slimmer days, and when his figure no longer fitted the part he became Ebenezer Goodly, the role he played in the screen comedy. He played with Weber and Fields, with Anna Held and with Elsie Janis. He began his screen career in 1920.

Palace Theatre.

Mary Pickford came to the sound stages, saw the microphones and conquered them in Coquette, her new, all-talking picture now showing at the Palace theatre.

During the recording of her first scene in the picture, Miss Pickford was as excited as a small child.

"I feel just as I used to feel in the old days when the curtain went up and it was time for me to step out on the stage," Miss Pickford whispered as she waited for Director Sam Taylor to announce that all was in readiness for the scene.

By the time the final episodes of the picture were recorded Miss Pickford was as much at home on the sound stages as before the silent cameras.

"The sound pictures present an entirely new technique," Miss Pickford believes, "they are a combination of both the stage and the screen with an added art all their own. We, who are testing their possibilities, are the pioneers in an entirely new field of amusement endeavor."

"His Big Minute," an all-talking comedy unfolding the adventures of a tenderfoot in a western cow town, provides Lloyd Hamilton, famous comedy ace, with his first short comedy in sound. It is now proving a rare treat on the program at the Palace theatre.

Hamilton was a great favorite in silent short feature comedies, and he's even funnier and better in talking pictures. In "His Big Minute," he naturally is cast as the well-intentioned tenderfoot who tries to act natural among the cowboys.

Other sound features on this program are a Pathe Sound New Pathe Revue, a very rare offering in sound, and the famous Grantland Rice's Sportlight in sound.

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY IN NORWICH S. OF R CONTEST

The first prize in an essay contest under the auspices of Israel Putnam chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, in which the subject was "The Industries of Norwich During the Revolution", was won by Murray G. Slosberg of 315 Broadway, who wrote under the name of Grant S. Murray. His essay was in the form of a letter as follows:

Norwich, Conn.
January 8, 1777

My Dear Friend William:

After having received your letter about the conditions in your home town Boston, I feel justified in telling you that ours are quite the same. As there is very much about Norwich that will probably be of interest to you, I do not know where to begin, although I will try to get everything in. To begin with I will tell you about the industries and facts concerning them during the present time.

As I was reading the paper yesterday, I noticed a fact that it seems strange I had never known before, for it said that the paper mill erected here near Noman's acre in 1765 by Col. Christopher Leffingwell was the first paper mill in the country. This certainly lives up to the old saying that "a person learns something new every day".

Elijah Backus, Esq., a prominent man of the town established extensive iron works in the upper part of Norwich while another forge was erected three miles above that of Mr. Backus on the Yantic, by Mr. Nehemiah Huntington. Another successful citizen, William Lax, established a manufactory of guncarriages. He succeeded so well as to be employed by the state to furnish apparatus for much of the cannon used by them. At his forges upon the Yantic, Elijah Backus manufactures the ship anchors used by the state. Two of these anchors weigh 1200 pounds each. Guns and bayonets are being made by Samuel Noyes for the light infantry.

Mr. Thimas Harland is another ambitious and energetic manufacturer, who came here from London a short time ago. He founded a business of clock and watch making, and after a while through apprentices whom he had taught, the business spread over the surrounding country. These watches were carefully made and proved very successful. In 1776, Mr. Harland, without any model, constructed the first fire engine used in Norwich. Another important industry of the town is stocking weaving, which was introduced under the patronage of Col. Leffingwell in 1771. The comb-making business was established in 1773 by Noah Hidden near the meeting house (you remember I showed you where the meeting house was when you were here). About this time Mr. Alvan Fosdick undertook the manufacture of cards for breaking wool and forming it into rolls. This enterprise was not successful, for the work in Norwich was soon stopped by the more extensive and cheaper factories that were being built elsewhere. The manufacture of cut shingle nails from old iron hoops was started and is continuing through the war. Although this is a small business it was one of the first attempts to make nails other than hammering them out of solid iron. A tape factory has been set up here by a tape weaver from Manchester, England by the name of Zurishaddai Key. An insurance office was opened by Messrs. Hubbard and Green of Boston. There are already three booksellers in town, one shop being kept by Nathaniel Patten, one by Samuel Loudon, and another by John Trumbull. All the assortments are limited. In 1773 our first newspaper was established. Many articles concerning political freedom have been written in this paper. They are written by a distinguished patriot of New York and are directed against the importation and use of tea and revenue acts of parliament. This paper is called "The Norwich Packet", and Connecticut Rhode Island and New Hampshire, Weekly Advertiser. It is printed by Alexander Robertson, James Robertson, and John Trumbull at their printing office near the court house.

A chocolate mill was founded in 1770 by Christopher Leffingwell, the same person who introduced stocking weaving and founded the first paper mill in the country. The chocolate made here is of the best quality, and the quantity produced is estimated at 4,000 and 5,000 pounds annually. This mill is moved by water-wheels and can be tended by a single workman.

Now that I have written all I know about manufacturing and industries on land, I will change my subject and talk about facts concerning the water, such as ship-building and the like.

Last summer Connecticut ordered four row-galleys to be built of these, but three were completed; the Shark, built at Norwich by Capt. Jonathan Lester; the Crane, at East Haddam; and the Whiting at New Haven. Capt. Lester went to Philadelphia for the plan of the Shark. Her dimensions were sixty feet keel, eighteen feet beam, five feet hold, and seven inches dead rising. These galleys were to have fifty men (including officers). Last July, the Shark was sent to New York at the request of Gen. Washington. A few months ago, congress ordered two frigates to be built in Connecticut under the direction of the governor and council of safety, one of 36 guns and the other of 28. The former was built at Gale Town, between Norwich and New London, under the superintendence of Capt. Joshua Huntington. The Oliver Cromwell, owned by the state, was built at Saybrook last year by Capt. Uriah Layden, assisted by Capt. Harding. Its first commander was Capt. William Colt; but he having resigned Capt. Timothy Parker of Norwich, was appointed to the command in September. In July 1775 Benjamin Huntington of Norwich and John Deshon of New London were appointed agents of the colony to charter a fast-sailing vessel to go from place to place, watch the enemy, and carry stores. They purchased the schooner Britannia at Stonington and furnished her with a crew, Capt. Niles was appointed her commander. He was also captain of the armed schooner "Spy" which belonged to Norwich.

I have told you of the most important industries of the people of Norwich, and before I close I should like to tell you of the advantages Norwich has for a successful future. The first English explorers were struck with admiration, not only at the romantic scenery, but at the various advantages presented for commerce, manufactures, and agriculture. Here they beheld a navigable river and an easy access to the ocean; hills that would make excellent pastures for their herds and flocks; plains and meadows that industry might soon convert into mowing lands and cornfields; rapid streams and cataracts, affording innumerable mill seats and sites for future manufactories. We can almost hear them exclaim, "What a noble place for a settlement!" The hills, varied landscape, beautiful trees, elegant dwelling houses, and numerous gardens add very much to the beauty of the city. The people belong to an industrious and persevering class, which adds greatly to our prosperity. We hope that the beauty of our home and the high character of our people may not be lessened in the years to come.

Your sincere friend,
GRANT S. MURRAY.

AUTOMOBILE BRAKES MUST PASS STATE TEST

A standard state test for automobile brakes is now being prepared by the state motor vehicle department to carry out the provisions of the new brake law adopted by the 1929 general assembly, which will become effective July 1. The department also announced today that it is working with the officials of Mason laboratory at Yale university in testing reflectors which will be authorized by the state and required on all commercial motor vehicles after September 1.

The new Connecticut brake regulations are similar to those of adjoining states, and the law is now uniform in its language throughout the east. With the co-operation of the eastern conference of motor vehicle commissioners, the states are preparing tests with uniform schedules of stopping distances for various types of brakes. The uniform test law is new, for although there have been periodic attempts by police departments to establish regulations, it has not been a state function. The department expects that within a comparatively short time, in co-operation with the machinery of the uniform traffic law, state-wide inspection of brakes will begin.

Safety measures, primarily, provide the basis for the new brake law, which reads as follows: "Every motor vehicle, except a motorcycle or motorcycle and side car, operated in or upon any highway of this state shall be provided with brakes adequate to control the movement of such vehicle, which brakes shall conform to the rules and regulations made by the commissioner of motor vehicles and shall, at all times, be maintained in good working order.

"Each motor vehicle, except a motorcycle or motorcycle and side car, shall be provided with at least two braking systems; each shall have a separate means of application, shall operate directly or indirectly on at least two wheels and shall suffice alone to stop a motor vehicle within a proper distance, in such rules and regulations; provided, if such systems are connected, combined or have any part in common, each such system shall be so constructed that a breaking of any one element thereof will not leave the motor vehicle without brakes acting directly or indirectly on at least two wheels.

"One braking system shall be so constructed as to be capable of being set to hold the motor vehicle stationary.

"Every motorcycle or motorcycle and side car shall be provided with at least one brake adequate to stop it within a proper distance as defined in the rules and regulations."

Amendment to the law which allow the use of reflectors will require that approved types be used on commercial motor vehicles after September 1. The testing of various types of reflectors is now in progress and expected to be completed by July 1 and announcement made of those approved so that by August first the authorized types will be on the market.

Rigid enforcement of the reflector law, as a safety measure, is expected as soon as it becomes effective and the department is advising truck fleet operators and all owners of commercial motor vehicles to be sure their vehicles are equipped with reflectors of approved types by September 1.

CATS WITHOUT TAILS MUST STAY AT HOME

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (AP) — An emigration quota for tail-less cats is being advocated by public spirited citizens here.

It seems the casts of Man, who have helped to make this little island famous by getting along without tails, appeal strongly to the souvenir hunting instincts of summer visitors.

As a result, the Isle of Man soon may have no more tail-less cats than tail-less cast has become a sort of be very embarrassing indeed, for the tail-les cas has become asort of community mascot here, and its likeness has been so widely distributed on steamship and railroad folders that visitors to the island would feel cheated were there no tail-less cats to be seen when they got there.

One member of the house of keys (the Manx parliament) has announced he will introduce legislation to regulate the outbound traffic in cats.

DEATH-WATCH BEETLE ATTACKS LANDMARKS

TRING, England (AP)—The death-watch beetle is on a rampage again. This time he is attacking the parish church of Tring, a church of particular interest to Americans because its baptismal register contains references to the ancestors of George Washington. Tring also is known to many Americans as the family seat of Lord Rothschild.

The roof-tree of the south aisle of the old church has been found to be succumbing to the beetle's appetite for antiques. Discovery of the damage came in time, it is believed, to enable experts to repair it.

The death-watch beetle also has been busy in London lately, where the old church of St. Lawrence Jewry, built in the seventseenth century by Sir Christopher Wren, has had to close for repairs. Less recently experts were called in to save the roof-tree of Westminster hall, one of the finest examples of architecture in London, from ruination by the beetle.

The death-watch beetle, by the way does not get its name from the doom it attempts to pronounce on historic buildings and antique furniture. It is so called because of the weird ticking noises it makes inside of furniture and old beams.

The superstitions still regard such tickings as an ill omen foreshadowing the death of someone in the house. Entomologists, however, explain that the eerie knocking is merely the death-watch beetle's quaint way of saying he is lonesome for his mate. He calls her by bumping his head against the woodwork.

"Aw, gee, pop. Do we really have to move next week?"

"Well, everything's arranged, son. Why?"

"Well, there's a new kid on the block and I haven't licked him yet."—Washington Star.

Frederick R. Deddersault. As the wedding party moved up the aisle, the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Alice Frachetta, organist at the church, who also played the music for the nuptial mass which followed the wedding ceremony. The bride had for her maid of honor her cousin, Miss Viola Michon, and the groom was attended by an intimate friend, Philip Ludier as best man.

There were gifts of silver, glassware, furniture and linen. In the evening there was a reception at the Naturalization club and after the happy couple left on a wedding trip which will take them to points of interest in Vermont, Providence, R. CONNECTICUT COLLEGE TO HAVE WOMAN PRESIDENT

NEW LONDON, June 10—(AP)—Amid the setting of its eleventh commencement day alumni, students and their friends today were told that Connecticut College for Women, would hereafter be presided over by a woman—Dr. Katherine Blunt, now of University of Chicago, who will succeed President Benjamin F. Marshall, who resigned last June.

Dr. Blunt will take up her duties with Connecticut college in the fall, and she will come as the choice of the board of trustees upon recommendation of a committee who spent much of the year past in looking over the college field for an available choice.

In the language of Dean Wilbur L. Cross, of Yale Graduate school, who was on the committee as a trustee, Dr. Blunt is a woman of "large attainments and an able administrator." The new president has had numerous professional association and civic activities in addition to her work as a student in Vassar and Massachusetts Institute of Technology and her various instructorships in Vassar, Pratt institute in Brooklyn, and Chicago university, and she has many memberships in societies for promotion of arts and literature.

Dr. Blunt already has signified her acceptance of the place. She will take over the duties which for the past year have been in the hands of a presidential committee at Connecticut college, one member of which, Dean Irene Nye, gave out the diplomas to 104 graduates today, as President Marshall's closing days in active service were marked with controversy with members of the faculty which terminated with his resignation and award to him of a year's leave of absence before the resignation became effective.

STORRS HENS FELL OFF IN THE 31ST WEEK

The 1,000 hens entered in the Storrs laying contest decreased their egg production slightly during the 31st week, their total lay for the week being 4,631 eggs, or a yield of 66.2 per cent. which is a decrease of 60 eggs over last week's score, but an increase of 90 eggs over the corresponding week last year. The pullets in the contest are not loafing, as is evidenced by the fact that they have an average of 134 eggs each, which is 15 more eggs per bird than last year at this time or 15,000 more for all the birds in the contest.

A pen of White Leghorns owned by Toivonen Leghorn Farm, Girard, Pa., won first honors for the week with a lay of 65 eggs. Close on their heels came two more pens of Leghorns owned by George Lowry, West Willington, Conn., and William L. Gilbert Home, Winsted, Conn. These pens laid 64 eggs each. Third place went to R. C. Slosson's Leghorn entry from East Aurora, N. Y. Their score was 60 eggs each.

There were no changes among the leading pens of the principal varieties except in the Leghorn division. Here we find that the William L. Gilbert Home pen from Winsted, Conn., has passed both Granite Springs' birds and Hanson's Leghorns to take third place.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT AGAINST THE CITY

Judge C. B. Waller in the common pleas court here Monday morning reserved decision after hearing trial of the case brought against the city of Norwich by Howell S. Bailey of New York through George E. Pitcher, his father-in-law and duly authorized agent.

The suit arises from the laying of the asphalt pavement in Main street in the fall of 1927, as a consequence of which it is alleged that there is a low spot in front of the Bailey property at 359-367 Main street so that water collects, seeps into the building, undermines the walls and does other damage.

Mr. Pitcher testified to having called the matter to the attention of the common council in September, 1928, also to the attention of John C. Donovan, who was then street commissioner, and also the present street commissioner, Herbert B. Wightman.

Residents in the Bailey block testified for Mr. Bailey and Street Commissioner Wightman was the only witness called by the defense.

POETRY

The Bloodless Sportsman

I go a-gunning, but take no gun;
I fish without a pole;
And I bag good game and I catch such fish
As suits a sportsman's soul.
For the choicest game that the forest holds
And the best fish of the brook,
Are never brought down by a rifle shot,
And are never caught with a hook.
I hunt for game in the trees,
I bob for fish by the forest brook,
For bigger birds than wing the air,
Or fish that swim the seas.
A rodless Walton of the brooks,
A bloodless sportsman, I
I hunt for the thoughts that throng the woods,
The dreams that haunt the sky.
The woods are made for the hunters,
The brooks for the fishers of song,
To the hunters who hunt for the game-less game
The streams and the woods belong.
There are thoughts that roam from the soul of the pine,
And thoughts in the flower-bell curled;
The thoughts that are blown with the scent of fern,
Are as new and as old as the world.
So, away, for the hunt in the fern-scented wood,
Till the going down of the sun,
There is plenty of game still left in the woods
For the hunter who has no gun.
So, away, for the fish, by the moss-bordered brook,
That flows through the velvety sod;
There are plenty of fish still left in the streams
For the angler who has no rod.

The Shepherdess

She walks—the lady of my delight—
A shepherdess of sheep.
Her flocks are thoughts. She keeps them white;
She guards them from the steep.
She feeds them on the fragrant hight,
And folds them in for sleep.

She roams maternal hills and bright,
Dark valleys safe and deep,
Into that tender breast at night
The chastest stars may peep.
She walks—the lady of my delight—
A shepherdess of sheep.

She holds her little thoughts in sight,
Though gay they run and leap,
She is so circumspect and right;
She has her soul to keep.
She walks—the lady of my delight—
A shepherdess of sheep.

SENATE REJECTS, 46 TO 43, COMPROMISE FARM BILL

Outcome of Farm Legislation Now is Doubtful—Some Farm Leaders Believe Rejection Means End of Farm Legislation in the Special Session—All Agree That Enactment Will Now Be Considerably Delayed—President Hoover Severely Criticised Senate Rejection of the Compromise Bill.

NEW SOLUTION FOR FARM RELIEF PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—A plan for solving the congressional farm relief problem was adopted tonight at a conference of senate and house leaders with President Hoover.

Republican leaders of the house agreed at the meeting to bring that branch to a direct vote upon the export debenture plan within a few days, probably on Thursday. Under the scheme worked out, the vote would come upon a question of instructing house conferees against the debenture plan.

Chairman McNary of the senate agriculture committee, after the conference, expressed the belief that should the house defeat the debenture plan by a direct vote, members of the senate who had favored this method of agricultural relief would yield to the views of the administration.

Tonight's conference followed the action of the senate in rejecting the conference report which had eliminated the debenture plan and in issuance of a statement by President Hoover reiterating his opposition to the debenture method.

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—Overriding President Hoover's farm relief views for a second time today, the senate sent back to the house without approval the agriculture measure from which the export debenture provision had been eliminated on administration demand and thereby drew from the president a stiffly worded statement of condemnation.

The outcome of the legislation tonight was in doubt. The senate voted 46 to 43 against the compromise farm measure drafted by conferees of the senate and house after listening to a violent attack from both sides of the chamber on the presidential views.

Mr. Hoover retaliated a few hours later in a public statement denouncing again the export debenture provision as bound to bring "further disparity to agriculture." He declared the senate vote "adds further delay to farm relief and may gravely jeopardize the enactment of legislation."

Hastily gathering to survey the situation, republican leaders in the house decided tonight to reconsider the farm measure on Thursday under rules which will permit a direct vote on the export debenture—a course which the house previously had flatly refused to take.

Senate democratic leads a who handled the successful advocacy of export debentures with the western republican independents replied that their fight was to force a house vote on the debenture. They gave assurance that they would abide by the decision of the house if it would take the vote.

It was a day of bristling exchanges. The senate debate was as vitriolic and spirited as has been heard in years. Senator Brookhart of Iowa, who campaigned through the agricultural middle west for Mr. Hoover, closed the debate with an appeal for rejection if "this weasel bill" and for the election of a "progressive president by the farmers."

Senator Brookhart took up where Senator Borah of Idaho, another Hoover campaigner, had left off yesterday in condemnation of the presidential farm relief program and Senator Johnson of California added to the republican attack.

Senator Allen of Kansas, the newest member of the senate again was the lone republican to speak up in defense of the administration and he was the target of biting criticism from the republican independents.

With their lines almost solidly intact for the vote against the debentureless farm measure, the democrats were content for the most part to let the republicans quarrel. Senator Caraway of Arkansas took the floor late in the day, however, to excoriate the Hoover farm relief plan as futile without the debenture provision.

The vote was somewhat of a surprise to republican leaders in the senate who had gained two democratic votes from those who had voted for debentures when the plan was inserted in the farm bill last march 47 to 44. Senators Fletcher and Trammell of Florida left the democratic lineup to vote for the conference report.

However, Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, who previously had voted with the president against the debenture, switched today to vote against the compromise bill.

President Hoover entered the intensive drive for votes today. Senator Couzens was a white house breakfast guest. Senators Nye and Frazier of North Dakota were called separately to the white house a little later. All were unmoved. The North Dakotans stood firm in their demand for the export debenture. Senator Couzens left his party ranks to join in the move to force a house vote on the debenture.

The roll call follows: For the bill—

Republicans: Allen, Bingham, Burton, Capper, Cutting, Dale, Deneen, Edge, Fess, Gillett, Glenn, Goff, Greene, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Jones, Kean, Keyes, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Oddie, Patterson, Phipps, Reed, Sackett, Shortridge, Smoot, Steiger, Thomas of Idaho, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott, Warren, Waterman and Watson.—38.

Democrats: Fletcher, Ransdell, Trammell and Wagner.—4.

Total 42.

Against the bill:

Republicans: Borah, Brookhart, Couzens, Frazier, Howe, Johnson, LaFollette, McMaster, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Pine and Schall.—13.

Democrats: Ashurst, Barkley, Bratton, Blease, Broussard, Caraway, Connally, Copeland, Dill, George, Gerry, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Heflin, King, McKellar, Overman, Pittman, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Swanson, Thomas of Oklahoma, Tydings, Tyson, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana and Wheeler.—32.

Total 46.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, issued a statement tonight declaring that if the house would vote on the debenture, he would abide by the result. He denounced the house leadership for its previous refusal to permit a debenture vote on the grounds that it was revenue raising legislation which, according to the constitution, must originate in the house. He said the responsibility for farm relief legislation rests with the republican leaders of the house who had declined to permit a vote on the senate debenture plan.

Senator Johnson took notice of the presidential drive for votes and assailed the "cracking of the party lash". He recalled the campaign pledges of Senators Borah and Brookhart on farm relief in behalf of Herbert Hoover and declared that "somebody else has shifted ground, not the senator from Iowa or the senator from Idaho."

Newspapers generally came in for discussion in the day's turmoil. Taking notice of press comment, Senator Johnson referred to the "servile hypocritical press." Senator Allen declared that most of the press had urged support of the Hoover farm bill

As soon as the senate vote was announced by Vice President Curtis to the crowded chamber, Senator McNary, republican, Oregon the chairman of the agriculture committee, moved that the senate ask another conference with the house. The same conferees—McNary, Norris Nebraska and Capper, Kansas, republicans; and Smith, South Carolina and Ransdell, La., democrats, were appointed.

A little later Speaker Longworth and Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the house majority leader, conferred with representatives interested in the farm bill. They decided to bring the measure up again in the usual manner for further disagreement to senate amendments.

This will be undertaken Thursday, at which time any member could move to instruct the house conferees either to accept or reject the debenture plan, and in that manner bring a direct vote on the proposal.

SEN. COMMITTEE HEARING ON HOUSE TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—The tariff bill passed by the house May 28 after a journey of nearly five months through committee and floor debate will start its long and doubtful senate travels tomorrow with the opening of public hearings by the finance committee.

The full committee composed of eleven republicans and eight democrats will receive testimony from nearly a score of witnesses on valuation methods.

Two of the four sub-committees organized to hear arguments on the 15 rate schedules of the bill will get into action Thursday. Between that date and June 24, two or three of these groups will be sitting simultaneously. On the latter date all four sub-committees will begin to function at once hearing testimony on four of the most important sections in the measure—sugar, wool, metals and sundries.

The tariff occupied senate attention briefly today.

A statement by Senator Allen, republican, Kansas, that he was not satisfied with the bill as it passed the house drew from Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, a welcome into the ranks of pseudo-republicans."

"And since we seem about to have another convert to the group of the non-conformists," Robinson said, "perhaps the senator will tell us why he does not favor the tariff bill that the house has sent us."

Allen replied that the president had specifically asked for a limited revision.

"I see no occasion for a general revision at this time," Allen added. "I came here for a limited revision on some of the schedules affecting agriculture."

The finance committee hearings will terminate July 19. Then republican committee members will begin rewriting the measure.

Many witnesses tomorrow are expected to urge adoption of American valuation as a basis for assessing ad valorem duties.

HOOVER'S VIEW ON SENATE REJECTION OF FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—President Hoover late today issued a formal statement asserting that today's vote in the senate adds further delay to farm relief and may gravely jeopardize the enactment of agricultural legislation.

Reiterating his opposition to the export debenture plan Mr. Hoover declared that "it will not bring equality but will bring further disparity to agriculture."

He added that "immediate profits to some speculators and disaster to the farmer" would follow the enactment of this farm relief plan.

The chief executive declared that in rejecting the compromise farm bill the senate had in effect rejected "a bill which provides for the creation of the most important agency ever set up in the government to assist an industry—the proposed federal board endowed with extraordinary authority to reorganize the marketing system in the interest of the farmer to stabilize his industry and to carry out these arrangements in conjunction with farm cooperatives, with a capital of $500,000,000 as an earnest of the seriousness of the work.

The compromise bill, the president said, carried out in every particular the plan advanced by the republican party in the recent presidential campaign.

"Every other plan of agricultural relief was rejected in that campaign and this plan was one of the most important issues in these principal agricultural states and was given a mandate by an impressive majority in these states," the president said.

"Subsidies were condemned in the course of the campaign and the so-called debenture plan—that is the giving of subsidies on exports—was not raised by either party nor by its proponents.

"No serious attempts has been made to meet the many practical objections I and leaders in congress have advanced against this proposal. It was not accepted by the house of representatives and has been overwhelmingly condemned by the press and is opposed by many leading farm organizations. For no matter what the theory of the export subsidy may be, in the practical world we live in it will not bring equality but will bring further disparity to agriculture. It will bring immediate profits to some speculators and disaster to the farmer.

"I earnestly hope that the congress will enact the conferees report and allow us to enter upon a building of a sound agricultural system rather than to longer deprive the farmer of the relief which he so sorely needs."

H. C. CAMPBELL DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF SLAYING

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 11—(AP)—Henry Colin Campbell, 61-year old civil engineer and advertising man and one man pseudo-physician, today spent more than two hours on the witness stand in court of Oyer and Terminer telling the events that preceded his slaying of Mrs. Mildred Mowry. The slaying itself and what occurred for several hours before he said he did not recall.

Mrs. Mowry's body was found at dawn by an isolated road near Cranford February 23rd. She had been shot through the dead, drenched with gasoline and set afire.

Campbell's face was blanched as he answered questions put to him by Francis A. Gordon, his attorney. His words were scarcely audible.

"Did you have any intention of killing or shooting Mrs. Mowry?" Gordon asked.

"My God, no. Not at any time," Campbell answered.

"Do you recall shooting and killing Mrs. Mowry?"

"No, I don't. I can't remember anything about it," was the answer.

Then he told how his first recollection was seeing his car in front of the house on the morning of February 24th. This surprised him as he was accustomed to drive to a garage. He said he opened the car door and found a handkerchief and pair of gloves on the seat, and then remembered he had been with somebody, but could not remember who.

When asked why he corresponded with Mrs. Mowry, he said it was to get her savings. He was out of work and needed money, he testified.

Standard Oil Co. Of Indiana Convicted

On Charge of Violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law—51 Subsidiary Concerns Involved.

CHICAGO, June 11—(AP)—Fifty-two oil companies, headed by the Standard Oil company of Indiana, were convicted of violating the Sherman anti-trust law in United States district court here today.

The opinion, which overruled the report of a master in chancery, found the oil companies guilty of restraining trade and monopolizing the oil industry by pooling their interests in various oil cracking patents.

Defendants in the suit, grouped into two classes, included, besides the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Texas company, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Gasoline Products company. Forty-six corporations and one individual also were named.

Three members of the United States circuit court of appeals, sitting en banc as district court judges, heard the case, judges Evan A. Evans and George T. Page delivered the majority opinion. Judge A. B. Anderson, dissented.

The court ruled the government entitled to an injunction restraining the companies from further violation of the law and called for an agreement between counsel on both sides for setting aside existing patent pooling arrangements.

The majority opinion sustained the government's objections to a report by Master in Chancery Charles Martindale of Indianapolis. Martindale, after taking evidence for two years, recommended dismissal of the suit on grounds that the government had established no case.

The government charged the oil companies pooled the patent interests and forced independent concerns to pay royalties for the privilege of using the patents. It also was charged the independent companies were forced to restrict their territories so as not to compete with the defendant companies.

Counsel for the defendant companies maintained there was no monopoly and that the pooling of patents served a good purpose in that it reduced the price of gasoline in eliminating costly litigations in connection with various claims to patent processes.

The majority opinion held that the patent agreements of the oil companies stepped outside the limits of lawful monopolies which arose from the issuance of the patents.

"The patent monopoly itself is a property right and agreements in respect thereto must be subject to the same anti-monopoly tests and any other property rights," said the opinion.

The court harked back to the famous Packers case, in which the government obtained dissolution of trust combinations, for precedent.

"There was no substantial difference between agreements entered into by competing packing companies respecting the prices at which, or territories wherein, their products may be sold and an agreement between holders of patent monopolies which fix the rates of royalties that shall be charged to the licensees," the opinion stated.

MOTION AGAINST TEXAS GUINAN DISMISSED

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Motions pending in federal court to enjoin Helen Morgan and Texas Guinan forever from violating the prohibition laws were dismissed today by Judge Alfred E. Coxe, Jr., at the request of the federal attorney who was acting under orders received from Washington.

The order to drop both motions was given over the telephone from Washington by Norman J. Morrison, special assistant U. S. attorney general and chief aide to Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, whose resignation takes effect July 1.

As the result of wholesale raids on New York night clubs staged under Mrs. Willebrandt's directions more than a year ago, Miss Morgan and Miss Guinan were recently tried and acquitted.

TWO BREWERIES WERE RAIDED AT TROY, N. Y.

TROY, N. Y., June 11—(AP)—Prohibition inspectors from Providence, R. I., today raided two breweries and a storage house here, seized beer and ale they said was worth thousands of dollars and held 11 men.

The prohibition enforcement squad, headed by Robert Coyne, broke into the cellar of the Fitzgerald brothers' brewery on River street.

An hour later they raided a storehouse in Oakland avenue where they said they found thousands of bottles of beverage labeled "Frontenac Ale". Later they descended upon the Quandt brewery at River street and Glenn avenue, where, they said, they seized several thousand dollars worth of alleged beer in the making.

The Fitzgerald brewery, the agents said, is operated under a permit.

LEADER TILSON PRAISES REAPPORTIONMENT LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—House Leader Tilson in a speech in the house today emphasized that when the president signs the reapportionment bill "never more will there be danger of failing to reapportion after each decennial census as contemplated in the comtitution." He expressed personal gratification that "the permanent reapportionment law will be in the exact language" which he himself offered.

This was the first problem to which he turned his attention when he became majority leader. He said he "felt deeply that one of the basic provisions on which our government is founded was being ignored."

MARTIAL LAW HAS BEEN PROCLAIMED AT CURACAO

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dutch West Indies, June 11.—(AP)— Martial law was proclaimed here yesterday to guard against any repetition of the successful raid made by Venezuelan revolutionists on Saturday night.

Strikers Seize Mex. Nat'l University

Students Are Holding Several Officials as Hostages—100 Students Were Placed on Guard.

MEXICO CITY, June 11—(AP)—Two thousand striking students this afternoon took possession of the National university and seized several officials as hostages for the resignation of Rector Antonio Castro Leal, which they have demanded. The hostages offered no resistance and there was no vioence.

A permanent guard of 100 strikers was placed over the building until such time as their demands are met. Those seized were Secretary General Daniel Costa Villegas of the university, Director Alfonso Caso of the National Preparatory school and several university professors.

The guard will be changed by the students every eight hours. The supreme strike committee has set up headquarters in the university building and announced that it would meet there in continuous session.

The students have been on strike, primarily because monthly examinations were substituted for term examinations, for about a month. It had been thought that the trouble was settled through the intervention of President Portes Gil who obtained permission from congress to declare the university an autonomus institution free from the control hitherto exercised by the department of public instruction.

The president refused to order resignation of the rector and the students declined to compromise. They got together today and went in a body to the university but did not find the rector in his office. Then they decided to hold the building with those officials found there until he complies with their demand.

As further proof of their determination, the student guard decided to go without food during each eight hours of duty.

The board of directors named Harry E. Gaze, on the east five years resident manager of the Thames river branch of the Robert Gair company, as executive vice president, and secretary of the state chamber, succeeding Clark Belden, who leaves on June 15 to become public relations director of the National Electric Power company.

MISS HELEN MOYER COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—Miss Helen Moyer, 24, who for months had watched with anxiety the progress of synchronized sound pictures that eliminate theatre orchestras and organists, and who had finally lost her job last Sunday when Loew's New York theatre released its musicians in favor of the new device, today committed suicide.

From her room on the twelfth floor of a hotel just west of the gay white way, she hurled herself down into the street. She was dead before the arrival of an ambulance.

Miss Moyer came to the city last October from Herkimer, N. Y., where her parents live. She lived at the hotel with Miss Eleanor Allen, also an organist.

"She had been ill, too," Miss Allen said, "besides worrying about her job."

GIRL ARRESTED IN WESTERLY FOR ROBBERY

WESTERLY, R. I., June 11—(AP)—Mrs. Velma Read Smith, pretty 17 year old bride of two months, was arrested while at work in a textile mill here this afternoon and is being held by local police at the request of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney C. W. Augustine, of Pontiac, Mich., by whom she is charged with having been a party to a conspiracy in an armed robbery there. The girl tonight denied knowledge of any robbery and declared she was innocent of the charge. "ASSASSINATIONS" BY FED. GOVT. AGENTS PROTESTED

Austen G. Fox of the Moderation League Has Made Public an Open Letter to President Hoover—Treasury Department Has Ordered an Investigation of the Killing of Henry Virkkula by Border Patrolmen—Method of Enforcing the Liquor Law Arouses Citizens Along the International Border—Another Man Was Shot Yesterday by the U. S. Customs Border Patrol.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Austen G. Fox, chairman of the Moderation league, tonight made public an open letter he had addressed to President Hoover in which he said "it is the executive alone who can put an end to the shocking and increasing assassinations of citizens by agents of the federal government." In recounting recent alleged crimes committed by prohibition enforcement officers, Mr. Fox said "with the power that alone can put an end to grievance rests, also, the responsibility for the continuance."

"Yesterday, F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, in his first general survey of prohibition since the inauguration of President Hoover, said:

'Scores of federal officials have adopted a more aggressive policy.' The same day we read also the story of the killing in Minnesota—the latest result of this more aggressive policy.'

"Last month large numbers rose in the house from their worship at the altar of law enforcement and shouted their glee at the news that another fellow citizen had been shot to death. This time on the streets of the national capital. Today we read that they all sat silent under the denunciation of the killing of the day before.

"The Minnesota assassin took no chance of missing his victim. He used a 'riot gun,' put twenty-six bullets into the automobile, killed his man and barely missed two children and their mother.

"Too long has this 'more aggressive policy' resulted in assassination on land and sea. The men who put 'riot guns' in the hands of the men whom they send to 'patrol' the highways and the Great Lakes, or the sea, are removable, every one of them, by the president.

"Read the news from International Falls, Minnesota, today—'Citizens of the town gathered in groups about the jail and discussed the advisability of going armed when motoring to protect themselves against similar attacks.' Will border patrolmen armed with automatic rifles and repeating shot-guns on the highway tourists are leaving for their homes." The assassin, White, was reported as still on the government payroll last night.

"In closing I repeat the words of warning that these assassinations by federal agents are the very thing that lead to anarchy."

INVESTIGATION ORDERED BY TREASURY DEPARTMENT

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., June 11.—(AP) — Charging that the shooting of Henry Kirkkula by a border patrolman searching for liquor smugglers "was a culpably negligent act," County Attorney David Hurlbert today said that hostility to methods of enforcing liquor laws is outstanding evident among citizens along the international boundary.

All automobiles passing through this district are being stopped, he said, because of reports that liquor runners are carrying contraband across the border.

"Citizens here," he said, "are aroused against a system which allows an officer to shoot with great danger of life, and against a system which forces a motorist to distinguish after dark between a holdup man and an officer."

Emett J. White, the patrolman charged with shooting Virkkula, remained in jail today after his arraignment on a charge of second degree manslaughter. His bail was set at $1,500 which members of the border patrol were attempting to raise.

Although White was under guard at the inquest Monday, no extra precautions were taken today to shield him against possible violence, Hurlbert said. Reports that deputies were patrolling streets near the jail in fear of an outbreak were denied by Sheriff Hugh Reidy.

Virkkula's body was taken to Eveleth today where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT ORDERS INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The treasury department today ordered an investigation of the part enforcement agents played in the shooting of Henry Virkkula, at International Falls, Minn., and Archibald Eugster at Detroit.

Coincidentally, the treasury and justice departments began work on their joint campaign against rum runners in the Detroit area, and representatives in congress from the districts where the shootings occurred asked the government for prompt action if the law enforcement officers are proven at fault.

Representative Pittenger, republican, Minnesota, suggested that President Hoover's commission on law enforcement could make no better beginning than to investigate the killing of Virkkula.

"If prohibition can only be enforced by the use of sawed-off shotguns in the hands of irresponsible government agents," he said, "then indeed we have reached the high tide of fanaticism and bigotry in this matter."

A bill to authorize payment of $25,000 to Virkkula's widow was introduced by Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin, who yesterday directed the house attention to the incident.

WOUNDED BY MEMBER OF CUSTOMS BORDER PATROL

DETROIT, June 11.—(AP) — Wayne county authorities tonight were investigating the shooting of Archibald Eugster, 21, who was wounded probably fatally by Jonah Cox, member of the United States customs border patrol at 1:30 a. m. today.

Eugster and his companions told officers they were on their way to fish in the Detroit river when Cox opened fire. Cox admitted that he fired the shot. He said he fired into the air when he saw the youths in a boat approaching a captured liquor-laden boat he was guarding and then fired at the youths as they came down the shore toward him.

Officials of Deiray industrial hospital where Eugster was taken after the shooting, said tonight his condition was "very serious."

Cox made a statement today to Gregory H. Frederick, assistant U. S. district attorney, but both later declined to discuss the shooting. Cox also made a statement to James E. Chenot, Wayne country prosecutor, admitting he shot Eugster. The border patrol inspector is at liberty pending outcome of the investigation Chenot is conducting. Eugster's companions were held as police witnesses.

ATTACK ON HOOVER'S OIL CONSERVATION POLICY

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—An attack on President Hoover's oil conservation policy and the action of Mark L. Requa, chairman of the oil conference at Colorado Springs, in ruling out of order a resolution favoring rescinding of the executive's order barring prospecting on public lands was launched today on the floor of the senate.

Senator Cuttin, republican, New Mexico, began the assault by challenging Requa's right to prevent discussion in the conference on any matter pertinent to the issues involved.

The challenge immediately drew from Senator King, democrat, Utah, a statement that the oil order was "one of the most lawless acts ever committed by any person." King was joined by Senator Bratton democrat, New Mexico, who declared that the restriction policy was an "injustice" to those who had money invested in oil lands.

King announced that he intended to curtail oil production on the public lands.

Both New Mexico senators asserted that Requa's announcement before the conference that he would urge "coercive governmental regulation" if the oil industry continued to overproduce would be "ineffective" as far as their state was concerned.

"Any policy of coercion at the conference," Cutting said, "will be bitterly repudiated."

CONFERENCE NEEDED ON EVACUATION OF RHINELAND

It was indicated today that Dr. Stresemann might seek to have the matter postponed until September.

ABOUT MACDONALD'S VISIT TO THE UNITED STATES

LONDON, June 11—(AP)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald will pay his contemplated visit to the United States as soon as parliament has adjourned at the end of July, unless an adverse reason should suddenly intervene, it was generally held in authoritative quarters tonight.

Departure at this time would leave the premier free for his projected visit in September to the league of nations assembly meeting at Geneva.

"I cannot make a statement of any kind tonight." Mr. MacDonald declared as he was leaving London with his daughter, Ishbel, for a rest at his Scottish home in Lossiemouth.

A good understanding with the United States would be of the first importance to the labor administration, which would especially welcome any means of restricting expenditure on naval armaments obtainable by such an understanding.

MUCH INTEREST IN VOTE OF COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 11.—Considerable interest was expressed today in the vote of the common council, taken after the midnight hour this morning, to continue the permanent surfacing of lower Main street for a distance of about 400 feet to the American Thread company garages. It was indicated, however, that most of this interest was centered about the lengthy controversy in the council chamber that kept the alderman up and in session until another day had started. By a vote of four to two, however, the resolution of Alderman William E. Webber prevailed for laying tarvia-lithic, the material used in the construction of Main street last year from the New Haven railroad crossing, through Thread Mill square to a point opposite the American Thread company offices.

A flood of petitions are coming into the common council for the acceptance of new thoroughfares as city streets, coupled with requests from all sections of the city for additional street lights. The matter of suitable repairs to Tingley street, from Valley to Prospects streets is another matter to occupy the attention of the committee. The macadam surface that is to be lifted from that section of lower Main street which is to be permanently paved will be used in surfacing the upper section of Oak street from Lewiston avenue to Puru street, which the council voted to incorporate into the city street system Monday night.

The boy was reported as not being in any immediate danger today by Dr. A. J. Girouard who is attending the child at St. Joseph's hospital. The accident occurred opposite the church property as Garceau drove the truck from the school grounds through the gateway of a fence. Webber the table lamp which was formerly on the scribes' table and which disappeared when the council chamber was redecorated, will be replaced by a new one of suitable design. CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

TODAY—you can pay a Low Price and not Sacrifice your pride.

FULL SIZE

WHEN you make it a matter of cold-blooded business to familiarize yourself with everything that low-priced cars in general have to offer, the inner voices tell you that the newly-refined Plymouth is the car for your money.

JUDGMENT calmly says, "Plymouth is a Chrysler Motors product—and as such, it is the only low-priced car that can offer the modern style of Chrysler designing or the thrilling performance of Chrysler engineering."

$655 and upwards f.o.b. factory

PRIDE says, "Plymouth is a real full-size automobile, not a miniature—the roomiest and most comfortable of all low-priced motor cars—a car you can display to your friends and invite them to ride in, without offering a single excuse."

CAUTION says, "Plymouth is self-evidently a safer car to drive. Its full-size ruggedness in every part is assurance of utmost strength and stability. It is the only low-priced car possessing the famous Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes—always self-equalizing, uniform, positive and noiseless."

THRIFT says, "Plymouth not only gives you the superior qualities and features that appeal to judgment, pride and caution, but Plymouth at the same time costs so phenomenally little to maintain and operate."

WISDOM, summing it all up, says, "Buy a Plymouth. It is the greatest value in its field."

39 Hollywood directors say,

"No real beauty without lovely skin . . ."

SALLY EILERS, Sennett-Pathé star, says: "I am most particular about my skin. Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin that same velvety smoothness the finest French soaps do."

LAURA LA PLANTE, lovely Universal star, says: "I've used the famous French soaps and know that Lux Toilet Soap is made by the same method—it gives my skin the same marvelous smoothness."

SUECAROL, popular star, says: "Only a marvelous skin carries over to the audience—the close-up shows every trace of make-up. Lux Toilet Soap leaves my skin gloriously smooth."

9 out of 10 screen stars keep their skin lovely this way . . .

"THERE'S amazing allure in beautiful smooth skin," declares Carl Laemmle, Jr., director for Universal—and sums up what 39 foremost Hollywood directors have found from their experience with the movies.

"Lovely skin is the one charm every star must have," Laemmle goes on to say. "Make-up is no help in the close-up. The skin must be exquisite."

Because smooth flawless skin is absolutely necessary for success in motion pictures, 442 of the 451 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

Especially for the close-up, when the huge new incandescent "sun-spot" lights pour their terrific brilliance down on a star, the screen actress's skin must be smooth as satin.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap—they have found that this daintily fragrant white soap keeps their skin at its loveliest—as smooth as a flower petal.

The Desire of Everyone is Something Better Next Time!

One never forgets an unsatisfactory purchase, no matter what price was paid. It is just as true that one never forgets a satisfactory purchase, which is always attended by pleasant memories.

Quality is always the basis of value, and quality (or the lack of it) is what creates the impression.

Quality always is an assurance of value and is never attended by "half price" quotations; garments offered at "half price" may be worth it, but seldom more.

If that statement is true of the goods you sell, whether it be eggs, milk, cream or fruit, it is most likely equally true of the things you have to buy.

Think it over!

Sooner or later a style becomes too widely copied as well as tiresome—then it is dethroned, and succeeded by another.

NORWICH NEEDS IT.

As indicated elsewhere in The Bulletin today the industrial commission is endeavoring to ascertain all the available sites for manufacturing plants within the limits of the town.

In that connection it is disclosed that there is already in existence here an industrial building corporation, an incorporated concern, officered and with a small sum in the bank. Why shouldn't this be used as the nucleus for expansion?

If our need is for industrial plants which new concerns would be interested in, or an industrial company that is ready to provide such plants for sound concerns, in accord with the plans which have worked well here and elsewhere, this company would seem to be the proper one to revive.

Everyone will agree that the Norwich Industrial Improvement corporation did a good job in connection with the establishment of the American Thermos Bottle company in this city. It has been resting on its laurels for some little time now, but Norwich isn't satisfied to sit idly by in regard to its industrial situation. The situation isn't furnishing any cause for worry. Norwich has fared much better than many other cities industrially, but the idea is a correct one that we should not wait for a slump, a serious loss, before striving to secure additional industrial growth.

There isn't a city, no matter what the size, but what is desirous of obtaining more industries. It is the aim of a growing, progressive city. It is the natural objective of the city which has something to offer to new concerns. Norwich has that something many times over. Its handicap for the present lies in available manufacturing plants that will meet requirements.

Why not meet that situation and overcome that handicap?

Why not get this industrial corporation awakened from its dormant state, get back of it and keep it functioning for the industrial growth of the city?

Is there any question about the desirability of such a move?

JAYWALKING.

All one needs to do is to drive through a main thoroughfare and have people try to cross the street every few feet and step out from in back of nearly every parked car and he will be quickly convinced of the efforts that are being put forth concerning the jay walker.

This stepping into the street at random, sometimes backward, is the continuance of the old practice during the days of the horse-drawn vehicle. It wasn't such a difficult job to dodge the horse and buggy, or the horse-drawn truck. They made enough noise to be heard for a considerable distance and there were fewer of them. Today it is different and this difference needs to be fully recognized by the pedestrian.

Without a doubt there are automobile drivers against whom complaints can be lodged in great array, but it is impossible to overlook the fact that the pedestrian must exercise some care in his own protection. It is because they do not that the safety council of the city of Springfield is advocating legislation that will make them. This is being based upon the figures which show that more than half of the adults injured in the streets during the month of April were engaged in jay walking at the time.

For the protection of pedestrians crossing streets at established points is required in many cities. It is a violation of regulations to do otherwise, and such restrictions have been made necessary by the pedestrians themselves to a great degree. At any rate such regulations are in the interest of safety quite as much as for the relief of traffic conditions.

The jay walker may often be unconscious of his danger. His act may be thoughtless, but the individual cannot afford these days to disregard the danger of the highway and govern his steps accordingly. Those who persist in causing accidents or near-accidents should realize their duty to themselves and others and correct their faults before they bring about restrictions which will govern everyone.

MACDONALD'S POSSIBLE VISIT.

The British prime minister is a busy man regardless of whom he may be. If, however, Ramsey MacDonald is so disposed and can find the time to come to this country for the purpose of talking over the various problems in which the two countries are interested it would be a fine thing. He would certainly be welcomed and every facility would be afforded him to obtain the attitude of this government and to explain his viewpoints.

Such a visit would be excellent. There was no time for Premier MacDonald between the ends of being given the authority to form the British cabinet and actually doing so to make such a good will visit, but there is no reason why it should not be arranged at some later date when his duties will permit.

The prime minister has declared it to be his intention to cooperate with President Hoover in regard to further limitation of armament. He also wants to better relations. It would appear to give much promise for the future. The mere showing of his hand will be cause for much gratification on the part of those who have been striving for this very thing, especially since it has been felt that Great Britain stood in the way of disarmament at Geneva.

If the new prime minister can advance this proposition through a personal visit to the United States for the purpose of a face to face discussion of the relative positions of the two countries, it should have the effect of doing away with uncertainties and eliminating inferences which might be correctly or incorrectly drawn from long distance discussions.

Sir Ramsay has been to the United States. It would thus not be a new experience, although there would be newness in his coming as prime minister. It would establish a new practice as far as crossing the Atlantic was concerned but it won't bring the heads of the governments together in a manner which should accomplish something if that is possible.

The visit has been talked of. It hasn't been arranged and it may not be, but the thought is a good one and there is a certainty that there would not be a waste of time if it should take place. Getting first hand information is always a desirable thing.

THE FARM BILL VOTE.

Good reason did President Hoover have for declaring that the action of the senate in turning down the compromise farm bill jeopardized farm legislation at this special session of congress.

With the senate determined that there shall be no farm legislation without the debenture plan, a plan which has been denounced by the president as against the interests of the farmers, and with the house even more firm in its position that there shall be no debenture plan there is no chance for doing anything unless one of the bodies recedes from its position.

Even should the farm bill carrying the debenture clause go to the president it is certain that it would get his veto, but there is no prospect of its getting that far at the present time.

Those who insisted upon the qualization fee with such determination that they prevented any farm relief being provided at least a year ago are doing the very same thing in connection with the debenture. They are disregarding the voice of the people at the last election. They are blocking the special session of congress and threaten to prevent it from doing what was promised.

They call for farm relief, pretend that it is the great need of the farmer and yet those who are the loudest in such demands are now found blocking the bill that will accomplish all that was promised in the last campaign and what would permit farm relief from being put into operation.

There ought to be no difficulty on the part of the farmers in placing the responsibility for the existing situation right where it belongs, the insurgent group of republican senators along with whom are trailing the democrats who see a chance for political embarrassment.

DR. BLUNT AT CONNECTICUT.

In the appointment of Dr. Katherine Blunt of the University of Chicago as the president of the Connecticut College for Women there has been selected an educator who should make an efficient head of that institution. She comes to the college as a graduate of Vassar and Massachusetts Institute of Technology since which she has successfully taught at Vassar, Pratt institute and Chicago and it is as the result of a study of her work in these institutions that she has been selected from a large field for this vacancy. The confidence of the committee of trustees making the decision is such as to give assurance that no mistake has been made in bringing Dr. Blunt to Connecticut.

It is well that the college is not to go another year without a president. It has not been helped by the situation which has prevailed for the past year, regardless of the good work of those who have been directing its affairs, and it will be pleasing to the friends of the college to know that the period of uncertainty is over.

The bringing of Dr. Blunt to Connecticut means the placing of a woman in the president's office of this institution for the first time. This is in keeping with the policy which has been adopted at other colleges for women and proved highly successful and there is every reason to suppose that the same will result in this instance. Dr. Blunt's training and record, her ability and accomplishments, give first hand assurance that it will. She will become the head of a small but growing institution and one from which much is expected.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11—With the senate starting tomorrow morning on the Hawley tariff bill, which are to continue for one month, now that the bill as passed by the house has been before the country for several weeks so that opinions can be formed regarding its merits or defects with more mature judgment than when the bill was first introduced by the committee or during debate upon it in the house—authoritative opinion regarding its effect on New England should be of interest.

Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts, who with Representative Richard B. Aldrich of Rhode Island, represented New England's interests, who is the ranking republican on the ways and means committee and largely responsible for the provisions of the bill advantageous to New England industries and consumers, has given the following exclusive interview in reply to your correspondent's questions:

"Various tables and statistics have been prepared showing changes in percentages in rates on various schedules from the present tariff law. By analysis it will be found that these changes are material only when there was special reason for the increases. The whole story would be a long one but let me briefly refer to those most directly affecting New England, more especially Massachusetts and my own district in the western part of the state.

"Before this analysis, however, let me say that we again have the situation of expected prosperity throughout the country. Possibly in some of our urban sections people will feel that the interests of agriculture have been too prominent in the rate-making structure. On the other hand, these people are the very ones who desire higher wages in textile mills. It is a well-established fact that prosperity, employment and the purchasing power of the dollar is not sectional, but that we of the east, interested in textile production, must extend the same element of dollar-value to the great agricultural interests of the west if they are to have the wherewithal to purchase our manufactured goods. This fact should be borne in mind throughout the country in order that we may not selfishly care for ourselves with no thought of our fellow countrymen living elsewhere or engaged in other pursuits.

"There are two outstanding features of changes in the general tariff structure particularly of interest to New England. First—a duty on hides, leather and shoes. Personally, I very much hope that the senate will not change the rates we have written into the Hawley bill. The duty on hides is not sufficiently high to be a hardship on the purchaser of hides to make into leather or from leather into shoes. The two 5 per cent jump-ups on leather and shoes, respectively, offer as little protection to those two industries as can be allowed, and at the same time should not—and I believe will not—increase the cost of shoes to the consumers.

"An additional duty on hides above this rate with corresponding compensatory duty on leather and shoes, might have a material effect on their cost. So I feel it is quite essential that this schedule be retained, both for the interests of the industries involved and for the retail purchasers.

"The other schedule of special interest throughout New England is that of cotton. Strenuous effort was made to secure a duty on raw cotton, which was unsuccessful, and properly so. The rates written into the bill for yarns and cloth will give a decided incentive to the textile industry of New England and, we hope, will result in less importations of staple articles which can be manufactured through the labor employed here rather than abroad.

"It is well recognized that the cotton textile industry has not been prosperous for some time and that the centers of cotton textile manufacturing have been seriously depressed.

"We, of course, are interested in woolens, silk and rayon.

"In the agricultural line there are two increases which should be of direct value to agriculture in the Connecticut valley: One, the increased rate on onions, which is 100 per cent more than in the present law; the other, an extra duty of 40 cents per pound on unstemmed and stemmed tobacco (both wrapper and filler). This should encourage the growers throughout Connecticut and the Connecticut river section in Massachusetts.

"Another item of special interest in the New England section for cotton textiles is Paragraph 906, which reads: 'Cloth in chief value of cotton, containing wool, 60 per centum ad valorem.' This is in order to protect our woolen mills from foreign competition on cotton fabrics in imitation of woolen goods made in our New England mills. The class of goods guarded against are largely imported from Italy and Czechoslovakia.

"There is also a beneficial paragraph in the change of language for manufactures of cotton bed spreads.

"Attention should be directed to an exemption of the duty on hides, which appears in Section 1690, reading as follows. 'Hides and skins of the India water buffalo imported to be used in the manufacture of rawhide articles.' Nearly 30 per cent of all India water buffalo hides imported into this country are manufactured into belt pins and similar articles in Massachusetts. These are in no way competitive with hides used for general leather products and so were left on the free list instead of being made dutiable as are all other hides.

"Lower rates of duty on the coarser grades of wool will reduce the cost of production of certain products in the New England section.

"The small tools, dies and wire products of Massachusetts and Connecticut are properly taken care of.

"Several changes have been made in the paper schedule and a suitable duty placed on papetries.

"It can, perhaps, be correctly said that every industry is more or less affected by tariff rates. Every industry and householder should find the new tariff measure of direct advantage.

"The items to which I have referred are a few of those of particular interest to employment in New England, where I believe additional prosperity will rebound to our people when these rates become effective.

"As I have previously stated, I do not approve of the additional tariff on sugar, nor the duties on building materials, but we, of course, cannot expect that any law can be written beneficial only to one section of the country.

"On the whole New England, Massachusetts and Connecticut, and my own Congressional district, will be materially aided in these industries by the ultimate passage of the Hawley bill.

"It is hoped that the senate will hasten action so that the conferees can reach an agreement, following passage of the bill by the senate, so that the benefits of the bill can become effective in the near future. The more this measure is studied the surer I am that the people will become satisfied with its provisions.

"In all probability, manufacturers of cheap cigars, who were anxious to prevent increased duties on tobacco will place their cases before the senate.

"Little or no squabbling is expected on matters of interest to New England. There will be some effort made to remove the duty on maple and birch used by some New England furniture manufacturers as well as builders."

This coming from the one man who knows New England industries and their needs and what the new tariff bill is designed to do, seems to indicate that New England industries and the workers of that section should be well pleased with the outlook.

Constipation Ridiculous and Unnecessary—Intestines "Afraid" of Drug Laxatives

By W. V. Gage, M. D., Denver
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Thirty-five years ago, when I had been released from college for about two years, I came to know a very venerable physician, with features and beard, both of which resembled those given to Moses by Michael Angelo. He was a great philosopher. He once told me that the reason that a drug laxative "worked" was because the bowel was afraid of it, and during the years that have elapsed since I first heard the remark I have seen nothing in print that so thoroughly explained the action of the average laxative or cathartic.

Constipation is a ridiculous and unnecessary state, and strictly "civilization made." Outside of cases due to anatomical deficiencies, all conditions of bowel inefficiency, classed under the head of "constipation," are due to faults or neglect upon the part of the sole owner and proprietor of the intestine in question.

Charity compels that we exclude from the above classification such constipated infants and children as have had the condition thrust upon them because of overly zealous care and interference, or possibly neglect, upon the part of mother or nurse.

The normal intestine will, if allowed to do so, manufacture for a lifetime sufficient natural lubricants and laxatives to assure a normal evacuation. The reason that constipation is such a universal complaint is that most of us have been unwilling to let nature alone and in two great items have been interfering with her processes.

First we have had handed down to us from our elders an almost hysterical anxiety regarding the condition of the bowels, so that, at the slightest pretext, we resort to salts, pills or potions, when in a very great percentage of cases they are not called for, and we would be better without them.

If, because of the ingestion of some laxative, a watery stool is produced, where did the water come from? The answer is obvious. From the tissues of the body outside the intestine. It is difficult, to say as to the hours and days needed to replace this water loss, but it must be made up, and the cells of the body must work under extra strain to repair the loss. In addition to this, the intestine, after months and years of abuse, soon more or less loses the ability to manufacture natural evacuants.

The second item, which argues that constipation must prevail, is neglect in answering nature's demand that the lower bowel be emptied.

With a normally acting lower bowel, a certain amount of accumulation pressure gives notice that the bowel must be evacuated, but should this call be ignored repeatedly the lower bowel soon reaches the point where a normal amount of pressure registers no desire for evacuation.

The cure of what may be termed "habit constipation" consists in the eating of plenty of bulky vegetable foods, building up the abdominal muscles by exercise, ceasing the use of laxatives, and never, under any circumstances, ignoring a call to empty the lower bowel.

HELPFUL COUSIN ETTY

"Have you been ill?" inquired Mrs. Grayley when she met Mrs. Hill in the tearoom, where they both happened to be lunching.

"Do I really look the wreck I feel?" "Perhaps I was tactless to mention it, but you don't look well. What is the matter?"

"Oh, I'm just tired from a severe siege of housecleaning."

"Well, I must say you're very silly to work so hard. There's no sense in wearing yourself out that way," declared Mrs. Grayley, and Mrs. Hill sighed deeply.

"I quite agree with you. It's really absurd," she said.

"Then why in the world did you do it? Why didn't you have more help?"

"Any more help than I had, and I would have perished. It was the help that laid me low. You see William's Cousin Etty has been visiting us. She's absolutely the most energetic, tireless old person imaginable, and helpful—she's a thousand per cent helpful!

"I had never cleaned house myself. I have always had people in to do it for me, and I certainly was astonished one morning two days after Cousin Etty's arrival to find all the lower floors bare when I came down to prepare breakfast.

"'I just thought,' explained Cousin Etty, 'that this bright morning would be wonderful for washing rugs, and I've taken them all out on the back porch—such a splendid place to scrub them.'

"'But, Cousin Etty,' I protested, 'I always send my rugs to the cleaners.'

"'That's nonsense, and extravagance, and very much harder on them than my way. I have the soap paste I use cooking on the stove now. You'll see how bright we can make them,' she said enthusiastically, and I must admit that my rugs were probably never so clean before as they were after we broke our backs over them all one long day.

"I fully intended to keep to my bed the next day, but early in the morning Etty's shining countenance was leaning over me.

"'I just thought,' she said, 'that we ought to wax the floors before we put the rugs down again. It's a good chance while William's away. We ought to get right at them, for it will be quite a job.'

"But I always have a man come wax the floors,' I objected.

"'We can do it better than any man, so why waste William's money? He's told me lots of times what an economical wife he had.' She looked at me accusingly and, as William has told me lots of times that his only possible hope for a legacy from any of his kin lay in the direction of Cousin Etty, I meekly rose from my comfy bed and was soon on my hands and knees rubbing wax into hard wood under her direction. She was so frightfully thorough that the job lasted several days. It makes me positively sick now to look at those floors!"

"I'm amazed to think you survived it," said Mrs. Grayley. "I hope that was the end of her enterprises."

"By no means. She began at dawn one morning to wash blankets and, of course, I had to do my share. When I started to tell her that I always sent them to the laundry, she looked at me disapprovingly, and I immediately thought of the legacy and humbly turned the wringer until I thought my arm would drop off.

"Then another bright day she decided to launder the curtains. I told her that I had no curtain frames. Nothing daunted she rushed out and borrowed some that she had seen in a neighbor's yard.

"The day that Cousin Etty had selected for going through closets and shelves she received a letter from a second cousin, living near her in Ohio, stating that her baby had the whooping cough. With many apologies for leaving me before the housecleaning was completed, Cousin Etty hastily departed, and I—well, I began a rest cure."

"You certainly were a martyr to cleanliness, or was it to the legacy?" smiled Mrs. Grayley.

"The legacy! When William came home from his business trip and I told him that Cousin Etty had flown to a relative in distress, he remarked that that was according to her plan.

"'What plan?' I asked.

"'Oh,' he replied, 'I guess I never told you that Cousin Etty informed me, when I went to see her last summer, that, as she had put all her little fortune into an annuity, she wouldn't have any money to leave her few relatives, so she intended spending the rest of her life helping them!'"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Huntington Association Interested

Mr. Editor: As president of the Huntington Family association, I read with consternation in the edition of The Bulletin for Thursday, June 6th, the following headlines: "Founders Hope to Save Site of Old Cemetery in Norwich." I do hope that every effort is being made by the citizens of Norwich to save this sacred spot, where sleep so many members of our family and the other pioneers who settled the famous town of Norwich. Certainly there is ample reason for strenuous effort not only by the people of Norwich, the patriotic societies of Norwich but also by the descendants of those old Norwich families now scattered over America. Our association is anxious to cooperate in any way possible to save and restore to its former beauty this hallowed ground.

JAMES LINCOLN HUNTINGTON, M. D.

Boston, June 10, 1929.

The Country Church

Mr. Editor: Having returned from Albany where 450 clergymen and 250 laymen met in annual synod session to be known in Lutheran history as the merger convention, I find that the question on the country church has been reopened although we had considered it closed when the one (the "friendly writer") who raised it declared (in the Bulletin issue of May 20) that he was satisfied with the answer given by the writer in the issue of May 17. Some who have shown no interest at first now assert that the explanation in said issue did not cover the whole subject. But, gentlemen, I believe I made it plain that my analysis would not explain everything, for how could any one in such a limited space deal justly with so large a subject on which books were and are still being written? However I do believe with the "friendly writer" that the answer of May 17 gave the main reasons for the condition now prevailing in some country churches. What has been said on this place was partly very good and partly valuable and somewhat far fetched.

There seems to be a confusion as to terms. What is a country church? Are we thinking of the rural or small-town churches with steeples gracing our pretty New England towns and villages, or are we thinking of the small and primitive supply churches along our highways and by-ways? We have these in mind. They are not all vacated or dilapidated, but some are; and these and many others should never have been built. Some of these buildings were the product of controversy. The controversy has since disappeared, therefore consolidations here and there and now these vacant meeting houses are a silent testimony to the Apostle's verdict: "And now abideth faith, hope, charity; but the greatest of these is charity." The kind Abraham Lincoln had in mind. However most of the churches built of necessity and at convenient points, even if far out in the country, are in a flourishing condition, especially in the middle west where towns are far apart and roads are poor. The writer has been pastor of such a church for several years out in Illinois, seven miles south of Peru, in Eden township, a veritable gardenspot on God's earth. During his time the 50 year old frame building, topped by a weather cock was removed and in its place was erected a fine brick building, designed and built by an architect who knew his business, with equipment of the latest and best, harmoniously built into a temple of God, which would be a credit to any town or city, owned by a prosperous and intelligent congregation which paid for the building before it was dedicated. We would be working there yet had it not been for the inadequate educational facilities for our only child, a reason which has contributed greatly to the drift into the city, but the school-bus and good roads will remove even this in time, even out there in the fertile plains of the Mississippi. The very first field of the writer was a little country church in Ohio to which he hesitatingly took his young city-bred wife, a New York girl, who was not afraid to face the hardships of the country in those days, because she too believed in the country church. Thus the writer of this also ought to know what he is talking about when he writes on problems and possibilities of the country church.

As to the vacant meeting house, let the retiring minister or any consecrated man take hold of it and fit it out to supply the spiritual needs of the touring and he will find this a fruitful field of endeavor. I believe it is coming. I also believe that the children and young people will more and more appreciate their church if treated and trained right. The writer is an optimist, and besides he has no reason to complain, but if there is a falling off in attendance in some churches, or other discouraging conditions that were probably brought about by the advent of the theatre-motion pictures, the bulky Sunday-paper, the radio, the automobile or even the airplane that now has come to our town—then let me give you a word of counsel: Make the people feel that they are in church, avoid the atmosphere of the camp meeting, or of the political assembly, or that of a dinner party. Have a fixed, but modest and evangelical liturgy at the altar, beautiful and churchly equipment, a short, but real and a plain message, good music and good singing. Don't make the prayer too long. Let the people do some of the praying at home, let them also return to the family Bible reading and teach the children at home and at church the fear of the Lord and the love of God, for both are the beginning of wisdom. Then let the rest of the world go by if they so desire. You at least have done your duty, and the Lord will take care of the rest through the mighty working of the Holy Spirit. Then there will be an evidence of Christian life not only at the altar, but also in the shop, in the store, in the office, in the schoolroom and even if some do not in church, what of it. The spirit is willing. . . . If they only come and worship and in daily contact treat their neighbor as they would themselves, then they have absorbed more of the spirit of Christ than they are conscious of.

Now if in spite of the church and her noble efforts the world is still selfish, reckless and evil-what would it be without it? Don't let us put all the blame on the church or draw her problems into the realm of controversy. The problem is rather at the door of the modern American home. I have tried to shed a little more light on this subject and may have only partially succeeded because of lack of time and space. I hope I have not been personal as I do not wish to offend nor seek honor or publicity, but the glory of God and His church. Whether in the country, town or city, it is "My church, my church, my dear old church! My fathers' and my own!

On prophets and Apostles built, and Christ the cornerstone!

All else beside, by storm or tide may yet be overthrown;

But not my church—my dear old church—

My fathers' and my own!"

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11—Forty-five days after the farm relief special session of congress convened, with hope expressed by no less an authority than Speaker Longworth that it could conclude its business in a month, here was how the legislative program looked:

The farm bill was through both houses but still deadlocked in conference over the debenture plan added by the senate.

The tariff bill was through the house and awaiting committee action in the senate.

The census and reapportionment bill was through the senate and slated for fast action in the house under a special rule.

That looks like a fairly good score on the program lined by President Hoover in calling the session. Yet the fact was that the most troublesome element of the entire program, getting the tariff measure through the senate, still was ahead.

The same Speaker Longworth, who hoped April 15 for a 30-day session, on June 1 was issuing public warning to the senate that the house would demand an agreement by the senate to vote on the tariff before December as the price of any hot weather recess. President Hoover promptly and publicly backed up this house demand.

Alien Law Passed Up

Also, another element of the Hoover program remained untouched entirely. That is the request for repeal of the national origins clause of the immigration act.

It has been no more than mentioned now and then in senate debates up to June 1. Those references were sufficient to show, however, that a fight of probable long duration would be made against the administration request for repeal if and when the senate reached that subject during the special session.

The curious part of the situation was that while the debenture monkey wrench devised by the senate had successfully slowed up legislative wheels on the farm bill for a considerable period, nobody thought the real knock-down-drag-out contest over that amendment to the administration's program had yet been opened.

It was assumed that sooner or later the conferees on the farm bill would reach a point where the debenture matter would be dropped from the farm measure, but with certainty that it would be revived as a senate amendment to the tariff bill. That being the case, it seemed clear that an ultimate house vote, putting everybody on record for or against the debenture plan, was to be expected before the session ended.

It would be difficult for the house management to avoid it, much more difficult than in the case of the farm bill. And that house vote on debenture looked like the main political element of the special session.

Long Session

In any event, by June 1 administration leaders seemed resigned to the probability that congress would sit all summer and most of the fall.

The Longworth-Hoover shot at the senate was based entirely on the contention that appropriations bills would be chief business of the regular session in December and must not be snarled up with a tariff fight.

A recent expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History has found that the Naskapi of Labrador build snow houses; and this is the first known instance of Indians using snow as house-building material.

THE DOWLING DOWRY CHEST
by LANE

The design of this chest reverts to an old dowry chest said to have been used in the Court of King James I in about the year 1620.

According to the story, one of the court attaches, a Sir Henry Dowling, had one daughter whom he loved very dearly.

This daughter, Amelia, had been sent to a convent on the continent. When she was ready to return to England, Sir Henry, in true fatherly fashion, desired to commemorate her home coming with a gift.

So he called in the artisans and he ordered them to make a chest which should surpass all others in beauty. He selected the wood, watched the work step by step, and finally when the chest was completed, nobody in all the Court had ever seen one lovelier.

Amelia came home. She accepted the chest with heart overflowing with joy. And, according to the story which ends just as all such stories should, she married, settled down and lived happily ever after.

The gift from her father then passed on down through many generations finally to bestow its wealth of beauty and romance upon this modern adaptation, the Dowling Hope Chest, especially designed for the Girl Graduate by Lane—the world's foremost cedar chest maker.

This chest has the lovelier of Oriental and American walnut veneers on the outside and the richness of aromatic red cedar heartwood on the inside, the entire lining of thick cedar in accordance with the U. S. Government specifications for a moth-killing cedar chest. Heavily panelled top richly embellished with carved mouldings. The chest is roomy, capacious, lasting — indeed a charming treasure to hand down to future generations.

We shall be most happy to have you inspect this chest. For the Girl Graduate—for anyone or among women — no finer or more acceptable gift is easily procurable. The price is $65. Convenient terms may be arranged, if desired. We show many other pleasing Lane models.

OPEN FORUM HOLDS DISCUSSION ON GAS & ELECTRIC SITUATION

An open forum meeting, held Tuesday evening at Wauregan hotel under the auspices of the chamber of commerce, held a discussion for about two hours on a motion that it was the sense of the meeting to approve the sale of appliances by the municipal gas and electric department, but eventually passed a motion to indefinitely postpone.

The announced purpose of the meeting was to give opportunity for an expression of opinion that might guide the directors of the chamber in any action they might take on the subject of the sale of appliances. In the discussion of what action the meeting ought to take the opinion was advanced that inasmuch as the attendance of about 40 was over about ten per cent of the membership of the chamber it was inadvisable to record a vote from the meeting.

President Joseph C. Worth called the meeting to order and the discussion was started when George H. Gilman offered the motion that it was the sense of the meeting to approve the sale of appliances.

In advocating his motion Mr. Gilman said that it was the custom of public utility corporations generally to sell equipment and Judge Avery had taken this into consideration in the court order that had been passed. Mr. Gilman said he thought the department ought to continue the sale. It has been said the business had been done at a loss but this is a matter of bookkeeping. Mr. Jensen has said the business was at a profit. Mr. Cohen says there was a loss. It is largely a question of bookkeeping. Mr. Gilman said he didn't consider this as particularly important. This side of the business might be considered a feeder and might be regarded under the head of advertising. We know the sale of energy has increased enormously.

Mr. Gilman said he had personal knowledge that it wasn't possible to buy here the equipment we wanted before the department sold appliances. He declared he didn't know what unfair competition means. The department advertisement in the newspapers give the names of Norwich dealers where articles can be purchased and merchants can order through the department for their customers and get a commission. This doesn't seem like unfair competition.

If the department is doing the customary thing, he concluded, and not by unfair competition, he did not see why they should not continue to do as they have done.

Guy B. Dolbeare, a former member of the gas and electric commission, said he favored the sale of appliances because it was in the interests of the people. If it were not a municipally operated department this question would never have come up, he said, and he told of his experience on the commission, when people were buying inferior gas mantles from the chain stores and non-standard bulbs were sold in the city. At that time the department engineer advised to begin the sale of appliances. The result had been a benefit to the people and an increase of business for the department.

Carl W. Brown voiced the objection which the Norwich dealers had to the practices of the gas and electric department. He said customers were given unusual allowances for their old gas ranges, the department pays no taxes, has unlimited capital behind it and sells without a contract that can be put on record. The dealers can't compete with these conditions.

Mr. Brown spoke of the department advertising electric clocks and said he believed the return was about 25 cents a year for current sold while the cost of clocks must run into hundreds of dollars. He said the department had a loss of over $9,000 for rebates and bad bills, it gave unfair discounts and was giving a three-year guarantee on a refrigerator on which the company guarantee was only two years. He spoke of the department putting in a master clock at a probable cost of $800, when it began the sale of electric clocks, and of accepting delivery of a carload of electric refrigerators on the day after the city meeting had voted against selling appliances.

John Ozunicki recorded himself in favor of the department selling appliances and Judge Allyn L. Brown asked what was due the department at present on bills for the sale of appliances, to which Cashier E. A. Rich answered that it was from $35,000 to $40,000.

Judge Brown further asked if articles were sold on a conditional sale contract and if $9,000 had been written off for bad debts.

Cashier Rich made answer that the contract used had been approved by the city attorney and that the bulk of the $9,000 charged off was covered by a 40 per cent dividend to people who paid their bills in April. A very small part, he said, was because of bad debts as the department usually gets the appliances back.

General Manager Charles W. Taggart, who is a director of the chamber of commerce and was present with two other directors, Arthur M. Brown and Harry F. Powers, spoke of having been with the department for ten years, coming here when it had no credit. At that time he told the commission that their problems were nothing unusual and he thought he could straighten things out if he were untrammeled, but if the department were to be a political football he didn't want the job. At that time he heard something about somebody having cut wood off city property and he almost decided not to come here, but he decided to accept the position and he was satisfied in his own conscience with what he had done on the job.

Mr. Taggart read an advertisement announcing a $100 prize in gold awarded to Carl W. Brown for being an outstanding Frigidaire salesman in 1928 and said he didn't think the gas and electric department had hurt Mr. Brown's business very much.

As to the three year guarantee on an electric refrigerator he said this guarantee was given by the manufacturer and he said further that the department had not purchased a master clock but had a cheap clock which was loaned to them and they probably wouldn't buy now as they were hooked up with the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., which has its own master clock.

Mr. Brown answered that other utilities companies in the state were operated successfully without selling appliances, and he charged that there was unfair discrimination on the rate charged for refrigerators sold by the department and the refrigerators sold by the Norwich dealers.

Mrs. E. A. Rich, who spoke as a member of the Business & Professional Women's club, asked why the women of the city should be made to suffer by taking away from them the chance to buy these appliances which the gas and electric department sold. She said the women would help the dealers to progress if they would give us what we want".

At this point Arthur M. Brown inquired whether this was a regularly called meeting of the chamber of commerce and when told by Secretary Walter H. Pilcher that it was an open forum for discussion, according to the notice that had been sent out, Mr. Brown responded that he could not see that action taken by the meeting would express the attitude of the chamber of commerce upon the situation.

Rudolph Henschel said that in fairness to the gas and electric department he wanted to state that he had bought a Frigidaire from Mr. Brown and had been given a special rate by the gas and electric department.

William Shanley, gas superintendent in the municipal department, spoke at length, giving figures of comparative costs of gas production in different cities. Nine years ago he said the city department owed the Standard Oil company $20,000 and was being charged 12 cents where others were paying 9 cents for oil because it wasn't paying its bills. The city department was paying more than others for coke also because it wasn't paying its bills. Arrangements were made to remedy that situation and save the department much money.

In 1924 it was costing Norwich 76 cents per thousand feet to produce gas, the eleventh in cost in the state. In 1928 the cost was 48 cents, the third in the state. He compared several cities as follows on gas production: Derby 9,400 meters, 59 cents cost putting out 27,000 cubic feet per meter; Danbury, 6,100 meters cost 52 cents, 33,000 cubic feet; Torrington, 5100 meters, cost 60 cents, 27,000 cubic feet; Norwich, 5,100 meters, cost 49 cents, 35,000 cubic feet; Middletown, 4,000 meters, cost 67 cents, 24,000 cubic feet.

At the rate we are going now, he said, it was estimated the department would double its gain of last year in gas production, and the quality of gas is above the state requirements. As to complaints, they averaged 21 per day in 1921 but only three per day in 1928. In 1920 there had been a loss on the gas side of over $5,000, but in 1928 a profit of $35,614.

Mr. Shanley spoke of the reports trip to Atlantic City by employes of the gas and electric department and said this resulted in getting an 80 cent reduction on freight rates on coal to Norwich. We have as low gas and electric rates as anywhere in the state he said in conclusion. Let us get rid of petty jealousies, let us cooperate and let the roses grow in the Rose of New England.

In reply to a question from Carl W. Brown, Mr. Taggart answered that five not seven, made the trip to Atlantic City and their expenses were paid out of the petty cash as the department does not ask its employes to wait to be reimbursed for their expenses.

D. T. Shea, who was once a member of the gas and electric commission, said he didn't think it right for any city administration to give a monopoly to any business and if anyone thought he would be better off for taking away the sale of appliances he was only kidding himself. He would like to see the dealers and the department cooperating.

General Manager Taggart stated that the department was still willing to cooperate and had had requests along that line from Eaton-Chase company, Nelson company and another. There was an arrangement with the plumbers by which they can get trade discounts and they can buy through the department. In reply to a question from Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Mr. Taggart stated that dealers could get a commission of 12 1-2 per cent on appliances they bought for their customers through the department.

After some discussion on whether to vote on Mr. Gilman's motion, the meeting passed the motion to indefinitely postpone, which was offered by Mr. Dolbeare.

ASKS COURT TO VOID FAIRGROUNDS SALE ORDER

A petition to have the superior court re-open and vacate an order confirming the sale of the East Great Plain fairgrounds has been filed with the clerk of the court by George H., and Francis Gilman who bought the property at public auction from Gilbert S. Raymond, receiver for the New London County Agricultural society, on a bid of $15,750 above the $25,000 mortgage.

The petition will be argued here Friday before Judge Allyn L. Brown.

In asking for the order to make void the sale, Attorney Gilman in his petition to the court sets up the following reasons:

1. That no notice of sale was published as directed by the judgment or order of this court made on or about March 8, 1929.

2. That said sale was not conducted as directed by said order or judgment.

3. That said sale was not conducted in accordance with the terms of the notice given thereof.

REASONS OF APPEAL OVER PELATIAH MABREY'S ESTATE

Reasons of appeal from the ruling of the probate court of Franklin on the $30,000 estate of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey, from which Mrs. Addie R. Barber of this city has taken an appeal were filed Tuesday with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court by Mrs. Barber's counsel who are William H. Shields, Arthur M. Brown and Charles V. James.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the Franklin probate court decreed that the lawful heirs of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey were William H. Mabrey and his sister, Mrs. Margaret Mabrey Semple, both of this city. Lloyd P. Ayer is administrator of the estate.

The reasons of appeal by Addie R. Barber are given as follows:

1. That she, Addie R. Barber, is the first cousin, next of kin and, as such, the sole heir-at-law of the whole estate of the Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey, deceased, and therefore is entitled to have the estate of the deceased set out, paid over and distributed to her as such sole heir-at-law of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey.

2. That William H. Mabrey and Margaret M. Semple of Norwich, who by the decree of the court of probate appealed from, are decided to be the sole heirs-at-law and distributees of the entire estate of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey, are not of the blood, next of kin or the heirs-at-law of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey and therefore are not entitled to receive or have the property and estate of the deceased Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey. And the appellant, Addie R. Barber, claims and avers that the court of probate erred and mistook the law and facts of the case in holding, ruling and deciding that William H. Mabrey and Margaret M. Semple of Norwich are the legal heirs of Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey and as such entitled to receive all his estate as heirs-at-law of the deceased.

1. That Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey was of illegitimate parentage and birth on his paternal side when born in Franklin, Conn., to his mother, Caroline Smith Mabrey, wife of the William H. Mabrey of Pennsylvania; that he was begotten and born out of wedlock at a time when she and her husband, William H. Mabrey of Pennsylvania, were wholly separated and living apart from each other and when no marital relation whatsoever existed between them; that the actual and natural father of the Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey was a man named Miller by an illicit relation and intercourse between him, the said Miller, and Caroline Smith Mabrey, in Connecticut, all of which was well known to the said Caroline Smith Mabrey, to the members of her family, and to her husband, William H. Mabrey of Pennsylvania, and such was the pedigree and status of the parentage attaching to Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey and such was the confession and disclosure made to the physician who attended her in her confinement and delivery of the child, Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey, by Caroline Smith Mabrey at the time she gave birth to Pelatiah Ladd Mabrey in Connecticut, which disclosure was thereafter openly made by Caroline Smith Mabrey to members of her family and to others.

CARLEVALE IS GIVEN LONG CROSS-EXAMINATION

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in the superior court in this city Tuesday, Joseph W. Carlevale completed his direct testimony in the suit he has brought against three insurance companies to collect the insurance on stock and fixtures of the Norwich Barber Supply company, of which he was proprietor, and which was damaged by fire at 56 Boswell avenue on April 20, 1928. The insurance carried was $16,350.

A letter read into the evidence showed that the insurance adjusters placed his loss at $1,222.80, of which $481 was for fixtures and $741.80 for stock. It was also shown by a letter that Carlevale demanded an appraisal under the terms of the policy and that a meeting was set for Aug. 28, 1928, at 10 o'clock in the morning, but no representative of the insurance companies appeared to meet George G. Engler, appraiser for Carlevale.

During the afternoon session of court, Carlevale was under cross-examination by Attorney Morgan, counsel for the insurance companies. Attorney Morgan inquired particularly as to the financial resources of Carlevale at the time he purchased the business on Jan. 14, 1928, from Joseph Basile for a total of $11,134.05 and subsequently bought stock that made his total investment show over $18,000. Carlevale testified that he still owed Basile $4,536.85. Carlevale testified that he had about $500 in banks at the time of purchasing the business, had a debt of $700 which was paid to him and obtained the balance that he needed in loans made in cash on notes from several different persons. He also paid all his bills in cash. The attorney took up each bill in turn and had Carlevale tell where he got the money to pay it.

During the morning session of court, Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton was directed by the court to warn Basile to keep quiet. Basile was making a disturbance in the court room while Carlevale was testifying, apparently not being satisfied with what Carlevale was saying on the stand.

The trial will be continued today (Wednesday).

TOOK SECOND PRIZE IN S. OF R. ESSAY CONTEST

Second prize in the essay contest conducted by Israel Putnam chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, of this city, for school children essays on "The Industries of Norwich During the Revolution" was won by Helen Lichwell of 67 Fountain street. Her essay was as follows under the title, Norwich Industries Before and During the Revolutionary War:

"Guarded by circling streams and wooded mountains,
Like sentinels around a queen,
Dotted with groves and musical fountains,
The city lies serene."

This was written by Edmund C. Stedman, two hundred years after that spring in 1660 when thirty-five men with their families sailed from Saybrook eastward along the coast, and then northward up a large river enclosed by forest-covered hills, until they reached the point just below the falls, and having traveled onward about a mile chose tracts of land for their homes and became the first permanent white residents of Norwich. To each of the families a homelot was given which comprised a block of several acres and were favorable for mowing, pasture and tillage. In their gardens they produced maize, peas, turnips and pumpkins, while in the pastures, cattle, sheep, swine and goats were raised.

As Norwich is located at the head of navigation on the Thames river, between the valleys of the Yantic and Shetucket rivers, manufacturing and trade soon began.

The manufacture of linseed oil was commenced at Bean Hill in 1748 by Hezekiah Huntington. Following this the first iron-works were established in 1760 by Captain Joshua Abell and Nehemiah Huntington.

Sixteen years later a paper mill was erected upon the Yantic river by Christopher Leffingwell. This was the first paper mill in Connecticut and it produced various kinds of paper, for wrapping, writing, printing, cartridges and sheathing. In the same year, cutlery, as a business, was introduced and various implements of sharp edged tools, that had been imported before, were now manufactured in town.

The foundry of Elijah Backus at Yantic was serviceable in the casting of cannon and mortars. The iron-works obtained great repute, and during the Revolutionary war, all kinds of iron-work necessary for domestic use and various instruments of warfare, were made and repaired at the Yantic forges.

In the summer of 1768 a stage-coach was established, the regular stage-route being from Norwich to Providence, in addition to the regular route, individuals were engaged to travel weekly to all the towns in the vicinity, conveying letters, papers, memorandums and small bundles.

As manufacturing became more and more important, a fulling mill with a dye-house attached to it, was founded in 1776 by Christopher Leffingwell and another by Simon Lathrop in 1778. About this time chocolate mills were put into action and also a pottery for molding stone and earthenware was begun at Stone Hill. Pot and pearl ashes were made by the calcination of plants.

Another important enterprise was the manufacture of cut nailers' nails from old iron hoops which was commenced in 1775 by Edmund Darrow. This nailery was not very large but it was a great help to the community and it was carried on through the years of the Revolution.

In the year of 1772, Thomas Harland commenced the business of clock and watch making. He also taught a number of apprentices, who in turn started a business for themselves in other places and thus, through his efforts, the business spread throughout the surrounding country. This very clever mechanic also had charge of the building of the first fire-engine. This was in the year of 1774.

The business in making combs was established in the year of 1775 by Noah Hidden. About the same time a Mister Alvan Postick was engaged in making cards at Bean Hill.

As trouble with England grew more and more serious, less things were imported and more were manufactured at home. Homespun parties were given where nothing appeared in the dress of ladies or upon the table that was of foreign importation.

In October, 1778, Elijah and Simon Lathrop erected an oil mill at Norwich Falls and were ready to exchange a gallon of oil for a bushel of well-cleaned flax seed. In November, ten years later, this mill was destroyed by fire, but was rebuilt in the following year. In these mills flaxseed was used to produce the best kind of oil, but inferior kinds of seed were often substituted. Another chocolate mill was erected in 1779 by Simon Lathrop. These chocolate mills were all moved by water-wheels and could be tended each by a single work-man. The chocolates made were of the very best quality and the quantity produced was estimated at from four thousand to five thousand pounds annually.

From 1775 to 1780, four fulling mills with clothiers' shops and dye-houses went into operation; one of which was operated in New Concord; one in Franklin; a third at the Falls, and a fourth on Bean Hill. The estate of John Williams comprised the homestead farm, a grist mill, fulling mill, a wharf and two warehouses at the Landing.

In the year of 1780 Nathaniel Niles began to make iron-wire at the Falls, connecting also with his work a card factory and inventing his own peculiar machinery. About this same time John Page, a gunsmith, found ready employment; Zurishaddar Key, a tape weaver from Manchester, set up a tape factory at the Landing; and Richard Collier, a brazier from Boston, established his foundry and sale shop nearly opposite Trumbull's printing office.

The first drug store in Norwich was that of Doctor Daniel Lathrop, whose shop was on the main street, near his residence.

During the war, William Lax established a manufactory of gun carriage in town, and in the Backus foundry anchors were made, Samuel Noyes made and repaired guns and bayonets.

Commerce was carried on with the West Indies and farming was carried on to a great extent to supply the soldiers with food.

Since the Revolution, Norwich has continued to grow and prosper, until now the descendants of the early settlers feel,

"That of all cities in the Eastern Valley Their's is the fairest one."

NATURALIZATION COST TO BE HIGHER AFTER JULY 1

After July 1 next it will be much more expensive to obtain naturalization papers, also more difficult for all who have arrived in the country since June 29, 1906, and have not kept their certificates of arrival.

Notices received by clerks of the superior courts, who handle all naturalization matters, are to the effect that on and after July 1 it will cost $5 instead of $1 to take out the first papers, or the declaration of intent to become a citizen.

Then to take out the second papers and become a full fledged citizen, the cost will be $25 instead of $4, as at present, making the total cost $30 instead of $5.

As for the certificate of arrival, if a person has kept it at hand, all well and good, but if the certificate has been lost and one has to be obtained from the immigration bureau, it will cost $5 instead of nothing as heretofore.

All persons who plan to make application for naturalization after July 1 next are warned to keep this advance in price in mind and to especially look for their certificates of arrival.

DUSTY LEAGUE WILL OPEN NEXT WEDNESDAY EVENING FOR 1929 SEASON

The Industrial baseball league will open on Wednesday evening, June 19th, it was announced last evening at a meeting of the representatives of the eight teams in the league and the board of governors. The opening game was not announced at the meeting.

The teams that will be in the league this year will be the Thermos Bottle Co., Richmond Radiator Co., U. S. Finishing Co., United Metal-International Silver Co., Sachems, Y. M. C. A., Smoke Shop and Polish Citizens club.

Two games each night, one at the Academy campus and the other at Hollybock Island, will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. Friday will be held open for the playing of postponed games. A big opening night is planned with speeches by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and William A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreation commission which is sponsoring the league.

A governing board has been appointed consisting of President Alfred E. Bliven, James Sheridan, Thomas E. Burdick, Tyler Rogers and Earl L. Brigham. This board was given authority to balance the power of the various teams so that one-sided games and a run-away race will be eliminated. The governing board also has been given the power to choose the umpiring staff which will consist of four umpires. Those from whom the staff will be named are Hank Morin, William McKnight, Johnny Murphy, Tommy Simcox and Ed Taft.

The Industrial league this season promises to provide the people of Norwich with plenty of good baseball and all teams are scouring the city for baseball talent. A number of the local boys who played college baseball during the past season are being signed by the various teams representing the companies for which these boys will work.

From the tentative rosters of the various clubs it is apparent that there will be eight strong clubs in the field. No team is certain of smooth sailing to a pennant this year as there will be plenty of competition from all the clubs.

SIX AMERICANS REMAIN IN BRITISH AMATEURS

SANDWICH, England, June 11—(AP)—While John Dawson, of Chicago, continued to wait for an opponent in the British amateur golf championship, the first round of play was completed today and half the second round disposed of.

Two major upsets featured the eliminations when two members of the last British Walker cup team, Lord Charles Hope and Major C. O. Hezlet, were defeated. Cyril Tolley and some other favorites had narrow escapes.

Six Americans remain in the competition, in addition to Dawson, Robert H. Baugh, Jr., Douglas Grant, Joshua Crane, Charles Sweeney remain as a result of victories today, while Stuart Scheftel advanced when his opponent defaulted.

Duncan C. Anderson carried Grant to the 15th hole and Bobby Bauer, the Rhodes scholar, had to play 19 holes to win his second round match.

Joshua Crane's 18 inch putter was good enough to dispose of the Englishman, Lord Charles Hope, 4 and 2, and Yeoman Charles Sweeney revenged defeats of his two kinsmen yesterday by downing C. H. Brickell, 6 and 4. Young Sweeney played great golf and was six up at the turn. He was three under fours for his match.

Dawson makes his debut tomorrow with Dr. J. C. MacCormack as his opponent. The Chicago star will be equipped with a new set of wood clubs which club makers at George's sat up late last night to finish.

TWO WOMEN SWIMMERS BARRED BY THE A. A. U.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic union today locked the doors of amateur competition against two more of America's Olympic champions, both women.

Miss Martha Norelius, sensational winner of the 400-meter free-style swim at Amsterdam last summer, and Miss Helen Meany, Olympic low board diving titleholder, were found guilty of giving unauthorized exhibitions with professionals.

Indefinitely suspended by the same group which last February set down Ray Barbuti, the only American to win a running race in the Olympic games—the registration committee of the Metropolitan association A. A. U. —Miss Norelius is automatically exiled from all activities of the union.

The sentence was even more emphatically pronounced in the other case, the committee ruling that, "Miss Meany has been guilty of such frequent and continuous violations of A. A. U. rules as to render her ineligible to compete as an amateur athlete."

The ruling stipulates that Miss Norelius must give up the prizes she won at the national women's championships which began the latter part of February. In making known its decision, the committee declared itself "satisfied that Miss Norelius gave an unsanctioned swimming exhibition with professional swimmers at Miami, Fla., on Jan. 27, 1929, and at other times and places."

TAFTVILLE A. C. SUPPLANTS THE OLD TAFTVILLE A. A.

The Taftville A. A. baseball team has been disbanded and a new organization known as the Taftville Athletic club has sprung up to take its place. At a recent meeting of Taftville people interested in baseball Arthur Roy was chosen president of the new organization with Ernest Phaneuf, secretary; Henry Pepin, financial secretary and treasurer; Leo Jarvis, baseball manager; directors, Dr. George Thompson, Richard Snow, Archie Molleur, George Weller and John Sharples.

The baseball team that will be put in the field will be composed of Taftville and Norwich boys with the exception of a pitcher. The baseball season will open Thursday evening with a twilight game with the Jewett City All Stars. On Saturday is the official opening for the club when some fast eastern Connecticut team will be played. Meska, Coast Guard pitcher, has been signed to hurl for Taftville in this game. Meska let the Hospital team down with one hit on Monday and fanned 14 men.

ACADEMY PLAYERS MAY GO TO HIGHER SCHOOLS

The boys who graduate have not decided where they'll continue their studies. Buck LaCroix and Capt. Marks will go either to William and Mary, down where Mace Goldblatt and Steffy Cimikoski are, or to Conn. Aggies. Anso Tombari is to work a year and then go probably to Storrs where his brother, Pheno, has made good. Louie Green has ambitions of becoming a lawyer and will enter college with those intentions while Red Fagan is undecided.

Most of the team is to campaign in the Dusty league this summer. Chubby Gibbs, Anso Tombari and Red Fagan are signed with the Smoke Shop entry; Alec Arico will play with the Polish Citizens club; Hal Cummings may perform with the Silver Co.-United Metal outfit; Les Crowell, Flather, Louie Green, Gil McGuiniss are playing on the Sachems in the Dusty loop; Butsy Weisgraber expects to play ball at Fishers Island and the rest of the team are open to any reasonable offers (this is no adv.)

J., who is in second place, and Sam Richman, of New York, came into the control station here in a tie for second place. Have you been up in the airplane yet?

That seems to be the most popular question these days. But my answer to that question is "No." And what's more it's going to be "No."

Sure, of course I would like to go up but I gotta husband and a youngster and I don't want no other woman bringing up my boy.

I kinda feel like the old colored feller down south who was asked if he didn't wanta go up in an airplane and he says "Sure, as so high as you wanta jes so long as I can keep one foot on the ground."

When you get up in one of them contraptions and something happens there ain't no place to go except down. You know you can't walk home from an airplane ride if something goes wrong.

It ain't the coming down that hurts you it's the stop that busts you up. And with a husband and a youngster to look after I'm up in the air most of the time anyway.

Oh yes, I been up to the field where them planes is performing, and I saw a lotta good Norwich people taking rides. Some enjoyed it while others looked like they had been to the dentist.

I saw several of our guardians of the law up there yesterday waiting for a trip in the air. Well that's all right, they'd probably see a lot of Norwich they never saw before.

I heard a good one up there. Some wise guy says to the parachute jumper, "What would you do if the parachute didn't open?" The kid comes right back with "I'd give the parachute company H- -l, you know these are guaranteed to open every time."

I watched one woman whose husband went up. Say folks, that woman put in one touch five minutes while her better half was in the air. Every time that plane would dive she'd darn near faint. Gosh she must think a lotta of her man.

But when he landed all right maybe she didn't tell him where he got off. After she had given him a sweet bawling out she took him by the arm and led him away. Maybe he didn't have his insurance paid up.

TAFTVILLE LEGION TEAM SLAUGHTERS DUWELLS IN JUNIOR LEAGUE GAME

The Taftville American Legion team, Junior League champs of 1928, got off to a flying start in the 1929 chase last night by running roughshod over the Duwells at Hollyhock Island. By the time that the final man was called out the Legionnaires had run up a total of 25 runs against 3 for the Duwells.

Whether it was because the latter were stage struck or just naturally out of their class is a question but one thing is certain at no time during the game did they have a look in after the first session, when the Taftville team ran up a total of 13 runs, batting around nearly twice. The Legion team was as good as the Duwells were poor. Each of the members of the squad hit and fielded well and Abugie, the starting hurler had the East Siders eating out of his hand after the opening session, when they scored two of their three runs.

Murphy and Martin were the hitting stars of the contest. Murphy registering four safeties, a triple, a double and two singles, in four times at bat. Martin clouted out a homer, a double and a single in five trips.

McKenna, Couture and Dickerman were the only members of the Duwell team that showed any real life. Couture hurled a fair brand of ball but was given miserable support. McKenna did fairly well behind the bat and Dickerman hit two of the Duwells six safeties. The score:

After last night's nightmare between the Taftville Legion and Duwell teams, the Baltic Social club and Y teams should present a fairly decent brand of ball in their game at Hollyhock Island this evening. Both clubs will be making their first bid for Junior League honors and very little is known of their strength, except that each claims a strong lineup.

Baltic is a newcomer to the Junior circuit while the Yers are making their second bid. In a pre-season game the boys from the village took over the Taftville Legionnaires so that they have real reason for a claim to a strong lineup. Although the Y was not so strong in 1928 it is understood that Coach Ludlow has bolstered up considerably the team for this year's campaign. He has signed up several new boys and has had his squad out for practice nearly every day during the past two weeks. Nothing at all is known in regards to the starting lineups for the game.

YALE ONLY A FEW SECONDS FASTER THAN HARVARD

RED TOP, June 11—(AP)—Shrouded by darkness with only the flickering lights from the shores, Harvard's varsity crew tonight held its second time trial of the preliminary practice for the race against Yale by rowing upstream four miles. As the shell crossed the finish line it was clocked in 22 minutes, 21 seconds. The Eli varsity which also rowed in a time trial tonight, covered the four miles in 22 minutes, eight seconds.

As in its previous time trial, the Crimson strokers were hampered by having to go around several barges in their path. The beat to the minute was kept to 30 and 31 as the eight settled down after the racing start. At the finish they raised the stroke to 38. Flat conditions prevailed over the course with a slight tide and no wind.

Loose fielding by the Lutheran outfield helped to build up the Centenials score on several occasions. The Lutherans fighting an uphill battle, had two big innings, the sixth and the ninth, while the Centenials had one, the ninth. Sabrowske and Quarto did the best for the Centenials each getting three hits. Score by innings:

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Queer Place for a Nest

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

With everything that's new they find
Some folk must have a change of mind.

—Mr. Wren.

Mr. Wren was quite out of patience. He was quite excusable. He had worked hard and had filled two little houses with sticks and other material such as Wrens like for the foundation of a nest. Now Jenny had informed him that his work was all for nothing. She had decided that they wouldn't use either of those houses. Do you wonder that Mr. Wren had lost patience?

Jenny didn't seem to mind. She flew

"This thing is already full of sticks," said she over to Farmer Brown's house and when she didn't come back after some time Mr. Wren went to look for her. "Have you found another house over here?" he demanded.

"Not exactly a house," replied Jenny, "but a place for a nest."

Mr. Wren looked around. "I don't see any place for a nest," said he.

"You come with me," said Jenny. "I do love the unusual and this year our home will be one of the most unusual ones we have ever had. You come with me."

Mr. Wren immediately followed. He has learned through long experience that when Jenny has made up her mind to something he may as well give in first as last. He knows she will have her way. So he followed Jenny. She flew to the place back of Farmer Brown's house, dropping from a nail just inside the shed was a bag and this bag was nearly, but not quite, filled with clothespins. There was a little opening into which Jenny promptly popped. Then she popped out again.

"This thing is already full of sticks," said she. "They are big sticks, but all we shall have to do is to add a few little sticks and then build the nest."

Of course those "big sticks" were the clothespins. You see, Mother Brown's clothesline was stretched just outside the shed, so the clothespin bag was very handy.

"What do you think of this?" demanded Jenny.

"Not much," replied Mr. Wren. "Who ever heard of building a nest in such a place as that? And there over in the Old Orchard are two perfectly good houses, made specially for us, to judge by the size of the doorways. You must be joking when you say we are going to build our nest here."

"Tut, tut, tut!" scolded Jenny. "This is the place I want and this is the place I'll have. What are you going to do about it?"

This was too much for Mr. Wren. What could he do about it? He knew Jenny well enough to know that when her mind was set on a thing nothing could change it. So Mr. Wren sighed.

"If you want it, you will have it, I suppose," said he. "But that doesn't change my opinion of it. I don't know what that thing is, but it is no place for a nest."

"That's your opinion," retorted Jenny. "Now just forget it and get busy. We must make up for lost time."

"I haven't lost any time," grumbled Mr. Wren, thinking of how hard he had worked to fill two little houses.

"Well, you're losing time now," retorted Jenny, and flew down to pick up a little stick and carry it back into that clothespin bag.

She took two or three sticks in while Mr. Wren looked on. Then, half-heartedly, he flew down and picked up a stick. But once he had begun work he was filled with joy again and he sang and worked and worked and sang, as if he quite agreed with Jenny that that clothespin bag was the place of all places for a Wren's nest.

TEMPLE STEAM ENGINE OPERATED IN 250 B. C.

CHICAGO, (AP)—Some of the credit for the first steam engine goes way back to 250 B. C., to Greek priests who used steam power to produce a mystery.

This engine, the first known model of steam power, will be part of an exhibit in the Rosenwald industrial exposition here.

Hero of Alexandria, a writer, records this first power plant. It was operated by an altar fire, which forced a column of heat down into a vessel of water, whence a tube led to a second vessel. Vapor passed to the second vessel and condensed there into water, with the result that this second container ultimately became heavier than the first. The priests used this change in weight to release a mechanical device that opened the temple doors. They spread the belief that the gods themselves opened the doors as a sign of their pleasure over the altar fires.

PORTLAND GRAIN EXCHANGE BECOMES CONTRACT MARKET

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Portland grain exchange has been designated a contract market for wheat in an order signed by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

This makes the second market in the Pacific northwest permitted to carry on future trading in wheat, the Seattle grain exchange having been designated a contract market in 1926.

The grain exchange at Vancouver, B. C., has been trading in wheat futures since last fall.

The greatest tire of them all!

ONCE you use Kelly REGISTERED Balloons you'll never be satisfied with any other tires. Size for size they are even larger and sturdier than the regular Kelly line. The tread is much thicker and is carried further down the sidewalls so that the possibility of puncture is negligible. There is more rubber between the plies, and the seven-inch size has two extra plies of cord. Furthermore, for your protection, each is individually REGISTERED by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. At the present time we have a full stock of these tires, but they are going faster than the manufacturers can replace them, and we may not have your size long. Come in and let us quote you an allowance for the unused mileage in your present tires. You may find that after deducting this allowance from the price of a set of REGISTERED Balloons the cost is even less than you expected to pay for regular balloons.

DANIELSON

ANNUAL REPORT OF CIVIC FEDERATION OFFICERS

(By The Associated Press)

DANIELSON, June 11—The 16th annual report by the secretary, treasurer and visiting nurse covering the activities of the Civic Federation were made available for publication today. In her report as secretary Miss Emma F. Pilling says: "The achievements of 16 years have been written into the history of the Civic Federation years of service to this community, years of respective appreciation by the community for the work that has been accomplished. It has only been because of this appreciation expressing itself in voluntary money contributions by the town's people that the work of the district nurse has been possible: that the federation has been able to stand like a friend at every turning of the road, offering the strong arm of the comrade to help in carrying the burdens of those who need."

"The federation this year has had 146 active members and 23 associate members. Nine meetings have been held at which the executive work has been carried on. The one fact that nearly 1400 nursing visits and 247 social visits have been made, these representing only one phase of the activities of the year, is proof of the success of this community undertaking. The work in the schools is of increasing value, because by it physical defects may be discovered and corrected in the early stages of development, thus preventing serious life handicaps. These defects are found especially in the eyes, ears, throat and teeth. Milk has been provided for undernourished children. The tuberculosis clinics have been held regularly, hospitalization being recommended to some parents, while others have been taught to care for themselves at home. To these patients, when necessary, milk has been provided. The sale of Christmas seals makes this work possible.

"The relief work of the organization meets a real need in the community. Food, fuel, clothing and other necessities and some of the comforts of life have been provided when necessary. In spite of the apparent prosperity of Danielson, the calls for relief the past year have exceeded those of former years.

"The town farm has been regularly visited, and although the poor of Killingly are exceptionally well cared for, Miss Miriam Boomhower's visits add something of cheer to their rather uneventful lives."

Miss Pilling's report also reviews the valuable relations that have grown up between the federation and state agencies doing kindred work, and makes mention of the persons of distinction who have come here for addresses or conferences during the past year. Miss Pilling expresses her appreciation to manufacturing concerns and individuals for contributions of money and other aid during the past year and to the press for generous notices. The report also acknowledges the faithful, conscientious work of Miss Miriam Boomhower, visiting nurse, and the outstanding service rendered by Mrs. A. H. Armington, treasurer of the federation for the past 16 years.

In her 16th annual report as treasurer Mrs. Armington shows that the receipts of the year, including $1,652.72 in cash on hand June 1, 1928, were $3,172.45. Of this amount $197 came from 168 membership fees, $271.25 was received from patients, $444 from Tag day, $100 from the Killingly school committee for work of the visiting nurse $50 from the Goodyear Mills, Inc., $30 from Powdrell and Alexander, $23.75 from rental of Good Samaratin association articles, $5.75 in penny collections, $92.47 in interest on savings bank deposits. The expenses of the year were $1,391.32, leaving a balance in the treasurer this June 1, of $1,781.13.

Miss Miriam Boomhower's report as visiting nurse details the number of patients visited, the nature of the illness, as to general classification, the number of nursing, social or advisory visits, all of these visits totaling 1797. Of these 1376 were nursing visits. There were 91 paying patients and 229 free patients. In relief work 684 garments were given, also shoes, hats, quilts, blankets, rugs and pillows. Miss Boomhower's report contains an interesting summary of work done in the public schools. Thirty-nine half-days were spent in the schools examining the pupils. Much good work has been done in dentistry, but the fact that 338 still need that kind of help pleads for a dental clinic. Parents have been doing all that they can in many cases to correct defects found, but have been handicapped in many more families by short time employment or lower wages.

Irvin L. Foster, whose death at State College, Penn., was mentioned in this column this morning, was professor of Romance languages at Pennsylvania State college and a member of the faculty there for more than 30 years. He was a graduate of Brown university in the class of 1888, and received the degree of M. A. the year following. Later he studied abroad at the university of Leipsig and at the Sorbonne in Paris. His early teaching was in schools in Connecticut. Afterwards he became an instructor in French at Brown, going from Providence to Pennsylvania State college in 1895. He had been a professor there since 1905. During the summer of 1924 he was a special teacher in English at the University of Porto Rico. He belonged to many associations and was the author of a number of French text books, including a war manual, published in 1917. He received the degree of LL. D. at Susquehanna university. Selinas Grove, Pa., in 1915. Though Professor Foster was born in Washington, D. C., July 6, 1870, his ancestry had close relations with this town, and he made a practice of coming here summers for many years. His mother Amanda Warren Foster, was a sister of Lysander Warren, whose residence of many years on the Green Hollow road is now occupied by Principal Ernest R. Warren of Killingly high school and Mrs. Warren, relatives of Prof. Foster, who attended the high school here. Prof. Foster leaves his wife, a brother, Dr. Warren Foster of Washington, D. C., and a sister, Mrs. Hattie M. Moore, of Chicago. He was a Phi Beta Kappa member.

At the annual meeting of the Civic federation and Good Samaratian association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Henry D. Grosgy; first vice-president, Mrs. Esther A. Jacobs; second vice-president, Mrs. Alfred L. Reed; third vice-president, Mrs. James M. Paine; secretary Miss Emma F. Pilling; treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Some of those who watched an aviator winging high over Danielson at noon today, bank his plane, change his course and head due west were left with the impression that the aviation guide on the roof of the Exchange block identifying Danielson had served this flyer well in giving him his location.

Numbers of families on the West Side will be represented at the Brooklyn eighth grade graduating exercises to be held in Unitarian hall in Brooklyn Wednesday evening.

In observance of Flag day on Friday a general display of the national colors is being urged for Danielson by representatives of patriotic societies.

As a possible precaution against fire occurring at the state armory during the textile exhibition Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department already has a line of hose stretched for instant use in case of an emergency.

PUTNAM

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF FORMER MAYOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 11—Men of all creeds gathered in the transept of St. Mary's church at nine o'clock this morning to pay final tribute to Putnam's one time mayor and esteemed citizen—Victor Chapdelaine.

The bearers were Samuel Reynolds, president of the Citizens National bank of which Mr. Chapdelaine was a director; Thomas P. Ryan, city clerk in the three administrations of Mayor Chapdelaine; William P. Warren, selectman of the town of Putnam and close friend of the former mayor; Napoleon A. Kerouack, of the Putnam lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Chapdelaine was a charter member; Charles A. Richard, present mayor of the city, and Ex-Mayor Chapdelaine's successor and Edmond Dubois alderman from ward two and vice president of the common council.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. U. O Bellerose, Rev. Father Jegou, chaplain of the provincial house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost, was deacon and Rev. Joseph D. Casey was sub deacon. Miss Rose Metras, organist at the church, was at the organ and a quartet under the direction of Dr. Adelard Harnin of Worcester rendered the music. At the offertory, "Pie Jesu" was sung by the quartet, and at the elevation of "O Meritm". As a waiting hymn the organist played "O the Priceless Love of Jesus". The recessional was Shubert's funeral march. Every fraternal organization with which former Mayor Chapdelaine was affiliated was represented at the funeral.

As the procession to St. Mary's cemetery continued from the church hundreds stood on either side of the long lane of automobiles with heads bare. In the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery where burial took place Rev. Father Bellerose read a committal service.

In the center of a beautiful green patch of land adjoining the famed Cargill Falls on Pomfret street known as Cargill park, is a giant sturdy oak tree which is comparatively unobserved by the hundreds who pass it daily. However an interesting incident was revealed Monday afternoon at a meeting of the Elizabeth Porter chapter of D. A. R., when Mrs Mary B. Bishop of Grove street identified the majestic oak tree as being the grandson of the historical Charter Oak in Hartford. In presenting her interesting bit of data concerning the family history of the tree in Cargill park Mrs. Bishop held aloft a spray of its foliage.

In the spot where the towering offspring of the Charter Oak has reposed for many years a fence enclosure and proper markings will be erected.

The annual election of officers of the Elizabeth Porter chapter was held at this meeting and the following daughters were elected to direct the affairs of the organization during the forthcoming fiscal year: Regent, Mrs. Mary A. Hopkins of Woodstock; vice regent, Miss Gertrude Perry; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Dyer Potter; treasurer, Miss Emma Roberts. The reports of the outgoing officers showed there are 229 members enrolled in the local chapter, this number complying with the quotas required by the state and national divisions of the Daughters of the American Revolution. During the past year the Putnam chapter has contributed to the International college at Springfield, Mass., and to the Blue Ridge school in Virginia, added to the library fund, assisted the issue of the Connecticut state board of education of the blind, joined in the support of the American Red Cross and directed a number of boxes to the government immigration station at Ellis Island, N. Y.

The registrar for the new year will be Mrs. Leon T. Wilson of Laurel street and the historian of the chapter will be Miss Sarah C. Barber. The new board of directors elected at Monday's meeting were Miss Sarah Crosby, Mrs. Mary B. Bishop, Mrs. Mary B. Bishop, Mrs. Hattie Bowen and Miss Ellen Wheelock.

"It's a case of nerves, Judge," said Noble Hall of Putnam Heights to Judge M. H. Geissler in city court this morning, while endeavoring to explain the circumstances existing on Monday afternoon when Noble's faithful steed, the garbage wagon, fully laden with its fly attracting cargo, crashed over a fifteen foot wall on Fremont street late Monday. "It was this way, Judge," said Noble, "we were going along our route when suddenly a familiar voice called out. A task had to be performed in the back yard and so I cautiously backed my favorite horse into the drive way. As the incline became more rigid and the load drew back I tried to hold her, but I could not and down went horse, garbage, flies and all. I thought he was dead judge but he wasn't. He smothered a beautiful garden of Iris and left only a few blossoms remaining and when I straightened him out he ate the rest when I wasn't lookin'." At this the court room let forth an uproar and the magistrate had to call for order. Then Noble continued his pathetic story, bringing forth a snicker now and then from the congregation of delighted listeners.

"Then a disgusted lady," continued Noble, "shooed us out—but it wasn't our fault, Judge. After that my nerves failed me and the next thing I knew I was behind a big iron door. It ain't my fault I tell you, Judge—it's a case of nerves", concluded Noble. But nerves or no nerves Noble was found guilty of intoxication and got off with actual costs of one dollar and a six months period of probation.

George Merton and his wife of High street in Mechanicsville were arrested Monday evening by State Officer John T. Murphy of Danielson barracks after they had brutally beaten their eighteen year old daughter. Officer Murphy took both the husband and wife into custody and arraigned them at a special session of town court in North Grosvenordale, Monday night before Judge P. P. Tourtellotte charging them with assault. Both were found guilty of the offense and a fine of seven dollars and a thirty day suspended jail sentence was imposed. Mary Merton appeared in court against her parents. She exhibited several bruises and other lacerations inflicted upon her during the brutal beating by her father and stepmother. In commenting upon the case Judge Tourtellotte said the incident was an outrage to society and only because of their five younger dependents Mr. and Mrs. Merton were spared of having to serve a lengthy jail sentence.

Five members of the Elizabeth Porter chapter, D. A. R. were in Windsor today where they attended a meeting of the Ellsworth Memorial Association at the Ellsworth Homestead. Those attending from this city were Mrs. W. R. Barber, Mrs. Charles Hopkins of Woodstock, Mrs. William H. Mansfield, Jr., and Mrs. H. L. Pease.

A large two story house on Main street owned by Mrs. Mederise Muire has been removed to an adjoining lot on Bullock street and a modern two story business block is to be erected on the Main street site. It will have a frontage of approximately 30 feet on Main street and a depth of 82 feet on Bullock street.

Mr. Perry said today he believed the contractors would start work early next week.

With the aid of a fund left to the town of Woodstock, by the late Henry C. Bowen, the executive committee in charge are planning extensive improvements to the common in Woodstock Hill. City Engineer George W Perry who will draw up plans and specifications for the proposed improvements said the work will consist principally of grading and leveling of the grounds. The common in Woodstock was the scene of Connecticut's largest political gathering during the 1928 presidential campaign when the Windham County Hoover and Curtis club staged a rally which was attended by over three thousand people.

"Resolved that Putnam people should trade in Putnam" was the subject of a most interesting debate which took place during the social session at a meeting of Putnam grange held Monday evening. The affirmative side consisted of Mrs Irene Howard, Mrs. Victoria Durand, and John Meyers. The negative team was composed of Carl Johnson, Arthur Tourtellotte and Mrs. Florence Pitkins. The affirmative in every argument bested their negative rivals and easily clinched the victory. The judges were M. E. Haynes, master of Killingly grange, George Law, master of Quinnatissett grange, Thompson and E. M. Ennes of Brooklyn grange. Each debater was allowed five minutes in which to put across his argument and a ten minute period in which to conduct a rebuttal.

Memorial services in honor of the deceased members of Putnam grange were held at this meeting.

Mrs. Alexander LePire and Mrs James Dempsey of Mechanics street spent Monday in Providence.

Mrs. Byron LaMondy, Mechanics street, was a Providence visitor Monday.

Private funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Gregoire of 21 Maynard street for their eleven year old daughter Lauretta, who died Monday. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. It was said today that a requiem mass for the repose of her soul will be celebrated in St. Mary's church next week.

A crowd of several hundred people attended the carnival held on St. Mary's school grounds Monday evening under the auspices of St. Mary's Boy Scout organization.

STOOD ALONE FIVE YEARS AGO—STANDS ALONE TODAY

DEC 6 1924

"Chrysler came into a seemingly crowded motor car market and almost overnight swept its way into unprecedented acceptance as a quality product. + + Why? Because Chrysler brushed aside outworn traditions in engineering, in design, and in performance. It brought to bear both scientific exactness and artistry. + + That is why Chrysler has taken the country by storm—why it still stands and will long stand alone."

CHRYSLER'S PLACE IN THE SUN

Prior to five years ago there were no Chrysler motor cars. In five years, Chrysler, from a standing start, has overtaken leading cars of three, four and five times its age.

The spectacle of a newcomer so swiftly becoming a leader can bring the logical mind to but one conclusion: There must be something remarkable, something altogether different and superior, in the cars that Chrysler builds.

There is a definite superiority in Chrysler cars. Hundreds of thousands of motorists the world over have learned it.

There is in Chrysler performance, a thrilling sense of endless power, a swift eagerness of life and spirit, a restful feeling of perfect balance and positive safety that cannot be experienced except in a Chrysler car. There is in Chrysler design artistic freshness and modern charm. There is in Chrysler riding qualities a smoothness, a cradled restfulness quite without counterpart.

Drive a Chrysler car today and realize, better than words could ever tell you, why Chrysler has won so glittering a place in the sun—and why Chrysler goes on and on to an ever-increasing popularity and prestige.

PRICES FLUCTUATED CONSIDERABLY IN SLOW SESSION OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—The stock market appeared to have fallen into a period of stagnation today comparable to those which followed the breaks of March 1926 and June 1928. Trading drifted along at the slowest pace experienced on the exchange since last August—the days turnover exceeding 2,000,000 shares by a narrow margin—and prices fluctuated uncertainly as professional traders contested rather feebly for control.

A bear drive during the morning depressed a wide assortment of issues about 2 to 4 points, but shorts were driven to cover before the close by a brisk upturn in the utilities which carried the Associated Press price index of 20 leading utility stocks up about 2 points to another record level.

Call money held at 5 per cent, the figure reached yesterday, and bankers predicted that it would hold around that level for a few days. Time money, however, was a fraction higher at 5 1-2 per cent, for maturities up to 90 days, reflecting the prospect of a rather stringent money condition the last half of the month.

The federal reserve condition statement of weekly reporting member banks showed a gain of $45,000,000 in loans on securities, a rather disappointing showing after the recent declines in broker's loans.

The day's news included a slight increase in crude oil production for last week, greater output in California offsetting declines elsewhere. Steel mills were said to be operating at a slightly higher rate than last week, an extraordinary trend for this time of the year. The expected 5 for 1 splitup of Burroughs Adding Machine stock was announced, and the new stock placed on an $9 cent annual dividend basis, equal to $4 on the old, which paid $8. Pan American Petroleum announced that an offer to minority stockholders of Mexican Petroleum would be deferred pending more favorable stock market conditions.

A few of the more volatile issues were rushed up easily in the unusually thin market. Commercial Solvents jumped 12 points to another record price at 410. Warren Bros. climbed 11 points and Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto, Commonwealth Power, and National Biscuit, 7 to 9. In the utilities American Water Works, Federal Light and Traction, and North American reached new high ground, the last climbing 6 points.

Food shares were grain stimulated by merger rumors. Fleischmann rising nearly 5 points to a new peak. Independent Steels were also in demand, reflecting reports of increased operations. Crucible sold up about 5 points to a new peak, and Youngstown and Republic made fair gains. Motors displayed a better tone. Packard, Chrysler and General Motors moving up a point or two. Nash closed firm after sagging to a new low for the year. National Distillers preferred mounted about 6 points to a new peak on reports that it may be redeemed at 110. Air Reduction, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and General Asphalt also reached new high grounds.

Burroughs Adding Machine dropped about 12 points to 305 on "selling on the good news" of the split up, but closed at 310. Sparks Withington dropped 8 points and Hershey Chocolate lost 4. Hayes Body and United Fruit were among issues selling at new lows for the year. Radio dropped a couple of points to 79 1-2 a new low for the current movement, but reduced its loss to a fraction before the close.

The commodities generally improved, with the exception of raw sugar, wheat futures sold 2 cents and more a bushel higher, on better export demand and bullish weather forecasts, corn made like gains. July sugar fell to still another low for this exchange at 1.89 cents. As the Cuban sugar grinding season nears its end, crop estimates are being revised upwards. With possibilities that the new tariff will be held up for some time, no improvement is looked for in the near future in this market.

Foreign exchanges were dull but somewhat easier, sterling cables falling to $4.86 13-16, the lowest level since the Bank of England raised its discount rate in February. German marks were also under pressure.

C. L. HOWE, NEW LONDON, TO BE SUPT. OF SCHOOLS

The Griswold school board has engaged Chester L. Howe, assistant supervisor of schools of New London, to become superintendent of the schools of Griswold.

FIVE SCHOOLS COMBINE FOR FAIRGROUNDS PICNIC

Five of the outlying district schools held a grand pre-vacation picnic Tuesday, on Pachaug fair grounds. Close to 100 pupils were present, many of whom took part in athletic stunts and games. A great fire was kindled, and when the coals were ready, all joined for a grand weenie roast. Served with the steaming dogs were rolls, cake, cookies and ginger pop.

The schools represented were: White, Miss Helen M. Iago, teacher; Brewster, Miss Teresa Foley, teacher; Boardman, Miss Katherine Doherty, teacher; Pachaug, Miss Marion Spinney, teacher; Woodward, Miss Belle D. Ellis, teacher. The girls' ball game was won by the Boardman school and in the boys' game, the White school was victorious. The three-legged race honors were taken by Boley Minta and Carl Millovitsch, of the White school; sack race, by Miss Helen Mackin, of the Boardman; potato race, by Paul Manzik, of the White; shoe race, by Miss Abbie Lindell, of the Boardman. The last race was noted for its remarkable features. All the contestants removed their shoes. The bushel or more of foot wear was placed in a jumbled pile 50 yards away. At the word "go," there was a grand scramble to the pile, then the air was filled with shoes. Miss Lindell secured hers, put them on, all nicely tied, and reached the starting point just ahead of a close second. Swapping foot gear was in order after the contest. Pachaug school got away with the leap frog race. The obstacle race, also the 50-yard dash was won by Miss Grace Lockwood, of Pachaug school. The winners of the three-legged race also copped the wheelbarrow sprint. The Charleston contest was a scream, with the awards going to Agnes Seetuk and Miss Lockwood. A prize was given each of the winners.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chrysler Car

An ever increasing popularity of Chrysler cars with women is reported from all over the world. Women driving Chrysler cars are recording achievements of which even the best men drivers need not be ashamed. The manner in which these cars respond to control, according to women who have spent hundreds of hours behind the wheel, makes these achievements possible.

An unusual tribute to the stamina and ease of operation of Chrysler cars was paid by Mrs. Vivian W. Adams, wife of Major John Quincy Adams, United States Marine corps, in a communication recently received by the Chrysler Sales corporation, in which she vividly describes a 10,000-mile trip in a Chrysler "72" coupe through southern Europe, accompanied only by her friend, Mrs. Gertrude T. Baskin.

Desiring to visit parts of southern Europe unfrequented by the average tourist, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Baskin, against the advice of friends, left New York with a Chrysler coupe which had already covered 30,000 miles, with the intention of driving from Cadiz, Spain, to Turkey.

From the outset, the two women found the roads scarcely fit for motor car journey. They covered the first 1,200 miles from Madrid over the Pyrenees, at a time of the year when the heat in the mountains was terrific. Although the car had to labor up roads which seemed but goat trails for hours on end, at no time were they forced to stop because of the motor becoming overheated.

Throughout Spain they encountered few motor cars and the natives of the villages and hamlets over which they passed were amazed not only by the fact that a woman was driving the automobile but that any automobile could be built which a woman could operate.

From Madrid the couple drove through France to Paris, where after a two months' stay in which they improved their driving skill in the crowded traffic of the French metropolis, they set forth for Sofia, in the Balkans. For 1,350 miles they drove their Chrysler over roads belying description, but it was not until they had covered a total of 5,000 miles from their start at Cadiz that they experienced their first tire trouble. At that, the trouble was not caused by road conditions, but by a gang of rowdies in a small village, who, enraged by the French license on the car, cut one of the tires.

Through eleven different countries Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Baskin drove, finding the roads a little less terrible than the price of gasoline, which cost $1.50 a gallon in some places. Despite the road conditions, however, no mechanical difficulties were experienced.

MYSTIC

NEW FLASHING SIGNALS SET AT GRADE CROSSING

New flashing signals, four red lights on the south and six on the north side, have been placed at the grade crossing at West Mystic and have proved quite satisfactory. Before the lights go on, when a train is coming, a bell rings which can be heard for a long distance so no one has any excuse for being caught on the tracks.

Honor Pupils.

When the eighth grade of Mystic academy, Miss Joanna Burnet, teacher, is graduated, Miss Thelma Crouch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Crouch, will be valedictorian of the class having maintained an average of 94.3 in her studies. Miss Emily Allyn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Allyn, with an average of 94.1, will be the salutatorian. These two girls have run a close race all the year and it has been interesting to see the results.

Mrs. Lois D. Boynton has been entertaining guests from Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Green with their son, Russell, of Linden, N. J., are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Charles L. Crouch.

Mrs. H. D. Gray was the soloist at the Methodist church Sunday.

The W. C. T. U. meeting will be held with Mrs. Byron Billings on Thursday afternoon. The change in day is due to the meeting of the association at the Baptist church, Old Mystic, Wednesday. The subject of the meeting will be Flower Mission day.

Home From England.

Arthur H. Board and son, Harry Board, motored to Boston Sunday to meet Mrs. A. H. Board, who had returned from Bristol, England, where she went early in May to visit her father who was ill and whom she had not seen for over 14 years. They returned to Mystic Monday.

Mrs. W. E. Clark of Hartford was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. O. S. Walbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Haley and daughter, Miss Juliette Haley of Brooklyn, N. Y., have arrived to spend the summer with Miss Emily Gates.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning, notice was given that Rev. George L. Farnham of Washington, D. C., will preach at the church Sunday morning next.

John Kennedy, William Walbridge of Old Mystic and William Kennedy of Hope Valley were in Faybian, Conn., Sunday to attend the funeral of Fred Meyers, superintendent of the mill there.

Thursday afternoon the Methodist Ladies' Aid society will meet with Mrs. George Wallace.

Local members of the Connecticut chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America have received invitations to the meeting to be held at Simsbury manor, Tuesday, June 25. Luncheon will be at 12.30. A report will be given of the 31st general court held in Washington, D. C., in April.

Frederick Halstead of Cornell, N. Y., Thomas Halstead of Williamsville, N. Y., Mrs. George Harwood, of Angelica, N. Y., and Mrs. Cora Klotten of Arba, N. Y., returned to their homes Monday after being called here to attend the funeral of their sister, Mrs. Daniel Brown, Sunday afternoon.

Maurice Burrows of New York was here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hassler of Occum, visited Mrs. Minnie Campbell Sunday.

Mrs. William Pape and children have moved from the Stiles Crandall place, above Old Mystic, to the cottage owned by Mrs. L. D. Boynton.

The June number of the D. A. R. magazine contains a picture of the "Old Mill Stone," with a sun dial on top, which used to stand in the yard of the old mill at New London. It is now in Derby, Conn. A poem by Ada Shelton accompanies the picture. The total enrollment of members for Connecticut D. A. R. is now 6,834.

Miss Rosamond Holmes, of Mystic, was one of Connecticut college graduates to receive the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Mrs. E. Edwin Beebe, her daughter, Miss Carolyn Beebe, and Mrs. Helen T. Beebe of New York city have arrived in the village to spend the season at the Tift homestead.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

A wardrobe including costumes of four different periods, ranging from 1885 to the present, had to be assembled for "Show Boat," Universal's talking screen production of Edna Ferber's world-known novel, which is now showing at Broadway theatre all week, with Laura La Plante starring and Joseph Schildkraut playing opposite.

The garment list which Director Harry Pollard gave Johanna Mathieson, head of Universal's wardrobe department, was one of the most difficult to fill in screen history, according to the wardrobe mistress.

"This is among the few pictures ever made that required costumes of four different periods," said Miss Mathieson. "There are pictures which need two, and sometimes three, but rarely four."

The costume periods needed were those of 1885, 1896, 1905 and the present.

"During the 45 years covered by the story, many changes took place in the American style of dress," Miss Mathieson said.

"In the middle 80's women went in strongly for bustles and wide-shoulder dresses. About 1896 the 'leg o' mutton' sleeves were the keynote of style. This was accompanied by the 'hour-glass' waist.

"In 1905 was the regime of the Gibson girl. She wore a flowing princess dress, with a wide ruffled skirt. Soft pompadours and curls went with this ensemble.

"From that time to the present, the changes have been revolutionary. There is very little left of the former styles in modern dress. But I had to spend more than three weeks of research before I was able to start designing the rest of the costumes," Miss Mathieson concluded.

Some of the members of the Show Boat troupe go through the four periods. In the first, Magnolia is shown as a child and when she grows up she is played by Miss La Plante and goes through three of the periods. Joseph Schildkraut also goes through three periods.

The other members of the cast of this super production are Alma Rubens, Emily Fitzroy, Otis Harlan, Elise Bartlett, Neely Edwards, Jane La Verne, Blanche Craig, Theodore Lorch, Harry Holden and many others.

Palace Theatre.

Mary Pickford came to the sound stages, saw the microphones and conquered them in Coquette, her new all-talking picture now showing at the Palace theatre.

During the recording of her first scene in the picture, Miss Pickford was as excited as a small child.

"I feel just as I used to feel in the old days when the curtain went up and it was time for me to step out on the stage," Miss Pickford whispered, as she waited for Director Sam Taylor to announce that all was in readiness for the scene.

By the time the final episodes of the picture were recorded Miss Pickford was as much at home on the sound stages as before the silent cameras.

"The sound pictures present an entirely new technique," Miss Pickford believes, "they are a combination of both the stage and the screen with an added art all their own. We, who are testing their possibilities, are the pioneers in an entirely new fieldo famusementendeavor."

His Big Mintue, an all - talking comedy unfolding the adventures of a tenderfoot in a western cow town, provides Lloyd Hamilton, famous comedy ace, with his first short comedy in sound. It is now proving a rare treat on the program at the Palace theatre.

Hamilton was a great favorite in silent short feature comedies, and he's even funnier and better in talking pictures. In His Big Minute, he naturally is cast as the well-intentioned tenderfoot who tries to act natural among the cowboys.

Other sound features on this program a Pathe Sound News, Pathe Revue, a very rare offering in sound, and the famous Grantland Rice's Sportlight in sound.

Kelly Tires.

Many drivers who have become car owners only recently do not realize that while the price of nearly everything else is far higher than it was before the war, automobile tires, formerly an important item on the motorist's budget, now cost only 31 per cent as much as they did in 1913.

The average price of foods, for example, has risen nearly 58 per cent; the price of textiles, 68 per cent; the cost of fuel and light, 67 per cent; while the price of automobile tires has not only not risen but actually has dropped 69 per cent.

Furthermore, while food, in spite of its higher price, is no more nourishing today than it was in 1913, nor will a suit of clothes last any longer, the automobile tire of today will on an average give three or four times the mileage it did 15 years ago.

"Back before the war," remarked Mr. Gillman of the Ideal Service Station, local Kelly-Springfield dealers, at 50 Town street, "a tire that gave 5,000 miles was considered very good. Kelly first got its reputation by building tires that gave 9,000 and 10,000 miles, at that time phenomenal. Today even a fair tire will average 15,000 miles and it is quite common for me to learn of cases where a Kelly has done twice that.

"I can remember when a Ford size fabric tire used to sell around $20. Now the regular standard Ford size Kelly balloon cord tire retails for $9.00. The old tires used to be built by hand; the present machine built product is not only better but is more uniform, and because of the economies made possible by increased output and the lower price of rubber, its price has dropped steadily. The automobile tire is one article on which the public is getting real value for its money."

SECURING DATA ON SUITABLE SITES TO ACCOMODATE FACTORIES HERE

The committee on sites, a sub-committee of the industrial commission of the chamber of commerce, is engaged in getting a list of places along the lines of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and the Central Vermont railroad, which are suitable for manufacturing and factory purpose and development. In this work, the committee is having the assistance of representatives of the railroads and the information that will be secured will furnish the material for a sketch of each place, with the data as to size and general conditions.

Since the necessity for providing suitable factory quarters in Norwich came into the limelight, it has been learned that an incorporated organization already exists which would be qualified to function in case it was decided to forward a plan for providing and developing such sites. This is the Norwich Industrial Improvement corporation which was organized and incorporated with $100,000 capital stock, par $25, at the time of the Thermos campaign here in the early part of 1912. As there was no time limit on the charter, the corporation is still in existence, James L. Case being its president. Mr. Case has expressed his readiness and willingness to cooperate at any time a proposition has been developed towards meeting the factory site situation.

In the certificate of incorporation, dated Feb. 3, 1912, the purposes of the organization are given as follows:

"To encourage, stimulate and establish manufacturing and industrial enterprises in the town and city of Norwich. To provide factory sites, factories and equipment, docks, sidings and transportation facilities and workmen's dwellings; to acquire, hold, manage, mortgage, sell, rent, improve and develop real estate as may be requisite or expedient in carrying out the foregoing purposes; to buy, sell, exchange and deal in all kinds of building materials, machinery, appliances and supplies incidental to the promotion of the objects hereinbefore mentioned, and generally to do whatever may be necessary or convenient in the lawful prosecution of the aforesaid enterprises."

The corporation issued 2,364 shares of stock of which 42 are still out and there is $3,000 cash on hand in banks.

The 15 original incorporators were F. W. Cary, J. B. Shannon, John Porteous, Archibald Mitchell, William H. Hill, Frank J. King, William B. McGarry, Rutherford C. Plaut, Arthur H. Brewer, Daniel T. Shea, C. Morgan Williams, Gilbert L. Hewitt, Henry F. Parker, Leo Kronig and W. H. Prothero.

MADAME STARR CLAIMS JOHN CASALE IS A FAKE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 10.—Madame Lillian Starr, accompanied by John Casale, 25, both of 8 Goodman place, Hartford, was in Westerly tonight and visited police headquarters. They came to prove that the John Casale mentioned in Monday morning's Bulletin was not the John Casale who was an incorporator of the Universal Spiritual society of Hartford. They visited the rooming house occupied by "Prof. John" and found that he had left for Norwich fifteen minutes after he arrived back from his court hearing.

They also attended a special session of the third district court and interviewed Judge Williams to prove that the name used by "Prof. John" was also a fake.

A man from Hope Valley was found guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, also abusing his housekeeper, and was fined $5 and costs of $5, in court this evening.

GORHAM BOUND OVER ON FORGERY CHARGE

George Gorham, 28, of Dorchester, Mass., was bound over to the superior court on a charge of forgery when his case came up in the city court Tuesday morning. Gorham is wanted in Cambridge Mass., on a similar charge according to word received by Chief George Linton from the police of that city. It is also said that he brought a 14 year old girl to this city from Dorchester, Mass., and then deserted her.

He was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail for 10 days on the liquor charge and was fined $10 on the gambling charge. Sullivan conducted a speakeasy at Ryder's Crossing, in Preston, just over the city line and was arrested Friday night when the state police raided the place and found eight frequenters there.

SENATOR BINGHAM'S SON MARRIED IN NEW YORK

Miss Kathleen Wattson Howell, eldest daughter of Mrs. Irwin White Howell of 178 East Seventieth street, New York, and the late Mr. Howell, was married to Charles Tiffany Bingham, fourth son of United States Senator from Connecticut and Mrs. Hiram Bingham of New Haven, Salem and Washington, Monday afternoon in the Byzantine chapel of St. Bartholomew's church, New York. Rev. Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown, dean emeritus of Yale university, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The bride, who entered the chapel alone, was given in marriage by her mother. Her gown of cream colored satin was made with a full circular train from the waist line, edged with old Brussels point lace. Some of the same lace trimmed the bodice, which was finished with a V neck, and long mitten sleeves. Her veil of old family Brussels point lace was arranged in cap fashion and held in place with small sprays of orange blossoms on each side of the head. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Agnes A. Howell, who was maid of honor for her sister, wore a costume of apple green chiffon combined with brown tulle and a brown horsehair picture hat. The bridesmaids were the Misses Mary Irwin Howell, also a sister; Cora Legg, Millicent F. Belknap, Constance Dane, Camille Miller, Jennie Arnold, Joan N. H. Brown, Helen Smith, Elizabeth A. Bliss and Edith Hewitt Jaffray, whose marriage to W. Warner Hoppin, Jr., is to take place on Saturday at Scarsdale. Their frocks were of peach colored chiffon and brown tulle. They wore picture hats to correspond. All the attendants carried bouquets of delphinium, African daisies, larkspur, snapdragons and columbine.

Dwight Fishwick was best man for Mr. Bingham. The ushers were four brothers of the bridegroom, Alfred M. Brewster, Woodbridge and Hiram Bingham, Jr., also George Winthrop Haight, Chauncey B. Ives, Sydney Quarrier, Lee Mallory, Stuart Patterson Scott and Launcelot Patrick Ross.

Doctor Found Women And Children Sick More Often Than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Sailor Town

Along the wharves in sailor towns a singing whisper goes
Of wind among the anchored ships, the wind that blows
Off a broad brimming water, where the summer day has died
Like a wounded whale a-stunning in the sunset tide.

There's a big China liner gleaming like a gull,
And her lit ports flashing; there's the long gaunt hull
Of a Blue Funnel freighter with her derricks dark and still;
And a tall barque loading at the lumber mill.

And in the shops of sailor town is every kind of thing
That the sailormen buy there, or the ships' crews bring:
Shackles for a sea-chest and pink cockatoos,
Fifty-cent alarm clocks and dead men's shoes.

You can hear the gulls crying and the cheerful noise
Of a concertina going, and a singer's voice—
And the wind's song and the tide's song, crooning soft and low
Rum old tunes in sailor town that seamen know.

I dreamed a dream in sailor town, a foolish dream and vain,
Of ships and men departed, of old days come again—
And an old song in sailor town, an old song to sing
When shipmate meets shipmate in the evening.

—By Miss Cicely Fox-Smith.

Joys Of The Farm Boy

I'd like to be a boy again,
Without a single care;
With freckles scattered on my face,
And tanned in my hair.
I'd like to rise at four o'clock,
And do a hundred chores,
And saw the wood and feed the hogs
And lock the stable doors.
And herd the hens and switch the bees,
And take the stock to drink;
And teach the turkeys how to swim
So that they wouldn't sink.
And milk about a hundred cows,
And bring the wood to burn,
And stand out in the sun all day,
And churn—and churn—and churn;
And wear my brother's cast-off clothes
And walk four miles to school,
And get a licking every day
For breaking some old rule.
And then get home again at night
And do the chores some more,
And milk the cows and feed the hogs
And carry mules galores,
And then come wearily upstairs
And see my little bed,
And hear dad say—"That worthless boy!
He isn't worth his bread."

PROTEST FREE USE OF ARMS BY ENFORCEMENT AGENTS

New Demands Have Been Made That the Weapons of Prohibition Agents Be Silenced—Treasury Department Officials Maintain That More Stringent Regulations Would Render Ineffective the Efforts of Their Agents—Bill Has Been Introduced in the House to Provide $25,000 For Dependents of Persons "Wantonly" Killed by Prohibition Agents.

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—New demands that the weapons of prohibition agents be silenced and that the government provide funds for the dependents of those killed through misuse of firearms were made today as Washington received news of the death of the second victim within the week.

The only reply from the treasury department was that disarmed officers could not cope with desperate smugglers who depended upon gunplay for success. They again called attention to an order which forbade agents from using weapons except in self defense or to prevent the commission of felonies and said that to make the regulations more stringent would render ineffective the efforts of their agents.

The second death—that of Archibald Eugster, 21 year old Detroit youth—occurred almost simultaneously with the announcement by the treasury department that the border patrolmen responsible for his death and that of Henry Virkkula at International Falls, Minn., would be held personally responsible if they were found to have used their arms except in self-defense or to prevent commission of a felony.

Meanwhile, Representative Florence P. Kahn, republican, California, was introducing a bill to provide $25,000 for the dependents of persons killed by prohibition agents who "wantonly or negligently" used guns except in self defense.

The proposal of Mrs. Kahn who is opposed to the prohibition law, would make general the same legislation introduced yesterday by Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin, to care for the Virkkula case.

In declaring investigations of the two shootings would be pressed, Assistant Secretary Lowman said officers had been warned in a year old order of the department that they would be held strictly accountable for the results of any use of firearms that resulted in fatalities. Although he said the two patrolmen could demand the transfer of their cases to federal courts he added that this would in no way change the charges of use of firearms that might be lodged against them.

Lowman also said members of congress had made vigorous demands upon the department to disarm agents.

Investigations of the two shootings already have been initiated by the treasury and justice departments and Lowman said the official report of the International Falls affair already was on the way to Washington.

Representative Clancy, republican, Michigan, who urged a full examination into the circumstances of the Detroit shooting, has gone to that city to aid in questioning witnesses. Protesting to the treasury department, Representative Pittenger, republican, Minnesota, added his voice to those who were demanding full investigations of the International Falls affair.

THREE INVESTIGATIONS OF SHOOTING OF YOUTH

DETROIT, June 12—(AP)—Three independent investigations were being conducted tonight into the death of Archibald Eugster, youth who was shot by Jonah Cox, member of the United States customs border patrol, early Tuesday. Eugster died shortly before noon today.

Gregory H. Frederick assistant United States district attorney, was in charge of an investigation by federal authorities, State authorities were working under James E. Chenot, Wayne county prosecutor. Representatives Robert H. Clancy and Clarence J. McLeod came here from Washington to inquire into circumstances of the slaying.

Eugster declared, in a statement to officers before he died, that he and his companions were on a fishing trip when Cox shot him down. Cutsoms inspectors claim the youths were attempting to recover a liquor-laden boat which had been seized and Cox was guarding. The youths claimed they were fired upon before being challenged.

START INVESTIGATION OF SLAYING OF VIRKKULA

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., June 12—(AP)—While funeral services were held at Eveleth today for Henry Virkkula, slain by a border patrolman on a hunt for liquor smugglers, another investigation into the shooting was launched on orders from Washington.

Oscar Dahly, federal customs collector at Duluth, reached here today to start his investigation, which he said, would be entirely independent of three others already under way, directed by the county attorney, a special agent for the treasury department and the chief customs inspector here.

His investigation Dahly said, would take approximately a week. He expected to interview Mrs. Virkkula, widow of the slain man, who was riding in the automobile with her husband when the patrolman, Emmet J. White, fired a shotgun charge into their car.

He also expects to interview White, whose report of the shooting charged that Virkkula failed to halt as commanded before he opened fire. Mrs. Virkkula said she heard no command and that the firing started while her husband was attempting to stop the car.

BORDER PATROL INSPECTOR ABSOLVED FROM SHOOTING

DETROIT, June 12—(AP)—Prosecutor James E. Chenot and Representative Robert J. Clancy tonight absolved James Cox, customs border patrol inspector, of all blame in connection with the fatal shooting here yesterday morning of Archibald Eugster, 21, on the banks of the Detroit river.

Chenot gave out a statement exonerating Cox after Frank Cooper, one of Eugster's companions the night of the shooting, admitted that he, Eugster and others were running 35 cases of liquor across the Detroit river from Canada.

Representative Clancy talked with Walter S. Petty, assistant collector of customs, and afterward declared this was not another instance of the slaying of an innocent man.

71 MEN AND WOMEN HELD IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING

GASTONIA, N. C., June 12.—(AP)—Waiving preliminary hearings the 71 men and women arrested in connection with the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, Gastoni a chief of police, were held today for Gaston county superior court by Judge A. C. Jones city recorder.

At the same time Tom P. Johnson, of Charlotte, their attorney, said he preferred that bond not be fixed and announced he would bring habeas corpus proceedings in Mecklenburg superior court for the release of alla

The prisoners are all strikers from the Loray mill or outside leaders who came to Gastonia to aid in the strike. Aderholt was fatally wounded last Friday in a clash with strikers when he, with three patrolmen, went to the headquarters of the National Textile Workers' union to investigate reports of fighting and rioting there. He died the next day. The three patrolmen were wounded. Two of them are in hospitals, but are said to be recovering.

Thirteen of those arrested, including one woman, are charged with murder. The rest are charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Following waiving of preliminary hearings today, Solicitor John G. Carpenter announced he would ask Governor Gardner for a special term of court July 22 to try those charged with murder.

PRINCE LOUIS CHANGES MIND ABOUT MARRYING

PARIS, June 12.—(AP)—Prince Louis of Bourbon, wandering cousin of King Alfonso of Spain, has changed his mind about marrying Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, who had agreed to provide him with a home and $1,000 a month for pocket money.

Prince Louis decided that he would like to have a better allowance, he wrote to a friend in Paris who received the letter today.

Mrs. Corey has not heard from him in nearly two weeks, since the time originally set for the wedding, but she said this afternoon that the engagement had not been broken though the wedding had been postponed until autumn.

She blamed the postponement on the weather, saying it was too hot in the summer at San Remo, Italy, where Prince Louis is now staying, for the infanta Eulalie, mother of the prince, to attend the ceremony. The infanta Eulalie is an aunt of King Alfonso and looks far younger than her 64 years.

The infanta Eulalie told the Associated Press that the wedding had been "indefinitely postponed" and indicated her doubts that it would ever take place.

PLEA FOR SECOND DEGREE MURDER FOR CAMPBELL

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 12.—(AP)—A plea for a verdict of second degree murder concluded the third day of the trial of Henry Colin Campbell for the slaying of Mrs. Mildred Mowry.

"No appeal is made that the prisoner go from this court a free man," said Francis A. Gordon, counsel for the man who it is alleged shot his bigamously married wife as she rode in his car beside him; then dragged her body to the roadside, soaked it with gasoline and set it afire.

Gordon asserted that the state had not proved premeditated murder, and that the testimony of numerous alienists showed Campbell was in such a mental state as the result of continued misfortune and use of narcotics, that he was unable to judge the consequences of his act.

Prosecutor Abe J. David will sum up the case for the state tomorrow, at which time he said he would ask for a first degree murder verdict.

Justice Clarence Case said he would make his charge to the jury as soon as Prosecutor David completed his summation tomorrow.

FAVOR CONFERENCE OF HOOVER AND MACDONALD

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—Having made it plain that a personal conference between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald of Great Britain would be heartily welcomed, administration leaders are quietly awaiting the arrival of Ambassador Dawes at London for the next move toward bringing the meeting about.

Instructions and information concerning the proposed visit are understood to have been transmitted to Mr. Dawes on board ship, since he left the United States before reports of MacDonald's desire to discuss Anglo-American relations with the president became known.

PRISONERS MUST LEGALLY DESTROY 800 PINTS OF GIN

CHICAGO, June 12—(AP)—Sentenced to 30 days at labor in jail for drunkenness, Joseph Charles, 40, and William Brown, 40, today were given the task of legally destroying 800 pints of confiscated gin. The two men spent most of the afternoon carefully emptying each pint in the jail as police officers looked on to see that all the liquor went down the sink.

PLANES TO TAKE OFF FOR EUROPE TODAY

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 12—(AP)—Definite announcement that they would take off for Europe at about 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, was made late tonight by the members of the crews of the monoplanes, Yellow Bird, bound to Paris, and the Green Flash, whose destination is Rome. This decision was reached after receiving favorable weather advices.

TEN PASSENGER PLANE FORCED DOWN ON BEACH

HAVANA, June 12.—(AP)—The ten-passenger amphibian plane Washington, en route from New York to Buenos Aires, made a forced landing on Chibo beach, near Morro Castle at the entrance of Havana harbor, late this afternoon. There was a pouring rain when the landing was effected.

The six passengers on the Washington were not harmed by the forced landing and neither was the machine damaged. The plane was taxied into Havana harbor where the passengers and their baggage were cleared by the Cuban customs and immigration officers.

Low visibility, due to heavy rains, caused the landing short of Columbia field where officials of the New York, Rio Janiero and Buenos Aires Air Line awaited the arrival of the plane for several hours.

Resumption of the flight southward will depend upon weather conditions in the opinion of M. M. Cloukey, the pilot.

TO CONDUCT ANOTHER TRIP TO GOBI DESERT

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—Permission for Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews to conduct another expedition into the Gobi desert region of China and for the shipment to the United States of the collection of fossils and other objects collected in his 1928 expedition will be given by the Chinese government.

Dr. C. C. Wu, Chinese minister at Washington, made public today the decision of the Chinese government after the question had been discussed with him by Secretary Stimson at the request of President Osborne of the American Museum of Natural history in New York city, under whose auspices the Andrews expeditions have been conducted.

At the same time, in order to promote scientific knowledge, the Chinese government has given orders that some 35 cases of fossils, collected during the 1928 expedition and which have been held up in China, be allowed to be shipped to New York.

PRISON SENTENCE FOR VIOLATION OF MANN ACT

AUSTIN, Texas, June 12—(AP)—Warned in a letter from the pretty 16-year old Texas university co-ed with whom he fled from Austin six months ago to plead guilty or have her as a witness against him, Jack Freith, swimming teacher, today threw himself upon the mercy of the court and was sentenced to two and one half years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, for violating the Mann act.

Freith and Miss Fannie Lee Minter recently were found at New Bedford, Mass., following a search which began in January after they had left Austin in Miss Minter's automobile.

In an interview at New Bedford, Freith stated he had deserted his bride and fled with the girl after Miss Minter threatened to kill herself.

Freith pleaded not guilty yesterday but altered his plea today upon receipt of the letter from Miss Minter.

NOT BETROTHED TO THE PRINCE OF WALES

LONDON, June 12.—(AP)—Rumors that the Princess Ingrid, daughter of the Swedish Crown Prince, was engaged or about to be betrothed to the Prince of Wales were strongly denied tonight by an unnamed "high court official" to whom the Daily Mail ascribed the statement that there was not a word of truth in any of these suggestions linking the princess with members of the British royal family. This official was quoted as saying that the appearance of these rumors in foreign newspapers was without the slightest foundation and was causing considerable annoyance.

Smugglers Caught By Tip-Off System

Seizure Made of Undeclared Articles From a Society Woman and an Opera Star.

NEW YORK, June 12—(AP)—The customs department's tip-off system resulted today in seizure of undeclared articles from a society woman and an opera star, bringing the total of ocean travelers caught in the customs net in the past four days to nine.

Informed that Mrs. Charles Carey Rumsey, the daughter of the late Mrs. E. H. Harriman, was bringing in undeclared jewels, agents who met the liner France searched her baggage and subjected her to a long interrogation.

They held her eleven pieces of baggage for further examination and seized a pin, a pendant, a wrist watch and a bracelet, all jeweled, despite Mrs. Rumsey's assertion that she had the bracelet and watch for 10 years and that the pin and the pendant were merely new settings for gems given her by her mother.

A jeweled purse Mrs. Rumsey said she gave to Lucretia Dori of the Metropolitan Opera company, who had been traveling with her, was taken from the soprano.

Duty and fines aggregating $27,036.58 were paid today by attorneys for four Chicago women who brought in 32 trunks of European apparel on the Leviathan four days ago. The women are Mrs. Anne H. Loeb and Mrs. Rose Loeb, Virginia Bohnen, and Anna M. Katholing, all of whom had made the trip abroad together.

Two days after the seizure of goods from the four Chicago women and two days before today's seizure, Rudolph Lederer, Chicago broker, his wife and 20 year old daughter Ruth failed to declare merchandise concealed in the lining of coats they wore and others packed in their trunks. The goods were seized subject to payment of duty and fine of $5,286 which was paid the next day.

All the seizures were made as the result of tips from abroad to the customs service that the travellers had bought valuable articles which it was believed they were planning to take into the country without duty payment.

PROHIBITION OFFICERS RIGHTFULLY CONVICTED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 12—(AP)—Two officers who killed in a prohibition raid were held to have been rightfully convicted when they appeared before Judge Charles I. Dawson in federal court here today and asked for a retrial of their case, in the first trial of which each was convicted and sentenced to two years imprisonment.

The officers, Roy Miller, prohibition agent and Clarence Gossett, deputy sheriff, both of Hopkinsville, Ky., were said to be the first ever convicted of killing a citizen when a case of that nature was transferred from a state to United States court.

District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks, appearing as counsel for the defendants, who shot Frank Sears in a raid on his Christian county still in 1925, He asked a new trial on grounds that jurors in the first hearing, in Paducah, Ky., in April of this year have been allowed to read newspaper accounts of the trial while they were still in doubt as to a verdict. He also said that there was new evidence discovered to the effect that Sears was ambidextrous. One of the points made by the prosecution, which was conducted by Commonwealth's Attorney John L. Grayot, was that the victim was left-handed. The officers had said they shot because Sears had a pistol in his right hand.

Judge Dawson said that his attitude in such cases is to give the officers every possible protection the law affords, but that in the case in point he could not see how a jury could fail to convict.

Mr. Sparks announced he would take an appeal, and the officers were allowed to remain at liberty on bond pending the outcome.

Dr. Avery A. Shaw, president of Dennison university at Granville, Ohio, has been chosen to succeed Bishop McConnell as the guest speaker.

Virtually all of those opposing the appearance of Bishop McConnell are ministers of Colorado, many of whom were serving pastorates in the state when Bishop McConnell was a minister here.

Basing their protest against Bishop McConnell and his "modernistic" beliefs on his book, "The Christlike God" published two years ago, the Protestants declare:

"We cannot help feeling that the recognition by the Northern Baptist convention of one who is widely known as holding these views (expressed on page 15 of the Christlike God) would seem plainly to give approval to this position and erroneously represent what we find to be the unmistakable and unequivocal declarations of God's word as properly held by the great Baptist denomination."

Hold-Up By Boys On Road Near Putnam

Tied Man to Tree and Escaped in His Auto—The Three Youths Were Captured at Danbury.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 12—Frank Rockhas, 13, Jerry Nelson, 17, and Wendell Hardy, 18, who escaped from Manchester Industrial school at Manchester, N. H., Monday afternoon, and who held up and robbed Donald Cockburn of Melrose, Mass., in Putnam this afternoon, were apprehended in Danbury, early tonight. The three young men, in possession of Cockburn's Ford coach, were taken into custody by State Policeman Harry Tucker of the Ridgefield state police barracks, after a chase when the car overturned on a sharp curve. A warrant for their arrest was issued by Putnam court officials tonight, and they will be returned to Putnam, where they will be arraigned in city court Thursday morning.

Sergeant George L. Gardner and State Officers Theodore Strand, and Donald J. Geddes left this evening to bring them to Danielson where they are to be locked up in the police station.

Officer Tucker was stationed to watch the main road for the youths riding in Cockburn's car. Shortly after seven o'clock the officer sighted a machine with three youths in it and pursued the trio on his motorcycle. As he drove up abreast of the car, Nelson steered his machine into the path of Tucker, throwing him off his seat.

Suffering from bruises, and his uniform torn from his unexpected jolt, the officer continued after the car which speeded through traffic. As Nelson approached an intersecting corner he was unable to slow up to avoid turning the machine over.

DETAILS OF HOLD-UP AS GIVEN BY THE VICTIM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, June 12—(AP)—One of the most daring holdups ever committed in this vicinity occurred shortly after noon today on the north end of Walnut street, a few hundred yards from the Providence pike road, when three boys, escaped inmates of the state industrial school at Manchester, N. H., at the point of guns robbed Donald Cockburn of Melrose, Mass., of about $5 in cash, tied him to a nearby tree and escaped with his car, a Ford coach.

Cockburn was insecurely tied and after a short time struggled and freed himself from the tree and made his way into Putnam, where he reported the incident to Putnam police. Cockburn told the police that he was driving from Providence to Putnam, and when about a mile out of Chepatchet and a few hundred yards from the Connecticut state line he fell in line behind a large truck. He saw a well dressed lad of about 17 years hail the truck for a lift, but the truckman ignored the summons and increased his speed. The youth again raised his hand, begging Cockburn for a ride. Cockburn said he examined the boy and as his appearance gave no evidence of his character he stopped and took him as a passenger. A conversation developed between the two, the subject of which was the danger in aiding hitch hikers. The lad gave his name as Jerry Nelson of Nashua, N. H., and he admitted in some instances that many drivers had met misfortune in this kind of practice. He then turned calmly to Cockburn and said "But I'm sorry, old man. I have a gun on you now. Turn your car about and ask no questions."

Cockburn was overcome with surprise and fear, and a pistol rammed against his ribs caused him to obey at once.

Near the Connecticut-Rhode Island border they encountered two other youths, who were about the same age as Nelson. The two walking confederates were taken into the car and Cockburn was again ordered to drive back into Connecticut. South of the Children's home Nelson ordered Cockburn to take the country road onto Walnut street. Here he was told to stop and at the point of guns was made to get out of the car. The boys took him to a large tree, where they made him straddle the oak, tied his hands with two neckties and a belt. It was then Nelson told Cockburn that he had "killed a guard" in getting away from Manchester and that if Cockburn made any noise "they would bump him off." The trio left the scene in Cockburn's auto, but which direction they took on the state road was not known.

Cockburn remained tied to the tree for about ten minutes before he was able to free himself. When he reached Putnam Sergeant George Laird communicated with the state police at Danielson and within a few minutes a systematic man hunt for the boys was instituted. All roads in this vicinity were patrolled by state officers and police alarms were despatched throughout New England advising police in nearby cities and towns to be on the lookout for the three holdup boys.

Sergeant Laird of the Putnam police sent out the following information concerning the holdup trio tonight. The youths are Frank Rokas, 13 year old Nashua boy, who less than a year ago shot down a companion of the same age because he feared he would give evidence of a robbery in which he figured to the police; Wendell Hardy, 17, of Manchester, N. H., and Jerry Nelson, 17, of Dorchester, Mass., who was committed to the Manchester, N. H., institution when convicted of several automobile thefts. The three escaped from the Industrial school Monday when they overpowered a guard and took keys from him, making their way out.

WATER FAMINE ON HONG KONG'S ISLAND

HONK KONG, China, June 12—(AP)—Unusual, and in some cases distressing scenes, are being enacted daily throughout Hong Kong's island because of a water famine which resulted from a drought of ten months broken by only occasional showers. The settlement is dependent upon rainfall and since last September this has totalled only 13.39 inches, a fraction of the average.

Reservoirs which normally hold over a billion gallons of water, are virtually depleted. The same conditions exist on the mainland. Under severe restrictions which have been put into effect, the quantity at present available is equal to less than one month's supply.

Trinity college will hold its commencement Sunday and Monday.

HOUSE WILL VOTE TODAY ON DEBENTURE PROVISION

Republican Leaders Predict the Debenture Plan Will Be Defeated by a Comfortable Margin—Drive is Being Made by Both the Administration and the Debenture Groups to Bring in Members Who Have Left Washington—Belief Prevails That Should the House Favor Debentures the Bill Would Be Vetoed by President Hoover.

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—The efforts to send President Hoover a farm relief bill without the export debenture plan shifted to the house today where administration leaders have decided to permit a direct vote on the provision tomorrow.

Telegrams were sent by the dozens to members of both the administration and the debenture groups to bring in members who had left Washington. The republican leaders predicted the debenture plan would be defeated by a comfortable majority.

Leaders of the republican independent and democratic coalition in the senate, which twice defied the president's opposition to debentures, have announced that if the house votes their debenture proposal down, they will not insist upon its inclusion in the farm bill.

While the house leaders marshalled their forces, new threats of reprisal for Mr. Hoover's opposition to the debenture plan were heard in the senate. Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, proposed to let the farm bill pass without the debenture clause and then insert the provision in the tariff bill. He said if debentures were rejected by the house "the time had come to organize a fight to the finish."

Addressing himself to "the progressive members" of the senate in both republican and democratic party, the Iowa senator, who was one of the president's chief campaigners, said that in order to make inclusion of the debenture plan in the tariff bill possible, "we should at once organize to put up a progressive candidate in every congressional district and for senator in every state who will fight for this program."

"And if the bill should be vetoed," he added, "we should follow this with a progressive candidate for president."

Heeding the advice given at the white house conference with President Hoover last night by Senator McNary of Oregon, house leaders decided to allow the house to vote on the debenture plan.

The formal announcement that the senate had further insisted upon this provision was greeted in the house this afternoon by cheers from democratic leaders. Chairman Haugen, of the agriculture committee, will call the matter up for consideration tomorrow and request consent for the appointment of a second group of house conferees.

At that time, Representative Tilson, Connecticut, the majority leader, is expected to ask that the house instruct its conferees to insist upon the elimination of the debenture plan. A roll call vote will decide the issue and meet the demands of the senate.

Whatever the outcome of the house vote, the remainder of the work necessary to send the bill to President Hoover probably would be perfunctory. A speedy report from the conference committee of members of both branches would be expected, and it doubtless would be approved promptly by both branches.

Rejection of debentures by the house would assure the signing of the bill by President Hoover. If the unexpected should happen and the house should favor debentures, however, the attitude of the president has lead to the general belief that he would veto the measure.

WRANGLE IN SENATE OVER TARIFF REVISION

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—A statement by Senator Watson, the republican leader, that general revision of the tariff was contemplated, touched off the first extended discussion of the subject in the senate today and prompted a declaration by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, that congress should adjourn at once.

The debate, which followed the initial session of the finance committee in opening one month of public hearings on the house tariff bill, was participated in by half a dozen senators, including both the republican and democratic leaders.

Borah's statement came after Senator Watson had expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to limit the revision to duties on farm products, which the Idahoan favors.

"It is perfectly apparent that there is to be a general tariff revision and there is no prospect of concluding that before the regular session in December," declared Borah.

"That is true," said Senator Watson.

"Then I am ready to vote to adjourn this congress at once," declared Borah.

The republican leader said he did not regard President Hoover's program as restricted to rate changes in favor of agriculture and that he personally favored "as general a revision as was manifested in the house bill."

He told Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, however, that pending conference he was not prepared to say how far other republican senators would go in that respect.

He also told Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, that he had not been informed of President Hoover's views on the house tariff bill.

Senator Frazier, republican, North Dakota, saw in the republican leader's remarks a "disagreement" with the views of the president on the extent of revision and said he was inclined to place Senator Watson in the "pseudo-republican" class.

REPUBLICAN REBELLION IN SENATE CONTINUES

WASHINGTON, June 12—(AP)—President Hoover's extra session program marked time today as the republican rebellion in the senate spread from farm relief to the tariff and the house and senate became deadlocked on recess plans.

The farm relief, tariff, census-reapportionment and immigration measures recommended by the president went by the boards as the republicans quarreled in the senate and the house party leaders sought frantically to round up their forces for a decision on the agricultural controversy tomorrow.

Senators Borah of Idaho and Brookhart of Iowa, two of the champion campaigners for Herbert Hoover last fall, led the fresh outbreak in the senate on the administration program.

Borah called for an immediate adjournment of congress after being informed by Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader, that the party would not confine the tariff revision strictly to the farm schedules and would favor perhaps a general revision as is proposed in the house bill.

Senator Brookhart revived the assault on the Hoover farm relief program today and went so far as to advocate the organization of a progressive party and the selection of a "progressive candidate for president," unless the export debenture provision opposed by Mr. Hoover becomes a part of either the farm relief or tariff measures.

ILL-LUCK FOLLOWING THE SWEDISH AVIATORS

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 12—(AP)—Ill luck continued today to dog the attempt of Captain Albin Ahrenberg to pilot the seaplane Sverige to America by way of the Arctic route. Following on several vain attempts to get away from Reykjavik yesterday, all frustrated by small mechanical defects, the aviators made a fresh flight early this morning, but it too turned out to be only a trial.

The main trouble today was with a defective radiator. Mechanics had repaired it after yesterday's failures but the repairs failed to hold. This time the radiator was removed from the plane and brought ashore.

Mechanics said they could complete repairs to the radiator in a few hours. But meanwhile the reports showed that the weather around Ivigtut, Greenland, the next scheduled stop, was becoming unfavorable. This factor made it unlikely that any further attempt to cover the more than 800 miles over ice and water on the next leg would be made until the weather clears.

RELIGIOUS CONFERENCE HELD IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, June 12.—(AP)—The first conference between President Portes Gil and representatives of the Mexican hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church looking toward a settlement of the government-church religious controversy, was held today. After an hour and a half the apostolic delegate, Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan, and Bishop Pasqual Diaz of Tobasco, emerged from Chapultepec castle with their faces wreathed in smiles.

None of the parties to the conference would discuss it but Archbishop Ruiz did go so far as to admit that there had been "an exchange of ideas." When photographers aimed their cameras at him he said:

"Don't photograph my heart, because then you would have a statement which for the time being I cannot divulge."

When this quotation became public the monsignor was asked by a close acquaintance whether he really said it and answered, "I certainly did."

FEDERAL AGENT SAYS REAL BEER CAN BE OBTAINED

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 12—(AP)—John S. Lewis, federal prohibition administrator for New England, speaking to the 43rd annual convention of the Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical association here today, said that "real beer can be obtained today just the same as before prohibition."

Discussing the proposal to transfer prohibition administration, he declared, "the proposition to transfer federal prohibition administration to the department of justice was put forth by one of the wettest men in the United States. The denartment of justice has plenty to do to function and run its own business."

The association elected the following officers: Anthony Altieri, Springfield, president; T. Willard Burke, Lynn, vice president; Carl G. A. Harring, Boston, secretary; L. W. Griffith, Boston, treasurer.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin

"Yes, dear, mother knows it's good . . . and full of good health for little boys, too!"

With meals . . . Between meals there's health for you in this rich spirited drink

THE ideal "company" drink! And far more than that. Clicquot Club Golden is an important tonic food.

Doctors recommend it . . . hospitals use it . . . mothers give it freely to children. Drink it because it's delicious, spirited, but know too that Clicquot Club Golden fights acidity, gives instant energy, aids digestion.

Clicquot Club Golden contains only the finest and purest ingredients. Genuine Jamaica ginger, specially processed table sugar, mellow syrups of pure fruit juices. A perfect formula gives right proportions . . . right blending . . . double carbonation. And then comes patient ageing.

Ageing is of first importance. Clicquot Club is aged six months. First the flavor elements are aged to get complete blending. Then when the finished ginger ale is in the bottle, it is aged again! That's why Clicquot Club has a riper, more tasty flavor.

AGED SIX MONTHS

Just a word of caution

You don't get the rich, subtle flavor . . . the wonderful health value of Clicquot Club . . . in ordinary ginger ale. When it's a matter of the health of your children, your family, yourself, you can't be too careful. For a ginger ale of greatest health value and famous flavor, always tell your dealer that you want only Clicquot Club Golden.

VARIED DIET IS MOST IMPORTANT

Eat Different, Balanced Foods, Sweetened to Your Taste

The reason why many people do not eat enough, or do not eat the right kind of food, is that they have allowed their daily diets to become too monotonous. Scientific authorities on diet state that too many people in this country are sacrificing both health and enjoyment by trying to eat unappetizing food.

The intelligent use of sugar as a flavoring or seasoning agent can largely solve this problem. It has been scientifically established that sugar is an energy food in the diet, and in addition to this, it makes other healthful foods more inviting to the appetite. It is the ideal flavoring for fruits, vegetables, cereals and beverages.

The sensible way to health is to eat varied foods which contain the different elements necessary to well-being. It is almost impossible to eat these foods unless they are appealing to our appetites. Almost all of them are made more delicious by the addition of nature's great flavor—sugar. Remember the many ways in which sugar combines with health-giving foods—with raw or cooked fruit, in vegetables, desserts, cakes, milk-shakes and cereals. For weariness—eat sugar. FLIGHT OF THE SVERIGE.

Those who have tried to fly west across the Atlantic have invariably experienced much trouble. It was accomplished by part of the American round-the-world fliers over much the same route as that being attempted by the Swedish fliers, but there has been a sad ending for many of those who have undertaken it in a non-stop flight.

Confidence was maintained by the Swedish aviators that they had selected a route and obtain the equipment that would land them in this country. What has happened to them does not stand in the way of such an accomplishment even now. It is certainly to be hoped that they succeed, but they are encountering those uncertainties which may happen to any flier and experiencing conditions which seem to be characteristic of that route.

Getting across the Atlantic in either direction means a long hop. The non-stop route permits of no stops. There are no landing fields in the Atlantic, so it has been figured that even though the distance is increased by going by way of Iceland, Greenland and Labrador that the opportunity to land in case of trouble or the need of fuel makes it a desirable route if conditions encountered are not prohibitive.

Not many flights have been undertaken over such a course. Even the chance to land has not made its appeal to the fliers who have been looking for the distinction of a flight across the ocean. It is about 700 miles longer than the straight across route from Newfoundland to Ireland. That it would be the popular course if the weather conditions were good and the additional cold did not have to be considered seems probable. And yet it remains for some one to determine just what the conditions are before abandoning the possibilities of routing many cross-the-ocean planes that way.

Much was expected from the Swedish fliers in this particular. Thus far it cannot be said that the weather or the points at which landings have been made had anything to do with the holding up of the fliers. Plane trouble has been the great difficulty with which they have wrestled and it is to be hoped that they have had enough already to permit the completion of the trip without additional delays.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS.

It has been the practice in the police department of the city of Boston, under civil service auspices, to select men for promotion through strength tests. Promotions depended upon the manner in which these tests were met.

Some weeks ago a candidate for sergeant failed to meet the test. He was given another trial. He did better on his second trial than on the first but as the result of his exertions he strained himself and died suddenly.

Under the circumstances it was not strange that there should be an outcry against such a system. It was evident that a man of 50, the age of the person in question can hardly be expected to pose as a strong man. Whatever may have been the rating of the police in that respect the man of 50 can be expected to have passed the peak. But whether he had or not it doesn't appear that the person who can undergo the severest test in a gymnasium doing unusual stunts is the one who should be picked for advancement in the police department and for no other reason.

Boston has become aroused over this situation to the extent that an inquiry was conducted by a committee of doctors. They were men of acknowledged ability, men who knew their business and in whom the people have confidence. They came forth with the report that disapproved of the competitive test. They did not qualify their opposition and the expectation is that the strength test will be given up by the civil service commission in all departments.

To replace strength test the doctors have recommended a thorough physical examination for all candidates. Just why this has not been resorted to in the past is difficult to understand inasmuch as it furnishes the real information that is desired as to physical fitness. Such examinations might be adopted with profit by many others than those seeking promotion.

WHEN DEMOCRATS DINED.

It isn't anything exactly new, for the announcement was made some time ago that Jouett Shouse had been appointed as the acting chairman of the democratic party, but there was felt that there was need of setting the sections in the party together if such a thing were possible, so the idea was conceived of a get-together meeting of the leaders at Washington under the auspices of the Jefferson Democratic association.

The expectations were that it would bring together those who were favorable to Chairman Raskob, who by the way is going to stick to his job, and those who have manifested opposition to him and the party's candidate in the last campaign. Being held at Washington it made it possible for many of the senators and representatives who had shied at the party management to join in the session, greet the acting chairman, hear the chairman and work off that spirit of opposition.

The plans were well laid but they didn't accomplish all that was expected. It was a democratic gathering sure enough, but it failed to corral those from the south who were wanted. It didn't develop into the love feast that was anticipated. It served to keep up the spirits of the party workers in many sections but it disclosed no reconciliation on the part of the southerners. They were especially conspicuous by their absence. They were not there to hear, to congratulate or to bury the hatchet. They indicated, in fact, that inasmuch as they were not interested enough to attend they were still harboring the opposition that was manifested last year.

Chairman Raskob wasn't asked to resign, however much that would have pleased in certain circles. He indicated that he was going to remain as chairman and the decision cannot fail to arouse a certain amount of applause for, inasmuch as he was the chairman who put the party into debt to the tune of $1,500,000, it is his duty to see that it wipes out its obligations. Even the southerners will agree that such a task rests on his shoulders, though they are not going to put their shoulders to the wheel and help it along. The dinner has been held but the break over Raskob and his candidate hasn't been healed.

CONNECTICUT TIMBER.

There are farm problems that will have to be met other than by legislation. There are the farms where the owners find difficulty in making a living, where there is little capital and where the owners might do much better at something else. It may be the fault of the farmer; it may be the fault of the farm.

In such instances one writer points out that it would be well if such farms were given up and the land used for the production of timber.

Here is a suggestion which need not be confined to the farm which ought to be abandoned. There are plenty of instances where land which is not now being used for any purpose can be turned to just such use. Such land helps to keep the farm with which it is connected from being the profitable venture that it might be, but it is no new secret that there is an opportunity for planting trees on it and with very little attention permit it to become a steadily increasing asset.

Growing timber is getting some attention, but not as much as it should. Here in Connecticut there are thousands and thousands of acres that could be made profitable by utilizing them in such a way. It takes a little initiative, a willingness to branch out into new endeavors but by just such means it is many times possible to turn a corner which otherwise is prevented.

Why not put more acres to work growing trees in this state? We are now importing great quantities of lumber every year which market could in part be supplied by state production. We have the acres, we need the business, there is a demand for the lumber. Even though it is a manufacturing state there is no good reason why unused and waste land should be permitted to remain so forever.

WORKING THROUGH COLLEGE.

We do not know how much effect it will have but it is the advice of Robert M. Hutchins, formerly professor of Yale, and now president of Chicago university not to work one's way through college. He speaks from the position of one who has done it and, if we are permitted to judge, made good.

In view of the many who cannot go to college any other way it seems highly probable that the higher institutions of learning will continue to receive those who plan to work their way through. Self help departments make it apparent that in many of the institutions this policy is approved and encouraged.

It can be appreciated that it is a far more creditable position that is taken by the youth who works himself through college, applies himself to the task with a determination to win and does win, than is presented by the rich young man who doesn't know what work is whether it applies to manual labor or study. Between the two it seems far preferable that the enrollment at college should be made up of those who are working their way through, or partly so at least, than that it should be made up of rich men's sons who are there because it is popular and there isn't anything else to do for the time being. It is far preferable to work one's way through to being pushed through and the records in college and later on of those who follow the respective courses invariably reflect to the credit of the workers.

There are those who point out that those who work do not have the proper amount of time to give to their studies, but on the other hand there are those who do not work who fail to make any better or as good use of that very same time. Having the time doesn't necessarily mean that it is going to be put to the best use.

Mussolini has taken on new cabinet duties, but he doesn't seem to be able to control Vesuvius.

Frequently we hear talk about old school buildings. Boston lays claim to such buildings erected before the Mexican war and there is no one denying those attending are getting a good education.

A SENSIBLE GIRL.

Billy Merton always proclaimed himself loudly as being first, last and all the time for the sensible girl. That was the way he described Marian Pelham after he saw her for the first time come out of the door of the office opposite his and go swinging down the corridor. He based his opinion on the fact that she wore broad, low-heeled shoes and didn't walk like a mincing doll as most girls did.

It really was the easy grace of her walk that attracted his attention in the first place, and he had no idea how much the golden glint in her bright hair, the soft light in her dark eyes and the peachiness of her creamy skin had to do with the fact that he was almost instantly more or less of the opinion that she was the girl for him.

As he watched her he was quite honest with himself in thinking that the only reason he looked at her a second time was that, as he said later, she walked like a human being. With smug satisfaction in his own judgment he said to himself that a girl who wore such sensible shoes and who walked in that way would, of course, have just that type of face.

Bill spent many of his waking hours after that in thinking about Marian. He developed a positively uncanny faculty for timing his goings and comings so that they might coincide with hers. One might have suspected him of lurking behind his own door with his eye glued to the keyhole, so often did he dart out and stroll down the corridor in her wake. If Marian had any suspicion of the intense interest he took in her movements, she gave no evidence of it. She came and went with great serenity, looking, as far as Bill could see, neither to the right nor to the left.

Even in these carefree and easy times it is not always so simple a matter for a young man to make the acquaintance of an unknown, well-bred young woman who makes no sign that she is aware of his existence. From time to time Merton manufactured for himself errands into the office across the hall, but apparently Marian was concealed in some inner sanctum, for he never caught a glimpse of her.

For a long time the only satisfaction he got out of the situation lay in watching Marian's graceful glidings down the hall. It was months before Fate took a hand, but eventually she did come to the rescue.

Dashing back from lunch one day at his usual breakneck speed, he arrived at the most crowded corner in the world just in time to see a young woman whose back had a strangely familiar look lose her balance and plunge into the street. Bill was the first on the scene, outdistancing all comers. He retrieved the young woman, half carried her across the sidewalk and propped her against the side of the building before he realized that it was Marian whom he had had the good fortune to rescue.

Fortunately, she had received no personal injury, the only evidence of her mishap being a run in a very magnificent pair of stockings. Presently, with the aid of Bill's strong right arm, she was able to return to the office.

It was not until he had deposited her at her own door that he looked down and saw that she wore upon her shapely feet a pair of shoes with probably the highest heels in the world.

"For the love of Pete!" he ejaculated. "It's no wonder you came near killing yourself. How on earth do you happen to be wearing those abominable shoes?"

"Abominable shoes!" repeated Marian indignantly. "Why, those are the very loveliest shoes you could find anywhere in Chicago."

"But your nice, sensible low heels?" Bill wailed. It was a test of his judgment and meant a good deal to him.

"Nice, sensible low heels?" Marian reiterated. "Ghastly horrors! Do you suppose I ever would have worn them if I hadn't had to? I sprained my ankle six months ago and just had to wear those old things. The ankle's all right now and I'm not ever in my whole life going to put those old monstrosities on again."

It was some months later that Merton held a soft hand in his and slipped a very charming ring on the third finger of the left hand.

"Marian," he said solemnly as the ring settled into its proper place, "I'm crazy about you, and all that, but if a girl ever got a guy under false pretense, it was you."

Quite shamelessly Marian let her head droop on Bill's shoulder.

"I don't care a bit," she said, "just so I got you!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 13—The war department paid the penalty for secretiveness when press stories implied that the friction between Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the New York corps area, and his former chief of staff, Col. Berkeley Enochs, was an aftermath of the appointment of Col. Stephen O. Fuqua as chief of infantry.

Had the department disclosed originally that the Ely-Enochs row was just a personal clash over the way the officers' mess at Governor's Island was run, there would have been no ground for a reopening of the Fuqua fuss.

As a matter of fact, a legal officer of the war department, who had something to do with the Ely-Enochs case, told the Bystander that if officers of lesser rank had been involved the war department never would have approved the Enochs courtmartial recommendation.

The army as a whole is not fond of courtmartials of that character and probably would have told the officers involved to settle their differences privately.

The matter was described to the Bystander as merely a tempest in the military teapot, without significance to the general service.

Another Horse

The Fuqua case was a far different matter. It always causes friction when an officer is promoted over heads of many seniors unless there is very obvious reason for the step.

And in that particular case, where General Summerall as chief of staff reached far down the line of infantry colonels to bring his close friend and associate of many years, Colonel Fuqua, into the war department as infantry chief, there was considerable shrugging of shoulders among officer observers.

Probably it never would have amounted to any more than that—for most officers agree that the chief of staff, with his great responsibilities, is entitled to considerable latitude in making his selection of subordinates on whom he must rely for loyal execution of his policies—except for anti-Fuqua propaganda originating in Boston but also evident in New York army circles.

Somebody in Boston had very special reasons, apparently, for resenting Fuqua's selection and attempting, quite unsuccessfully as it proved, to bring about senate rejection of the nomination which carries with it the rank of major general.

Mysterious Case

The Bystander never has konwn just who was concerned in this effort.

He has heard, however, of telegrams reaching Washington correspondents of Boston papers, directing them over the names of their editors or publishers, to dig into the Fuqua selection. It later proved in one case, at least, that the person purporting to have signed such a message never had heard of it.

And discovery of that fact accounts to a large degree for the relative lack of interest taken by the press generally in the Fuqua case.

Newspapermen are by habit suspicious. They don't like "tips" springing from an uncertain self-interest on the part of the tipper in publication of the story.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Small Consumer Laughed At.

Mr. Editor: Upon reading your paper this morning I learn that the manager of our gas and electrical department is making another attempt to camouflage the gas and electric merchandising department. Last Friday evening I attended a meeting of the Taxpayers Protective association of which I am a member and when I stated that my electric bill was of small amount the general manager laughed at me. I find that there are many of us who are being laughed at and your editorial of a few days ago about a "joke" possibly makes a thing of this kind something to laugh at, and possibly if I was receiving $8,000 a year and a son receiving $6,000 or more with expenses and trips paid for I might laugh, but I do not believe I would laugh at a person in moderate circumstances.

In looking through the record of the court of common council I find that there are bills of less than one dollar and several hundreds of dollars which as I understand it are paid monthly, but according to the statement of the general manager of the gas and electrical department he and his son could not wait a few days upon return from a trip to Atlantic City, therefore their expenses were paid out of the petty cash. If I recall correctly two or three years ago there were a number of letters in your paper referring to questionable expenses as shown in the council record and since these letters have appeared apparently these expenses have been covered up in the petty cash account, so-called.

George Pitcher's letter in your publication of June 10th states some facts which no taxpayer can ignore.

I am in full sympathy with the Norwich merchants and I expect to see a large turnout in the town hall next Monday night when, as I understand it, the matter is to be decided.

A Highway Problem.

Mr. Editor: In all sections of the country we are confronted with a very serious problem and a problem that appeals to all the people either rich or poor, and that is the desecration of the much traveled highways that are rapidly losing their natural beauty, or the right and heritage of every one who loves and marvels at the works of nature. Along the highways you will find the remains of some old motor car, oftimes not one, but many, or, perhaps a heap of rubbish that is mute evidence of some house that has been torn down and the resultant old plaster with broken laths, old wall paper still filled with vermin has been dumped here, maybe under cover of darkness, and left here to offend the eye of the people who pass. Walls, fences, and even wayside cottages, many of them old and picturesque, have been destroyed so far as their beauty is concerned. Many of the little inland villages have lost their quaint and useful charm and in many cases some lovely old cottage has been marred by some uncalled for structure that announces to the world that here is the place to secure hot dogs. Today if we want restful scenes, different from what we are seeing or the main highway we will have to turn and go over some other road. This will perhaps lead us into some little village where the very air is different. We see some old fashioned mother as she moves slowly toward the village store and the houses and the yards with their old fashioned flowers, hollyhocks, zinnias, phlox, and the inevitable "pinys," while the fragrance of the lilacs fill the air. Surely this is to be preferred to the odor of the monoxide gas. The very air in these little rural villages breathes fraternity. I note in going through some of the country-side that the powers that be are making a move in the right direction by having a center of the roadway set aside for the planting of flowers and shrubbery. This is divine everything a very pleasing effect. I suppose this in time will be general.

One place where I noted this was after leaving Willimantic and moving toward Putnam, and it may be elsewhere. And perhaps in the course of time the roadsides will be made attractive with the growth of flowers, trees and shrubbery which will be of benefit to all and not to a favored few.

I have traveled through some of the cordurov roads of Virginia and North Carolina and have seen the wild jasmine flowers growing in reckless profusion, the odor of the cedar and the gum tree lent their perfume, but the roads were very rough and uneven. My dear friend "Quid Nunc" can vouch for this. Here in the north with our splendid roads it seems almost a sacrilege to have the sides of the roads cluttered up with the ubiquitous billboard. This is one of the problems that is up to the ones in authority to so regulate this to some less conspicuous place where it will answer the purpose and still not offend the eye, nor spoil the beauty spots of nature.

It is said that first impressions are always the strongest. Be that as it may, this one concrete fact is paramount that any one who travels over these different routes and sees them as they are is the best advertising medium for others to come and look and visit and see for themselves. Do not think for one moment that this condition is peculiar to any one section, for it is noticeable everywhere. If we have any creative talent we can overcome all this and in time see the face of nature return to its original rustic beauty. There is another angle to these rubbish heaps, and that is always present, the damage that arises from the dust that is blown and with it the germs of some possible disease.

There are othe things that the tourist notes as he moves along, and that is the spoliation that is done to our native flowering shrubs, the destruction of the dogwood, and the ruthless breaking of the limbs of the wild apple trees, and the raiding of other blossoms. All this is done to secure for a brief hour or so the wondrous blooms that nature has spread with a lavish hand along the highways. You may see some of those bushes with broken limbs or branches hanging down; mute witness to the destruction that is steadily going on, a story of the past and the uncertain future. No one seems to care except perhaps the lover of nature, and he but sees, and deplores, but cannot remedy.

National Origins

Mr. Editor: I have read with interest your editorial of May 3d on "The National Origins Fight" and found it an excellent summation of the situation. There is one point, however, about which I venture to correct you. You state "it is believed there will be insurmountable difficulty experienced in determining the national origins of the people of this country."

On the contrary, this has been successfully accomplished by the quota board, a group of experts from the department of state, commerce, and labor, and under the chairmanship of Dr. Joseph A. Hill, assistant to the director of the census. Their figures have been carefully checked and revised, and, after the 1928 figures were submitted, Wilbur J. Carr, assistant secretary of state, testified before the senate committee on immigration that "all of us are prepared to say that we have absolute confidence in him (Dr. Hill) and his colleagues, and are prepared to take their statement as to the accuracy of their conclusions and the sufficiency of the information upon which their conclusions have been reached."

Of course, the quota board has been unable to make their figures absolutely 100 per cent correct, but the framers of the act realized this, and the law is worded that national origins be determined "as nearly as may be" (sub-section C, Section 11 of the immigration act of 1924.)

I trust that you will see fit to print this and give your readers an entirely just interpretation of National Origins.

Sincerely yours,
DEMAREST FLOYD,
Chairman, National Immigration Legislative Committee.

YOUR HEALTH

Stimulate Don't Depress Child's ambitions.

By J. F. Rogers, M. D., Washington, D. C.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The first thing needed in the promotion of health of schoo children is the sincere wish to make health a real as well as a theoretical objective in education. We always have in every school the nucleus of health work for there is at least a teacher and in addition there may be a janitor. If these know their business we have gone far toward setting up very effective machinery for the purpose. Health work begins in the heating, ventilating, lighting, cleaning and seating of a school which must be managed either by the one of other of these two workers. Even if they work with no supervision, they have means of learning what to do from the many books and pamphlets to be had from federal, state or other sources.

After the adjustment of sanitary conditions of the school plant which is more or less wholesale the health work concerns itself chiefly with the individual child. It is only a half-and-half teacher who is not interested in the physical welfare of each pupil as his physical condition can hardly be considered apart from his mental and moral welfare. The teacher should know whether the pupil shows defects of speech, of gait, of vision, of hearing, etc. and she should bring his weakness tactfully to the attention of the parent who is likely to be altogether unaware that the child is not perfect.

This teacher becomes the source of knowledge for the child of the new practices that are essential to health, and later of information as to the things that make for a healthful home and community.

But health is only fully possible when we have some healthful pursuit, and the teacher who is a real health teacher will adjust the mind-body work of the child to stimulate and not depress his ambitions, while she will likewise encourage suitable body-mind activities of the playground which are so essential in the life of the child and without which his leisure is likely to be proportionately unhealthful.

Though the health work centers in the janitor and teacher such efforts go best with organization and direction by thoroughly prepared special workers. However we are not thoroughly in earnest about the health of the school child if we sit down and fold our hands because such special workers are not available.

Obnoxious Gas

Some people were putting on a play which called for the costumes of the gay 90s and earlier. One young girl slipped off her present day costume with its low neck, no sleeves and hem line well above the knees, replacing it with a costume of the bustle period. This outfit consisted of a long skirt, which trained in the back, long sleeves and a high collar, and, of course, the aforesaid bustle. When she was at last squeezed into the little waist and ready to go on for her part in the rehearsal, she said in all sincerity: "Oh, I feel so indecent."

ART ASSOCIATION ELECTS AND HEARS ANNUAL REPORTS

The annual meeting of the Norwich Art association was held Tuesday evening in the lecture room at Slater hall, with the president, Miss Alice W. Coggswell, presiding.

One new member was admitted, and the regular monthly business was followed by the annual reports of officers and committees.

These reports showed a record of much work done during the year towards the accomplishment of the purposes of the association in furthering the interests of art in the community and co-operating with the Norwich Art school and the Slater museum; with very gratifying financial returns. At present the organization numbers 214 members.

The summary of programs presented during the year showed a very fine selection, notwithstanding the fact that the plans begun last fall had to be changed because of the illness of the chairman, Miss Nancy C. Lucas. The work of the committee was most ably carried through under the direction of Mrs. Frank Hempstead.

With the report of the museum extension committee, which sends a docent to the public schools and takes sixth grade pupils through Slater museum each winter, three selections from the children's work were read. These were two plays, "Orpheus and Eurydice," by Gertrude Aronberg, "Niobe and Her Daughters," by Margaret Ross, and a poem, "Gods and Goddesses," by Dorothea Butts. They were some of the prize winning compositions sent in by the children after their instruction by Mrs. Lester, the docent, and Miss Elsie Church, the museum guide.

It was voted to have a finance commission appointed by the executive committee to assume the responsibility of raising extra funds when these should be needed to cover the budget, thus leaving the committees free to do their work without the added burden of financing all of it if the appropriation granted by the executive committee should be insufficient.

The nominating committee, Miss Edith Bliss, chairman, then presented the following ballot for officers, who were elected:

MEN OF EPISCOPAL ARCHDEACONRY ARE STIRRED BY BANQUET ADDRESS

Laymen of the New London archdeaconry of the Episcopal church held their annual banquet Wednesday evening at the Wauregan hotel with an attendance of 125 from the different churches and Bishop E. Campion Acheson as a guest while the address of the evening was by Dr. William C. Sturgis of New York, who spoke upon a lofty spiritual plane in a way that deeply stirred the hearts of his hearers.

The banquet began at 7 o'clock, the men being seated at tables which were beautifully decorated with pink candles and baskets of flowers which were provided by the women of the four local churches, Trinity, Christ, St. Andrews and Grace, Miss Mary E. Richards being chairman of this committee.

The blessing was asked by Bishop Acheson and the gathering sang a verse of Onward Christian Soldiers before the men took their seats. During the banquet hour Fred G. Prothero was song leader, an orchestra rendered selections and there were solos by Laurens Hamilton of Christ church, Rev. Theodore Martin of Hebron, one of the oldest rectors present, and E. F. Winslow of Danielson.

Joseph C. Worth was toastmaster, introducing Dr. Sturgis, who has been for a number of years educational secretary of the department of missions of the national council, but resigned about two years ago.

Dr. Sturgis spoke of the pleasure of addressing an audience of Connecticut men, for they were men who think, and he proposed to make his address upon the subject of what Christianity meant to him. In developing this thought he spoke of his consciousness of certain physical and mental needs, but there is a consciousness of spiritual needs and it is these needs and the consciousness of them that makes man different from an animal—that makes him a man.

I have great need of knowing something about God, continued the speaker. Where shall I go in my search to supply that need? Where but to the one race of people who have been searchers for God, whose great leaders have gathered together their experiences and discoveries in a series of books, the Bible. In the earliest books some of the characteristics of God which they display fail to satisfy me, but the idea of God grows in beauty and power in the later books and in satisfaction of my idea of God. Then suddenly the amazing figure springs into life, portrayed in the four short, incomplete biographies of Jesus of Nazereth. But here is a picture of God, if ever there was one, a figure of power, of wisdom and of amazing love. Of Him only of all the leaders of the religions of the world is the question asked, "Is he or is he not the son of God?" You don't ask that question of Buddha or Confucius. He supplies my every need and Christianity means to me the perfect revelation of God.

Dr. Sturgis then went on to speak of three other needs of which he was conscious and which are met by the Christian religion. The first was the need of life of which Jesus said "he that believeth in me hath eternal life." Christianity is the only form of religion that gives that assurance and the assurance that Jesus gives is fortified by the fact of His resurrection and His statement that "I have power to lay down my life and I have power to take it again."

There is also the need of rightness with God, the speaker said, which is met by the talk of Jesus with Nicodemus to whom he said, "Ye must be born again." Then comes the sacrament of baptism and confirmation, bringing a new nature after which man has no business to fall again into sin willingly. The fourth need is to get shoulder to shoulder with other people who have passed out of death into life. This is the organization of the church, the kingdom of God on earth, in which men new-born may come into fellowship. But to what church shall one belong out of all the different denominations? To his mind, Dr. Sturgis said, he found this need for fellowship answered in the great apostolic church of historic continuity, this great Anglican church, which he believed was more in accordance with the will of God today than any church which ever has been. There my needs of mind and will and soul are met.

As Dr. Sturgis concluded his address one of the laymen arose and said that in view of the deeply interesting address that had been delivered he would like to have the gathering sing one verse of The Church's One foundation, to which the men responded with enthusiasm.

Toastmaster Worth asked for a roll call to show the number present from each church to which there were the following responses:

St. James', New London, 11; St. Mark's, Mystic, 11; Christ, Pomfret, 3; St. Philip's, Putnam, 10; St. Alban's, Danielson, 7; St. Paul's, Willimantic, 6; Trinity, Norwich, 12; Christ, Norwich, 9; Grace, Yantic, 12; St. Andrew's, Norwich, 11; Seabury Memorial, Groton, 5; St James', Poquetanuck, 1; Hebron, 4.

Rev. John F. Plumb of Hartford, executive secretary of the diocese, spoke briefly along the lines of service and mentioned that 12 churches had reached 100 per cent. or better in reaching their quota in contributions.

He was followed by Bishop Acheson, who was given a rising greeting as he began his brief address. Bishop Acheson expressed his pleasure at meeting so many men from the parishes in the New London archdeaconry and commended to them the wonderful address from Dr. Sturgis to which they had listened. He urged upon the churches to give thought to their program for missionary extension work and spoke particularly of the work of the rural churches and of the opportunity the rectors of these churches had towards reaching and interesting the people in the lanes and byways of their communities.

The singing of the doxology and the benediction from Bishop Acheson brought the gathering to a close, but not before a rising vote of thanks had been passed to the ladies for the beautiful floral decorations.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the successful banquet consisted of Walter E. Gilbert, chairman, Charles B. Gilbert, E. Allen Bidwell, Fred G. Prothero, James Johnson and William J. Banfield.

EXONERATED OF CRIMINAL LIABILITY IN ACCIDENT

No criminal liability is found against Gaspard Dugas of Jewett City, according to a finding by Coroner Edward J. McKay, on account of an automobile accident in which a four-year-old girl, Frances Camarda, of this city was killed on Boswell avenue on the afternoon of April 6, 1929. The parents of the child had driven to Boswell avenue to visit St. Mary's cemetery and the child and her mother were crossing the street after getting out of the machine when the Dugas automobile hit the little girl. The child suffered a fractured skull and femur.

In his finding Coroner McKay says in part:

On the above mentioned date the said Gaspard Dugas drove his sedan from Jewett City toward Norwich. He was accompanied by his wife, brother-in-law and niece. His car was a new one and had been driven by him on one other occasion. He was a duly licensed operator and had held a license since 1919.

As Mr. Dugas approached the car of Mr. Carmada he noticed two girls cross the street in front of his car and the Carmada car. At this time he was about 100 or 150 feet north of the Carmada car. As he came opposite to the latter car, the deceased came from in front of the said car, and the right front part of the Dugas car struck her, knocked her down, and the car passed over her. The Dugas car came to a stop in about thirty feet. The deceased was taken out from beneath the car and was rushed to the hospital where she later died. When the Dugas car hit the deceased, the mother of the child was also struck and knocked down. Her injuries were not of a fatal nature.

The evidence submitted concerning the position of the mother and daughter was conflicting. Those passengers of the Dugas automobile testified that they did not see the mother and did not know that she had been struck. A motorist who was riding north on Boswell avenue, in such a place that the accident was directly in front of him, testified that the mother and daughter were walking together in the street in a diagonal direction, a short distance from the Carmada car.

Taking the evidence as a whole, I am satisfied that there was no criminal negligence on the part of the driver of the Dugas car. He was operating the car at a moderate rate of speed and had no notice of the whereabouts of the deceased prior to the accident which would put him on the alert. This fatality was exceedingly unfortunate in many respects but there is no just cause to hold the said Gaspard Dugas criminally liable.

Dainty refreshments were served at 5 o'clock. The arrangements were in charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. George W. Carter, Mrs. Julian Parker, Mrs. C. C. Williams, and Mrs. James M. Young.

CHIEF STANTON SPOKE ON WORK OF OLD VOLUNTEERS

"The Old Volunteer Fire Department" was the subject of a very interesting talk given by Howard L. Stanton, retiring chief of the Norwich Fire department, to the members of the Norwich Rotary club at the meeting on Wednesday noon. Chief Stanton, who has been connected with the local fire department for the past fifty years and chief since 1901, told of many incidents relative to the fire fighting as done by the volunteer department. A very interesting exhibit was shown by Mr. Stanton in the subscription list for the old Torrent engine built in 1769. The subscription list contains the names of many Norwich people who were prominent in Norwich history. The subscriptions were in pounds and shillings as the people of Norwich at that time were British subjects.

Mr. Stanton said in part:

This old pipe or nozzel is still the oldest American made in the country. There were five American made engines built prior to the building of the old Torrent. They were built in Boston, Philadelphia and New York. There is no doubt about this old machine antedating the revolution, as a crude figure of a crown and the letters M. S. on the tire of one of the wheels are still plainly tracable. The last time the old machine was used at a fire was at the blacksmith shop of Mr. Williams, on West Town street, about 1870. At that fire the machine was stationed near the blazing building, with a few men to work the wheezy old brake, while water was passed in buckets along a double row of citizens from a neighboring brook and poured in the diminutive tank

In those days every householder that was insured in the old Norwich Mutual was compelled to have two or more leather fire buckets ready to respond to every fire. In years past I have gathered together many of these buckets and have given several of them away as relics, among them two to Henry Ford. These two bore the name of Levi Huntington, first secretary of the Norwich Mutual Assurance Co.

Returning to the Torrent engine, the stream of water that it threw was not very effective. Old Torrent engine has traveled much since it went out of service. It was at the Concinnati exposition, the Centennial exposition, at Boston, Hartford, Kansas City and in many parades. This old engine was the only fire apparatus in the town until the early part of 1804, when a company was formed at the Landing, as the present center of the city was called.

The subscription list showing the amount subscribed in pounds and shillings for the building of Old Torrent engine is in the possession of the Misses Bliss, descendants of John Bliss, builder of it. This old engine was always horse drawn. It never had a reel or rope for dragging it and is known to be the first piece of fire apparatus in the United States to be drawn by a horse.

This was the only piece of apparatus in Norwich to 1804 when one of a similar type was put into the downtown district. The first fire station downtown was where the Trinity church now stands. Afterwards another station known as Engine 2 was built on Church street about where the Sunday school room of the Central Baptist church now stands. Later another one was built on Broadway, the present site of the Chapman building and one was located on North Thames street at the West Side in 1846. The latter was only in use for 13 years, being replaced by the present station at West Main street in 1859.

After some large fires in 1844 (two good ones), one of which swept from where the Manhattan building is now located to Shetucket street and the other from Rose alley to Ferry street, the department was reorganized with the purchase of three Waterman hand engines and the installation of 18 fire cisterns. For the payment of these two improvements a 4 cent tax was levied on the citizens. These cisterns are in good condition today and although some have been abandoned the majority are always ready for use.

The department ran along with hand drawn engines from 1846 to 1861, when the first steam fire engine was purchased. The latter was in continuous service to 1905.

During his talk the chief touched on some of the larger fires in the olden days, metnioning the fact that the first fire that he fought was in 1869 at Apollo hall where the Boston store now stands. At that time Fairview had just been completed and had hardly been accepted as a water supply. Indirectly the chief touched on other fires that had taken place in Norwich since he became chief of the department and related a number of interesting as well as humorous experiences in the department.

He also read a letter which John S. Darmrell, chief of the Boston fire department, sent to the then Chief Daniel L. Delanoy in 1872, thanking the Norwich men for their services at the famous Boston fire. Before Chief Delanoy passed away he gave the letter to Chief Stanton and the latter treasures it as an important relic.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Stanton paid high tribute to the present fire department and urged wholehearted support of the new fire chief, Henry R. Taft.

At the business session of the meeting President Edward V. Jewett presided and Dr. Hugh B. Campbell was the song leader. There was little business at the meeting. John A. Ferguson was in charge of the program and introduced Chief Stanton. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS TO SETTLE CARLEVALE CASE

An attempt to reach a settlement in the suit of Joseph W. Carlevale of this city against three insurance companies, from which he is trying to collect insurance for fire damage at 56 Boswell avenue, was unsuccessful and the trial went on through Wednesday in the superior court here before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury. Mr. Carlevale was doing business as the Norwich Barber Supply company, having bought the business from Joseph Basile on Jan. 14, 1928. The fire was April 20, 1928, and Carlevale is seeking to collect about $15,000 in insurance.

He was under cross examination Wednesday morning in the course of which he mentioned borrowing $3,500 from Frank Minnini, and Attorney Morgan, counsel for the insurance companies, asked him if it wasn't a fact that he was just attempting to camouflage for Joseph Basile in order that an alcohol permit could be secured. The attorney applied the question to two locations, 465 North Main street and 56 Boswell avenue. The reply of the witness was that Basile was not the owner at Boswell avenue.

Afternoon Session

After about an hour had been consumed at the opening of the afternoon session in a conference between the lawyers and Judge Brown, which, it was understood was with a view to reaching a settlement of the case, the trial was resumed with Mr. Carlevale on the stand. His attorneys, C. L. Stewart and H. H. Pettis, stated that they had concluded their re-direct examination, and Attorney Morgan took the witness in hand for further cross-examination. Carlevale proved a rather unwilling witness, at times saying that he couldn't answer the questions or pleading inability to remember circumstances. The examination of Carlevale by Attorney Morgan took about an hour, in the course of which he told the attorney that he is now employed in a restaurant at $30 a week and meals and that he works anywhere from 7 to 14 hours per day. He also testified that he had made about $900 in his spare time from the time he started in the barber supply business until the time of the fire, a period of three months and one week.

Attorney Morgan's concluding question was to ask Mr. Carlevale why he went into the barber supply business and invested $18,000 in it if he was able to make $300 per month in his spare time. When the witness hesitated and failed to answer, the attorney said he would withdraw the question in the interests of saving time.

Following this, Attorney Morgan asked permission of the court to put on the stand, out of regular order in the trial, Wm. S. Congdon of Willimantic, federal prohibition inspector in District No. 1, of Boston headquarters. His duties comprise inspection for alcohol permits.

Mr. Congdon testified that he inspected the Carlevale place at 56 Boswell avenue about the middle of January 1928. He made the inspection on a second visit to this city. Congdon testified that Carlevale told him he took the goods from Joseph Basile because he had loaned Basile upto about $2,000 and Basile had no money to pay him. Carlevale had no bills of sale to show, but told of purchasing more stock and a Dodge truck, the witness said. He testified that Carlevale's stock and fixtures did not value up to $5,000. It was not much in excess of $2,000.

Attorney Morgan asked Mr. Congdon what he knew about the strength of triple purple. Attorney Pettis objected to the line of questioning and Attorney Morgan said that it was relevant because Carlevale had testified to having a supply of triple purple in his stock which had been destroyed but the color of the water on the floor in the stock room after the fire was merely that of dirty water.

The attorney asked Mr. Congdon a hypothetical question as to what would be the effect on paper cartons or woodwork with which water had come into contact after being impregnated by 5 pounds of triple purple.

The question was put in different form after objection from Attorney Pettis and Congdon said such water would be sure to leave its mark.

On cross-examination Attorney Pettis inquired of Congdon about his service in the federal prohibition service. Before that Congdon had been in dye house employment. The attorney asked as to conditions which Congdon found at the Carlevale place on the inspection visit. He inquired about the triple purple and the witness said he did not know what effect fire would have on it and did not know whether it would burn.

Samuel Cohen of Matteapan, Mass. followed Mr. Congdon on the stand. He was doing business in 1928 under the name of the Bay State Barber Supply Co., at Roxbury, Mass., and gave testimony corroborative of Carlevale's testimony as to essential oils he had bought from the Bay State Barber Supply company and to payments made in cash.

Court adjourned at 5 o'clock to continue the trial the next day.

CATARRH

Vile Breath, Hawking, Spitting Go Quickly with Eucalyptus Vapor!

Positive relief is guaranteed sufferers from catarrh through a famous prescription, called "DEO," which employs the vapor inhalation method—the easiest, most pleasant and only effective means to reach those far hidden, deep seated, raw, infected spots that keep malignant catarrh hanging on.

"DEO" is the trade name of Dennis' Eucalyptus Ointment, which is composed entirely of antiseptic oils that work almost like magic in destroying germs, soothing and healing the inflamed membranes. By breathing the "DEO" vapors deeply into the lungs and air passages, the oil-vapor reaches and re-condenses on the innermost affected parts, kills the germs, and finishes the job completely! Try "DEO." The immediate relief will amaze you. Soon vile catarrh will be gone! Money back if you want—but get "DEO" TODAY, at any good druggist.

Y. M. C. A. JUNIORS COME FROM BEHIND TO BEAT BALTIC IN JUNIOR GAME

The Y. M. C. A. team of the Junior League upset all advance dope by defeating Baltic in a fast game last night at Hollyhock Island by a score of 6 to 4. In contrast to the two previous games played since the league opened last night's contest provided the fans a pleasant evening's entertainment, as both teams fought hard throughout the entire game, playing not as youngsters, but as seasoned veterans. More games like this will no doubt serve to stimulate interest among the various teams as well as the fans. The seven innings were played in 1 hr. 10 min.

The Y team started the scoring in the 1st inning, tallying one run, holding the lead until the last half of the second when Baltic evened the count, and assumed the lead in the two following innings, scoring one in the third and two in the fourth, making the score 4 to 1 in favor of Baltic. In their half of the fourth, however, the Y team seemed to hit their stride, scoring two runs on Lyons' home run into left field, and added two more in the fifth and one in the sixth, giving them the lead.

Baltic threatened in their half of the seventh putting two men on base with none out, but were soon let down with some fine pitching by Russillo, youthful hurler for the Y team, who fanned nine men during the seven innings. The score:

Tonight's Game

Tonight's game will feature the Elks and Duwells. Contrary to the Elks, the Duwells got off to a bad start losing to the Taftville Legionnaires in their first game. In defeating the Rotary in their first game the Elks team showed promise of being one of the outstanding teams in the league. Game will be called at 6:30.

PIRATES RALLY IN 9TH TO BEAT OUT GIANTS

PITTSBURGH, June 12 —(AP)— A thrilling rally for two runs after two were out in the ninth enabled the Pirates to defeat the Giants by 7 to 6 here today in the first game of their semi-crucial series. The Pirates drove Carl Hubbell, their no hit nemesis of a month ago, from the box with four early runs, but Burleigh Grimes himself exploded in the sixth when the Giants scored five times.

Grimes's winning streak of ten straight remained intact as Fred Fussell and Henry Meine halted the New York attack. Meine got credit for the victory, which was entered as a defeat against Jack Scott. Traynor drove in the tieing run with a single, and himself scored the winner when Ott fumbled Grantham's single.

Are you a member of New London's $2-club?

What, not a member? Well, then you don't drive your car in New London much, that's obvious.

Say folks, that club is very democratic, much more so than the Thames club or the Faire Harbor. Just so long as you own an automobile you are eligible for membership.

It makes no difference whether you own a Rolls Royce or a battered old flivver you'll be elected to membership if you don't watch out. The initiation fee is two bucks which is left at the desk at the police station after you receive your invitation from an officer. The judge votes you in the next morning.

Membership in the club is gained in several and devious ways. If you park a half inch too far from the curb you are elected. If the clerks in the stores are too slow in waiting on you and you overstay your parking time a minute, up goes your name for membership.

And what pleasant tones those New London cops use in telling you that you are elected to membership. You'd think you was a second Gerald Chapman bent on some desperate act.

Gosh I can't see why any girl would run out in the street and kiss one of them cops. Remember how that cop got fined a day's pay because of that? They ought to have awarded the girl a medal for her courage and given the cop a try-out in the movies.

And what does it mean to New London? It may enrich the coffers of the city but the merchants of New London are losing money. And how. You know $2 buys quite some gasoline and people are going to other cities to do their buying.

Norwich people that I know are steering clear of New London just because of the strinzent rules regarding parking. They are now spending their money in Norwich which is a darned good thing for Norwich merchants.

Of course when people abuse the parking privileges they ought to get pinched but very few drivers intentionally disobey traffic regulations. Pretty near everybody tries to do the best they know how only some know more than others.

After these few cracks I guess I better keep outa New London or I'll be elected to a life membership in the club.

THREE AMERICANS REMAIN IN BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

SANDWICH, Eng., June 12 —(AP)— The wheel of fortune in the British amateur golf championship which with its week of 18 hole matches is the biggest lottery in major golf turned through the third round of play today. The round brought disastrous results for some famous British golfers but John Dawson, Bobby Baugh and Joshua Crane remained to represent America.

Dawson made an impressive start, beating John D. MacCormack, two and one, and Guy Campbell, one up. On the whole the Chicago player did very well indeed.

Among the other survivors in the now reduced field of 32 Cyril Tolley, Phil Perkins, and Dr. William Tweddell are the best known. Some of the experts think the draw seems shaping toward a 36 hole final Saturday between Tolley in the upper half and either Perkins or Dawson in the lower.

Defeats of Roger Wethered, T. A. Torrence, Douglas Grant and J. A. Stout were senations today. Perkins had a narrow escape. He was one down to C. Shankland with four to go. The champion won the 18th to square the match and went on to victory at the 22nd.

The defending title holder is playing the steadiest golf of the championship and perhaps the slowest. This morning protests were registered by pairs behind Perkins because of the delay while fairways ahead were clear.

One favorite had to pass out of the picture when Tolley and Grant met. The big Englishman held the advantage for the tee and finished with an agle three at the 457 yard 15th with a drive, mashie and long putt.

The Prince of Wales was in the gallery at St. George's today but did not see Dawson play. The prince was too busy playing himself before and after watching Tolley and Grant, but he did stop Joshua Crane and asked to be permitted to see the Boston veteran's baby putter. Lord and Lady Astor came over, however, from "millionares' corner" and followed Dawson to victory.

Late in the evening the prince took Roger Wethered out for a round over St. George's. The suggestion was made that the prince was about to pass on to Wethered some of the tips he gained from Walter Hagen in his recent match with the American pro as a partner. In his championship match today Wethered needed the prince, Hagen and His Sister Joyce, for he played about the wildest round of golf ever seen in the championship. He hit shots everywhere but in the channel.

Aside from Wethered's defeat, it was a great day for Oxford, Tolley and R. H. Oppenheimer, former Oxford captains won, and Robert H. Naugh, Jr., the Birmingham boy is the present captain.

Naugh and Crane meet tomorrow morning.

Dawson's opponent tomorrow will be Edward P. Kyle, whose address is Kuala Lumpur, Malay states, a native of St. Andrews. Kyle was a semi-finalist in the amateur championship in 1913. If the Chicago player beats the man from the Malay states he will next meet either C. P. Johnstone of the Royal Calcutta club, or R. McKinlay entered from the Alexandria club of Glasgow.

JONES TO GIVE DECISION ON JAPAN TOUR LATER

ATLANTA, June 12—(AP)—Back in Atlanta from a brief business trip Bobby Jones, America's premier golfer today had received and was earnestly considering an invitation to visit Japan.

The invitation was cabled from Tokyo by Hirosi Saito, chief of the information department of the Japanese foreign office asking him to visit Japan and assuring him that "all Japanese golfers are anxious to welcome him".

"I appreciate with all my heart the high compliment of this suggestion," said Bobby, "but before deciding anything I want first to talk with Findlay Douglas, president of the United States Golf association and Herbert Ramsay, vice president. I will be in New York the first of next week and will see them then. Of course, I would do nothing of this sort unless they were in perfect accord with the idea.

HAGEN-SMITH TEAM TAKE FOUR-BALL MATCH

DETROIT, June 12—(AP)—Two birdie threes on the second nine today enabled Walter Hagen and Horton Smith to defeat George Von Elm and Jimmy Kinnear in a special four ball, best ball match on the Western Golf and Country club course here by two and one.

With Kinnear, pro of the Western club, badly off form, Von Elm tied Hagen with a par 72 over the 18 holes to make a nip and tuck match up to the 17th hole. Smith turned in a 74 and Kinnear an 83.

The two teams were even at the turn, due to the spectacular driving and putting of Von Elm and the Hagen-Smith combination was forced to shoot the second nine for a best ball of 33, three under a difficult par, to gain their slight margin.

PUTNAM

STORAGE TANK QUESTION NOW UP TO THE PEOPLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 12—Will the steel tank solution of the Putnam water question, the plan of the board of water commissioners and the common council meet the same fate at the hands of the public as it did six month ago, when the plans are sent to the people for their approval? This question was openly debated today by many interested persons.

The most important item contained in the report of Chairman Thurston was the approval of the plan for the construction of a one million gallon capacity storage reservoir to be erected alongside the present tank on Oak Hill. The cost of the tank was estimated at $26,000 and a foundation to cost $7,300. The estimated cost of the laying of the proposed water mains and the laying of new pipes was given as $35,000.

A four inch main from the Little River bridge on Pomfret street to the Day Kimball hospital supplies the institution with water and fire protection. "This is grossly inadequate," said Chairman Thurston. He then outlined the plan of correction which will be the "tying" up of an eight inch pipe, running this main alongside the present piping supply to the hospital and around in back of the hospital and "tying" in with another four inch pipe. While this will not bring conditions to par with the requirements of the board of fire underwriters it will greatly improve the situation and lessen the fire hazard, the chairman of the board of water commissioners said.

At a meeting of the common council Tuesday evening a vote was passed making it necessary for the firm of Medbury and Trowbridge to furnish the city with a bond of $10,000 before permission will be given them to remove the Cutler house on Main street to a lot on the corner of May and Main streets, 100 feet distant. Mayor Richard said today that while the work will be performed during the early hours of morning some unforeseen accident may develop whereby the city would be liable to a damage suit. In view of this the mayor feels that the wrecking firm should take out the needed financial in consideration of itself and the city protection before carrying out the work. In a letter of application to the common council Raymond Medbury stated that the work of removing the building will be done between the hours of 10 p. m. and 5 a. m.

Late Tuesday afternoon a large sedan registered in New York state failed to make cemetery curve near Grove street and Killingly avenue and crashed a telephone pole in front of the house formerly occupied by E. Mrs. Assolant who is a native of Worcester visited her parents there after her hasty marriage to the flier and was speeding back to Maine where her husband is awaiting favorable weather conditions to take off on the trans-Atlantic flight for Paris.

The police were called today to investigate thefts of cigarettes and candy from the pool room of Theodore Beausoliel on Canal street today. Sergt. George Liard learned this morning that the acts had been committed during the day time and entrance to the pool room was gained through a window leading off a fire escape. Further investigation revealed that the thefts were committed by young boys. Sergt. Liard took into custody a youngster, not thirteen years of age, this morning, who admitted the numerous breaks. The boy was placed in charge of Probation Officer Peter A. Gardner and the case will be disposed of in juvenile court Thursday.

WITH VOLUME OF SALES FALLING OFF STOCK PRICES DRIFTED IRREGULARLY

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Stock prices drifted irregularly in another quiet market today, with the volume of trading falling still nearer the 2,000,000 share mark, and setting still another low record for the past 10 months.

A somewhat easier tone in both call and time money prompted resumption of professional operations for the advance for a time, but traders were quick to take profits at the higher levels. Bullish activity again centered in the utilities, and the Associated Press price index of 20 representative issues of this group was sent up about 1 points to still another record high level.

Call money held at 8 per cent at the money desk, but was available outside at 7 1-2. In time money, some 60 to 90 day maturities were loaning at 8 1-4 per cent, against a flat rate of 8 1-2 yesterday. The outlook for money during the remainder of the month, however, appeared highly uncertain, but the facts that the new short term treasury notes were heavily oversubscribed, and were being bought today at a slight premium, were regarded as good signs.

Commission houses advises were confused and rather uncertain, while some were inclined to believe that the market had reached bottom, the majority were inclined to regard the outlook as still clouded. Some regarded the bidding up of the utilities as having reached rather hazardous levels.

The day's news was meagre, but remained favorable. Car loadings for the week ended June 1 fell below the 1,000,000 mark for the first time in about two months, but this was attributed to the Memorial day holiday. The steel trade reviews again stressed the unseasonably high rate of production, Iron Age stating that little reduction from the record breaking rate of May has appeared. Iron Age's composite price of pig iron dropped 8 cents to $18.62 a ton, but finished steel remained unchanged.

Merger gossip regarding the utilities gained ground, and American Water Works, Standard Gas and Electric, and Public Service of New Jersey were sent up to new record prices, the first named making an extreme gain of over 8 points. Commonwealth Power continued to rally, selling up 7 points. Federal Light and Traction, however, lost 3 1-2 points, and American and Foreign Power and American Power and Light lost about 2 points each.

Auburn Auto was the high flier of the session, soaring 23 points to a record price at 275. Midland Steel Products preferred jumped 12 points to a new top at 250 on declaration of $1.50 extra dividend. National Distillers preferred advanced nearly 11 points to a new peak on continued talk of redemption. Hahn Department Stores common was in brisk demand on rumors of dividend inauguration.

Allis Chalmers, Air Reduction, F. G. Shattuck and Timken Roller Bearing reached new high territory. General Electric and Electric Auto Lite were sent up about 9 and 7 points respectively. Crucible Steel reached a new peak on increased dividend prospects, but reacted and closed lower.

A number of recent favorites encountered profit taking. Commercial Solvents fell back 11 points. Fleischmann which has been mounting steadily in reflection of merger talk, dropped 2 points, and Warren Brothers lost 3 of yesterday's 11-point gain. Such shares as American Can, New York Central, Otis Elevator dropped 3 points, and Sloss Sheffield preferred, a comparatively inactive issue, dropped 11 points to a new low at 95. Other issues reaching new lows included Willys Overland and Universal Leaf Tobacco.

Grains broke sharply in the commodity markets on the senate's refusal to accept the conference report on the farm relief measure, but regained much of their losses. Wheat dropped 4 cents, then rallied about 2 1-2 cents from the bottom on dry weather in Canada in better export buying. Corn lost 3 cents, but rallied on reports of floods in Illinois and bearish weather forecasts, reducing losses to about 1 cent a bushel. Cotton closed 45 to 73 cents a bale higher on large domestic consumption figures for May and reiterated reports of boll weevil damage.

Foreign exchanges were dull, with Sterling Cables still holding at 4.84 13-16. German Marks earned a couple of points to 23.78 cents.

Broadway.

"Noah's Ark," the talking picture which Warner Bros. herald as "made to top any picture ever made," has its premiere at the Broadway theatre next Sunday night, where it comes for a four-day run.

Stupendous in conception, the production was more than three years in the making and includes in the cast over ten thousand extra characters. The story, which was written by Darryl Francis Zanuck, touches those moments of cataclysmic power between which lie fifty centuries. The characters play their parts in the soul-trying moments at the beginning of the twentieth century and are wafted back to the days of Noah—to vast scenes of heathen debauchery—to the building of the Ark—the dark terror of rising waters—which destroyed all but the family of the patriarch. Sets covering more than a square mile were necessary to the production which was directed by Michael Curtiz, internationally famed as the director of great spectacles. The cast includes Dolores Costello, who is starred with George O'Brien, Noah Beery, Louise Fazenda, Guinn Williams, Paul McAllister, Nigel de Brulier, Andrew Randolf, Armand Kaliz, Myrna Loy, William V. Mong, Malcolm Waite, Noble Johnson, Otto Hoffman and Joe Bonomo. Vitaphone plays a magnificent role in symphonic accompaniment—in registration of sounds of flood and turmoil and in the lighter sounds of music and merriment.

Palace Theatre

In "Coquette," her first all-talking picture, which comes to a close at the Palace theatre today, Miss Pickford adds another title to her long scroll of screen honors. Known always as the "girl with the perfect photographic face," she now proves that she is "the woman with the perfect screen voice." In this picture her tones range from the light, resiliency of the youthful and gay episodes, to the deep and throbbing maturity of the dramatic scenes. As the little coquette, Miss Pickford runs the entire gamut of human emotions, and her voice echoes harmoniously her many moods.

Guns roar, horses gallop—you hear the thud of fists, the crash of breaking glass—it is whoopee night in a riproaring frontier town, with the biggest poker game of the year in session—and in walks Lloyd Hamilton as the greenest tenderfoot west of the Rockies! "His Big Minute," Lloyd Hamilton's first all-talking comedy, is a positive laugh riot! You'll be sorry if you miss it, because it's the funniest comedy he's ever made.

Other sound features on the same program is a Pathe Sound News, Grantland Rice's famous sound Sportlight and a Pathe sound Topics of the Day.

America's carefree, unchaperoned youth, super-sophisticated and scornful of propriety, is colorfully pictured in the Palace theatre's next screen attraction, "Why Be Good?" which is here for Friday and Saturday, in which Colleen Moore plays the stellar role.

The story of this comedy-drama is of the type that first carried Miss Moore to the heights of popularity, although the plot is decidedly original, and the characterizations of the most up-to-date variety. Miss Moore appears as a typical example of the modern girl, her costumes and personality being the last word, and her speech full of flippant wise-cracks.

Neil Hamilton, in the chief supporting role, is seen as Miss Moore's leading man for the first time, while others playing important roles are Bodil Rosing, Edward Martindel and Louis Natheaux. "Why Be Good?" is a First national Vitaphone picture with music and sound effects.

Dr. Rabinovitch

After extensive alterations in the Disco building, Dr. Alec Rabinovitch, formerly of New York city, has opened a suite of offices for the exclusive practice of diseases of the stomach and x-ray. His office includes complete x-ray and fluoroscopic apparatus of the latest design. The arrangement covers a suite of six rooms and is so designed to provide a maximum of light and ventilation. Dr. Rabinovitch is the only physician in eastern Connecticut who has limited himself to his chosen field and the only doctor in Norwich to have complete x-ray apparatus. Prior to Dr. Rabinovitch's coming to Norwich many people have been forced to go out of town for complete x-ray examination of the stomach and gall bladder. The establishment of a medical x-ray office fills a much long needed want in Norwich. In the present day diagnosis of stomach disorders fluoroscopic examination is undispensable.

Dr. Rabinovitch graduated from the Norwich Free Academy and took his degree in medicine at the University of Vermont in 1919. Following his graduation he spent two years in the New York city hospital. While in New York he was an instructor in the New York Postgraduate hospital and in Vanderbilt Clinic, College of Physicians and Surgeons. These connections he still maintains. He was also chief of the x-ray department of the United States Veteran's hospital.

Dr. Rabinovitch will utilize in his practice modern x-ray methods of investigation as learned in Virginia and London on his recent postgraduate journey abroad.

THAMES HIGHWAY BRIDGE HAS TRAFFIC SIGNS NOW

"Keep in Line," glaring in black letters from white signboards, erected by the state highway department, is the advice that meets the eye of motorists entering the state highway bridge over the Thames river from the entrances in New London and in Groton.

The signs mean that traffic shall keep in lanes marked out by a silver colored line of aluminum paint that stretches from the approach to the highway bridge in New London across the bridge and into Groton. East bound traffic across the bridge will proceed in the south lane and west bound vehicles will be driven in the north lane as separated by the line.

In Groton the state highway employes painted the lines which divide traffic lanes at the approach to the bridge in the north end of Thames street, in Bridge street, and in Fairview avenue. The advice to "keep in line" is painted on the highway in Thames street and in Fairview avenue.

The New London police department has erected signs prohibiting parking on the sides of the highway between the Central Vermont bridge and the Thames river.

Observance of the regulations will, it is expected by police officials, eliminate accident hazards.

The association of opals with misfortune goes back to medieval times, when these gems were supposed to have been instrumental in causing the terrible black plague.

CLAIM SOMETHING IN THE WOODPILE IN NEW LONDON SLOT REMOVAL ORDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 13.—All of the slot machines, both the nickel and 25-cent type, and about 100 of them, which have been in play in stores, club rooms and every conceivable place where groups are harbored, have been removed from their customary places. From reports the removal of the gaming devices is the result of a city official having been given graft in his assurance to the store proprietors that prosecutions would not result from the maintenance of the machines. The machines were systematically removed during the last few days, but in the club rooms the 25-cent type of gaming device is being countenanced, for the public is not allowed in these places. The gaming devices, particularly the 25-cent type have reaped a harvest for both the owners and the proprietor in whose store the machines were harbored.

Evidently automobile drivers are beginning to respect the state police for not a single arrest has been made for violation of the motor vehicle law in 48 hours.

Brewer's Case May Be Dropped

It is probable that when the case of August Brewer, 223 Montauk avenue, is called in the police court next Saturday, the charge of non-support will be nolled. Brewer was arrested two weeks ago upon request of the New York police who held a warrant charging him with non-support and abandonment of his wife. Since that time, Brewer has been to New York and delivered himself into the custody of the police there. This resulted in his being tried in the Kings county court where he was placed on probation for five years, upon his promise to provide for his wife.

Patrolman George Perkins was unable to perform duty tonight, being ill at his home on Norwood avenue.

Had No License

Oswald Benson, yacht Utomana, moored at the pier of the New London Ship and Engine company, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Edward Skoczylas charged with driving without a license and disobeying a traffic officer's signal. He will be in court tomorrow.

Vincenza Decrescenzo, 17 Cottage street, and Joseph Hage, 16 Tilley street, were arrested tonight charged with violation of the city's traffic laws and will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Few Fish Boats Except Friday

The action of the city several months ago in regulating the mooring of fish boats at the municipal pier has gradually caused the number of boats there to be reduced to a minimum. It is not infrequent for not a single boat from which fish is sold to be tied up. This was the case the past two days. The city allotted a space on the north side of the wharf, which will not accommodate more than four days, for the boats to tie up and made it mandatory that the boats from which fish are sold must go to the fishing grounds and obtain the fish and not receive them from Boston and Providence markets. The city's action put several of the fishermen out of business, most of the owners of the boats now doing business bring their supplies for Friday's consumption entirely.

PICTURE OF LATE MAYOR DESMOND IS PRESENTED TO CITY BY HIS WIFE

At a meeting of the court of common council in the council chamber Wednesday evening a beautiful framed portrait of the late Jeremiah J. Desmond, former mayor of the city of Norwich, was presented to the city by Mrs. Desmond, through Attorney George H. Gilman and Judge Nelson J. Ayling. The gift was accepted by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, in behalf of the city. The portrait, which bears on the frame a silver plate on which is engraved a brief biographic sketch of Mr. Desmond's life, has been hung in the council chamber.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 o'clock by Mayor Robbins and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading. Under a suspension of the rules, Mayor Robbins requested City Sheriff Charles H. Raynes to conduct Attorney Gilman and Judge Ayling to the mayor's desk. Attorney Gilman informed the council that Mrs. Desmond had requested Judge Ayling and himself to offer to the city a portrait of her husband. The portrait, he said, was painted by a well known artist, and Mrs. Desmond had it placed in a beautiful frame, with a plate bearing a brief sketch of Mr. Desmond's life.

Judge Ayling, speaking briefly, said that some 35 odd years ago he formed the acquaintance of Mr. Desmond. "I found him to be a very kind, fair and honorable man," said Judge Ayling. He characterized Mr. Desmond as a man who sacrificed his own time for the benefit of others and referred to him as the war mayor of the city, Mayor Desmond served as mayor from 1918 to 1920, during the World war.

"He did his duty faithfully and loyally," Judge Ayling said. "He was a man who loved his fellow men. He was a man of exceptional ability," he added, and concluded by saying that it gave him great pleasure to offer, with Attorney Gilman, the portrait to the city, in behalf of Mrs. Desmond.

"It is a pleasure to accept this splendid likeness of Mr. Desmond," said Mayor Robbins. He added that it was a personal gratification to have this picture added to those who have been mayors. He expressed thanks to Mrs. Desmond in behalf of the city and also his personal thanks. Mayor Robbins requested Judge Ayling and Attorney Gilman to convey the city's appreciation to Mrs. Desmond. The mayor spoke of his long friendship with Mr. Desmond, dating back 20 years ago, and spoke of the great interest Mr. Desmond took in young lawyers. "It is unnecessary to extol his virtues," said Mayor Robbins. "He was always a gentleman, an able attorney and made a splendid mayor."

NORWICH TOWN

DELEGATES TO REPORT FROM DETROIT COUNCIL

At the midweek service this (Thursday) evening in the Norwich Town chapel, Rev. and Mrs. Dwight C. Stone of Hanover will speak on some outstanding features of the National Council meeting of Congregationalists held recently in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Stone were delegates from the New London association and this will be their first report to the churches outside their own parish.

A meeting of the standing committee of the church is to be held at the close of the service, and those who intend to unite with the church on the first Sunday in July have been asked to be present at this committee meeting.

The council then proceeded to dispose of a number of routine matters. City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read certificates of publication of the amendment to the traffic ordinances, and of the list of estimated expenses and receipts of the city, which were acted upon at the annual city meeting last Monday night.

Petitions Received

Two petitions were received and disposed of as follows:

From Vera M. Sullivan, asking the removal of a tree in front of No. 168 Broad street. Referred to the public works committee with power.

From Michael D'Atri and a score of others, asking for suitable parking restrictions on the westerly side of Chestnut street. Referred to the police commissioners.

A claim from Carl I. Erickson for $30 damage to his automobile May 30th when it struck a protruding manhole cover on Laurel Hill avenue, was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

Made City Auditor

By a ballot vote Charles S. Eaton was named city auditor for the ensuing year, the clerk being requested to cast one ballot in favor of Mr. Eaton's election to the office.

Resolutions Adopted

Routine resolutions were adopted as follows:

Resolution making the appropriations voted by the annual city meeting Monday night.

Resolution appointing the public works committee a committee to supervise the construction of a sewer in Hobart avenue, authorized by the city meeting, which appropriated $4,000 for that purpose.

Resolution authorizing the gas and electric department to borrow, as needed, not over $175,000, for operating expenses, as authorized by the city meeting.

Resolution authorizing the borrowing of the city, as needed, and in anticipation of the city tax collections, not over $215,000 for expenses, as voted by the city meeting.

Votes Payment of Claims

The council voted to pay $400 to Elizabeth A. McCabe in settlement of her claim against the city as the result of a fall on Franklin street. This claim was the only claim not disposed of by the previous administration.

The finance committee, which with the corporation counsel, had investigated the claim of Carl I. Erickson, for $30 damage to his automobile caused when the machine struck a protruding manhole cover, recommended, by resolution, that the city pay the claim. The resolution was adopted.

Alderman Paul A. Zahn presented to the council the building, plumbing and electric codes, drawn up by a committee appointed for that purpose last year, and recommended that the codes be laced on file. It was so ordered by the council.

Flag Day Invitation

After accepting the monthly report of the street commissioner, the council received and accepted an invitation from Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E. to attend their Flag day exercises Friday evening at the Elks home. The council voted to attend the exercises in a body.

Finance dept., $16,231.49; fire dept., $8,028.15; park dept., $1,234.71; water dept., $6,042.70; Deep River reservoir, $231.50; gas and electric dept., $110,311.57; cemetery dept., $1,282.22; public works dept., $17,685.78; police dept., $6,406.76; street lighting, $2,347.71. Adjournment was taken at 9:10 o'clock.

1929 LEGISLATIVE VOLUME TO BE BIG VOLUME

Hopes of leaders of the 1929 legislature for conspicuously thin volumes of laws of the results of their efforts have been blasted by final compilations made by Engrossing Clerk William M. Harney. The past session, as a matter of fact was successful in keeping the number of public acts adopted below that of the 1927 session, the figures being 303 for 1929 and 327 for 1927, but the 1929 laws average considerably more words than those of 1927, there being 1089 pages of engrossed public acts this year in comparison with 1048 engrossed pages two years ago for 24 fewer laws.

The 1929 volume of special laws is going to be the thickest in years despite the fact that the increase over 1927 in the number of such laws is comparatively small, 513 this session against 492 for 1927. All the 1927 specials, however, were printed on 1750 engrossed pages, while this session the special laws in their engrossed form cover 2422 pages. Among the unusually long special laws of this session were the Norwich charter revision, the Stamford charter revision, the proposed East Hartford unification bill, and the proposed city charter for West Haven.

Lumping the two volumes which contain public and special acts, the 1929 laws total is just one less than that for 1927, this session having adopted 303 public acts, 513 private acts and given first approval to two constitutional amendments, a total of 818, against 327 public acts and 492 special acts, a total of 819 for 1927.

Despite the increased volume of the 1929 session laws, however, the work of engrossing them was completed just one week short of the time consumed in 1927, with approximately the same number of bills left for the engrossing clerk to dispose of when the session finally adjourned.

The legislative committee of the Manufacturers' association of Connecticut has issued a comprehensive report on the general assembly of 1929, in which occur the following passages:

"In reviewing the results of the legislature which has just adjourned, it is quite as important to contemplate the effect of legislation which was not passed as of legislation which is now law. It should also be noted that the type of bills which have been introduced and rejected serve in a great measure as a barometer of public feeling and sentiment."

Under the heading "credit where credit is due," the report says:

"It is gratifying to report that no bill inimical to the interests of the manufacturers of the state has passed in the 1929 session of the assembly. It should not be understood however, that the association can claim credit for the defeat or passages of legislation. That the various officials of the state, the leaders in the assembly, the chairman and members of committees, and the members of the senate and house, as a whole, have acted wisely, in the best interests of all citizens of the state, is due entirely to their foresight and ability to separate the true from the false—and your committee may report with much satisfaction that nowhere in the United States has such sound judgment been displayed as by the Connecticut general assembly of 1929."

56TH REGIMENT REUNION WILL BE IN NORWICH

Preliminary plans for the big annual reunion of the 56th Regiment, C. A. C., are to be discussed at a meeting Friday evening at the V. F. W. rooms, for all ex-members of the regiment. The reunion is to be held in this city, Sept. 2.

Any of the boys who have attended the annual reunion know what it means to them. The meeting of old friends is an event to be looked forward to each year. This is the first time that the event will be held in Norwich. Every other city in the state has had it and although it means lots of work it is hoped by those in charge that as many as the boys who can possibly get here will do so, so that the association can get functioning, committees appointed and get going in general to make the reunion a grand success.

All the boys from Norwich and vicinity are expected to come to the meeting.

Eczema Caused Years of Intense Agony

"I have suffered intense agony from eczema on my leg and other parts of my body for years, and received only temporary relief from other preparations. It is only a month since I started to use Peterson's Ointment and there is no sign of eczema or itching. You can refer to me."—Geo. C. Talbot, Buffalo.

"I've got a hundred testimonials," says Peterson of Buffalo, just as sincere and honest as this one. Years ago, when I first started to put out Peterson's Ointment, I made up my mind to give a generous box for 35 cents, and I am still doing it, as every druggist in the country knows.

"I guarantee Peterson's Ointment because I know that its mighty healing power is marvelous. I say to every one who buys a box that it is rigidly guaranteed for eczema, old sores, ulcers, skin diseases, chafing, burns, scalds and sunburn, and if not satisfactory your money will be returned."

IDEAS FOR THE DYE-WISE

PRIZE LETTER FROM MIAMI, FLA.

Dyed 10 Garments —Spent 65 Cents

"I decided to try Sunset Dyes and Dytints. Having a faded blue crepe kimona, began on that with Bright Blue Sunset. It came out beautiful, bright, clear blue.

"With a camel's hair paint brush I renewed the blue flowers on my summer hat. I purchased one cake of Bright Blue Sunset, one cake of Heliotrope Sunset, one package Peach Dytint, one Blue Dytint for silk only. A discolored white Crepe Romaine dress was dipped into Peach Dytint. A rich peach color was obtained. Then a wash satin night gown and a pair of scanties went into the same bath and a beautiful color resulted.

"I tinted a white crepe de chine trimmed with white lace using Blue Dytint for silk only. The result was lovely. I put in a dotted swiss dress, faded blue dots on white; this weak bath just brought back their original blue. I dyed my faded blue georgette, using Blue Sunset with Heliotrope. This dress looks better than when new. I boiled a faded Swiss dress in soap solution to extract the original colors and tied knots in it. I dyed it with Bright Blue Sunset. The blue with white is very effective. I dyed a figured Crepe de Chine Heliotrope with a Blue cast.

"For sixty-five cents I have dyed one kimona, one night gown, one pair of scanties, six dresses, one hat."—Katharine G. Summerson, Miami, Fla.

For fast dyeing use Sunset Soap Dye—15 cents a cake. For beautiful tinting use Dytint, wonderful new tint, in big box, 10c.

N. F. A. ALUMNI SPEAKER, '80, ROWS AS WELL AS HE WRITES

Regarding Prof. Charles Lanman Rockwell, who is to be the speaker at the Norwich Free Academy alumni meeting Monday evening June 17th, the Boston Transcript of May 8th had aninteresting sketch. It was titled "School and College, Sanscrit as a Study, Rowing as a Sport, for Over Half a Century."

It dealt with the record of Prof. Lanman, a native of Norwich, who is rounding out fifty years at Harvard. Prof. Lanman refuses to accept the indictment of age, even though he has lived thirty years besides the fifty, writes C. B. P. in The Transcript. Prof. Charles Lanman Rockwell may not mean much as a name to most folk; yet in a certain world, a world that seems strange and exotic to the public, he is perhaps the dominant figure. At least he was so credited by the late Bishop Brent. "We recognize that Professor Lanman's scholarship reaches to the ends of the earth. Most of the foremost Sanscrit scholars of this country are his pupils, or collaborators, or both. . . . His single-minded diligence through a life-time places him in the first rank of the scholars of the world."

Eighty years are hard to realize, whether one sees him in the office, about the square, in the locker room or rowing out in his shell. But in his 80 years he has lived much. To live long is one thing, to live much is another. And to all appearances Dr. Rockwell is not modifying his pace in the least. He puts in the longest day of anyone in his family. He is credited with having rowed over 8,000 miles on the Charles river since the dam was built. He rows every day now; he rows for enjoyment and comfort is a part of it, even as health is in the long run.

The writer described Prof. Rockwell on the river, adding: "The strong hand that pulled the sweep was the one that had penned reams of pages on the literature language, philosophy and religion of the Far East. All over the world are scholars who know and honor him. In a field of distinguished men he stands as one of the most distinguished. The world has long since learned not to measure a man by his record in Who's Who; but it is an interesting fact that he occupies nearly a column of the tiny type.

There are listed his anniversary dates and family matters, his education and his contacts, his works and his affiliations. He was born in 1850 in Norwich, Conn., was graduated from Norwich Free Academy in '67, and at Yale, A. B. '71. He studied abroad with the leading minds for a few years and returned to join the faculties of Harvard and Johns Hopkins, the former in 1886. He has found time to accept honorary degrees from Aberdeen and Yale, and to pick up memberships in most of the learned societies of the world, from India to Finland. In conversation he waves them aside. He'd much rather talk about rowing, or Harvard, or his guests, or the beautiful new buildings, or the delightful morning, or what kind of wood to use in a new house.

He always rows from Weld, although the wooden floors of Newell are not so cold to the feet. He likes to be around the young men, he likes company. He used to row at the Cambridge Boat club, but he found it too lonesome. The noisy students he much prefers to a company of elders. And he is proud to submit that they haven't thrown him out yet.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. POETRY

Peer Gynt

When he was young and beautiful and bold
We hated him, for he was very strong,
But when he came back home again, quite old,
And wounded, too, we could not hate him long.

For kingliness and conquest pranced he forth
Like some high-stepping charger bright with foam,
And south he strode and east and west and north
With need of crowns and never need of home.

Enraged we heard high tidings of his strength
And cursed his long forgetfulness. We swore
That should he come back home some eve at length,
We would deny him, we would bar the door!

And then he came. The sound of those tired feet
And all our home and all our hearts are his,
Where bitterness, grown weary, turns to sweet,
And envy, purged by longing, pity is.

And pillows rest beneath the withering cheek,
And hands are laid the battered brows above,
And he whom we had hated, waxen weak,
First in his weakness learns a little love.

—Charles Hamilton Sorley.

In Faith

(One blind, to her brother)

A year ago I felt thy love,
In nearness to my own.
Fold close about my life and clear
The shadow o'er me thrown.

And thou art far from me today
Because thy soul hath fled
To wondrous regions of the Blest;
And mortals call thee "dead"?

Ah, no! My love can draw me near
To where thy soul doth dwell
In perfect Life and radiant joy
No human thought can tell!

And so we two are not apart;
For love draws near to love:
This holy bond unites us still:
I here and thou above.

I fold thy memory in my heart,
And bathe it with my tears;
Thy name I'll whisper in my prayers,
Through all earth's fleeting years.

And when this life for me is past,
And dark to light gives place,
One of the raptures I shall know
Will be to see thy face!

—Anna B. Bensel

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Manager—What's the idea of sitting out there absolutely silent for five minutes?

Saxaphonist—That was a request number.—Pathfinder.

Angry Customer—See here, that horse you sold me dropped dead.

Dealer—Can't help that, sir. 'E never did that while I 'ad 'im.—London Answers.

Dad—Twenty-eight boys in your class and you're at the bottom! You ought to be ashamed!

Boy—Aw, gee, dad! That's not so bad. Suppose there were fifty boys.—Monitor.

Hard-boiled Grocer—No, sir! No checks! I wouldn't cash a check for my own brother.

Disappointed Customer — Well, of course, you know your family better than I do.—Arcanum Bulletin.

"Why did you leave your last place?"

"Because of the master, ma'am. He used to want to kiss me."

"That certainly was a reason enough. I'm glad your principles could not permit such a thing."

"Yes'm. He had a horrid mustache."—Detroit News.

Two pickpockets had been following an old man whom they had seen display a fat wallet. Suddenly he turned off and went into a lawyer's office.

"Good lor'," said one, "a fine mess! Wot'll we do now?"

"Easy," said his mate, lighting a cigarette. "Wait for the lawyer."—London Answers.

A small boy was told that he must write a nice note of sympathy to his grandmother upon the death of his grandfather. The following—much blotted and sprawling—arrived:

One young New York business woman found it almost impossible to rise in time to get to her office at 9:30 a. m. She tried a half dozen kinds of alarm clocks, but she would sleep right through their ringing. At last she heard of a messenger bureau which, for a monthly fee, will take your telephone messages for you while you are out and deliver them when you return. She gave them an extra fee and the responsibility of ringing her telephone bell every morning until she got up. The plan, she reports, is working out well.

Scientific research of tourist traffic, including particularly a study of its causes and its social, political and economic effects, has been added to the curriculum of the Academy of Commerce of Berlin. Transportation methods, hotel management and the work of expositions and fairs will also be studied, while special courses will be arranged for directors and managers of hotels, spas, fairs and so forth. A library dealing with the subject is to be assembled by the academy.

Traffic was stopped until the money could be retrieved, and then, to the laughing of amused onlookers, the party proceeded—with father carrying the purse.

FARM RELIEF BILL WILL MEET VIEWS OF HOOVER

Defeat in the House, 250 to 113, of the Debenture Proposal Means Victory For the President—The House Vote Was Taken on Motion of Leader Tilson—Senate and House Committee Will Meet This Morning to Eliminate the Debenture Section of the Farm Relief Bill.

WASHINGTON. June 13—(AP)—A meeting of the senate and house committee on the farm bill, has been called for tomorrow morning at which time they again will take up the question of eliminating the debenture plan from the measure.

DEBENTURE PLAN REJECTED IN HOUSE BY VOTE OF 250 TO 113

WASHINGTON, June 13—(AP)—A farm relief bill drawn to meet the views of President Hoover was assured today by house rejection of the export debenture plan on a 250 to 113 vote.

The vote had been demanded by the senate. After debenture leaders there learned of the overwhelming majority against their proposal, they declared no further obstacles to enactment of agricultural legislation would be interposed by them.

The remaining procedure necessary to send the farm bill to the white house will be perfunctory. A joint conference committee will meet tomorrow and again report to both branches of congress asking approval of the administration bill rejected Tuesday by the senate. Leaders were hopeful this final action could be accomplished Saturday and the farm measure sent to the president before nightfall.

The house vote was taken on a motion by Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, directing its conferees to insist upon the elimination of the debenture plan. Tilson was supported by 217 republicans and 33 democrats, while 100 democrats and 13 republicans voted against the administration.

The republicans who joined with the democrats in favor of debentures were Hull, Browne, Lampert, Nelson and Schneider of Wisconsin, Campbell of Iowa, Christgau and Selvig of Minnesota, James of Michigan, Johnson and Williamson of South Dakota, Lambertson of Kansas and Sinclair of North Dakota.

Republicans not voting but paired in favor of debentures were Christonyerson of South Dakota and Frear of Wisconsin.

Kvale of Minnesota, the only farmer-labor member in the house, also was paired in favor of debentures.

The vote was taken without debate. Representative Tilson, in offering his motion said by voting upon it the house would assure farm relief legislation in the quickest manner. None of the leaders raised the constitutional question whether the senate had the right to initiate debentures. This was the question against which the house had stood firm, after it was voted into the farm bill by the senate.

Cheers greeted the announcement of the vote and Speaker Longworth immediately named the conferees to make formal notification of the house's action to the joint conference committee.

Senator McNary of Oregon called a meeting of this committee for tomorrow. It probably will last only long enough to vote to return the administration farm bill to both houses tomorrow and ask its approval under the rules of both the senate and house, the measure then must lay over a day before it can be considered.

RYAN'S CHECKS MADE GOOD: NO MORE BOOZE FOR HIM

PARIS, June 13—(AP)—Thomas Fortune Ryan, son of John Barry Ryan of New York, was released in custody of his lawyer tonight after having been arrested in Havre on a charge of cashing bad checks to a value of several thousand dollars.

Ryan escaped the heavy swinging doors of La Sante prison after the checks had been made good. It was expected that he would be permitted to leave for the United States within a few days. The presiding judge advising that he be placed in a sanatorium.

"No more booze for me" was all Ryan told a few friends gathered to celebrate his release.

The young man seemed greatly upset and nervous. Beyond expressing a desire to leave "for God's country the sooner possible," Ryan's only comment was one of bitter disappointment that the chief complainant against him had been Harry's New York bar, celebrated oasis for Americans visiting Paris. The New York bar headed the list of plaintiffs against him.

A report from the coast guard station at Fletcher's Neck, that the Mouette passed there shortly after 2 o'clock indicated that the young man, who two years ago made the first hop across the Atlantic to the eastward, might have viewed either the takeoff or a part of the flight of the three young Frenchmen who headed for Paris this morning.

Copley, newspaper publisher, who declared he would take court action if the Nebraskan would repeat his statements off the privileged senate floor.

The publisher, who testified at the commission's inquiry into publicity activities at his own request issued his challenge to the senator in a statement submitted to the commission. Chairman Edgar A. McCulloch refused, however, to allow Copley to read his statement or to introduce it in the record.

Because of this Mrs. Sayre, who was first vice president of the club, said she thought it best to make known her position. Peaceful Session Of L. Of N. Council Resolution Granting Minorities Peoples Better Representation Was Unanimously Voted.

MADRID, June 13—(AP)—The crucial session of the meeting of the league of nations council passed off today like a family party.

The mooted question of minorities, which has threatened trouble since the special committee of three prepared a report on the subject in London a few months ago, did not ruffle the amiability of the delegates. They unanimously voted a resolution granting minority peoples better representation on the minority committe of the league and insuring a more careful scrutiny to their petitions.

The reason generally given for the unforeseen geniality of the council session was the possibility that the new labor government in England would exercise pressure in favor of peace on every occasion.

M. Adachi Japanese delegate, presented the motion for acceptance of the committee of three's report. It was adopted unanimously, although the Germans and the French made reservations. The recommendations take effect immediately.

All the delegates expressed their satisfaction over settlement of the Tacna-Arica question between Chile and Peru.

CUSTOMS GUARDS HAD HARD TIME IN RAID

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP)— Customs guards who sought in vain for a suspected liquor smuggler in the engine quarters of an ocean liner today were undecided whether they had failed because their suspicions were ill-founded or because the crew had taken a bath.

Wednesday night three guards caught a man who they said admitted he had obtained two bottles of cognac from one of the liner France's crew.

The guards marched the man back to the liner, where in the engine quarters they said they attempted to seize a member of the crew whose blouse was stuffed with bottles. A scuffle followed, several bottles were broken, and both the man and the alleged smuggler vanished.

Customs and French line officials decided to muster the 123 members of the engine crew today and attempt to have the guards identify the suspect.

The visit of the officials was preceded by a general movement of the crew to showers, faucets and hoses. Some even donned bathing suits and dived into the water near the ship's pier.

Pink skinned, they lined up before the guards, who perspired for three hours in the hot engine quarters in vain attempt to pick out their man. The guards said they might have made more progress if the crew had been adorned with a little of the grime that goes with their jobs.

Reapportionment Of House Now Assured

Senate Yesterday Approved the Revised Bill Authorizing Seats in House on Basis of 1930 Census.

WASHINGTON, June 13—(AP)—The eight year old effort for reapportionment of the house of representatives was terminated successfully today by the senate approval of the revised bill authorizing the 1930 census and reapportionment of house seats on the basis of that census.

It is the first of the four legislative proposals recommended to the extra session by President Hoover to be sent to the white house. Senator Jones of Washington, the assistant republican leader, directed senate attention to that fact after it had voted 48 to 37 for the measure as finally formulated in conference with house members.

Elimination by conferees of the senate and house of the senate provision placing the 100,000 employes required for taking the census under the civil service was protested before the vote was permitted. Eight democrats joined the republican majority in supporting the bill and as many republicans voted with the democratic minority against it.

The measure not only authorizes a reapportionment before March 4, 1931, of the house on the basis of the 1930 census and on the basis of the present membership of 435, but it also provides for automatic reapportionment of the house after every decennial census.

The house has never revised its membership since the 1920 census as many contend is required by the constitution.

The bill carries $40,000,000 for the taking of the census and stipulates that the census shall be begun next April 1.

Under the legislation, the president is directed to transmit to the house at the short session beginning in December 1930 the results of the census and the allotment of members of the house to which each state shall be entitled under that census. If congress does not approve the reapportionment in that session, the presidential decree then goes into effect.

The bill does stipulate that the special agents required for taking the census be employed under civil service regulations but the vast army of enumerators would be left to appointment.

MOTION TO INVESTIGATE "DRY" LAW SLAYINGS

WASHINGTON, June 13—(AP)—While the treasury today declared two of its agents who shot persons in enforcing prohibition were justified in firing, Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin, characterized a third killing as an "assassination" and asked congress to investigate law enforcement by federal officers.

Denouncing the slaying at International Falls, Minn., Senator asserted the "excessive toll" of lives taken by dry agents had "caused the citizens of the republic to be fearful that their lives may be snuffed out at any time they traverse the public highways."

He asked appropriation of $25,000 to meet the expenses of the proposed investigation.

The treasury made public orders issued two months ago to prohibition agents by Commissioner Doran which warned them that a prisoner escaping custody was not justification for using weapons. Doran's order was issued after the passage of the Jones-Stalker act, which made transportation or sale of intoxicants a felony.

Assistant Secretary Lowman, in a statement, said investigation of the shooting of Archibald Eugster at Detroit by Jonah Cox, a customs border patrolman, showed that Cox fired in the performance of duty.

The shooting of J. J. Thompson at Silver City, New Mexico, by a prohibition officer and a deputy sheriff was upheld by Lowman on the ground that Thompson was caught delivering ten gallons of whiskey and opened fire first upon the officers.

No reports have been received at the treasury upon the shooting at International Falls of Henry Virkkula by Customs Border Patrolman E. J. White.

The treasury reiterated today its statement that it could not comply with requests that it disarm its law enforcement officers. It was said that because the officers deal with desperate men their efforts would be impotent without arms.

Statistics showed that 135 persons have been killed by federal prohibition officers during the ten years of prohibition, while 55 prohibition officers have been killed in line of their duty, were introduced in the Congressional Record today by Representative Florence P. Kahn, of California.

Mrs. Kahn asserted that if lives lost through other enforcement channels were included, the total would mount above 500.
